SCHOOL OF PUBLIC POLICY

Policy is about the way we make decisions in both private and public contexts. Faculty and students in the School of Public Policy are interested in a wide variety of decision contexts and are particularly interested in advancing the social and policy-related dimensions of OSU’s three areas of distinction: sustainable ecosystems, health and wellness, and economic growth and progress. The School of Public Policy offers undergraduate majors and minors in economics, political science, and sociology, as well as the Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, PhD in Public Policy, and graduate minors in political science and sociology. School faculty members also participate in the Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (MAIS) program.

Undergraduate Programs

The School of Public Policy offers undergraduate major and minor programs in economics, political science, and sociology.

Economics Program

The economics program is an excellent choice for students interested in:

- Law school or graduate programs in business, economics, public administration or other social sciences.
- Careers in business or public management.
- Becoming wiser consumers and better-informed citizens.

The study of economics provides a framework for logical thought that can be used to address a wide variety of practical problems and situations. It can provide uncommon insights into society itself. Indeed, people holding degrees in economics are increasingly sought for positions of responsibility and authority in government, business, and industry. The economics major is useful preparation for various careers and for graduate study in many fields, primarily because it does not lead simply to the accumulation of facts but rather develops analytical skills that can be used in many ways.

Political Science Program

Graduates of the political science program pursue:

- Careers in all levels of government, foreign service, national and international nongovernmental organizations, journalism, business or public management.
- Law school or graduate programs in political science, public administration, public policy, business, or other social sciences.
- Elected office.

Students can focus their interests in different subfields, including American politics, public law, political theory, international relations, and comparative politics (for example, Asia, Latin America, Western Europe, Russia). Political science majors are encouraged to incorporate a minor in other social science fields such as economics, psychology, or sociology, or in a field of interest related to their specialization in political science. For example, students with an interest in international relations or comparative politics may choose to minor in a language or in history, emphasizing a specific part of the world. Political science majors also are encouraged to consider the International Degree and IE3 Global Internships.

Sociology Program

Graduates of the sociology program pursue:

- Careers in community development, criminal justice, business, public policy and administration, social services, non-profit organizations, and research and teaching.
- Graduate programs in sociology, criminology, public policy, social services, human resources, law, social work and other social sciences.

Sociology is the study of human social behavior and sociologists examine interactions within and between groups and resulting social institutions. The undergraduate program in sociology provides a general analysis and broad understanding of human societies and culture for persons in all fields. Selecting courses around a topic or theme of interest adds meaning to one's education and strengthens the base of understanding from which one can pursue a career or further education. Two options are currently available for Corvallis campus students — Crime and Justice, and Environmental and Natural Resource Sociology — with the Environmental and Natural Resource option also available for Ecampus students.

Graduate Programs

The School of Public Policy offers a Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, PhD in Public Policy, and graduate minors in Political Science and Sociology, and courses applicable toward the graduate degree in Applied Economics. Faculty members also participate in the Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (MAIS) program.

Master of Public Policy (MPP)

Graduates of the MPP program:

- Are employed at all levels of government as policy analysts, project managers, and managers.
- Work in national and international nongovernmental organizations like the United Nations.
- Pursue further graduate training in law, public administration, public affairs, public policy, and other social science disciplines.

Policy students at OSU focus their studies around environmental and natural resource policy, international policy, social policy, and rural policy, working with strong researchers around campus. Internships with agencies and organizations give policy students real world experience and networks to enhance their classroom education.

PhD in Public Policy

The PhD in Public Policy prepares students for academic or nonacademic research careers in the public, private, and nongovernmental sectors. The Public Policy Graduate Program accepts students with backgrounds in related academic disciplines. Like the MPP, the PhD program offers concentrations in energy policy; international policy; law, crime, and policy; rural policy; science and technology policy; and/or social policy.

Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (MAIS)

The MAIS program is designed to meet the particular needs and interests of individual students and features collaborative work in any two or three pertinent departments or schools. Sociology faculty members may serve as advisors to students selecting sociology as either a major field or minor field of concentration.
Graduate Minors

Political Science
Master's or PhD students interested in adding a Political Science minor should follow the guidelines within their major program in declaring a minor. All students declaring political science as a graduate minor must contact the program coordinator prior to doing so. See the Political Science website http://gradschool.oregonstate.edu/programs/9600 for a listing of requirements for the minor concentration.

Sociology
Master's or PhD students interested in adding a Sociology minor should follow the guidelines within their major program in declaring a minor. The minimum number of credits for sociology is 15 or higher if required by the major. All students declaring sociology as a graduate minor must contact the program coordinator prior to doing so. See the Sociology website http://liberalarts.oregonstate.edu/spp/sociology/programs/graduate-programs/graduate-minor for a listing of requirements for the minor concentration.

ECON 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 201. *INTRODUCTION TO MICROECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to microeconomic principles including the study of demand, supply, market structure, efficiency, and market failure. Other selected topics may include demand failure, microeconomic modeling, and public finance. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core

ECON 202. *INTRODUCTION TO MACROECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to macroeconomic principles including the study of output, employment, inflation, aggregate demand and supply, inflation, unemployment, and fiscal and monetary policy. Other selected topics may include the study of the international balance of payments, growth and development, and regional policies. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core

ECON 311. INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMIC THEORY. (4 Credits)
An examination of demand theory, production and cost theory, game theory, behavioral economics, competitive and imperfectly competitive markets, and general equilibrium and welfare economics. ECON 311 and ECON 411 cannot both be taken for credit toward the economics major.
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better

ECON 315. INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMIC THEORY. (4 Credits)
An examination of macroeconomic aggregates, income determination, aggregate demand and supply. The basic macroeconomic models will be discussed such as Keynesian, Classical, Monetarist, and Neo-Classical. ECON 315 and ECON 415 cannot both be taken for credit toward the Economics major.
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (ECON 202 [D-] or ECON 202H [D-])

ECON 329. INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Mathematical methods of economic analysis. Theory of economic structure and optimization developed through calculus and linear algebra, dynamic systems analyzed through integral calculus and difference and differential equations. The mathematical tools are developed in conjunction with their application to economic problems. Some acquaintance with calculus recommended.
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (ECON 202 [D-] or ECON 202H [D-] and (MTH 241 [D-] or MTH 251 [D-] or MTH 251H [D-])

ECON 330. MONEY AND BANKING. (4 Credits)
Nature and functions of money; functions and operations of depository institutions; the money market; central banking and monetary policy. (SS)
Attributes: LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (ECON 202 [D-] or ECON 202H [D-])

ECON 340. INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
An overview of international economics with an emphasis on current events and applications, including classical and modern trade theory and the study of trade and exchange-rate policies. (SS) (See Schedule Comment regarding Bacc Core status.)
Attributes: LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (ECON 202 [D-] or ECON 202H [D-])

ECON 350. FINANCIAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Discusses how various securities meet the needs of different economic agents and the efficiency of financial markets in meeting those needs. Topics include interest rates, valuation, investment risk, trading and market structure, arbitrage, market efficiency, debt markets, equity markets, and financial derivatives.
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better and ECON 202 [D-]

ECON 352. *ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS AND POLICY. (3 Credits)
Provides an overview of the interrelationships between economic activity, the environment, and public policy. Through case studies, discussion groups, and readings, students learn how economists define and analyze environmental problems and the types of policies they advocate for managing environmental quality. CROSSLISTED as AEC 352. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Prerequisites: AEC 250 with D- or better or AREC 250 with D- or better or ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better
Equivalent to: AEC 352

ECON 353. *THE ECONOMICS OF DISCRIMINATION. (4 Credits)
An economic analysis of discrimination, focusing on labor market inequities for women and minorities. Historical and current trends in pay, education, and employment disparities, economic explanations for such disparities, and econometric evidence for wage and employment discrimination. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Disadvantage; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with C- or better or ECON 201H with C- or better

ECON 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: ECON 399H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 399H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: ECON 399
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
ECON 401. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 402. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 403. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 407. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 408. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 411. ADVANCED MICROECONOMIC THEORY. (4 Credits)
Rigorous treatment of optimizing behavior of economic agents and markets. Examines utility maximization and demand; cost minimization, profit maximization and supply; perfect competition and monopoly; imperfect competition and game theory; and general equilibrium, social welfare and market failure using sophisticated mathematical tools. Students cannot receive credit toward the major for both ECON 311 and ECON 411.
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (MTH 241 [D-] or MTH 251 [D-] or MTH 251H [D-])

ECON 414. BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Economic analysis of the effects of social, cognitive, and emotional factors on individual decision making and their implications for market outcomes and policy making. Topics include time inconsistency, decision making under risk, cognitive dissonance, heuristics, social preferences, and experimental economics.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 415. ADVANCED MACROECONOMIC THEORY. (4 Credits)
Macroeconomics as an application of general equilibrium theory. Macroeconomic models are developed taking preferences and technology as primitives. The models’ short and long run predictions are analyzed and compared to the data. The welfare implications of fiscal and monetary policy are discussed. ECON 315 and ECON 415 cannot both be taken for credit toward the major.
Prerequisites: (ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better) and (ECON 202 [D-] or ECON 202H [D-]) and (MTH 241 [D-] or MTH 251 [D-] or MTH 251H [D-])

ECON 420. GAME THEORY. (4 Credits)
Systematically studies strategic interactions among multiple decision makers with applications in economics, politics, sociology, law, computer science, sports, and biology. Topics taught include static, sequential, and repeated games of perfect and imperfect information.
Attributes: LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 423. PRE-ECONOMETRICS. (4 Credits)
Introduction to probability and statistics with an emphasis on estimation and hypothesis testing. Applications to economic models.
Prerequisites: MTH 241 with D- or better or MTH 251 with D- or better or MTH 251H with D- or better

ECON 424. INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS. (4 Credits)
Application of statistical techniques, including sampling theory, hypothesis testing, and multiple regression analysis, to economic models. Economic modeling, analysis of economic data, and policy analysis are emphasized. ECON 424 and ECON 427 cannot both be taken for credit toward the major. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: (ECON 311 with C or better or ECON 411 with C or better) and (ST 351 [C] or ST 351H [C] or ECON 423 [C])

ECON 427. INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS WITH CALCULUS. (4 Credits)
Addresses both the theory and practice of econometrics, including properties of estimators, modeling economic processes, estimation, hypothesis testing, prediction and interpretation of results. Students cannot receive credit toward the major for both ECON 424 and ECON 427. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: (ECON 311 with C or better or ECON 411 with C or better) and ECON 423 [C]

ECON 428. *INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMIC RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Basic methods of economic research: concepts and models; data sources, collection, and presentation; hypothesis formulation and testing; policy analysis. Written assignments apply methods. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with C- or better or ECON 411 with C- or better

ECON 435. PUBLIC ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Composition and growth of government spending; theory of public expenditure; analysis of public expenditure programs; benefit-cost analysis; theory and practice of taxation; analysis of local, state, and federal taxes; government borrowing and fees; current issues in tax and expenditure policy.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with C- or better or ECON 411 with C- or better

ECON 439. *PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Theory of public problems and decision making. Evaluation of public policy strategies, selected public programs and individual public projects considering the full range of efficiency and equity effects. Direct and indirect impacts of policy, strength of implicit incentives, administrative feasibility, and problems of policy implementation. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 440. ECONOMICS OF GLOBALIZATION. (4 Credits)
Examination of the phenomenon of globalization using economic analysis to explore controversial themes of the globalization debate—offshoring, sweatshops, child labor, environmental standards, intellectual property protection, cultural diversity, economic development, immigration, and governance.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better
ECON 441. INTERNATIONAL FINANCE THEORY AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
Theories and policies of exchange rate regimes; fixed, floating and managed floats; internal and external trade and capital balances; international capital flows and institutions.
Prerequisites: ECON 315 with D- or better

ECON 455. ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT. (4 Credits)
History, theories and policies for economic development in the Third World of underdeveloped countries. (SS)
Attributes: LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better and ECON 202 [D-]
ECON 460. INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION THEORY AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
The study of the causes of market structure, the behavior of firms in game theoretic settings, and the welfare implications of competitive and imperfectly competitive markets; United States antitrust and other laws regulating business behavior.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 461. LAW, ECONOMICS, AND REGULATION. (4 Credits)
The analysis of the effectiveness of laws and government regulations in fostering economic efficiency and fairness. Topics include the design of laws and policies to promote social welfare and the study of the effectiveness of criminal law, antitrust law, and the government regulation of business in promoting social goals.
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better

ECON 462. MANAGERIAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
The application of microeconomic theory and quantitative methods to management decisions. Case-oriented course emphasizing actual business decisions.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 463. EFFICIENCY AND PRODUCTIVITY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Workshop on the theory and measurement of performance, especially efficiency and productivity. Emphasis on application including introduction to user-friendly software.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with C or better or ECON 411 with C or better

ECON 466. ECONOMICS OF TRADITIONAL AND RENEWABLE ENERGY. (4 Credits)
Reviews and analyzes the economics and structure of world markets for various traditional energy (e.g., oil, coal, natural gas), as well as renewable energy (wind, geothermal and solar) with the latter focusing on the Pacific Northwest electrical industry structure and regulatory framework.
(Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better or ECON 201H with D- or better

ECON 480. LABOR ECONOMICS AND SOCIAL POLICY. (4 Credits)
Interaction of workers and firms in labor markets, social policy and its effects on labor markets, human capital theory and education policy, discrimination and other sources of wage differentials, immigration, unemployment, inequality.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 491. ECONOMICS OF INEQUALITY. (4 Credits)
An analysis of economic inequality. Describing and measuring inequality, historical and current trends in inequality, causes and consequences of inequality, and policy implications.
Prerequisites: ECON 311 with D- or better or ECON 411 with D- or better

ECON 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 502. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

ECON 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 512. MICROECONOMIC THEORY I. (4 Credits)
Economic theories of consumer behavior and demand, production, cost, the firm, supply, and competitive and monopoly market structures.

ECON 513. MICROECONOMIC THEORY II. (4 Credits)
Economic theories of imperfect competition, input markets, general equilibrium and welfare economics.

ECON 514. BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Economic analysis of the effects of social, cognitive, and emotional factors on individual decision making and their implications for market outcomes and policy making. Topics include time inconsistency, decision making under risk, cognitive dissonance, heuristics, social preferences, and experimental economics.

ECON 515. MACROECONOMIC THEORY I. (4 Credits)
Determination of income, employment, and prices in classical, Keynesian, monetarist, and new classical macroeconomic models. Theories of consumption, investment, money demand, and money supply. Monetary and fiscal policies, the role of expectations.

ECON 517. MICROECONOMIC THEORY FOR MPP. (4 Credits)
Familiarizes MPP students who do not have a strong background in microeconomics with the material they will need for their future economics course work.

ECON 520. GAME THEORY. (4 Credits)
Systematically studies strategic interactions among multiple decision makers with applications in economics, politics, sociology, law, computer science, sports, and biology. Topics taught include static, sequential, and repeated games of perfect and imperfect information.

ECON 523. STATISTICS FOR ECONOMETRICS. (4 Credits)
Examines mathematical and statistical topics essential for graduate-level econometric analysis, including matrix algebra, probability and distribution theory (emphasizing joint and conditional distributions), statistical inference, and econometric optimization algorithms.

ECON 524. INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS. (4 Credits)
Application of statistical techniques, including sampling theory, hypothesis testing, and multiple regression analysis, to economic models. Economic modeling, analysis of economic data, and policy analysis are emphasized.

ECON 525. ECONOMETRIC METHODS. (4 Credits)
The use of multiple regression under generalized assumptions, specification problems, an introduction to simultaneous equation estimation, the classical linear model using matrices. Emphasis on the analysis of data and communication of findings.
Prerequisites: ECON 523 with C or better

ECON 526. APPLIED ECONOMETRICS. (4 Credits)
Model building, hypothesis testing, and appropriate estimation procedures including generalized least squares, seemingly unrelated regressions, simultaneous equations, maximum likelihood, and limited dependent variables. Emphasis on applications and interpretation of results.
ECON 535. PUBLIC ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Composition and growth of government spending; theory of public expenditure; analysis of public expenditure programs; benefit-cost analysis; theory and practice of taxation; analysis of local, state, and federal taxes; government borrowing and fees; current issues in tax and expenditure policy.

ECON 539. PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Theory of public problems and decision making. Evaluation of public policy strategies, selected public programs and individual public projects considering the full range of efficiency and equity effects. Direct and indirect impacts of policy, strength of implicit incentives, administrative feasibility, and problems of policy implementation.

ECON 540. ECONOMICS OF GLOBALIZATION. (4 Credits)
Examination of the phenomenon of globalization using economic analysis to explore controversial themes of the globalization debate—offshoring, sweatshops, child labor, environmental standards, intellectual property protection, cultural diversity, economic development, immigration, and governance.

ECON 541. INTERNATIONAL FINANCE THEORY AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
Theories and policies of exchange rate regimes; fixed, floating and managed floats; internal and external trade and capital balances; international capital flows and institutions.

ECON 555. ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT. (4 Credits)
History, theories and policies for economic development in the Third World of underdeveloped countries.

ECON 560. INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION THEORY AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
The study of the causes of market structure, the behavior of firms in game theoretic settings, and the welfare implications of competitive and imperfectly competitive markets; United States antitrust and other laws regulating business behavior.

ECON 561. LAW, ECONOMICS, AND REGULATION. (4 Credits)
The analysis of the effectiveness of laws and government regulations in fostering economic efficiency and fairness. Topics include the design of laws and policies to promote social welfare and the study of the effectiveness of criminal law, antitrust law, and the government regulation of business in promoting social goals.

ECON 562. MANAGERIAL ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
The application of microeconomic theory and quantitative methods to management decisions. Case-oriented course emphasizing actual business decisions.

ECON 563. EFFICIENCY AND PRODUCTIVITY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Workshop on the theory and measurement of performance, especially efficiency and productivity. Emphasis on application including introduction to user-friendly software.

ECON 566. ECONOMICS OF TRADITIONAL AND RENEWABLE ENERGY. (4 Credits)
Reviews and analyzes the economics and structure of world markets for various traditional energy (e.g., oil, coal, natural gas), as well as renewable energy (wind, geothermal and solar) with the latter focusing on the Pacific Northwest electrical industry structure and regulatory framework.

ECON 570. MACROECONOMIC THEORY I. (4 Credits)
Introduction to dynamic macroeconomic theory, including a review of Keynesian models, continuous and discrete time programming, Solow, Ramsey, and endogenous growth models, and real business cycle theory.

ECON 580. LABOR ECONOMICS AND SOCIAL POLICY. (4 Credits)
Interaction of workers and firms in labor markets, social policy and its effects on labor markets, human capital theory and education policy, discrimination and other sources of wage differentials; immigration, unemployment, inequality.

ECON 601. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 602. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

ECON 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ECON 610. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Master of Public Policy

PPOL 413. ETHICS IN PUBLIC POLICY. (4 Credits)
Examines ethical dilemmas in public policy, and provides the opportunity to study the ethical theories of Hobbes, Kant, Mill, and Rawls.

PPOL 421. INTRODUCTION TO POLICY RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Introduction to research design, research ethics, and quantitative and qualitative data collection and analysis. Activities include reading, review questions and exercises, discussion board participation, and data collection, analysis and reporting.

Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better and PS 201 [D-] and SOC 204

PPOL 441. *ENERGY AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Explores the complex interrelationships between humans and energy, emphasizing the role of energy in critical social issues, including but not limited to: domestic and international conflict, poverty, social change, inter-generational equity, energy transitions and environmental justice. (Bacc Core Course)

Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

PPOL 446. THE POLICY AND LAW OF U.S. COASTAL GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
Examines federal and state policy, legislative and judicial protections of public beach access; ownership and use of tide and submerged lands, including the public trust doctrine; wetland conservation; and the Federal Coastal Zone Management Act. This course is intended to equip future environmental and natural resource professionals with a foundation in US coastal management, especially areas where new professionals will be very involved (coastal development, offshore/alternative energy, and sea level rise/storm hazards). The format includes reading, discussion, and student presentations. Readings will be drawn from the textbook; additional readings will be posted on Canvas.
PPOL 447. INTEGRATED POLICY: FOOD, ENERGY, WATER, CLIMATE. (4 Credits)
Environmental decisions include trade-offs. Policy choices for sustainably providing Earth’s eight billion people with food, energy, and water are urgently needed. Policy sectors (such as food) risk outcomes that are not beneficial, and impose long-term costs and potential catastrophic climate burdens. This transdisciplinary course examines emerging integrated policies concerning provision of food, energy, and water and their relationship to climate.

PPOL 448. MARINE POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES. (4 Credits)
Introduces students to the history, rationale, achievements, and gaps in American ocean policy. Students will acquire foundational tools of policy analysis and problem solving, and will synthesize and apply their knowledge creatively in order to propose integrated policy solutions to specific contemporary marine issues.

PPOL 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-12 Credits)
Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

PPOL 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 507. SEMINAR. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-12 Credits)
Supervised work experience in government, public policy, public affairs or non-profit organizations. Reports and appraisals required. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

PPOL 511. PUBLIC ORGANIZATIONS AND LEADERSHIP. (4 Credits)
Provides an historical overview of developments in, and theories associated with, the organization and control of public organizations. Students will critically examine various influential models of bureaucracy, while also learning about the strengths and weaknesses of emergent forms of bureaucratic organization, including networks, public-private partnerships, collaboration, and governance. The course also explores different theories of leadership, assisting students in the development of their own authentic leadership style, and thinking through the application of such theories and styles to the real world of public organization leadership, especially in the fragmented, decentralized, complex, and uncertain contemporary environment of networks, partnerships, and governance.

PPOL 512. PUBLIC POLICY THEORY. (4 Credits)
Theoretical approaches to the study of the policy process, policy elements, policy tools, (e.g., regulation), and policy typologies.

PPOL 521. UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Study of basic concepts and principles of qualitative and quantitative social research, including selection of general strategies and specific designs, conceptual and operational measurement, sample selection, data collection, data processing and analysis techniques, interpretation and reporting. Utilizes reports of social research in scholarly journals, popular media, and agency documents. Emphasis on critical evaluation and interpretation.

PPOL 522. CONDUCTING SOCIAL RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Reviews concepts and principles covered in SOC 415 with emphasis on actual experiences in using techniques of social research and gaining greater depth of knowledge and skill. Assignments involve practicing techniques used in various phases of the research process, including both qualitative field observation and computerized processing and analysis of quantitative information. Individual or group research projects will be required.
Prerequisites: PPOL 521 with C or better

PPOL 523. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the theory and methods of qualitative research. Students will be exposed to various qualitative research methods through practical field exercises. These include ethnographic field observation, content analysis, interviewing, focus groups and unobtrusive measures. Other commonly used methods of collecting qualitative data are also examined.

PPOL 524. APPLIED RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
Application of sociological theory, concepts, and methods. Topics vary but may include program evaluation, social impact assessment, policy analysis, focus group research, survey research, among others.

PPOL 525. MANAGING AND GOVERNING PUBLIC AND NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS. (4 Credits)
Provides students with an introduction to management in public and non-profit organizations. Public and non-profit managers face challenges that are not faced by their counterparts in the private sector. These challenges are often associated with a different legal structure, employee protections, and differences in ethos and motivation. Students will build on knowledge of public administration to examine contemporary issues of public management and public governance and the techniques and challenges of management in practice. Successful completion of the course will equip students to be critically reflective practitioners and scholars of the management of public and non-profit organizations.

PPOL 531. INFLUENCING PUBLIC POLICY: AN INTRODUCTION TO THE DARK ARTS. (4 Credits)
Explores the various tactical and strategic behaviors that individuals and groups use to influence public policy. Focusing on the ethical and pragmatic dimensions of policy consequential tactics and strategy, topics vary but may include policy communication, the use of science and evidence, human cognition and decision-making processes, lobbying, and vote and agenda manipulation.

PPOL 541. ENERGY AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Explores the complex interrelationships between humans and energy, emphasizing the role of energy in critical social issues, including but not limited to: domestic and international conflict, poverty, social change, inter-generational equity, energy transitions and environmental justice.

PPOL 544. COLLABORATIVE GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
Explores and develops the norms, rules, institutional design, decision-making dynamic, and politics of collaborative governance arrangements for complex natural resource problem settings. Designed to bring together traditional adversaries, government agencies, and citizens to resolve and improve management of collective public problems, collaborative governance for natural resources is now an important problem-solving tool that is employed in thousands of communities, watersheds, and landscapes around the world.
PPOL 545. INTERNATIONAL MARINE POLICY. (4 Credits)
Explores the institutional, political and legal factors that impact international marine policy with an emphasis on the United Nations Law of the Sea Convention. Additional topics include marine resource exploitation, climate change, and national security issues as they pertain to the world's oceans, coasts, and national policies.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 546. THE POLICY AND LAW OF UNITED STATES COASTAL GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
