

PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES GRADUATE MINOR

This program is available at the following location:

- Corvallis

Minor Code: 4795

Upon successful completion of the program, students will be able to:

MS Non-Thesis

- Conduct research or produce some other form of creative work.
- Demonstrate mastery of subject material.
- Conduct scholarly or professional activities in an ethical manner.
- Design logical and realistic solutions to problems in pharmaceutical sciences by using critical thinking and analytical skills.
- Effectively analyze, summarize, evaluate and discuss the primary research literature.

MS Thesis

- Conduct research or produce some other form of creative work.
- Demonstrate mastery of subject material.
- Conduct scholarly or professional activities in an ethical manner.
- Design logical and realistic solutions to problems in pharmaceutical sciences by using critical thinking and analytical skills.
- Effectively communicate research findings and significance including impact on human health.

PhD

- Produce and defend an original significant contribution to knowledge.
- Demonstrate mastery of subject material.
- Conduct scholarly activities in an ethical manner.
- Design logical and realistic solutions to problems in pharmaceutical sciences by using critical thinking and analytical skills.
- Effectively design an experimental approach and conduct research to advance knowledge in pharmaceutical sciences.
- Effectively communicate research findings including impact on human health.

Minor Code: 4795