An integrated approach to introduce students to the core knowledge and methods used in public health, including evidence-based approaches to public health, public health and health care systems, planning and management to promote health, and policy in public health.

H 514. ENVIRONMENT, SAFETY AND HEALTH SEMINAR. (1 Credit)
One-credit graduate seminar on current topics of interest and importance to the environmental health and occupational safety field. Critical reading of research publications, discussion of controversial issues facing ESH professionals, and/or presentation of current ESH research. This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

H 515. RESEARCH METHODS IN SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL HEALTH SCIENCES. (3 Credits)
Provides an introduction to quantitative research methods and design. Topics include definition of research problems and questions, hypothesis generation, research design, sampling, variable definition and measurement, data collection, and ethical considerations. Also provides a brief introduction to qualitative and mixed methods.

H 516. RESEARCH METHODS IN GLOBAL HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Overview of research methods used to understand health, illness, health care, and health-seeking behavior in international settings. Special emphasis on the use of qualitative and mixed methods in international health research.

H 518. PUBLIC HEALTH ETHICS AND ISSUES. (3 Credits)
Explores key ethical issues in the context of public health practice; codes and guidelines for ethical conduct of public health practice; issues related to social accountability, vulnerable populations, and ethical framework for community engagement.

H 519. DISPLACEMENT, MIGRATION, AND GLOBAL HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Critical examination of health of displaced/migrant populations with an emphasis on health disparities and social determinants. Understanding intersections of humanitarianism, migration, vulnerability, and displacement from a global health perspective.

H 520. HEALTH DISPARITIES. (3 Credits)
Health disparities based on race/ethnicity, culture, social class, and rural/urban residence, among others; strategies to reduce disparities, promote health, and prevent disease in diverse populations.

H 521. MENTAL HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Focus upon mental health policy development, in relation to federal and state government services and regulations, implementation of services.

H 522. HEALTH, AGING AND CONTROL OF CHRONIC DISEASES. (4 Credits)
Epidemiology of the major chronic diseases, risk factors, potential methods of prevention/intervention, ethical issues, and efficacy of current methods of prevention and control. Emphasis on adult populations and public health services, policies, and programs at the local, state, and federal levels designed to promote healthy aging. Recommended: 9 credits of public health course work.

H 523. FOUNDATIONS OF PUBLIC HEALTH. (4 Credits)
Fundamental principles, concepts and tools used in public health to promote the health of populations. Using a combination of case study method, lecture and discussion, students will develop a broad understanding of public health and recognition of how discipline-specializations address the social, behavioral and environmental determinants of public health.

H 524. INTRODUCTION TO BIOSTATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Quantitative analysis and interpretation of health data including probability distributions, estimation of effects, and hypothesis-tests such as Chi-square, one-way ANOVA, and simple linear regression.

H 525. EPIDEMIOLOGICAL METHODS I. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the concepts and methods of epidemiology. Topics include measures of population health, screening, study design, measures of association, and interpretation of epidemiological data. Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better

H 526. EPIDEMIOLOGIC METHODS II. (3 Credits)
Concepts and methods of epidemiological analysis; standardization; stratified analysis; confounding and its control; planning and conducting epidemiologic research; role of multivariate analysis in epidemiologic research. Prerequisites: H 524 with B- or better and H 525 [B-]

H 527. CRITICAL ASSESSMENT OF INTERNATIONAL HEALTH PROGRAMS. (3 Credits)
Introduces the critical evaluation framework of assessing international health development programs, based on self-determination and community ownership principles. The framework of assessment method includes three levels: upstream evaluation, midstream evaluation, and downstream evaluation. Recommended: H 528 and H 529

H 528. GLOBAL HEALTH ISSUES. (3 Credits)
Examines major issues in health developments of global significance, their causes and impacts on international health, and methods and strategies to address them.

H 529. INTERNATIONAL HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Overview of the epidemiological, economic, political, sociological, and cultural factors that impact on international health. Special emphasis on the methods of prevention/intervention utilized in coping with health problems on an international level.

H 530. HEALTH POLICY ANALYSIS AND POLITICS. (3 Credits)
Examination of current health policy issues affecting health care programs, services, and organization as well as the role of politics in public health and health policy. Exploration of processes by which health policy proposals are generated, promoted, defeated, modified and implemented.
Prerequisites: H 533 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 532. ECONOMIC ISSUES IN HEALTH AND MEDICAL CARE. (3 Credits)
Application of economics principles to the health care field: the demand for medical care and insurance, health care suppliers, health care markets. Recommended: ECON 201

H 533. HEALTH SYSTEMS ORGANIZATION. (3 Credits)
Examines the nature of health and health care services and reviews the role of government and the free market on health services. Alternative ways of organizing, financing, and delivery of health care services are explored.

H 534. HEALTH CARE LAW AND REGULATION. (3 Credits)
Legal aspects of health care delivery; tort law and its applications; professional liability and liability insurance; laws relative to health care institutions, cost controls, antitrust and access.
H 535. INTERPRETING EPIDEMIOLOGIC EVIDENCE. (3 Credits)
Intended for students in the human sciences and allied health fields. Introduces basic epidemiology concepts. Topics will include measures of disease frequency, assessing population health, causal logic, quantifying associations between exposures and health outcomes, epidemiologic study design, and threats to study validity (random error, bias, confounding). Examples focus on application of epidemiological methods to a variety of health-related fields.

H 536. HEALTHCARE ORGANIZATION LEADERSHIP THEORY AND BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Overview of organization theory and behavior in health care organizations. Emphasis is on developing an understanding of the factors and forces that influence the structures, behaviors, and operations of health care delivery organizations. This understanding will be developed through consideration of organizations, their environments, and the roles of individuals working in management.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 537. INJURY EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
An overview of the distribution and determinants of injuries, methodological issues specific to injury epidemiology, and approaches to injury control.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 513 with B- or better
Recommended: Graduate epidemiology training

H 538. PUBLIC AND PRIVATE HEALTH INSURANCE. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the principles and practices of public or social and commercial health insurance, and their financial reimbursement mechanisms.

H 540. WATER AND HUMAN HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Critically examine the complex relationship between water quality, human activities, and population health.

H 541. AIR QUALITY AND HUMAN HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Examination of the major sources of air pollution, its impact on ecosystems and climate change, and population health. Will also discuss technologies and introduce regulations that are used to control air pollutants.

H 542. ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Understand concepts, principles and practices in modern environmental and occupational risk analysis and how they are utilized to make evidence-based decisions by regulatory agencies.

H 543. EXPOSURE SCIENCE I. (4 Credits)
Overview of the concepts, principles and practices in modern environmental and occupational exposure assessment. Exposure Science I provides a broad introduction to environmental and occupational exposure assessment methods, while Exposure Science II focuses on sampling and measurement methods.

H 544. ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Examines exposure assessment methodology and epidemiological study designs that are commonly used in environmental and occupational health science in order to characterize the impact of environmental and occupational exposures on population health.
Prerequisites: H 525 with C or better
Recommended: Graduate level statistics course

H 545. EPIDEMIOLOGY OF AGING. (3 Credits)
An overview of the core principles of the epidemiology of aging is provided. There will be an emphasis on health and disease processes in older adults. Students will learn essential study design and analytic issues that may arise in studies of aging.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 546. PHYSICAL AGENTS AND HUMAN HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Focus on physical agents (heat, noise, vibration, radiation) and health risks associated with these agents. It covers the range and sources of exposure to physical agents, methods of characterizing these exposures, effects on human health, and the regulations/standards that set limits for physical agents. Lec/lab.

H 547. GIS AND PUBLIC HEALTH. (4 Credits)
Applications of geographic information systems (GIS) to public health are reviewed, including mapping, spatial analysis methods, estimating access, and exposure assessment. This course is geared toward individuals involved in public health who have no (or introductory level) knowledge of GIS. Lec/lab.

H 548. PUBLIC HEALTH TOXICOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the concepts and principles of toxicology as they apply to environmental and occupational health.
Recommended: H 344 with a grade of C- or better and one term of basic chemistry.

H 549. MASS MEDIA AND HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Examines the effects of mass media on population health, from the negative impact of advertising of cigarettes, alcohol and junk food, to the (hopefully) positive impact of public health campaigns.
Prerequisites: H 571 with C or better

H 550. SOCIAL EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Explores the social determinants of health at the population level. Primary focus is on introduction to methods specific to social epidemiology, but will also provide an overview of current understanding of the empirical associations between social factors and health.
Prerequisites: H 525 with B or better
Recommended: Introductory course in epidemiology

H 551. APPLIED EPIDEMIOLOGICAL ANALYSIS OF SECONDARY DATA. (3 Credits)
Practical experience performing a hypothesis-driven epidemiological analysis utilizing secondary surveillance or other appropriate data set, writing an analytical plan, appropriate programming for the analysis (using STATA or SAS), understanding the analysis output, preparing tables, and interpreting results.
Prerequisites: H 526 with B- or better and H 560 [B-] and H 580 [B-]

H 552. DISASTER EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Describe the impact of natural and manmade disasters on human health, understand epidemiologic methods specific to disasters, and apply fundamental epidemiologic methods to identify and characterize disaster-related adverse health outcomes.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 554. EPIDEMIOLOGY OF AGING. (3 Credits)
An overview of the core principles of the epidemiology of aging is provided. There will be an emphasis on health and disease processes in older adults. Students will learn essential study design and analytic issues that may arise in studies of aging.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 555. CANCER EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic concepts and methodology in cancer epidemiology.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better
H 556. STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT OF HEALTH SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS. (3 Credits)
Theories and methodologies of long-range planning and strategic management in health care organizations.

H 557. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS. (3 Credits)
Utilization of standard financial tools needed to manage the capital resources of health care organizations. Includes funding capital projects, product costing, budgeting methods, capital formation and investment strategies.
Recommended: H 210 and H 250

H 558. REIMBURSEMENT MECHANISMS. (3 Credits)
Techniques used in cost-effectiveness analysis. Examples are drawn from the public health and health economics literature.

H 560. PUBLIC HEALTH SURVEILLANCE. (3 Credits)
An introduction to public health surveillance systems (national and international) for chronic and infectious diseases. Utility of existing surveillance systems for secondary epidemiological data analysis.
Prerequisites: H 524 with B- or better and H 525 [B-]

H 562. INFECTIOUS DISEASE EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Understand epidemiologic methods specific to infectious diseases, apply fundamental epidemiologic methods to infectious disease questions, and describe the broad trends in global infectious disease burden. The application methods and principles will be explored through lectures, discussions, assignments and writing projects.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or H 514 with B- or better

H 563. PHYSICAL ACTIVITY EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Physical activity epidemiology will focus on current research, controversial issues, and methodological problems in the epidemiology of physical activity, exercise, and health.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better
Recommended: H 524

H 564. COMPUTING TOOLS AND HEALTH DATA ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
Modern computational biostatistics for analyzing health data, emphasizing important technologies and methods for data processing and understanding of how they work. Topics will evolve over time as new procedures are developed.
Corequisites: H 524

H 565. PUBLIC HEALTH AND WOMEN: SOCIAL AND POLICY ISSUES. (3 Credits)
Public health approach to the identification of women's health needs in the United States and in other countries as it relates to the intersection of race, ethnicity, social class, sexual orientation, age, and ability.
Equivalent to: BA 565
Recommended: 6 credits in public health.

H 566. DATA MINING IN PUBLIC HEALTH. (3 Credits)
An introduction to high-dimensional data analysis and data mining techniques used as an information technology tool to extract previously unknown and potentially useful information from large databases in biology, medicine, and public health.
Recommended: H 581 and H 564

H 567. LONG-TERM CARE ALTERNATIVES. (3 Credits)
Overview of the long-term care alternatives. Comparisons of nursing homes with community based facilities; adult day care centers, respite to hospice facilities, social HMOs and other services; cost, quality of life and practicality are addressed.

H 568. FINANCING AND ADMINISTRATION OF LONG-TERM CARE. (3 Credits)
Examines the financing and administration of long term care. Emphasis is on a system-wide overview and specific application to nursing facility management.

H 569. MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Women's reproductive health and health of children stressing causation, management, and prevention of public health problems. Epidemiological analysis of morbidity and mortality in children and women of childbearing age; impact of social, political and economic influences on the health of women and children; comparison of issues and problems of industrialized versus developing nations. Consideration of health issues of interest to the many diverse racial and ethnic groups of women and children in the U.S. as well as the global village.

H 571. PRINCIPLES OF HEALTH BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Theoretical approaches to behavior change in health promotion/education research and practice; factors influencing health behaviors, ethical behavior change issues, behavioral interventions for special populations.

H 572. COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION FOR HEALTH PROMOTION AND EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
History, theory, and practice of community organizing for health advocacy; focus on group processes, use of media, leadership, coalitions, grass roots methods and social change.

H 573. INTRODUCTION TO MULTILEVEL/HIERARCHICAL MODELS. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the theory and application of hierarchical models to problems in epidemiology and public health. Hierarchical models will be dealt with using both frequentist and Bayesian frameworks.
Recommended: H 581

H 575. EVALUATION OF HEALTH PROMOTION AND EDUCATION PROGRAMS. (3 Credits)
Provides theoretical and practical bases for program evaluation. Develops basic skills in a variety of approaches to evaluation, including techniques that are particularly suitable for evaluating health promotion, community health improvement, and related health and social services programs. Course learning is synthesized through designing an evaluation framework and methodology for a relevant program.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 515 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better

H 576. PROGRAM PLANNING FOR HEALTH/HUMAN SERVICES. (4 Credits)
Provides students with an introduction to the principles of program planning and the development of program plans, with a focus on evidence-based public health/human services. Students will have the opportunity to integrate skills developed through prior courses in the context of writing a program plan.
Prerequisites: (H 515 with C- or better or HHS 514 with C- or better) and H 571 [C-] and H 575 [C-]

H 578. INTRODUCTION TO MOLECULAR EPIDEMIOLOGY I. (3 Credits)
A survey of and introduction to the methods and issues arising in genetics and molecular epidemiology, including key biostatistical methods, study designs, and technologies used in the conduct of these studies. Students will gain experience conducting critical reviews of research papers with respect to study design and biostatistical analysis.
Prerequisites: (H 524 with C or better and H 526 [C])
Recommended: Knowledge of and familiarity with basic concepts of molecular biology (DNA replication, transcription, and translation)
H 580. LINEAR REGRESSION AND ANALYSIS OF TIME TO EVENT DATA. (4 Credits)
Multiple linear regression analysis for measurement data and survival analysis methods for time to event health data, including modes of inference, diagnostics, model selection, and reporting conclusions. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: (H 524 with C or better or HDFS 530 with C or better)

H 581. GENERALIZED LINEAR MODELS AND CATEGORICAL DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Biostatistical methods focusing on binary and count data will provide a foundation for understanding and implementing generalized linear regression and categorical data models that are commonly used to analyze epidemiological and public health data from cohort, case-control, and clinical trial study designs. Lec/lab.
Recommended: H 580

H 582. ANALYSIS OF CORRELATED HEALTH DATA. (3 Credits)
Biostatistical methods for clustered, repeated measures, and longitudinal correlated health data, with an introduction to applications of linear and generalized linear mixed models and generalized estimating equations.
Prerequisites: H 581 with C or better

H 583. ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY MANAGEMENT. (4 Credits)
Studies the design and management principles and practices in the environment, safety and health field.

H 584. ANALYSIS OF INTERVENTION STUDIES AND CLINICAL TRIALS. (3 Credits)
Principles of data analysis from intervention studies and clinical trials, including professional graphical and tabular presentation, reproducibility and reliability of measurements, and controlling the Type I error rate when analyzing multiple endpoints. Basic principles of designing experiments are also covered including blocking, stratification, interaction, and control of variability.
Prerequisites: (H 524 with C or better or HDFS 530 with C or better)

H 585. ENVIRONMENT, SAFETY AND HEALTH POLICY AND LAW. (3 Credits)
Survey of the environment, safety and health policy and law in the United States. Furnishes the basic knowledge and general understanding about policy and law-related issues important to all environmental health and safety professionals.
Recommended: H 385

H 586. BAYESIAN BIOSTATISTICS IN PUBLIC HEALTH. (3 Credits)
An examination of methods for designing and implementing Bayesian analysis to address scientific questions through hands-on experience with health data. This survey course also covers proper interpretation and communication of results from practical Bayesian methods for biostatistics data analysis, with illustrations of the utility of Bayesian ideas in public health.
Prerequisites: H 581 with C or better

H 587. TIME TO EVENT ANALYSIS OF HEALTH DATA. (3 Credits)
Biostatistical models and methods for survival analysis of time to event data that are routinely encountered in biomedical and health research.
Prerequisites: (H 524 with C or better or HDFS 530 with C or better)

H 588. APPLIED OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH. (3 Credits)
The management and technical aspects of a workplace safety and health program are identified and assessed. Students completing the course receive a 30-hour OSHA General Industry card.

H 589. EMERGENCY AND DISASTER MANAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Study of preparedness, response, recovery and business resumption strategies, activities and applications needed to effectively deal with emergency and disaster incidents.

H 590. OCCUPATIONAL ERGONOMICS AND BIOMECHANICS. (3 Credits)
Examines the advanced theories, applications, and contemporary topics of occupational ergonomics and biomechanics. Topics include muscle physiology, work-related musculoskeletal disorders, assessing biomechanical exposure in the workplace, various material handling assessment tools, 3-Dimensional Static Strength Prediction Program, human vibrations, and implementing ergonomic interventions.

H 591. SELECTED TOPICS. (1-3 Credits)
Recent changes and advances in public health and health care administration and their application to special fields of study. Topics vary from term to term and year to year.
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

H 592. SPATIAL EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
An introduction to methods in spatial epidemiology is provided, including spatial exploration of health data, quantifying spatial patterns and clusters, spatial exposure assessment, and explaining patterns and associations.
Prerequisites: H 547 with C or better and H 581 [C]

H 593. REPRODUCTIVE EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Focuses on current research, controversial issues, and methodological problems in the epidemiology of reproductive health.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better
Recommended: H 524

H 594. APPLIED ERGONOMICS. (3 Credits)
Principles of occupational ergonomics for managing optimal worker performance and well-being.

H 595. DESIGN FOR ENVIRONMENT, SAFETY, AND HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Systematic consideration of environmental, safety, and health concerns at the earliest possible stage in the lifecycle design engineering of products, technologies, and manufacturing processes.

H 596. HEALTHCARE EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Focus on current research, controversial issues, and methodological problems in the epidemiology of healthcare. Topics include institutional infection control, medical errors, screening and diagnostic testing, cost-effectiveness, and others related to the delivery and assessment of healthcare, with a focus on the US healthcare system specifically.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better
Recommended: H 524

H 597. METHODS IN FOODBORNE DISEASE OUTBREAK INVESTIGATION. (3 Credits)
Focuses on the practical basis for developing and implementing methods for foodborne disease outbreak detection, investigation and control, using recent outbreaks to highlight underlying principles. Biological characteristics of major foodborne disease pathogens, clinical features of the illnesses its causes and epidemiologic presentations of foodborne outbreaks will be reviewed. The implications of these characteristics will be discussed in a problem solving, interactive format that examines theory and practice in the context of recent outbreaks. Strategies to promote timely decision-making will be emphasized.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better or H 525 with B- or better or H 535 with B- or better or HHS 514 with B- or better
H 598. HEALTH POLICY ANALYSIS METHODS. (3 Credits)
Analysis of public policies affecting health care programs, services and organizations and the impact of those programs on citizens. Health services research methods, including data sources for health policy research and health policy literature.
Prerequisites: H 513 with B- or better and H 533 [B-]

H 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

H 601. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

H 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 608. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 610. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

H 611. INTRODUCTION TO SYSTEMATIC LITERATURE REVIEWS. (3 Credits)
Students will learn how to apply systematic review methodology to a research question of their choice and understand how literature reviews inform evidence-based decision-making. Examples will focus on applying literature reviews to public health, clinical science, and biomedical research.

H 612. DOCTORAL SEMINAR IN PUBLIC HEALTH: RESEARCH AND PRACTICE. (1 Credit)
Contemporary research and professional issues specific to the discipline of public health. Includes responsible conduct of research, writing for publication, professional development and leadership, and faculty research in public health.
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

H 613. INDEPENDENT RESEARCH PROJECT. (1-9 Credits)
Independent research project for PhD students, including research design, execution or research, and the formal presentation of findings in written form. Student will develop an original research topic based on knowledge and review of the literature in a public health-relevant area of inquiry. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

H 614. RESEARCH MANUSCRIPT. (4 Credits)
PhD students write a manuscript to submit to a peer-reviewed journal as part of the course requirements. Graded P/N.

H 615. ADVANCED EVALUATION AND RESEARCH DESIGN. (3 Credits)
Provides an in-depth examination of advanced research designs and methods for establishing causal statements about the efficacy, effectiveness and generalizability of public health and social service interventions designed to alter public health and social risk or protective factors.
Recommended: H 515 and H 575

H 620. ADVANCED TOPICS IN GLOBAL HEALTH INTERVENTION AND PRACTICE. (3 Credits)
Examines the processes and tools involved in planning and evaluating culturally competent health and human service prevention and intervention programs in the global context. Special considerations in program decision-making in the global context (community engagement, cultural competence, sustainability, feasibility, political/ethical issues) will be explored. Provides a key forum for doctoral students to share ongoing developments in their research and practice drawing from fieldwork as well as attended conferences and meetings.

H 622. GLOBAL HEALTH SYSTEMS, POLICY AND POLITICS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on learning to identify key stakeholders in the politics of global health, and to be able to describe political and policy processes involved in negotiating global health decisions. Employment of theories and evidence from both the global North and South to explain political processes affecting public health practice and programs.

H 626. GLOBAL HEALTH SYSTEM FINANCE AND STRENGTHENING. (3 Credits)
Introduces an analytical framework of health system finance strengthening for global health, from local community to national level and international level. Develops the analytical skill and knowledge for examining the source and mechanism of financing health systems and identify, mobilize, organize, and manage domestic and global health resources. Provides training to examine equity and efficiency of financial burden in a health system, and the strategies to strengthen it.

H 630. QUANTITATIVE HEALTH POLICY RESEARCH METHODS I. (4 Credits)
Contemporary doctoral-level quantitative health policy/services research methods emphasizing linear regression models, data sources for health policy research, and health policy research literature.
Prerequisites: H 524 with B- or better

H 632. APPLIED HEALTH ECONOMICS. (4 Credits)
Advanced doctoral-level quantitative health policy/services research methods emphasizing causal inference when potential endogeneity is present.
Prerequisites: H 630 with B- or better

H 635. COST EFFECTIVENESS ANALYSIS IN HEALTH AND MEDICAL CARE. (3 Credits)
The primary objective of this course is to introduce students to cost-effectiveness studies in health and medical care. Covers the core concepts of CEA, quality adjusted life years, cost calculations, and decision rules.

H 638. PUBLIC AND PRIVATE HEALTH INSURANCE. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the principles and practices of public or social and commercial health insurance, their finance mechanisms, and theoretical foundation behind the selection of certain system of health insurance and finance method.
Prerequisites: H 533 with C or better

H 639. COMMUNITY-BASED PARTICIPATORY RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Focuses on initiating and conducting research in partnership with communities. Includes in-depth examination of community-based participatory research (CBPR) elements, principles, theories, and approaches; how researchers can successfully partner with communities; and research with minority and/or underprivileged communities; with examples from environmental health, gerontology, and health promotion.
Recommended: 9 credits of public health or HDFS graduate coursework
H 642. ENVIRONMENTAL AND REGULATORY RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Understand concepts, principles and practices in modern risk analysis and how they are utilized to make evidence-based decisions in public health. Focus will be on real world examples of risk assessment by environmental and occupational regulatory agencies.

H 650. REPORTING RESULTS: WRITING FOR EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Applied experience writing a scientific paper to disseminate results, including deciding on authorship, preparing a lay summary, revising and responding to peer review, and serving as a reviewer.
Prerequisites: H 526 with B- or better and H 551 [B-] and H 580 [B-]

H 651. ADVANCED EPIDEMIOLOGICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Covers advanced topics in epidemiology. Course expands on many of the same topics as H 526, and explores them in greater breadth and depth. Topics include causal theory, measures of disease and association, confounding, selection bias, predictive models, directed acyclic graphs, effect modification, mediation, indirect and direct effects, study design, and other contemporary topics.
Prerequisites: H 526 with B- or better and H 581 [B-]

H 652. CAUSAL INFERENCE IN EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Discussion of the theoretical framework of causal statistics and the development of modern methods including propensity scores and marginal structural models. Focus is on the inverse probability of treatment weighting; discussion of other estimation methods will be included. Additional topics may include longitudinal causal models, causal mediation, instrumental variables, and other contemporary topics.
Prerequisites: H 651 with B- or better

H 659. QUANTITATIVE HEALTH POLICY RESEARCH METHODS II. (4 Credits)
Advanced doctoral-level quantitative health policy/services research methods emphasizing health care utilization, expenditures, and outcomes data.
Prerequisites: H 630 with B- or better

H 662. ADVANCED METHODS IN INFECTIOUS DISEASE EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Covers advanced methods and principles for infectious disease research, including framing infectious disease issues into testable hypotheses, designing epidemiologic studies using appropriate sampling strategies, and identifying strengths and weaknesses of various epidemiologic research methods.
Prerequisites: H 526 with B- or better and H 562 [B-]

H 671. ADVANCED THEORIES OF HEALTH BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Provides an in-depth examination of major theories of health behavior (both health compromising and health enhancing).
Recommended: H 571

H 672. ADVANCED QUALITATIVE METHODS IN HEALTH BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Provides an in-depth examination of the use of qualitative methods in health behavior research and practice.
Recommended: H 515 and SOC 518 and HDFS 538

H 673. MEASUREMENT OF HEALTH BEHAVIOR CONCEPTS. (4 Credits)
Provides in-depth study and field work for graduate students in public health and related fields of the methods used in the conceptualization, development, and evaluation of quantitative measures of health behavior and related concepts.
Recommended: H 524, H 515, and 3 credits in other quantitative research methods or social behavioral methods (eg. sociology or psychology or health promotion or education programs)

H 675. DEVELOPMENT OF HEALTH BEHAVIOR INTERVENTIONS. (3 Credits)
Examines the application of social/behavioral theories in health promotion interventions and in conducting intervention research in diverse populations. The course will focus on program development, implementation strategies, and on translation into practice.
Recommended: H 571 and H 575 and H 576

H 676. ADVANCED TOPICS IN HEALTH PROMOTION AND HEALTH BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Examines topics of relevance to health promotion and health behavior. Specific topics include current issues and emerging research findings, with a focus on social and behavior science perspectives, analysis of public health problems, and application of principles and practices of health promotion and health behavior.
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.
Recommended: H 515 and H 571

H 681. ADVANCED TOPICS IN ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY. (3 Credits)
Advanced topics in the environment, safety and health discipline. Content varies with each offering.

H 682. ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY: MOVING FROM RESEARCH TO PRACTICE. (3 Credits)
An examination of research transfer models that can be adapted and implemented to environmental and occupational settings. Case studies and content will vary with each course offering.

H 683. ADVANCED RESEARCH METHODS IN ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Covers advanced methods for environmental and occupational health research, including framing environmental and occupational health issues into testable hypotheses, designing appropriate studies, and identifying strengths and weaknesses of different research methods.

H 685. RACE, CLASS, CULTURE AND AGING. (4 Credits)
Examines the diversity among the older population in health status, health beliefs/behaviors, and health care, and explores the interaction of culture and structure as determinants of their life chances. The empirical literature used in the course is drawn from the experiences of aging of African-American, Latino, and Asian-Pacific Islander elderly. Taught spring term every year. CROSSLISTED as HDFS 685.
Equivalent to: HDFS 685
Recommended: 9 credits of public health or HDFS graduate coursework

H 699. SPECIAL STUDIES. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Public Policy (PPOL)

PPOL 406. SPECIAL PROJECTS. (5 Credits)
Associated with the internship for which credit is given in PPOL 410.

PPOL 407. SEMINAR. (1-6 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.
PPOL 409. PRACTICUM/CLINICAL EXPERIENCE. (2 Credits)
This discussion-based course will cover topics in public policy based on assigned readings.

PPOL 410. INTERNSHIP/WORK EXPERIENCE. (5 Credits)
Supervised work experience in public policy-related programs, government, or organizations. Reports and appraisals required. Only 5 credits may be applied to the major.

PPOL 413. ETHICS IN PUBLIC POLICY. (4 Credits)
Examines ethical dilemmas in public policy, and provides the opportunity to study the ethical theories of Hobbes, Kant, Mill, and Rawls.

PPOL 421. INTRODUCTION TO POLICY RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Introduction to research design, research ethics, and quantitative and qualitative data collection and analysis. Activities include reading, review questions and exercises, discussion board participation, and data collection, analysis and reporting.

Prerequisites: ECON 201 with D- or better and PS 201 [D-] and SOC 204 [D-]

PPOL 422. ^POLICY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Overview of common policy analysis approaches, methods and tools used to identify, assess, present and select public policy. Assignments include reading, reflection, exercises and a multi-stage policy analysis memo project using analyses conducted in PPOL 421.

Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: PPOL 421 with C or better

PPOL 441. *ENERGY AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Explores the complex interrelationships between humans and energy, emphasizing the role of energy in critical social issues, including but not limited to: domestic and international conflict, poverty, social change, inter-generational equity, energy transitions and environmental justice.

(Bacc: Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

PPOL 446. THE POLICY AND LAW OF U.S. COASTAL GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
Examines federal and state policy, legislative and judicial protections of public beach access; ownership and use of tide and submerged lands, including the public trust doctrine; wetland conservation; and the Federal Coastal Zone Management Act. This course is intended to equip future environmental and natural resource professionals with a foundation in US coastal management, especially areas where new professionals will be very involved (coastal development, offshore/alternative energy, and sea level rise/storm hazards). The format includes reading, discussion, and student presentations. Readings will be drawn from the textbook; additional readings will be posted on Canvas.

PPOL 447. INTEGRATED POLICY: FOOD, ENERGY, WATER, CLIMATE. (4 Credits)
Environmental decisions include trade-offs. Policy choices for sustainably providing Earth's eight billion people with food, energy, and water are urgently needed. Policy sectors (such as food) risk outcomes that are not beneficial, and impose long-term costs and potential catastrophic climate burdens. This transdisciplinary course examines emerging integrated policies concerning provision of food, energy, and water and their relationship to climate.

PPOL 448. MARINE POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES. (4 Credits)
Introduces students to the history, rationale, achievements, and gaps in American ocean policy. Students will acquire foundational tools of policy analysis and problem solving, and will synthesize and apply their knowledge creatively in order to propose integrated policy solutions to specific contemporary marine issues.

PPOL 452. INTERNATIONAL COMPARATIVE RURAL POLICY. (4 Credits)
Examines and compares the role of rural policy in different cultural, political and administrative contexts at the international, national, state, regional and local levels. The course also provides the opportunity to study the nature and implications of new forms of governance in rural contexts in North America and Europe.

PPOL 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-12 Credits)
Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

PPOL 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-10 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-12 Credits)
Supervised work experience in government, public policy, public affairs or non-profit organizations. Reports and appraisals required. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

PPOL 511. PUBLIC ORGANIZATIONS AND LEADERSHIP. (4 Credits)
Provides an historical overview of developments in, and theories associated with, the organization and control of public organizations. Students will critically examine various influential models of bureaucracy, while also learning about the strengths and weaknesses of emergent forms of bureaucratic organization, including networks, public-private partnerships, collaboration, and governance. The course also explores different theories of leadership, assisting students in the development of their own authentic leadership style, and thinking through the application of such theories and styles to the real world of public organization leadership, especially in the fragmented, decentralized, complex, and uncertain contemporary environment of networks, partnerships, and governance.

PPOL 512. PUBLIC POLICY THEORY. (4 Credits)
Theoretical approaches to the study of the policy process, policy elements, policy tools, (e.g., regulation), and policy typologies.
Equivalent to: PS 571

PPOL 521. UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Study of basic concepts and principles of qualitative and quantitative social research, including selection of general strategies and specific designs, conceptual and operational measurement, sample selection, data collection, data processing and analysis techniques, interpretation and reporting. Utilizes reports of social research in scholarly journals, popular media, and agency documents. Emphasis on critical evaluation and interpretation.
Equivalent to: SOC 515

PPOL 522. QUANTITATIVE METHODS FOR PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Covers a variety of techniques for analyzing quantitative data, including linear regression, logistic regression, and other techniques. Emphasis is placed on working with data and software to answer research questions. Prior knowledge of hypothesis testing and descriptive statistics is assumed.
Prerequisites: PPOL 521 with C or better and ECON 524 [C]
Equivalent to: SOC 516
PPOL 523. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the theory and methods of qualitative research. Students will be exposed to various qualitative research methods through practical field exercises. These include ethnographic field observation, content analysis, interviewing, focus groups and unobtrusive measures. Other commonly used methods of collecting qualitative data are also examined.
Equivalent to: SOC 518
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

PPOL 524. APPLIED RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
Application of sociological theory, concepts, and methods. Topics vary but may include program evaluation, social impact assessment, policy analysis, focus group research, survey research, among others.
Equivalent to: SOC 519
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H and at least one upper-division course in sociology.

PPOL 525. MANAGING AND GOVERNING PUBLIC AND NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS. (4 Credits)
Provides students with an introduction to management in public and non-profit organizations. Public and non-profit managers face challenges that are not faced by their counterparts in the private sector. These challenges are often associated with a different legal structure, employee protections, and differences in ethos and motivation. Students will build on knowledge of public administration to examine contemporary issues of public management and public governance and the techniques and challenges of management in practice. Successful completion of the course will equip students to be critically reflective practitioners and scholars of the management of public and non-profit organizations.
Recommended: Public Administration or PS 572 or PPOL 532 or experience in working in public or community service

PPOL 531. INFLUENCING PUBLIC POLICY: AN INTRODUCTION TO THE DARK ARTS. (4 Credits)
Explores the various tactical and strategic behaviors that individuals and groups use to influence public policy. Focusing on the ethical and pragmatic dimensions of policy consequential tactics and strategy, topics vary but may include policy communication, the use of science and evidence, human cognition and decision-making processes, lobbying, and vote and agenda manipulation.

PPOL 541. ENERGY AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Explores the complex interrelationships between humans and energy, emphasizing the role of energy in critical social issues, including but not limited to: domestic and international conflict, poverty, social change, inter-generational equity, energy transitions and environmental justice.

PPOL 544. COLLABORATIVE GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
Explores and develops the norms, rules, institutional design, decision-making dynamic, and politics of collaborative governance arrangements for complex natural resource problem settings. Designed to bring together traditional adversaries, government agencies, and citizens to resolve and improve management of collective public problems, collaborative governance for natural resources is now an important problem-solving tool that is employed in thousands of communities, watersheds, and landscapes around the world.

PPOL 545. INTERNATIONAL MARINE POLICY. (4 Credits)
Explores the institutional, political and legal factors that impact international marine policy with an emphasis on the United Nations Law of the Sea Convention. Additional topics include marine resource exploitation, climate change, and national security issues as they pertain to the world’s oceans, coasts, and national policies.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 546. THE POLICY AND LAW OF UNITED STATES COASTAL GOVERNANCE. (4 Credits)
Examines federal and state policy, legislative and judicial protections of public beach access; ownership and use of tide and submerged lands, including the public trust doctrine; wetland conservation; and the Federal Coastal Zone Management Act. This course is intended to equip future environmental and natural resource professionals with a foundation in US coastal management, especially areas where new professionals will be very involved (coastal development, offshore/alternative energy, and sea level rise/storm hazards). The format includes reading, discussion, and student presentations. Readings will be drawn from the textbook; additional readings will be posted on Canvas.

PPOL 547. INTEGRATED POLICY: FOOD, ENERGY, WATER, CLIMATE. (4 Credits)
Environmental decisions include trade-offs. Policy choices for sustainably providing Earth’s eight billion people with food, energy, and water are urgently needed. Policy sectors (such as food) risk outcomes that are not beneficial, and impose long-term costs and potential catastrophic climate burdens. This transdisciplinary course examines emerging integrated policies concerning provision of food, energy, and water and their relationship to climate.

PPOL 548. MARINE POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES. (4 Credits)
Introduces students to the history, rationale, achievements, and gaps in American ocean and coastal policy. Students will acquire foundational tools of policy problem solving, critique, and analysis, and will synthesize and apply their knowledge creatively to propose integrated policy solutions to specific contemporary marine issues.

PPOL 551. HIGHER EDUCATION POLICY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to policy issues in the area of higher education and exploration of possible tensions within the policy goals of quality, equity, access and outcomes. Students will gain knowledge of the key pieces of legislation and constitutional law governing higher education policy at both federal and state levels, as well as an overview of the relevant research in this area. Begins with a short historical introduction to the U.S. higher education system and concludes with a discussion of its competing demands and functions.

PPOL 552. INTERNATIONAL COMPARATIVE RURAL POLICY. (4 Credits)
Examines and compares the role of rural policy in different cultural, political and administrative contexts at the international, national, state, regional and local levels. The course also provides the opportunity to study the nature and implications of new forms of governance in rural contexts in North America and Europe.

PPOL 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 602. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 603. THESIS. (1-12 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

PPOL 607. SEMINAR. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

PPOL 609. PRACTICUM. (1-12 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

PPOL 613. ADVANCED POLICY THEORY I. (4 Credits)
First of two-class series introducing a comprehensive review of public policy theory focused on examining theoretical approaches to understanding the complex and contentious assumptions and premises that pose challenges to the way we conduct public policy.
PPOL 614. ADVANCED POLICY THEORY II. (4 Credits)
Second course in a two-course series providing a comprehensive review of public policy theory. The course examines theoretical approaches to understanding the complex and contentious assumptions and premises that pose challenges to the way we conduct public policy.

PPOL 621. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE METHODS. (4 Credits)
Methods used in research in the social sciences, focused on causal inference in public policy contexts. Covers methods used at the frontier of research to estimate the causal effect of policies on outcomes, including instrumental variables, regression discontinuity, and difference-in-differences estimation.
Recommended: ECON 524

PPOL 622. ADVANCED POLICY ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Introduction to advanced quantitative modeling used in policy analysis, with an emphasis on the application of modeling techniques to research papers. Focus is predominantly on counts and zero-truncated modeling, time series, and panel regression.
Prerequisites: (ECON 524 with B+ or better and PPOL 522 [B+]) or PPOL 521 [C+] or (AEC 523 [C+] and AEC 525 [C+])

PPOL 628. ADVANCED QUALITATIVE METHODS. (4 Credits)
Focus on epistemological approaches, research design, data analysis techniques and critiques of qualitative research, with emphasis on participant observation and interviewing. Culminates in the written and oral presentation of a qualitative research proposal, including preliminary results from fieldwork conducted during the course.
Prerequisites: ANTH 591 with C or better or HDFS 538 with C or better or SOC 518 with C or better

PPOL 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Queer Studies (QS)

QS 262. *INTRODUCTION TO QUEER STUDIES. (3 Credits)
Centering itself on activism and scholarship, this course examines homophobia’s and transphobia’s relationship with racism, colonialism, sexism, ableism, classism and other forms of oppression. Introduces key concepts, histories, and political frameworks within Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Queer political movements. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGS 262.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: QS 262H, WGS 262, WGS 262H

QS 262H. *INTRODUCTION TO QUEER STUDIES. (3 Credits)
Centering itself on activism and scholarship, this course examines homophobia’s and transphobia’s relationship with racism, colonialism, sexism, ableism, classism and other forms of oppression. Introduces key concepts, histories, and political frameworks within Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Queer political movements. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGS 262H.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: QS 262, WGS 262, WGS 262H

QS 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (3 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

QS 321. *QUEER POP CULTURE. (3 Credits)
Examines the concept of Queer popular culture through film, music, TV, image, and other mediums. Seeks to disrupt dominant discourses around gender and sexuality by centralizing women of color feminisms and queer of color critiques to analyze popular representations of gender, sexuality, race, class, disability, and other social locations. CROSSLISTED as WGS 321. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst
Equivalent to: WGS 321

QS 361. (RE)FRAMING RACE THROUGH FILM PRODUCTION. (4 Credits)
A critical engagement of ways race and ethnicity are treated in nonfiction short film as students produce their own short film as a means of challenging dominant racial representations and narratives. Requires a basic understanding of ways that notions about race and ethnicity combine with ideologies about gender, sexuality, ability, class, etc. to perpetuate unjust systems and institutions. Prior filmmaking experience is welcome but not required. CROSSLISTED as ES 361, WGS 361, WLC 361.
Equivalent to: ES 361, WGS 361, WLC 361

QS 362. *SERVING LGBTQ+ COMMUNITIES. (3 Credits)
Engages the ethics and responsibilities involved in serving LGBTQ+ communities in fields such as education, health, law, and social services for those entering and/or continuing professions in fields that historically underserve LGBTQ+ people. Topics include LGBTQ+ youth; LGBTQ+ elders; issues affecting LGBTQ+ people across their lifespans; approaches to cultural competency; violence against LGBTQ+ people, forms of oppression including heterosexism, homophobia, and transphobia; and LGBTQ+ community resilience. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGS 362.
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst
Equivalent to: WGS 362

QS 364. *TRANSGENDER POLITICS. (3 Credits)
Addresses transgender politics—including transsexual, genderqueer, and gender non-conforming issues—through feminist and intersectional approaches by analyzing transgender theories, arts, and activism. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGS 364.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: QS 364H, WGS 364, WGS 364H

QS 364H. *TRANSGENDER POLITICS. (3 Credits)
Addresses transgender politics—including transsexual, genderqueer, and gender non-conforming issues—through feminist and intersectional approaches by analyzing transgender theories, arts, and activism. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGS 364H.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: QS 364, WGS 364, WGS 364H

QS 375. *ARTS AND SOCIAL JUSTICE. (4 Credits)
Explores concepts of structural inequality, difference, power, and discrimination through a critical survey of arts activism. Students will think critically about artwork and artists which address a number of social issues in the United States, including race, ethnicity, class, gender, sexuality, immigration, and indigeneity. CROSSLISTED as ES 375, WGS 375.
Equivalent to: ES 375, WGS 375

QS 399. SPECIAL TOPICS IN QUEER STUDIES. (3 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.
QS 409. PRACTICUM: PROJECTS IN QUEER STUDIES. (1-12 Credits)
Capstone projects bring theory into practice through research, design, and implementation of a project that synthesizes and demonstrates learning in the Queer Studies program. This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

QS 431. *QUEER OF COLOR CRITIQUES. (4 Credits)
"Queer of color critiques" refers to political theories and activism that emerge from LGBTQ people of color to examine the intersections between race, sexuality and gender. This course addresses these intersections through theory, history, and activism. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as ES 431 and WGSS 431.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: ES 431, WGSS 431

QS 432. *GENDER, SEXUALITY, AND THE PHOTOGRAPHIC IMAGE. (3 Credits)
A creative and discussion-based course focusing on ways in which photography can and has addressed issues of gender and sexuality. An introduction to key concepts and intersections in Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Queer Studies and photography theory. Students will create written and photographic responses to artworks, texts, personal experience and pop-culture. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: ART 432, WGSS 432

QS 462. *QUEER THEORIES. (4 Credits)
Engages key themes and critical frameworks in queer theories. Topics include histories of sexuality; forms of oppression, including heterosexism, homophobia, and transphobia; resistance to oppression; violence against LGBTQ people; queer activism; diverse experiences of sexuality; and representations in literature, art, and popular media. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGSS 462/WGSS 562.
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity
Equivalent to: WGSS 462

QS 472. *INDIGENOUS TWO-SPIRIT AND QUEER STUDIES. (4 Credits)
"Two-spirit" refers to North American indigenous genders outside of European male/female binaries. Two-spirit communities argue for decolonization as a central political struggle, calling all people to unlearn settler colonial gender/sexuality on Native land. This course addresses indigenous two-spirit/GLBTQ issues through theory, literature, activism, and art. CROSSLISTED as ES 472, WGSS 472 (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Equivalent to: ES 472, WGSS 472
Recommended: QS 262 or ES 242 or WGSS 414

QS 473. TRANSGENDER LIVES. (4 Credits)
With a particular focus on transgender people of color and transnational constructions of gender; this course will engage issues in the lives of Transgender people through autobiography, memoir, biography, poetry, and documentary film. CROSSLISTED as WGSS 473/WGSS 573.
Equivalent to: WGSS 473
Recommended: WGSS/QS 262, WGSS/QS 364

QS 476. *TRANSNATIONAL SEXUALITIES. (4 Credits)
Explores contemporary experiences of sexualities within transnational contexts. Analyzes themes including queer and LGBTQI organizing, same-sex desires, queer transnational immigration and labor flows, sex industries and discourses of trafficking, sex tourism, and reproductive justice, using feminist, queer, and postcolonial theoretical frameworks. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as WGSS 476/WGSS 576.
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Prerequisites: QS 262 with D- or better
Equivalent to: WGSS 476

QS 477. QUEER/TRANS PEOPLE OF COLOR ARTS AND ACTIVISM. (4 Credits)
LGBTQ people of color often engage struggles for social justice through artistic movements. This course will focus on arts by LGBTQ people of color and the way these artistic movements contribute to activism that interrupts interlocking systems of oppression. CROSSLISTED as ES 477/ES 577, WGSS 477/WGSS 577.
Equivalent to: ES 477, WGSS 477
Recommended: QS 262 and QS 462

QS 499. SPECIAL TOPICS IN QUEER STUDIES. (4 Credits)
Topics in gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender, and queer issues and scholarship. May be repeated for credit when topic varies. This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

QS 524. TRANS/GENDER POLITICS. (4 Credits)
Addresses transgender politics—including transsexual, genderqueer, and gender non-conforming issues—through feminist and intersectional approaches by analyzing transgender theories, arts, and activism. CROSSLISTED as WGSS 524.
Equivalent to: WGSS 524

QS 531. QUEER OF COLOR CRITIQUES. (4 Credits)
"Queer of color critiques" refers to political theories and activism that emerge from LGBTQ people of color to examine the intersections between race, sexuality and gender. This course addresses these intersections through theory, history, and activism. CROSSLISTED as ES 531 and WGSS 531.
Equivalent to: ES 531, WGSS 531

QS 532. GENDER, SEXUALITY, AND THE PHOTOGRAPHIC IMAGE. (3 Credits)
A creative and discussion-based course focusing on ways in which photography can and has addressed issues of gender and sexuality. An introduction to key concepts and intersections in Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Queer Studies and photography theory. Students will create written and photographic responses to artworks, texts, personal experience and pop-culture. CROSSLISTED as ART 532, WGSS 532.
Equivalent to: ART 532, WGSS 532

QS 562. QUEER THEORIES. (4 Credits)
Engages key themes and critical frameworks in queer theories. Topics include histories of sexuality; forms of oppression, including heterosexism, homophobia, and transphobia; resistance to oppression; violence against LGBTQ people; queer activism; diverse experiences of sexuality; and representations in literature, art, and popular media. CROSSLISTED as ART 532, WGSS 532.
Equivalent to: ART 532, WGSS 532

QS 566. TOPICS IN JOTERIA STUDIES. (3 Credits)
A space for engaging with arts, activism and scholarship emerging from queer Latin@/Chican@ experiences and consciousness is provided. Offered winter term in odd years. CROSSLISTED as ES 569, SPAN 569, WGSS 569.
Equivalent to: ES 569, SPAN 569, WGSS 569
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

QS 572. INDIGENOUS TWO-SPIRIT AND QUEER STUDIES. (4 Credits)
"Two-spirit" refers to North American indigenous genders outside of European male/female binaries. Two-spirit communities argue for decolonization as a central political struggle, calling all people to unlearn settler colonial gender/sexuality on Native land. This course addresses indigenous two-spirit/GLBTQ issues through theory, literature, activism, and art. CROSSLISTED as ES 572, WGSS 572.
Equivalent to: ES 572, WGSS 572
Recommended: QS 262 or ES 242 or WGSS 414 or WGSS 514
Rangeland Ecology & Management (RNG)

RNG 121. *INTRODUCTION TO WILDLAND ECOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Ecological principles will be applied to understand contemporary issues related to wildlands, specifically the rangeland biomes that comprises over 50% of the Earth’s surface (FAO, SRM, USDA ERS). Topics to be covered fall into the following categories: Fundamentals of Ecology; Animals (wildlife & livestock); Disturbance (e.g., invasive species, fire, mineral extraction, etc.); Ecosystem Goods & Services (e.g., carbon sequestration, watersheds, biodiversity, recreation, etc.). The course will largely focus on U.S. wildlands, however a portion will examine the ecology and issues of international rangelands in Africa, Eurasia, Australia, and South America. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPBS – Core, Pers, Biological Science

RNG 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: RNG 299H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 299H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: RNG 299
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 341. RANGELAND ECOLOGY AND MANAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Nature and management of rangelands. Integrated land use with emphasis on plant-animal-soil interactions.
Equivalent to: RNG 241

RNG 351. RANGE ECOLOGY I-GRASSLANDS. (3 Credits)
Principles and terminology of grassland ecology. Addresses the spatial-temporal dynamics of structure, function, and process in North American grassland ecosystems. Water, nutrient cycles and energy pathways are explored in context of the variable driving forces of climate (drought), herbivory, and fire.
Recommended: (BOT 313 [D-] and RNG 341 [D-])

RNG 352. RANGE ECOLOGY II-SHRUBLANDS. (3 Credits)
Introduces the ecology of shrublands using an autecological approach. Explores the effects of stressors such as temperature, drought, fire, and herbivory on plant morphology, physiology, reproduction, and growth. Covers life histories of common shrubs and descriptions of shrubland communities used to promote understanding of autecological principles.
Recommended: BOT 313 and RNG 341

RNG 353. WILDLAND PLANT IDENTIFICATION. (4 Credits)
Students will learn how to identify approximately 100 plant species found in wildlands of North America and Mexico. Individual plant species ecology, basic plant anatomy and identification characteristics observable only through a microscope or dissecting scope, and how to use a dichotomous key for plant ID will also be covered.
Equivalent to: RNG 253

RNG 355. DESERT WATERSHED MANAGEMENT. (4 Credits)
A systems-based understanding of hydrologic processes in arid and semiarid landscapes. The class is focused on gaining knowledge of multiple ecological and hydrological interactions occurring in dryland watersheds and on discussing practical methodology aimed to enhance site productivity and ecosystem resilience. Emphasis is placed on land use effects on watershed function; monitoring of soil, water, and vegetation variables; and methods of rehabilitation of degraded landscapes. The course has a strong experiential learning component through a series of ‘hands-on’ practicums and a field trip to a semiarid location in eastern Oregon. Lec/lab.

RNG 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
May be repeated for a total of 16 credits. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 403. SENIOR THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 411. ADVANCED PLANT ID. (2 Credits)
Advanced rangeland plant taxonomy.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 421. WILDLAND RESTORATION AND ECOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Emphasis is placed on understanding the ecology of arid and semiarid ecosystems through the study of ecological processes responsible for ecosystem function. Range improvement practices for stabilizing and repairing degraded wildlands by directing autogenic recovery mechanisms are discussed. This involves manipulating plants, soil, animals and microenvironments for improved ecosystem function.
Recommended: Course work in soils and ecology

RNG 441. RANGELAND ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Techniques used to describe vegetation in shrublands, grasslands, and forests. Use of measurements in resource management. Course is field-oriented, emphasizing both theory and practice of wildland inventory methods.
Recommended: ST 351 or ST 351H
RNG 442. RANGELAND-ANIMAL RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
Domestic and wild animal use of rangelands as related to environmental factors, palatability, food habits, nutrition, physiography, and their effects on management of rangeland-animal resources.

RNG 448. LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION ON PASTURE. (4 Credits)
Focusing on grazing management in cultivated pastures in Oregon and other regions with similar agro-ecological conditions. Become familiar with the basic principles of pasture production, grazing management and feed planning and management in large and small ruminant production systems. Provides information on the underlying factors affecting pasture and animal production and product quality in pasture-based production systems. CROSSLISTED AS ANS 448/CROP 448/RNG 448.
Equivalent to: ANS 448, CROP 448

RNG 455. RIPARIAN ECOHYDROLOGY AND MANAGEMENT. (4 Credits)
A systems approach to study ecological and hydrological relationships occurring in riparian ecosystems. The class is focused on gaining knowledge of multiple connections between soil, water, and terrestrial vegetation occurring in riparian systems. Emphasis is placed on land use effects on the riparian ecologic and hydrologic function, methods of rehabilitation, and theories of the proper use of riparian ecosystems under a multiple-use philosophy (i.e., fish, wildlife, livestock, aesthetics, recreation, and silviculture).
Recommended: RNG 355

RNG 457. HABITAT ANALYSIS 1: HABITAT USE AND MOVEMENT. (3 Credits)
Effective habitat management necessitates an understanding of how animals use and move through the landscape, including rangelands. This is an advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate course designed to familiarize students with multiple techniques of assessing the influence of habitat on site selection of terrestrial animals (wild and domestic). However, topics covered in this course are broadly analogous to other ecosystems. Emphasis will be placed on analysis of habitat use (space use) and animal movement from multiple study designs.
Prerequisites: FW 251 with D- or better and RNG 341 [D-] and MTH 241 [D-] or ST 201 [D-] or ST 351 [D-]

RNG 458. HABITAT ANALYSIS 2: ABUNDANCE, OCCUPANCY AND DEMOGRAPHY. (3 Credits)
Habitat influences abundance, occupancy, and demographic rates of wildlife. Wildlife management is often a component of land management and both benefit from land stewards that have an understanding of how habitat characteristics influence the occupancy, abundance, and performance of wildlife within an area. This is an advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate course designed to familiarize students with multiple techniques of assessing the influence of habitat on abundance, occupancy, and demographic rates of terrestrial animals.
Prerequisites: FW 251 with D- or better and RNG 341 [D-] and MTH 241 [D-] and (ST 201 [D-] or ST 351 [D-])

RNG 470. PASTORAL SYSTEMS OF THE WORLD. (4 Credits)
Description and evaluation of ecosystems which support grazing animals and pastoralists. Biology, ecology and management of these landscapes will be explored through climate, soils, and plant communities and human-livestock interactions. The historic role of trade and contemporary challenges to the ecological, social and economic sustainability of pastoral systems will be examined.

RNG 490. RANGELAND MANAGEMENT PLANNING. (4 Credits)
Administration and management of rangelands; planning processes involving goal setting, inventories, personnel management, environment, conflict resolution, and other constraints necessary for decision-making. Use of data collected from field problems to support the execution of class plans. Field trip required. Lec/lab.

RNG 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 503. MASTER’S THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

RNG 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 507. SEMINAR. (1-2 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 521. WILDLAND RESTORATION AND ECOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Emphasis is placed on understanding the ecology of arid and semi-arid ecosystems through the study of ecological processes responsible for ecosystem function. Range improvement practices for stabilizing and repairing degraded wildlands by directing autogenic recovery mechanisms are discussed. This involves manipulating plants, soil, animals and microenvironments for improved ecosystem function.

RNG 541. RANGELAND ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Techniques used to describe vegetation in shrub-lands, grasslands, and forests. Use of measurements in resource management. Course is field-oriented, emphasizing both theory and practice of wildland inventory methods.
Recommended: ST 351

RNG 542. RANGELAND-ANIMAL RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
Domestic and wild animal use of rangelands as related to environmental factors, palatability, food habits, nutrition, physiography, and their effects on management of rangeland-animal resources.
Recommended: RNG 341

RNG 548. LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION ON PASTURE. (4 Credits)
Focusing on grazing management in cultivated pastures in Oregon and other regions with similar agro-ecological conditions. Become familiar with the basic principles of pasture production, grazing management and feed planning and management in large and small ruminant production systems. Provides information on the underlying factors affecting pasture and animal production and product quality in pasture-based production systems. CROSSLISTED AS ANS 548/CROP 548/RNG 548.
Equivalent to: ANS 548, CROP 548

RNG 555. RIPARIAN ECOHYDROLOGY AND MANAGEMENT. (4 Credits)
A systems approach to study ecological and hydrological relationships occurring in riparian ecosystems. The class is focused on gaining knowledge of multiple connections between soil, water, and terrestrial vegetation occurring in riparian systems. Emphasis is placed on land use effects on the riparian ecologic and hydrologic function, methods of rehabilitation, and theories of the proper use of riparian ecosystems under a multiple-use philosophy (i.e., fish, wildlife, livestock, aesthetics, recreation, and silviculture).
Recommended: RNG 355

RNG 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 799. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 899. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 999. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 341. RANGELAND-ANIMAL RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
Domestic and wild animal use of rangelands as related to environmental factors, palatability, food habits, nutrition, physiography, and their effects on management of rangeland-animal resources.

RNG 348. LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION ON PASTURE. (4 Credits)
Focusing on grazing management in cultivated pastures in Oregon and other regions with similar agro-ecological conditions. Become familiar with the basic principles of pasture production, grazing management and feed planning and management in large and small ruminant production systems. Provides information on the underlying factors affecting pasture and animal production and product quality in pasture-based production systems. CROSSLISTED AS ANS 448/CROP 448/RNG 448.
Equivalent to: ANS 448, CROP 448

RNG 355. RIPARIAN ECOHYDROLOGY AND MANAGEMENT. (4 Credits)
A systems approach to study ecological and hydrological relationships occurring in riparian ecosystems. The class is focused on gaining knowledge of multiple connections between soil, water, and terrestrial vegetation occurring in riparian systems. Emphasis is placed on land use effects on the riparian ecologic and hydrologic function, methods of rehabilitation, and theories of the proper use of riparian ecosystems under a multiple-use philosophy (i.e., fish, wildlife, livestock, aesthetics, recreation, and silviculture).
Recommended: RNG 355
RNG 557. HABITAT ANALYSIS 1: HABITAT USE AND MOVEMENT. (3 Credits)
Effective habitat management necessitates an understanding of how animals use and move through the landscape, including rangelands. This is an advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate course designed to familiarize students with multiple techniques of assessing the influence of habitat on site selection of terrestrial animals (wild and domestic). However, topics covered in this course are broadly analogous to other ecosystems. Emphasis will be placed on analysis of habitat use (space use) and animal movement from multiple study designs.
Recommended: ST 511 and ST 512

RNG 558. HABITAT ANALYSIS 2: ABUNDANCE, OCCUPANCY AND DEMOGRAPHY. (3 Credits)
Habitat influences abundance, occupancy, and demographic rates of wildlife. Wildlife management is often a component of land management and both benefit from land stewards that have an understanding of how habitat characteristics influence the occupancy, abundance, and performance of wildlife within an area. This is an advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate course designed to familiarize students with multiple techniques of assessing the influence of habitat on abundance, occupancy, and demographic rates of terrestrial animals.

RNG 577. AGROFORESTRY. (3 Credits)
Theory and worldwide practice of multiple-crop low input sustainable systems involving concurrent production of tree and agricultural products. Biological, economic, social, and political factors that underlie the application of agroforestry technology. CROSSLISTED as FES 477/FES 577, NR 477.
Equivalent to: FES 577, FS 577, NR 577
Recommended: Introductory course in biology.

RNG 590. RANGELAND MANAGEMENT PLANNING. (4 Credits)
Administration and management of rangelands; planning processes involving goal setting, inventories, personnel management, environment, conflict resolution, and other constraints necessary for decision-making. Use of data collected from field problems to support the execution of class plans. Field trip required. Lec/lab.

RNG 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 601. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 603. PH.D. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

RNG 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 607. SEMINAR. (1-2 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 608. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RNG 643. WILDLAND PLANT ECOPHYSIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Emphasizes the physiological ecology of plants living in arid and semiarid ecosystems. Primary class emphasis will include photosynthesis, respiration, water stress and water use efficiency, stable isotopes, root structure and function, nutrient uptake and stress, and defoliation. Offered every other winter, odd years.

RNG 662. RANGELAND ECOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Studies ecological theory and related resource management implications in rangelands and arid wildlands. Topics include the history and development of rangeland ecology, plant demography, invasive species, plant population dynamics, disturbance theory, succession, vegetation classification and range condition assessments. Offered every other winter, even years.
Recommended: Basic ecology course

RNG 670. ECOLOGICAL INVASIVE PLANT MANAGEMENT. (2 Credits)

RNG 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Religious Studies (REL)

REL 160. *QUESTS FOR MEANING: WORLD RELIGIONS. (4 Credits)
A survey and analysis of the search for meaning and life fulfillment represented in major religious traditions of the world, such as Hinduism, Buddhism, Taoism, Zen, Confucianism, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. Lec/rec. (H) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as PHL 160.

REL 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

REL 402. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-12 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

REL 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

REL 407. *SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
(Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

REL 411. GREAT FIGURES IN PHILOSOPHY. (4 Credits)
Study of the works of a major philosopher such as Plato, Aristotle, Descartes, Hume, Kant, or Marx. Each course normally devoted to the work of a single figure. Need not be taken in sequence. Not offered every year. (H) CROSSLISTED as PHL 411/PHL 511.
Attributes: LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: PHL 411
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
Recommended: 6 credits of philosophy and sophomore standing.

REL 415. SELECTED TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

REL 425. *THE HOLOCAUST IN ITS HISTORY. (4 Credits)
An inquiry into the causes, course, and impact of the Holocaust. The general theme of anti-Semitism in European history is explored for background. Topics discussed for comparative purposes include anti-Semitism in American history; other episodes of mass murder in the 20th century. Not offered every year. (H) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as HST 425, HST 525.
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: HST 425, HST 425H, REL 425H

REL 425H. *THE HOLOCAUST IN ITS HISTORY. (4 Credits)
An inquiry into the causes, course, and impact of the Holocaust. The general theme of anti-Semitism in European history is explored for background. Topics discussed for comparative purposes include anti-Semitism in American history; other episodes of mass murder in the 20th century. Not offered every year. Examination of significant philosophical issues or movements and their relationship to theology and religion. CROSSTLISTED as PHL 436/PHL 536.
Equivalent to: PHL 436

REL 443. *WORLD VIEWS AND ENVIRONMENTAL VALUES. (3 Credits)
A comparative study of world-views (secular and religious, Western and Eastern, modern and ancient) and how they affect concepts of nature, environmental values, and selected environmental issues. (NC) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSTLISTED as PHL 443, PHL 543.
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: PHL 443, PHL 443H, REL 443H
Recommended: One introductory-level science course and sophomore standing.

REL 443H. *WORLD VIEWS AND ENVIRONMENTAL VALUES. (3 Credits)
A comparative study of world-views (secular and religious, Western and Eastern, modern and ancient) and how they affect concepts of nature, environmental values, and selected environmental issues. (NC) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSTLISTED as PHL 443H.
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; HNRS – Honors Course Designator; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: PHL 443, PHL 443H, REL 443
Recommended: One introductory-level science course and sophomore standing.

REL 444. *BIOMEDICAL ETHICS. (4 Credits)
Application of ethical principles and decision-making processes to selected problems in medicine, health care, and biotechnology. Special attention given to end-of-life choices, reproductive rights and technologies, organ transplantation, research ethics, genetic engineering, and allocating scarce resources. An interdisciplinary focus that draws on social, legal, economic, and scientific issues in ethical decisions in medicine. (H) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSTLISTED as PHL 444/PHL 544.
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: PHL 444, PHL 444H, REL 444H

REL 444H. *BIOMEDICAL ETHICS. (4 Credits)
Application of ethical principles and decision-making processes to selected problems in medicine, health care, and biotechnology. Special attention given to end-of-life choices, reproductive rights and technologies, organ transplantation, research ethics, genetic engineering, and allocating scarce resources. An interdisciplinary focus that draws on social, legal, economic, and scientific issues in ethical decisions in medicine. (H) (Bacc Core Course)

REL 448. NATIVE AMERICAN PHILOSOPHIES. (4 Credits)
Native American perspectives on ways of knowing, sources of meaning and ethics, the nature of reality, self, community, and cosmos. Includes lectures, scholarship, story-telling, poetry, theater, and music as forums for this exploration. Introduces ideas of leading Native American thinkers about the human relation to the natural world, sources of strength and wisdom, the nature of time and place and spirit, right ways of acting in communities, both civic and biotic, and the place of beauty in a well-lived life. (NC) CROSSTLISTED as ES 448/ES 548, PHL 448/PHL 548.
Attributes: LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: ES 448, PHL 448

REL 455. DEATH AND DYING. (3 Credits)
A multidisciplinary study of cultural, philosophical, and religious perspectives on death, dying, and grieving. Not offered every year.
CROSSTLISTED as PHL 455, PHL 555.
Equivalent to: PHL 455
Recommended: 6 credits of philosophy or sophomore standing.

REL 461. ART AND MORALITY. (4 Credits)
The arts in context of their connections to, and conflicts with, varied conceptions of the common good. Topics include free expression and community standards, museums and obligations toward cultural treasures, art in public places, public funding of art, the politics of taste. CROSSTLISTED as PHL 461/PHL 561.
Equivalent to: PHL 461

REL 466. RELIGION AND U.S. FOREIGN RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
An examination of the intersection of religion and U.S. foreign relations from the late nineteenth century to the present. Surveys major events in U.S. diplomacy, including war and peace and explores the role of religion and religious ideas in shaping national identity, core values, and civil religion. CROSSTLISTED as HST 466/HST 566.
Equivalent to: HST 466
Recommended: HST 202 and HST 203 or upper-division standing.
REL 470. RELIGION IN THE AMERICAN WEST. (4 Credits)
The history of religion in the American West. Examines four themes in the religious history of the American West: locations (the designation of particular places as special), migrations (movement in and out of the region), adaptations (changes over time, in response to changing conditions), and discrimination (recognition of difference, as well as prejudicial treatment based on difference). Engages with various primary and secondary sources, including texts, films, and photographs. CROSSLISTED as HST 470.

REL 484. RELIGION AND LAW. (4 Credits)
Investigates the relationship between religion and law in Jewish, Christian, and Muslim society, as well as modern western “secular” society, considering the question from a theoretical, historical, and contemporary case-study perspective. We will look at the religious origins of legal systems, the ways in which members of religious communities engage with their own and others’ laws, and the ways in which modern societies have used law to separate “religion” from the state. CROSSLISTED as HST 484.
Equivalent to: HST 484

REL 485. *POLITICS AND RELIGION IN THE MODERN MIDDLE EAST. (4 Credits)
The role of religious and secular ideologies in the politics of the 20th century Middle East. Topics include the impact of liberal and nationalist thought, the Iranian revolution, radical Islamist movements, and Zionism. (H) (NC) (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as HST 485/HST 585.
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: HST 485

REL 511. GREAT FIGURES IN PHILOSOPHY. (4 Credits)
Study of the works of a major philosopher such as Plato, Aristotle, Descartes, Hume, Kant, or Marx. Each course normally devoted to the work of a single figure. Need not be taken in sequence. Not offered every year. CROSSLISTED as PHL 411/PHL 511.
Equivalent to: PHL 511
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
Recommended: 6 credits of philosophy

REL 525. THE HOLOCAUST IN ITS HISTORY. (4 Credits)
An inquiry into the causes, course, and impact of the Holocaust. The general theme of anti-Semitism in European history is explored for background. Topics discussed for comparative purposes include anti-Semitism in American history; other episodes of mass murder in the 20th century. Not offered every year. CROSSLISTED as HST 425, HST 525.
Equivalent to: HST 525

REL 530. HISTORY OF BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY. (4 Credits)
Examination of the major philosophical schools, texts, and thinkers in Buddhist history, emphasizing its Indian origins, but looking beyond to the various Buddhist traditions throughout Asia. CROSSLISTED as PHL 430/PHL 530.
Equivalent to: PHL 530

REL 531. BUDDHISM, NON-VIOLENCE, AND SOCIAL JUSTICE. (4 Credits)
Investigates the philosophical grounding of Buddhist ideas about non-violence, justice and social responsibility. Looks at broad-based Buddhist social activism movements and leaders; their methods of training, issues and types of actions taken by “Socially Engaged Buddhists” living Buddhist traditions. CROSSLISTED as PHL 531.
Equivalent to: PHL 531

REL 532. YOGA AND TANTRIC TRADITIONS. (4 Credits)
An examination of the theory and practice of yoga and tantra in the traditions of Hinduism, Buddhism, and Jainism, and in their contemporary popular manifestations. Emphasis on the representation of yoga and tantra in Indian literature and history, including contemplative practices, bodily disciplines, and ritual. CROSSLISTED as PHL 432/PHL 532.
Equivalent to: PHL 532

REL 533. THEORY AND PRACTICE OF MODERN YOGA. (4 Credits)
An examination of the phenomenon of modern yoga in theory and in practice. Emphasis on the roots of contemporary forms of yoga in the intersection between traditional Hindu and Buddhist formulations of yoga. Indian wrestling and martial arts, European gymnastics, and cosmopolitan conceptions of “bodily culture” of both European and Indian origins. CROSSLISTED as PHL 433, PHL 533.
Equivalent to: PHL 533

REL 534. SPIRITUALITY AND ECOLOGY: GREEN YOGA. (4 Credits)
An exploration of the relationship between spirituality and ecological engagement in traditional contexts and in contemporary spirituality, with a global focus on contemplative practices rooted in Indian tradition, such as yoga. CROSSLISTED as PHL 434, PHL 534.
Equivalent to: PHL 534

REL 536. PHILOSOPHY AND RELIGION. (3 Credits)
Examination of significant philosophical issues or movements and their relationship to theology and religion. CROSSLISTED as PHL 436/PHL 536.
Equivalent to: PHL 536
Recommended: 6 credits of philosophy

REL 543. WORLD VIEWS AND ENVIRONMENTAL VALUES. (3 Credits)
A comparative study of world-views (secular and religious, Western and Eastern, modern and ancient) and how they affect concepts of nature, environmental values, and selected environmental issues. CROSSLISTED as PHL 443, PHL 543.
Equivalent to: PHL 543
Recommended: One introductory-level science course

REL 544. BIOMEDICAL ETHICS. (4 Credits)
Application of ethical principles and decision-making processes to selected problems in medicine, health care, and biotechnology. Special attention given to end-of-life choices, reproductive rights and technologies, organ transplantation, research ethics, genetic engineering, and allocating scarce resources. An interdisciplinary focus that draws on social, legal, economic, and scientific issues in ethical decisions in medicine. CROSSLISTED as PHL 444/PHL 544.
Equivalent to: PHL 544

REL 548. NATIVE AMERICAN PHILOSOPHIES. (4 Credits)
Native American perspectives on ways of knowing, sources of meaning and ethics, the nature of reality, self, community, and cosmos. Includes lectures, scholarship, story-telling, poetry, theater, and music as forums for this exploration. Introduces ideas of leading Native American thinkers about the human relation to the natural world, sources of strength and wisdom, the nature of time and place and spirit, right ways of acting in communities, both civic and biotic, and the place of beauty in a well-lived life. CROSSLISTED as ES 448/ES 584, PHL 448/PHL 548.
Equivalent to: ES 548, PHL 548

REL 555. DEATH AND DYING. (3 Credits)
A multidisciplinary study of cultural, philosophical, and religious perspectives on death, dying, and grieving. Not offered every year. CROSSLISTED as PHL 455, PHL 555.
Equivalent to: PHL 555
Recommended: 6 credits of philosophy
REL 561. ART AND MORALITY. (4 Credits)
The arts in context of their connections to, and conflicts with, varied conceptions of the common good. Topics include free expression and community standards, museums and obligations toward cultural treasures, art in public places, public funding of art, the politics of taste. CROSSLISTED as PHL 461/PHL 561.
Equivalent to: PHL 561

REL 566. RELIGION AND U.S. FOREIGN RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
An examination of the intersection of religion and U.S. foreign relations from the late nineteenth century to the present. Surveys major events in U.S. diplomacy, including war and peace and explores the role of religion and religious ideas in shaping national identity, core values, and civil religion. CROSSLISTED as HST 466/HST 566.
Equivalent to: HST 566
Recommended: HST 202 and HST 203

REL 570. RELIGION IN THE AMERICAN WEST. (4 Credits)
The history of religion in the American West. Examines four themes in the religious history of the American West: locations (the designation of particular places as special), migrations (movement in and out of the region), adaptations (changes over time, in response to changing conditions), and discrimination (recognition of difference, as well as prejudicial treatment based on difference). Engages with various primary and secondary sources, including texts, films, and photographs. CROSSLISTED as HST 570.

REL 584. RELIGION AND LAW. (4 Credits)
Investigates the relationship between religion and law in Jewish, Christian, and Muslim society, as well as modern western “secular” society, considering the question from a theoretical, historical, and contemporary case-study perspective. We will look at the religious origins of legal systems, the ways in which members of religious communities engaged with their own and others’ laws, and the ways in which modern societies have used law to separate “religion” from the state. CROSSLISTED as HST 485/HST 584.
Equivalent to: HST 584

REL 585. POLITICS AND RELIGION IN THE MODERN MIDDLE EAST. (4 Credits)
The role of religious and secular ideologies in the politics of the 20th century Middle East. Topics include the impact of liberal and nationalist thought, the Iranian revolution, radical Islamist movements, and Zionism. CROSSLISTED as HST 485/HST 585.
Equivalent to: HST 585

Robotics (ROB)

ROB 421. APPLIED ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
Multidisciplinary teams of students design, build, and demonstrate a robotic system, including all sensing, computation, and actuation. The specific task, such as checkers-playing robots, changes each year, and is designed to be challenging for ambitious students. Robots will compete in a friendly competition at the end of the term. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ME 430 with C or better
Equivalent to: ENGR 421

ROB 456. INTELLIGENT ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
Foundations of probabilistic reasoning for robotics. Topics include state estimation, robot motion, perception, localization and decision making under uncertainty.
Prerequisites: ST 314 with C or better
Equivalent to: ME 456
Recommended: CS 331, CS 361, ECE 353, or other programming experience

ROB 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

ROB 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

ROB 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ROB 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ROB 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ROB 514. INTRODUCTION TO ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
A broad introduction to the field of robotics, and to the graduate Robotics program. The goal of the class is to take students with different backgrounds (mechanical engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, physics, etc.) and give them a common base in the fundamentals of robotics. A secondary goal is to introduce students to the Robotics program, and to give them some of the skills that will make them successful, both in the program and as a professional roboticist.

ROB 521. RESEARCH ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
Multidisciplinary teams of students will use the backdrop of a robotics competition to generate a research question, then design, build, and demonstrate a robotic system that is used to answer this research question. An example may be a Jenga-playing robot, where students try a new computer vision algorithm, or test a theory on force control. This directly parallels graduate research in robotics, where systems-building is necessary, and toy problems can illustrate research results, but the important focus is a core research question. The specific competition task changes each year, and robots will compete at the end of the term. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: ENGR 521

ROB 534. SEQUENTIAL DECISION MAKING IN ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
Examines sequential decision making in robotics with a focus on motion planning and related optimization problems applied to fielded systems in marine, aerial, and ground domains. Discussions regarding both fundamental background material as well as cutting edge research in the following areas: discrete planning, sampling-based planning, planning under uncertainty, multi-robot systems, optimization, and performance guarantees.

ROB 537. LEARNING-BASED CONTROL. (4 Credits)
Provides an introduction to learning systems and their application to the control of nonlinear systems. Covered topics include neural networks, reinforcement learning, and evolutionary algorithms. Includes project component in which students write a technical paper and give a conference style presentation based on their project.
Equivalent to: ME 537
The field of human-robot interaction brings together research and application of methodology from robotics, human factors, human-computer interaction, interaction design, cognitive psychology, education and other fields to enable robots to have more natural and more rewarding interactions with humans throughout their spheres of functioning.

ROB 568. SOCIAL ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
In-depth exploration of the leading research, design principles, and challenges in Human-Robot Interaction (HRI), with an emphasis on socially interactive robots. Topics include social embodiment, multi-modal communication, human-robot teamwork, social learning, aspects of social psychology and cognition, as well as applications and evaluation with human subjects. Requires participation, lightning talks, student-led lectures, written critiques of class readings, and a group project involving a hypothetical social robotics project.

 Equivalent to: ME 538

ROB 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 32 credits.

ROB 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

ROB 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

ROB 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Rural Studies (RS)

RS 421. ECONOMICS OF RURAL POVERTY AND THE U.S. SOCIAL SAFETY NET. (4 Credits)
Examines the geography of poverty in the United States and the "social safety net" that the U.S. has constructed to reduce poverty and its negative effects. Understand the geographical consequences of federal policies and the challenges of providing social safety net programs in rural areas. CROSSTLISTED as AEC 421.

Equivalent to: AEC 421, AREC 421

RS 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-5 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

RS 502. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-6 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

RS 512. INTRODUCTION TO RURAL STUDIES. (2 Credits)
Introduces students to the emerging theoretical perspectives, methodologies, and critical themes that define rural studies in the U.S. and elsewhere. It draws primarily from the disciplines of sociology, economics, anthropology, human development and geography, examining how each discipline understands and analyzes rural households and communities.

RS 513. CONTEMPORARY RURAL ISSUES. (2 Credits)
The focus will be on issues confronting rural Oregon. The class will also explore broader U.S. and international rural issues and examine commonalities and differences across cultures and development contexts. Weekly lecturers are drawn from the OSU community and beyond, including public policy makers, rural stakeholders, and nonprofit organizations.

RS 521. ECONOMICS OF RURAL POVERTY AND THE U.S. SOCIAL SAFETY NET. (4 Credits)
Examines the geography of poverty in the United States and the "social safety net" that the U.S. has constructed to reduce poverty and its negative effects. Understand the geographical consequences of federal policies and the challenges of providing social safety net programs in rural areas. CROSSTLISTED as AEC 521.

Equivalent to: AEC 521, AREC 521

RS 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-5 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

Recommended:

ROB 541. GEOMETRIC MECHANICS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to geometric methods in the analysis of dynamic systems. Using the kinematics of simple robotic systems as a motivating example, we explore topics such as manifolds and Lie groups, representations of velocity, holonomic and nonholonomic constraints, constraint curvature and response to cyclic inputs, distance metrics.

Recommended: Prior exposure to linear algebra and differential equations

ROB 542. ACTUATOR DYNAMICS. (4 Credits)
Focuses on how inertia, spring compliance, and other passive dynamics affect highly dynamic, software-controlled systems. Examples include robotic manipulation tasks, robot-human interaction, CNC machines, or legged locomotion. Lec/lab.

Recommended: Prior courses on dynamics and control such as ME 531, ME 533, ME 535

ROB 545. ROBOTIC MANIPULATION. (4 Credits)
Introduction to the mechanical processes governing manipulation with a focus on the kinematics, statics, and dynamics of interacting rigid bodies. Topics include numerical inverse kinematics, dynamics of open chains, and interaction control. Some manipulation problems considered include grasping, picking and placing, and assembly.

ROB 562. HUMAN CONTROL SYSTEMS. (4 Credits)
Covers mechanisms of human motor systems and control of the neuromusculoskeletal anatomy followed by functional analysis of these system components. Then all the components are integrated to study feedback control dynamics. Covers classic to modern theories of motor control, adaptation, cognitive involvement, and rehabilitation techniques.

Equivalent to: ME 539

Recommended: Basic feedback control systems, linear algebra, differential equations

ROB 564. SOFT ROBOTICS. (4 Credits)
Soft robotics researchers propose building intelligent machines purely out of stretchable compressible soft materials. The course is centered on term-long projects that will result in real soft robots with the goal of presenting to the international community. The topics covered include rapid digital manufacturing, soft actuators, soft sensors, soft logic, soft energy, applications of soft robotics, and modeling soft mechanics.

ROB 567. HUMAN ROBOT INTERACTION. (4 Credits)
The field of human-robot interaction brings together research and application of methodology from robotics, human factors, human-computer interaction, interaction design, cognitive psychology, education and other fields to enable robots to have more natural and more rewarding interactions with humans throughout their spheres of functioning.

Recommended: Background in one of human factors, usability/hci, programming experience, design

Russian (RUS)

RUS 111. FIRST-YEAR RUSSIAN. (4 Credits)
Principles of pronunciation, intonation, grammar, reading, writing, listening, comprehension and conversation. Designed for students with no prior training in Russian. Native and/or bilingual speakers of Russian will not receive credit for RUS 111, RUS 112, RUS 113.

RUS 112. FIRST-YEAR RUSSIAN. (4 Credits)
Principles of pronunciation, intonation, grammar, reading, writing, listening, comprehension and conversation. Designed for students with no prior training in Russian. Native and/or bilingual speakers of Russian will not receive credit for RUS 111, RUS 112, RUS 113.

Prerequisites: RUS 111 with D- or better

RUS 113. FIRST-YEAR RUSSIAN. (4 Credits)
Principles of pronunciation, intonation, grammar, reading, writing, listening, comprehension and conversation. Designed for students with no prior training in Russian. Native and/or bilingual speakers of Russian will not receive credit for RUS 111, RUS 112, RUS 113.

Prerequisites: RUS 112 with D- or better

RUS 199. SPECIAL STUDIES. (1-16 Credits)
May be repeated for credit when topic varies. Not offered every year. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RUS 299. SPECIAL STUDIES. (1-16 Credits)
May be repeated for credit when topic varies. Not offered every year. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RUS 329. SPECIAL TOPICS IN LANGUAGE, CULTURE, AND/OR LITERATURE. (1-16 Credits)
May be repeated for credit when topic varies. Not offered every year. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RUS 402. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

RUS 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Science & Mathematics Educ (SED)

SED 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 407. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 409. FIELD PRACTICUM: SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS. (3 Credits)
Placement in middle or high school (grades 7-12) to assist in developing competencies with adolescents in science/mathematics classes. This course is repeatable for 18 credits.

SED 412. TECHNOLOGY FOUNDATIONS FOR TEACHING MATH AND SCIENCE. (3 Credits)
Integration of instructional technologies with other strategies to teach math and science in elementary, middle, and secondary schools in the 21st century.

Equivalent to: SED 412H

SED 413. INQUIRY IN SCIENCE AND SCIENCE EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of inquiry and the nature of inquiry in science as it relates to science education. Students will examine issues relating to integrating scientific understandings and practice into K-12 instruction.

SED 414. INQUIRY IN MATHEMATICS AND MATHEMATICS EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of mathematics as it relates to mathematics education. Students will examine issues related to integrating mathematical understanding, mathematics standards/curricula, and mathematics-specific strategies in K-12 instruction. Lec/lab.

SED 416. INQUIRY IN SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of inquiry and the nature of inquiry in mathematics and science as it relates to education. Students will examine issues relating to integrating mathematical and scientific understandings and practices into K-12 education.

SED 419. TEACHING MATHEMATICAL MODELING IN STEM. (3 Credits)
Provides students an overview of the content requirements in the Common Core Standards for Mathematics and the teaching practices that are central to those standards with a focus on the role of mathematical modeling. Students experience content lessons and lessons focused on supporting students in developing understanding of that content.

Recommended: Background in an educational setting or as a pre-service teacher at any level, a K-12 teacher or free-choice learning educator

SED 431. OVERVIEW OF FREE-CHOICE LEARNING. (3 Credits)
Examines learning that occurs when people believe they have choices over what and how they learn, how much time they spend learning, and what their sources of information are. Covers current research on learning in museums, aquariums, zoos, botanical gardens, science centers, after-school programs, media and apprenticeships.

SED 435. COMMUNICATING OCEAN SCIENCES TO INFORMAL AUDIENCES. (3 Credits)
For students interested in improving their ability to communicate their scientific knowledge by helping general public and student audiences learn about ocean sciences in a wide variety of learning settings. Combines instruction in inquiry-based teaching methods and learning theory with work in student’s local informal learning settings like museums, zoos, aquariums and libraries.

SED 459. SCIENCE AND THE NATURE OF INQUIRY. (3 Credits)
Focuses on inquiry approaches to the teaching and learning of science. Development of teaching strategies including materials and resources for teaching science using an inquiry approach as well as more teacher-directed approaches.

SED 473. SCIENCE PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12 science instruction: learning theory, nature of science, technology integration, and reform recommendations. Lec/lab/rec.
SED 474. MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12 mathematics instruction: learning theory, nature of mathematics, technology integration, and reform recommendations.
Recommended: Investigation of mathematics as it relates to mathematics education and SED 414

SED 476. MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY II. (4 Credits)
Development of additional pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12; stress on dominant themes of the school mathematics curriculum including problem solving, reasoning, communication, and connections as well as the integration of technology into the mathematics classroom.
Prerequisites: SED 474 with D- or better

SED 477. SCIENCE PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY II. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12; science instruction; learning theory, nature of science, technology integration, and reform recommendations.
Prerequisites: SED 473 with C or better

SED 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (3 Credits)
PREREQ: Provisional acceptance to Education Double Degree program. This course is repeatable for 18 credits.

SED 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

SED 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 508. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 509. PRACTICUM. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 510. PROFESSIONAL INTERNSHIP: SCIENCE OR MATHEMATICS EDUCATION. (1-16 Credits)
Supervised teaching experience at the elementary, middle or high school level; students experience general classroom and professional responsibilities common to the regular science or mathematics teacher. This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 511. ANALYSIS OF CLASSROOMS I. (3 Credits)
Observation and analysis of the complex science/ mathematics classroom (grades 3-12) and school culture and their impact on student learning.

SED 512. TECHNOLOGY FOUNDATIONS FOR TEACHING MATH AND SCIENCE. (3 Credits)
Integration of instructional technologies with other strategies to teach math and science in elementary, middle, and secondary schools in the 21st century.

SED 513. INQUIRY IN SCIENCE AND SCIENCE EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of inquiry and the nature of inquiry in science as it relates to science education. Students will examine issues relating to integrating scientific understandings and practice into K-12 instruction.

SED 514. INQUIRY IN MATHEMATICS AND MATHEMATICS EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of mathematics as it relates to mathematics education. Students will examine issues related to integrating mathematical understanding, mathematics standards/curricula, and mathematics-specific strategies in K-12 instruction. Lec/lab.

SED 516. INQUIRY IN SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Investigation of inquiry and the nature of inquiry in mathematics and science as it relates to education. Students will examine issues relating to integrating mathematical and scientific understandings and practices into K-12 education.

SED 519. TEACHING MATHEMATICAL MODELING IN STEM. (3 Credits)
Provides students an overview of the content requirements in the Common Core Standards for Mathematics and the teaching practices that are central to those standards with a focus on the role of mathematical modeling. Students experience content lessons and lessons focused on supporting students in developing understanding of that content.
Recommended: Background in an educational setting or as a pre-service teacher at any level, a K-12 teacher or free-choice learning educator

SED 520. TECHNOLOGY FOR MATH AND SCIENCE EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Explore current and emerging technologies applied to math and science learning that promote critical thinking, communication, collaboration, and creativity. Gain technology skills and resources that can be transferred to formal and informal learning environments.
Recommended: Basic computer literacy.

SED 531. OVERVIEW OF FREE-CHOICE LEARNING. (3 Credits)
Examines learning that occurs when people believe they have choices over what and how they learn, how much time they spend learning, and what their sources of information are. Covers current research on learning in museums, aquariums, zoos, botanical gardens, science centers, after-school programs, media and apprenticeships.

SED 535. COMMUNICATING OCEAN SCIENCES TO INFORMAL AUDIENCES. (3 Credits)
For students interested in improving their ability to communicate their scientific knowledge by helping general public and student audiences learn about ocean sciences in a wide variety of learning settings. Combines instruction in inquiry-based teaching methods and learning theory with work in student’s local informal learning settings like museums, zoos, aquariums and libraries.

SED 541. WEATHER CONCEPTS FOR SCIENCE AND MATH TEACHING. (3 Credits)
Science content and pedagogy in learning and teaching basic weather concepts.
Recommended: Background in an educational setting or as a K-12 teacher or free-choice learning educator

SED 550. HIGH QUALITY SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS INSTRUCTION. (3 Credits)
Explores high quality science and mathematics instruction to prepare professional teachers in science and mathematics. Develops skills in high-leverage instructional practices and reviews research literature that supports these practices. Investigates social justice issues related to systems of schooling in the United States.
SED 552. MATHEMATICS METHODS: PRACTICUM I. (3 Credits)
Theoretical background, practical knowledge, and skills for teaching in mathematics classrooms (grades 3-12). Instructional methods/ modes, classroom management, contemporary curriculum goals and instructional planning.

SED 553. SCIENCE METHODS/PRACTICUM I. (3 Credits)
Theoretical background, practical knowledge, and skills for teaching in science classrooms (grades 3-12). Instructional methods/modes, classroom management, contemporary curriculum goals and instructional planning.

SED 554. ENGINEERING AND SCIENCE IN THE LIVES OF STUDENTS. (3 Credits)
Explore the use of construction engineering as a vehicle to make science and math more relevant and useful for the everyday life of students. Recommended: Background in an educational setting or as a K-12 teacher or free-choice learning educator (eg. museum, science camp)

SED 556. FOSTERING REFLECTIVE DISCOURSE IN SCIENCE AND MATH CONTEXTS. (3 Credits)
Examines ways of speaking that foster learning in science and mathematics contexts such as K-12 classrooms and free-choice learning settings (i.e., museums, zoos, science camps, etc.). Assignments assume the participant is a K-12 teacher or free-choice learning educator enrolled in a graduate licensure program or has access to an educational setting.

SED 573. SCIENCE PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12 science instruction: learning theory, nature of science, technology integration, and reform recommendations. Lec/lab/rec.

SED 574. MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12 mathematics instruction: learning theory, nature of mathematics, technology integration, and reform recommendations. Recommended: Investigation of mathematics as it relates to mathematics education and SED 414

SED 576. MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY II. (4 Credits)
Development of additional pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12; stress on dominant themes of the school mathematics curriculum including problem solving, reasoning, communication, and connections as well as the integration of technology into the mathematics classroom. Prerequisites: SED 574 with C or better

SED 577. SCIENCE PEDAGOGY AND TECHNOLOGY II. (4 Credits)
Development of pedagogical content knowledge in grades 6-12; science instruction; learning theory, nature of science, technology integration, and reform recommendations. Prerequisites: SED 573 with C or better

SED 580. RESEARCH AND EVALUATION. (3 Credits)
Analysis of qualitative and quantitative empirical research in science education, mathematics education and education in general. Development of data collection instruments for use by researchers and teachers of science education, mathematics education and education in general, including portfolio and other forms of alternative assessment.

SED 581. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND PRACTICUM IN MATHEMATICS. (3 Credits)
Developing and implementing a program for continuing learning and evaluation in mathematics education.

SED 582. PERSONAL DIMENSIONS OF FREE-CHOICE LEARNING. (3 Credits)
Investigates the fundamental roles that identity, motivation, interest, prior knowledge and experience, and choice and control play in supporting learning and how learning leaders can build on these dimensions of learning in order to successfully engage lifelong learners.

SED 583. SOCIO-CULTURAL DIMENSIONS OF FREE-CHOICE LEARNING. (3 Credits)
Investigates connections between theories of free-choice learning and the fundamental concepts of sociology, social psychology and anthropology, social stratification, social structure and interaction, social institutions, and cultural background. Real world examples will be included to support learning leaders' efforts to facilitate the socio-cultural dimensions of lifelong science and mathematics learning.

SED 584. PHYSICAL DIMENSIONS OF FREE-CHOICE LEARNING. (3 Credits)
Learning is influenced by the interaction of variables within three contexts—personal, socio-cultural and physical. This course focuses on how macro-scale environmental factors (e.g. space, crowding, novelty) and micro-scale environmental factors (e.g. design elements, real objects, different media) support free-choice learning.

SED 592. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND PRACTICUM IN SCIENCE. (3 Credits)
Developing and implementing a program for continuing learning and evaluation in science education.

SED 594. ADVANCED INSTRUCTIONAL STRATEGIES IN SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS. (3 Credits)
Explore instructional strategies and skills for K-12 science and math teachers to support student learning rigorous content.

SED 595. ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION. (3 Credits)
Examines education assessment focusing on formative assessment in multiple contexts across learning environments.

SED 597. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Development of strategies and skills for developing, implementing and evaluating a program of professional development for mathematics or science educators considering various choices of program settings.

SED 598. MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE CURRICULUM. (3 Credits)
Current trends, history of these trends, and rationale for mathematics and science curriculum reform across learning environments.

SED 599. TOPICS IN SCIENCE EDUCATION. (3 Credits)
Current issues, trends, and topics in science education. May be repeated for credit with different topics.

SED 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 603. DISSERTATION. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

SED 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 608. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
SED 611. SURVEY OF RESEARCH ON TEACHING. (3 Credits)
Critical analysis of perspectives of research in science/math education with a focus on teaching as the unit of analysis.
Prerequisites: SED 580 with C or better

SED 612. QUANTITATIVE RESEARCH DESIGN AND CRITICAL ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
A study of quantitative research designs and analytical procedures with specific applications in science or mathematics education.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 613. LEARNING THEORY. (3 Credits)
Provides a critical overview and analysis of current theories of learning and development, beginning with a discussion about what learning is, how it has been viewed and studied over time, and how seminal theories inform an understanding of lifelong learning and its facilitation.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 615. PRACTICUM IN MATHEMATICS/SCIENCE IN COLLEGE TEACHING. (3 Credits)
Supervised field practicum in college mathematics/science teaching. This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

SED 621. SURVEY OF RESEARCH ON LEARN. (3 Credits)
Critical analysis of perspectives on student thinking and learning in science/math education.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 622. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH TECHNIQUES. (3 Credits)
A study of qualitative research designs and analytical procedures with specific applications in science and mathematics education.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 623. CURRICULUM THEORY. (3 Credits)
Establishes theoretical grounding of curriculum. Includes theoretical background, practical knowledge, and skills related to science and mathematics curriculum, including the history, curriculum theory and practice.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 625. CRITICAL PEDAGOGY. (3 Credits)
Builds a foundation in critical pedagogy theory and practice. Includes reading of classic and contemporary literature by recognized thinkers in the fields of critical pedagogical studies, requiring careful evaluation of empirical research and synthesis to develop a coherent point of view. Develops methodologies for analyzing data using critical pedagogical theories and intersectional perspectives.
Prerequisites: SED 580 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

SED 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SED 808. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

Social Science (SSCI)

SSCI 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

SSCI 211. CAREER DEVELOPMENT IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. (1 Credit)
An introduction to career options available to students pursuing a social science degree. Students will explore career options and engage in exercises to help them reflect on their own interests, career goals, and aspirations. Hybrid class.

SSCI 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

SSCI 301. *QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS FOR THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. (4 Credits)
Introduces a variety of qualitative research methods including ethnography, interviewing, recording oral histories, and conducting focus groups. Students will develop their own research questions, collect data to answer that research question, code and analyze data, and write and disseminate results. The course will culminate in a final paper and in-class presentation of original research results. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Recommended: 6 credits of upper-division courses in the social sciences, including sociology, political science, anthropology, or communication

SSCI 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 401. RESEARCH. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 402. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 403. THESIS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 406. PROJECTS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 407. SEMINAR. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 408. WORKSHOP. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SSCI 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-4 Credits)
An assignment in a private or public business or agency. The student observes or works in one or more departments of the enterprise, perhaps in one area of interest or specialization (e.g., community development, community dialogue, environmental leadership). Work is supervised by the agency staff, supervising school faculty member(s) provide academic evaluation. 12 credits maximum.
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

SSCI 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Sociology (SOC)

SOC 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 204. *INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Development and application of sociological concepts and perspectives concerning human groups; includes attention to socialization, culture, organization, stratification, and societies. Consideration of fundamental concepts and research methodology. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
Equivalent to: SOC 204H

SOC 205. *INSTITUTIONS AND SOCIAL CHANGE. (3 Credits)
Sociological study of the dynamic organizational nature of society through analysis of social change and major social institutions such as family, education, religion, the economy, and political systems. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core
SOC 206. *SOCIAL PROBLEMS AND ISSUES. (3 Credits)
Examination of social problems with particular focus upon U.S. society. Sociological perspectives on definition, description, and analysis of contemporary and recurrent problems in industrialized societies. Investigation of causes and consequences of social problems considered in societal context. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination; LACS – Liberal Arts Social Core

SOC 241. INTRODUCTION TO CRIME AND JUSTICE. (3 Credits)
Provides a sociological understanding of criminal justice system institutions and processes. Emphasis is placed on understanding the criminal law; police and policing; courts and the prosecution process; and prisons, jails and corrections.

SOC 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: SOC 299H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 312. *SOCIOLOGY OF THE FAMILY. (4 Credits)
Survey of the family as a social institution. Addresses historical and cultural perspectives with emphasis on family diversity, variations in family form and life style, interdependence between family and other institutions, analysis of major family issues, forces for change in the family. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better or SOC 205 with D- or better or SOC 206 with D- or better
Equivalent to: SOC 312H

SOC 312H. *SOCIOLOGY OF THE FAMILY. (4 Credits)
Survey of the family as a social institution. Addresses historical and cultural perspectives with emphasis on family diversity, variations in family form and life style, interdependence between family and other institutions, analysis of major family issues, forces for change in the family. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better
Equivalent to: SOC 312

SOC 313. SOCIOLoGY OF INTIMATE RELATIONSHIPS. (4 Credits)
Examines the microsociological dynamics of intimate relationships. Perceptions and expectations of intimate relationships are explored. Specific attention will be given to issues, processes, and factors that are involved in the construction and management of intimate relationships in contemporary society.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 315. *METHODS I: RESEARCH DESIGN. (4 Credits)
First in a two-course sequence required of all sociology majors. Students learn to formulate researchable questions, devise measures, select data collection techniques, and examine ethical and practical dilemmas in constructing sociological research. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better
Equivalent to: SOC 415

SOC 316. METHODS II: QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Second in a two-course sequence required of all sociology majors. The primary objective is to provide students with the statistical skills necessary to analyze sociological data. Covers the construction and interpretation of contingency tables, basic ideas of probability and statistical inference, and an introduction to correlation and regression.
Prerequisites: (SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better) and SOC 315 [C-]
Equivalent to: SOC 416

SOC 340. DEVIANT BEHAVIOR AND SOCIAL CONTROL. (4 Credits)
Current perspectives, research and theories of deviant behavior. Review and analysis of various approaches and programs designed to prevent and deal with deviant behavior.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 345. *CRIMES AND VIOLENCE IN INTIMATE RELATIONSHIPS. (4 Credits)
Analyzes the historical, social, political, legal, cultural, and psychological aspects of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. Addresses definitions of the problem, demographics, survivors, perpetrators, witnesses, bystanders, strategies and tactics of abusers and survivors, along with strategies for prevention, intervention, treatment, and social change. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination

SOC 350. HEALTH, ILLNESS AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Social and cultural factors in the identification, course, and treatment of illness; analysis of selected health settings and professions.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 355. DEATH AND DYING. (4 Credits)
An overview of cross-cultural and historical attitudes and practices around end of life, death and dying. Assessment of contemporary legal, professional, cultural and technological issues surrounding end of life/death and dying.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 360. *POPULATION TRENDS AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
Basic socio-demographic factors affecting population size, distribution, composition and change; examination of local, national, and international trends, and demographic policy. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 371. *SOCIAL MEDIA AND EVERYDAY LIFE. (4 Credits)
Examines key concepts, themes, and theories in the study of social media in today's world. Interconnected themes include communication and the public sphere, self representation, power, and new technologies. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

SOC 381. SOCIAL DIMENSIONS OF SUSTAINABILITY. (4 Credits)
Exploration of the social forces driving current views of sustainability. Specific attention will be given to values and belief systems, as well as social institutions in shaping sustainability issues related to ecologically sound, socially just, and economically viable outcomes.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Selected topics of special or current interest not covered in other courses.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better
Equivalent to: SOC 399H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
SOC 399H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Selected topics of special or current interest not covered in other courses.

Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

Equivalent to: SOC 399

This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 403. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 407. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 30 credits.

SOC 412. SOCIOLOGY OF WORK AND FAMILY. (4 Credits)
Survey of the intersections between families and work; variations in family structure, policies and paid and unpaid work in the United States; interdependence between paid and unpaid family labor and broader social change.

SOC 413. SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY. (4 Credits)
Historical and philosophical foundations of sociological theory; major schools of thought and their major contributors.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 418. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the theory and methods of qualitative research. Students will be exposed to various qualitative research methods through practical field exercises. These include ethnographic field observation, content analysis, interviewing, focus groups and unobtrusive measures. Other commonly used methods of collecting qualitative data are also examined.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 422. SOCIOLOGY OF ORGANIZATIONS. (4 Credits)
Introduces sociological thinking about organizations in contemporary society with an emphasis on exploring the range of frameworks used to think about and explain modern organizations; applies knowledge to specific contemporary organizations.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 424. SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Examines individuals in social context; explores dynamics of interpersonal relationships; evaluates link between self and society, including concepts of role/status/identity. Contemporary research design, problems, and findings pertinent to social psychology.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 426. *SOCIAL INEQUALITY. (4 Credits)
Evolution of social inequality in society. Emphasis upon the causes and consequences of inequality in power, privilege, and prestige in human societies, with special attention to the United States. (Bacc Core Course)

Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 430. GENDER AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Examination of nature and consequences of social differentiation and stratification on the basis of sex and gender. Analysis of social position of women and men in society, focusing on their positions in institutional areas such as the family, politics, work and education. Evaluation of theories of biological, psychological, and sociological bases for the behavior and characteristics of women and men.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better or SOC 205 with D- or better or SOC 206 with D- or better

SOC 432. SOCIOLOGY OF AGING. (4 Credits)
Examination of the social significance of age, position and problems of the elderly in society; discusses the societal and individual consequences of an aging population; explores social theories of aging.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better or SOC 205 with D- or better or SOC 206 with D- or better

SOC 437. RACE AND ETHNIC RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
Comparative/international perspective on the social construction of race and ethnicity. Social, economic and political experiences of selected groups in the U.S. and other countries are examined.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 438. US IMMIGRATION ISSUES IN THE 21ST CENTURY. (4 Credits)
Provides a critical overview of immigration to the United States from a socio-historic perspective. Examines how successive waves of immigrants have influenced American society from the earliest groups of Europeans in the 19th century to the most recently arriving immigrants from Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 439. WELFARE AND SOCIAL SERVICES. (4 Credits)
Analysis of social, political, and economic forces affecting welfare and social service systems, with overview of current programs, policy issues, public opinions, occupational aspects and societal impacts.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better or SOC 205 with D- or better or SOC 206 with D- or better

SOC 440. JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. (4 Credits)
Contemporary research and theories of juvenile delinquency. Review and evaluation of various strategies and programs designed to prevent delinquency or for treatment of delinquents.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 441. CRIMINOLOGY AND PENOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Review of sociological perspectives on crime and criminal justice, with emphasis upon North America. Review of crime statistics, types of crime, theories of criminality, corrections programs and prisons, and programs to reduce crime.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 442. SOCIOLOGY OF DRUG USE AND ABUSE. (4 Credits)
Emphasizes a sociological understanding of drug use, drug problems and drug policy. In order to understand drug use and abuse it is necessary to understand the chemical properties of the substances at issue, the attributes of the people who use and abuse drugs, and the norms and characteristics of the society in which the substance use occurs.

Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better
SOC 444. INSIDE-OUT: PRISONS, COMMUNITIES, AND PREVENTION. (4 Credits)
Course takes place in a state correctional facility, with OSU students learning alongside "inside" students from the facility for a full quarter. Course content examines prisons, communities, crime, and prevention from a sociological perspective. All students participate in service-learning projects.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with C or better
Equivalent to: SOC 444H

SOC 444H. INSIDE-OUT: PRISONS, COMMUNITIES, AND PREVENTION. (4 Credits)
Course takes place in a state correctional facility, with OSU students learning alongside "inside" students from the facility for a full quarter. Course content examines prisons, communities, crime, and prevention from a sociological perspective. All students participate in service-learning projects.
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with C or better
Equivalent to: SOC 444

SOC 448. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 449. LAW, CRIME, AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
Surveys criminal justice policies aimed at enforcing laws, reducing crime, punishing violators, and rehabilitating ex-offenders. Interrogates the behavioral assumptions used in creating and evaluating policies. Examines specific crimes and the policies used to address them.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 450. SOCIOLOGY OF EDUCATION. (4 Credits)
Contemporary perspectives and research on schools, students, teachers and social forces affecting the educational system. Review of comparative and evaluation research on alternative educational strategies and programs. Overview of the literature of educational critics.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 452. SOCIOLOGY OF RELIGION. (4 Credits)
Social patterns within U.S. religious groups, relation of religious groups to society, and the methodological problems in studying such groups.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 453. SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT. (4 Credits)
Critical analysis of sport. Examines sport socialization; deviance; violence; gender; race/ethnicity; professional sport careers; intercollegiate athletics; marriage/family; and the media.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 454. *LEISURE AND CULTURE. (4 Credits)
Examination of the social, cultural, and global significance of leisure activity (in particular, tourism and recreation) from a historical perspective relative to attitudes, values, behaviors, and use of natural resources. (SS) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; LACN – Liberal Arts Social Core
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 456. *SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY IN SOCIAL CONTEXT. (4 Credits)
Study of social aspects of science and technology (values, practices, organization, impacts) by analysis of issues revealing their relationship to other social and cultural processes. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 460. THE SOCIOLOGY OF GLOBALIZATION. (4 Credits)
Examines the sociological effect of globalization on Western and non-Western societies. The course focuses on changes in the global economy and how this has influenced the social structure, patterns of change, and mutual influences among societies. (NC)
Attributes: LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 466. INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT: GENDER ISSUES. (4 Credits)
Examines roles and statuses of women and men throughout the world and differential impact of development on men and women. Evaluates traditional development policies and programs and discusses theories of gender stratification and of modernization. (NC)
Attributes: LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 470. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines current theories; focuses on behavior in crowds and diverse social settings including fads/fashions, ecstatic crowds/miracles, natural/technological disasters, urban legends, collective delusions/ mass hysteria, protest/demonstrations, riots/mobs.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 471. *SOCIAL MOVEMENTS. (4 Credits)
Introduces core theoretical and methodological issues related to social movements in the US and abroad. Emphasizes social forces giving rise to movements, tactics employed by movements, and impacts of them on society.
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 472. GIVING AND VOLUNTARIISM. (4 Credits)
Examines concepts of donor motivation, giving, charity, voluntarism, philanthropy, and the nonprofit sector through the analysis of gender roles, ethnicity, power, status, and social institutions.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 475. RURAL SOCIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Helps students understand the rich diversity in rural society, with an emphasis on the interdependencies between urban and rural contexts. Current issues and social problems experienced by rural populations and how sociology is used to understand and address issues affecting rural communities are explored.
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 480. *ENVIRONMENTAL SOCIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Explores the evolution of environmental thought, paradigm shifts, and institutional structures associated with environmental concerns, social movements, and social impacts. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better

SOC 481. *SOCIETY AND NATURAL RESOURCES. (4 Credits)
Explores the complex interrelationships between humans and natural resources, emphasizing how management decisions and organizations are enmeshed in social and cultural contexts. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society
Prerequisites: SOC 204 with D- or better or SOC 204H with D- or better
SOC 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Selected topics of special or current interest not covered in other courses. For advanced undergraduate and graduate students.
Equivalent to: SOC 490, SOC 499H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 499H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Selected topics of special or current interest not covered in other courses. For advanced undergraduate and graduate students.
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: SOC 499
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 502. INDEPENDENT STUDY. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

SOC 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 508. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOC 512. SOCIOLOGY OF WORK AND FAMILY. (4 Credits)
Survey of the intersections between families and work; variations in family structure, policies and paid and unpaid work in the United States; interdependence between paid and unpaid family labor and broader social change.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 513. SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY. (4 Credits)
Historical and philosophical foundations of sociological theory; major school of thought and their major contributors.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 515. UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL RESEARCH. (4 Credits)
Study of basic concepts and principles of qualitative and quantitative social research, including selection of general strategies and specific designs, conceptual and operational measurement, sample selection, data collection, data processing and analysis techniques, interpretation and reporting. Utilizes reports of social research in scholarly journals, popular media, and agency documents. Emphasis on critical evaluation and interpretation.
Equivalent to: PPOL 521

SOC 518. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the theory and methods of qualitative research. Students will be exposed to various qualitative research methods through practical field exercises. These include ethnographic field observation, content analysis, interviewing, focus groups and unobtrusive measures. Other commonly used methods of collecting qualitative data are also examined.
Equivalent to: PPOL 523
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 522. SOCIOLOGY OF ORGANIZATIONS. (4 Credits)
Introduces sociological thinking about organizations in contemporary society with an emphasis on exploring the range of frameworks used to think about and explain modern organizations; applies knowledge to specific contemporary organizations.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 524. SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Examines individuals in social context; explores dynamics of interpersonal relationships; evaluates link between self and society, including concepts of role/status/identity. Contemporary research design, problems, and findings pertinent to social psychology.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 526. SOCIAL INEQUALITY. (4 Credits)
Evolution of social inequality in society. Emphasis upon the causes and consequences of inequality in power, privilege, and prestige in human societies, with special attention to the United States.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 530. GENDER AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
Examination of nature and consequences of social differentiation and stratification on the basis of sex and gender. Analysis of social position of women and men in society, focusing on their positions in institutional areas such as the family, politics, work and education. Evaluation of theories of biological, psychological, and sociological bases for the behavior and characteristics of women and men.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 532. SOCIOLOGY OF AGING. (4 Credits)
Examination of the social significance of age, position and problems of the elderly in society; discusses the societal and individual consequences of an aging population; explores social theories of aging.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 537. RACE AND ETHNIC RELATIONS. (4 Credits)
Comparative/international perspective on the social construction of race and ethnicity. Social, economic and political experiences of selected groups in the U.S. and other countries are examined.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 538. US IMMIGRATION ISSUES IN THE 21ST CENTURY. (4 Credits)
Provides a critical overview of immigration to the United States from a socio-historic perspective. Examines how successive waves of immigrants have influenced American society from the earliest groups of Europeans in the 19th century to the most recently arriving immigrants from Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

SOC 539. WELFARE AND SOCIAL SERVICES. (4 Credits)
Analysis of social, political, and economic forces affecting welfare and social service systems, with overview of current programs, policy issues, public opinions, occupational aspects and societal impacts.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H or SOC 205 or SOC 206

SOC 540. JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. (4 Credits)
Contemporary research and theories of juvenile delinquency. Review and evaluation of various strategies and programs designed to prevent delinquency or for treatment of delinquents.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 541. CRIMINOLOGY AND PENOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Review of sociological perspectives on crime and criminal justice, with emphasis upon North America. Review of crime statistics, types of crime, theories of criminality, corrections programs and prisons, and programs to reduce crime.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H
SOC 542. SOCIOLOGY OF DRUG USE AND ABUSE. (4 Credits)
Emphasizes a sociological understanding of drug use, drug problems and drug policy. In order to understand drug use and abuse it is necessary to understand the chemical properties of the substances at issue, the attributes of the people who use and abuse drugs, and the norms and characteristics of the society in which the substance use occurs.

SOC 544. INSIDE-OUT: PRISONS, COMMUNITIES, AND PREVENTION. (4 Credits)
Course takes place in a state correctional facility, with OSU students learning alongside "inside" students from the facility for a full quarter.
Course content examines prisons, communities, crime, and prevention from a sociological perspective. All students participate in service-learning projects.
Recommended: SOC 204

SOC 548. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 549. LAW, CRIME, AND POLICY. (4 Credits)
Surveys criminal justice policies aimed at enforcing laws, reducing crime, punishing violators, and rehabilitating ex-offenders. Interrogates the behavioral assumptions used in creating and evaluating policies.
Examines specific crimes and the policies used to address them.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 550. SOCIOLOGY OF EDUCATION. (4 Credits)
Contemporary perspectives and research on schools, students, teachers and social forces affecting the educational system. Review of comparative and evaluation research on alternative educational strategies and programs. Overview of the literature of educational critics.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 552. SOCIOLOGY OF RELIGION. (4 Credits)
Social patterns within U.S. religious groups, relation of religious groups to society, and the methodological problems in studying such groups.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 553. SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT. (4 Credits)
Critical analysis of sport. Examines sport socialization; deviance; violence; gender; race/ethnicity; professional sport careers;
tercollegiate athletics; marriage/family; and the media.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 554. LEISURE AND CULTURE. (4 Credits)
Examination of the social, cultural, and global significance of leisure activity (in particular, tourism and recreation) from a historical perspective relative to attitudes, values, behaviors, and use of natural resources.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 555. SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY IN SOCIAL CONTEXT. (4 Credits)
Study of social aspects of science and technology (values, practices, organization, impacts) by analysis of issues revealing their relationship to other social and cultural processes.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 556. THE SOCIOLOGY OF GLOBALIZATION. (4 Credits)
Examines the sociological effect of globalization on Western and non-Western societies. The course focuses on changes in the global economy and how this has influenced the social structure, patterns of change, and mutual influences among societies.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 557. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines current theories; focuses on behavior in crowds and diverse social settings including fads/fashions, ecstatic crowds/miracles, natural/technological disasters, urban legends, collective delusions/
mass hysteria, protest/demonstrations, riots/mobs.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 558. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines specific crimes and the policies used to address them.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 559. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 560. THE SOCIOLOGY OF GLOBALIZATION. (4 Credits)
Examines the sociological effect of globalization on Western and non-Western societies. The course focuses on changes in the global economy and how this has influenced the social structure, patterns of change, and mutual influences among societies.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 561. INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT: GENDER ISSUES. (4 Credits)
Examines roles and statuses of women and men throughout the world and differential impact of development on men and women. Evaluates traditional development policies and programs and discusses theories of gender stratification and of modernization.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 562. GIVING AND VOLUNTARISM. (4 Credits)
Examines concepts of donor motivation, giving, charity, voluntarism, philanthropy, and the nonprofit sector through the analysis of gender roles, ethnicity, power, status, and social institutions.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 565. ENVIRONMENTAL SOCIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Explores the evolution of environmental thought, paradigm shifts, and institutional structures associated with environmental concerns, social movements, and social impacts.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 566. INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT: GENDER ISSUES. (4 Credits)
Examines roles and statuses of women and men throughout the world and differential impact of development on men and women. Evaluates traditional development policies and programs and discusses theories of gender stratification and of modernization.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 567. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines specific crimes and the policies used to address them.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 568. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 569. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 570. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines current theories; focuses on behavior in crowds and diverse social settings including fads/fashions, ecstatic crowds/miracles, natural/technological disasters, urban legends, collective delusions/
mass hysteria, protest/demonstrations, riots/mobs.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 571. SOCIAL MOVEMENTS. (4 Credits)
Examines collective behavior, tactics employed by movements, and impacts of them on society.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 572. GIVING AND VOLUNTARISM. (4 Credits)
Examines concepts of donor motivation, giving, charity, voluntarism, philanthropy, and the nonprofit sector through the analysis of gender roles, ethnicity, power, status, and social institutions.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 575. RURAL SOCIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Helps students understand the rich diversity in rural society, with an emphasis on the interdependencies between urban and rural contexts.
Current issues and social problems experienced by rural populations and how sociology is used to understand and address issues affecting rural communities are explored.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 576. INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT: GENDER ISSUES. (4 Credits)
Examines roles and statuses of women and men throughout the world and differential impact of development on men and women. Evaluates traditional development policies and programs and discusses theories of gender stratification and of modernization.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 577. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. (4 Credits)
Examines specific crimes and the policies used to address them.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 578. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 579. LAW AND SOCIETY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to social scientific approaches to law, covering major topics in the area. Topics may include disputing, legal consciousness, social movements and law, punishment, legal actors, and legal institutions.
Recommended: (SOC 204 or SOC 204H) with minimum grade of D-

SOC 580. ENVIRONMENTAL SOCIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Explores the evolution of environmental thought, paradigm shifts, and institutional structures associated with environmental concerns, social movements, and social impacts.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 581. SOCIETY AND NATURAL RESOURCES. (4 Credits)
Examines the complex interrelationships between humans and natural resources, emphasizing how management decisions and organizations are enmeshed in social and cultural contexts.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 582. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Selected topics of special or current interest not covered in other courses. For advanced undergraduate and graduate students.
Equivalent to: SOC 590
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

SOC 808. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
Recommended: SOC 204 or SOC 204H

Software Engineering (SE)

SE 201. SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT I. (4 Credits)
Introduction to collaborative software development of larger, object-oriented systems. Overview of software architecture, and the tools, principles and practice of modern software development.
Prerequisites: CS 162 with C or better
SOIL 206. *SOIL SCIENCE LABORATORY FOR SOIL 205. (1 Credit)
Students will gain hands-on experience with soil science concepts and applications. Laboratory exercises and field trips will help students develop proficiency in the methods/tools for analyzing soil chemistry, biology, morphology, physical properties, and soil forming factors. Skills will be taught in the context of soils’ social, economic, and environmental importance. (Bacc Core Course if taken with SOIL 205)
Attributes: CPBS – Core, Pers, Biological Science; CPPS – Core, Pers, Physical Science
Corequisites: SOIL 205

SOIL 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: SOIL 299H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 299H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: SOIL 299
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 316. NUTRIENT CYCLING IN AGROECOSYSTEMS. (4 Credits)
Nutrient forms, transformations, and cycling. Diagnosis and correction of nutrient deficiencies, pH and salinity. Impact of nutrient management practices on crop production, soil health, nutrient use efficiency, and environmental quality. Organic and inorganic fertilization. Labs include soil sampling and testing procedures, data collection on soil and plants, computer applications for soil fertility management, and field trips. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: (CH 121 with D- or better or CH 231 with D- or better) and (SOIL 205 [C] or CSS 205 [C] or CSS 305 [C])
Equivalent to: CSS 316

SOIL 360. SOIL MANAGEMENT FOR ORGANIC PRODUCTION. (3 Credits)
This is a skills-based soil management course that is part lecture and part student-centered learning. Significant class time will be devoted to making field-scale management decisions. The course includes individual and group work, presentation, and discussion. The intent is to prepare students for real-world application of soil management decisions in certified organic systems. Using the National Organic Program as a starting point as well as farm system descriptions with extensive long-term data sets, we will interpret soil nutrient analyses, cover cropping systems, and organic amendments, to design soil management plans for two model cropping systems (annual and perennial).
Prerequisites: (SOIL 205 with C or better and (SOIL 206 [C] or FOR 206 [C]) or CSS 205 [C])
Recommended: Introductory soil science course with lab

SOIL 366. ECOSYSTEMS OF WILDLAND SOILS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on soils that occur in relatively undisturbed ecosystems such as forests and rangelands. Topics covered include properties and processes specific to understanding and managing the soil resource in these areas. An overview of US Soil Taxonomy will also be given.
Prerequisites: SOIL 205 with D- or better or CSS 205 with D- or better or CSS 305 with D- or better
Recommended: An understanding and appreciation of environmental chemistry, biology, ecology, and physics
SOIL 388. SOIL SYSTEMS AND PLANT GROWTH. (4 Credits)
Introduces soils as providers of critical resources for plant growth. Explains how soils supply water, air, thermal energy and nutrients to plants. Shows that sustainable management of soil resources requires substantial understanding of their role in the functioning of natural, forest, and agricultural systems. Explains controls on stocks and availabilities of individual soil resources and mechanisms making these resources plant-available.
Prerequisites: ((SOIL 205 with D- or better and (SOIL 206 [D-] or FOR 206 [D-])) or CSS 205 [D-]) and (CH 121 [D-] or CH 231 [D-]) and (BOT 220 [D-] or (BI 204 [D-] or BI 205 [D-] or BI 206 [D-]) or (BI 211 [D-] or BI 212 [D-] or BI 213 [D-]))

SOIL 395. *WORLD SOIL RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
The properties, global distribution, and agricultural productivity of major world soil groups are described. Potentials for human-accelerated soil degradation are introduced for each soil group, and reasons for conflicting assessments of degradation are discussed. Offered via Ecampus only. (Bacc Core Course) (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society; CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Prerequisites: CH 121 with D- or better or CH 122 with D- or better or CH 123 with D- or better or CH 201 with D- or better or CH 202 with D- or better or CH 231 with D- or better or CH 231H with D- or better or CH 232 with D- or better or CH 232H with D- or better or CH 233H with D- or better
Equivalent to: CSS 395
Recommended: One term of chemistry

SOIL 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: SOIL 405
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 403. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
Independent, original study and preparation of a senior thesis.
Equivalent to: CSS 405
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: SOIL 405H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 405H. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: SOIL 405
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 407. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 408. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
Evaluation and judging of soils in Oregon and other states; directed studies of soil morphology, soil survey, soil fertility, soil physics, soil chemistry, soil biology, and soil information systems.
Equivalent to: CSS 408
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 409. PRACTICUM. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-6 Credits)
Professional work experience previously approved and supervised by the department, written report required.
Equivalent to: CSS 410
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

SOIL 435. ENVIRONMENTAL SOIL PHYSICS. (3 Credits)
Covers principles of soil physical properties and processes as they relate to agricultural, hydrological and environmental problems. Lec/lab. Offered odd years.
Prerequisites: CSS 205 with D- or better or CSS 305 with D- or better or SOIL 205 with D- or better
Equivalent to: CSS 435
Recommended: CH 123 and MTH 241 and PH 201

SOIL 445. ENVIRONMENTAL SOIL CHEMISTRY. (3 Credits)
Structural chemistry of clay minerals and organic matter, cation and anion exchange, and soil solution equilibria of soils. Ion exchange, mineral-solution equilibria, and adsorption reactions of silicate clays, oxides, and organic matter are emphasized. Covers the sorption behavior of environmental contaminants and the weathering reactions that govern the transport of reactive solutes through soils. Lec/rec. Offered odd years.
Equivalent to: CSS 445

SOIL 455. BIOLOGY OF SOIL ECOSYSTEMS. (4 Credits)
A detailed study of the organisms that live in the soil and their activities in the soil ecosystems, soil as a habitat for organisms, taxonomy and biology of soil organisms, fundamentals of nutrient cycles, special topics in soil biology, review basis of soil microbial and ecological principles. Lec/rec/lab.
Equivalent to: CSS 455
Recommended: (CSS 305 or CSS 205 or SOIL 205). Courses in chemistry, physics, and microbiology

SOIL 466. SOIL MORPHOLOGY AND CLASSIFICATION. (4 Credits)
Observation and description of soil properties in the field; writing soil profile descriptions; evaluating criteria that define features used to classify soils; using soil classification keys. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: SOIL 205 with D- or better or CSS 205 with D- or better or SOIL 305 with D- or better
Equivalent to: CSS 466

SOIL 468. SOIL LANDSCAPE ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Principles of soil geomorphology, soil stratigraphy, and surficial processes as applied to understanding the soil system and landscape scales. Emphasis on field observations of soils, geomorphic surfaces, and environment. Field project entails design of soil survey map units, field mapping and GIS cartographic techniques. Lec/lab. Offered even years.
Prerequisites: SOIL 466 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better or CSS 466 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better
Equivalent to: CSS 468

SOIL 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 499H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: SOIL 499
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 503. THESIS/DISSERTATION. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

SOIL 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)

SOIL 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
SOIL 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 508. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
Evaluation and judging of soils in Oregon and other states; directed studies of soil morphology, soil survey, soil fertility, soil physics, soil chemistry, soil biology, and soil information systems.
Equivalent to: CSS 508
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SOIL 509. PRACTICUM IN TEACHING. (1-3 Credits)
Developing skills and competence in teaching under staff supervision; organization and presentation of instructional material by assisting in laboratory, recitation, and lectures. CROSSTLISTED as ENT 509, CROP 509, PBG 509.
Equivalent to: CROP 509, ENT 509, PBG 509
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

SOIL 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-6 Credits)
Professional work experience previously approved and supervised by the department, written report required.
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

SOIL 511. SOIL: A NATURAL AND SOCIETAL RESOURCE. (3 Credits)
Serves degree- and non-degree-seeking graduate learners wanting soil science knowledge but having minimal science background. Understanding soil physical, chemical, and biological properties promotes informed soil management while supporting individual to global societal values. Established curriculum facilitates graduate degrees or certificates, continuing education, professional certification, and self-improvement goals. A highly interactive social media framework supports weekly student-student and instructor-student learning interactions.

SOIL 512. METHODS OF SOIL ANALYSIS - FIELD. (1 Credit)
Recognition and quantitative description of soil properties in agroecosystems. Assessments of soil environments used for crop production in Oregon. Demonstration and practice of volumetric and bulk soil sampling techniques as well as the application of pedotransfer functions. Each participant will be responsible for analyzing at least one soil sample in the chemical level. Five-day duration with four overnight stays at campgrounds. Participants will use their own or borrowed camping equipment.
Recommended: SOIL 205 with a minimum grade of C

SOIL 514. METHODS OF SOIL ANALYSIS - LABORATORY. (2 Credits)
Provide the theoretical background, as well as practical experience needed to plan, select, execute, and interpret soil chemical and physical analyses such as those typically used for nutrient management recommendations. Individual and group activities involve classroom presentations, as well as hands-on work in a teaching laboratory. Samples processed are those collected in SOIL 512, Methods of Soil Analysis - Field. Duration is five full work days.
Prerequisites: SOIL 512 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better
Recommended: SOIL 205 and successful completion of EH&S Laboratory

SOIL 515. SOIL FERTILITY MANAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Management of plant nutrients in agronomic systems; diagnosis of nutrient availability and prediction of crop response to fertilizers; interactions between nutrient response and chemical, physical and biological properties of soils.
Equivalent to: CSS 515
Recommended: CSS 315 and courses in statistics, chemistry and plant physiology.

SOIL 523. PRINCIPLES OF STABLE ISOTOPES. (3 Credits)
An introduction to the theory and use of stable isotopes. Applications of stable isotopes to soil science, plant physiology, hydrology, and ecosystem studies. Offered even years.
Equivalent to: CSS 523

SOIL 525. MINERAL-ORGANIC MATTER INTERACTIONS. (3 Credits)
Studies the fundamental properties of the mineral-organic interface and the mechanisms of interaction between mineral and organic soil properties.
Equivalent to: CSS 525
Recommended: CSS 305 or CSS 205 or SOIL 205

SOIL 530. ORGANIC SOIL AND CROP MANAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Overview of organic soil and crop management, organic soil system management, soil microbiology under organic systems, cropping systems, organic cereal production systems, organic forage production system, organic horticultural systems management, organic field and horticulture cropping systems; recent research and case studies. CROSSTLISTED AS CROP 530.
Equivalent to: CROP 530
Recommended: (SOIL 525, CROP 200 and SOIL 205 or introductory biology) and completion or concurrent enrollment in AGRI 520

SOIL 535. SOIL PHYSICS. (3 Credits)
Theoretical elements of soil physical properties and processes related to agricultural, hydrological and environmental problems. Offered fall term in even years.
Equivalent to: CSS 535
Recommended: CSS 305, CSS 205, SOIL 205, MTH 241, CH 123, PH 201

SOIL 536. VADOSE ZONE HYDROLOGY LABORATORY. (1 Credit)
Experimental elements of soil physical properties and processes allowing practical experience in the measurement and analysis of soil physical processes related to agricultural, hydrological and environmental problems. Weekly laboratory. Offered even years.
Equivalent to: CSS 536
Recommended: CH 123 and PH 201

SOIL 545. ENVIRONMENTAL SOIL CHEMISTRY. (3 Credits)
Structural chemistry of clay minerals and organic matter; cation and anion exchange, and soil solution equilibria of soils. Ion exchange, mineral-solution equilibria, and adsorption reactions of silicate clays, oxides, and organic matter are emphasized. Covers the sorption behavior of environmental contaminants and the weathering reactions that govern the transport of reactive solutes through soils. Lec/rec. Offered odd years.
Equivalent to: CSS 545

SOIL 547. NUTRIENT CYCLING. (3 Credits)
Reviews and discusses ecosystem-level biogeochemical concepts for terrestrial and freshwater ecosystems, primarily by reading and discussing classic and current literature to determine the state-of-knowledge and uncertainties associated with it. Topics include root nutrient uptake mechanisms, soil chemical and biochemical transformations in different soil and ecosystems, measuring soil solution and watershed fluxes, soil organic matter formation and structure, the meaning of sustainability, the concept of N saturation in terrestrial ecosystems, and the use of natural abundance and tracer isotopes in ecosystem biogeochemistry. While forest biogeochemical processes will be emphasized, desert, aquatic, wetland, and prairie ecosystems will also be explored. CROSSTLISTED as BOT 547.
Equivalent to: FS 547
Recommended: College-level chemistry and biology and one class in ecology (eg. BI 370) and/or soils (eg. SOIL 205)
SOIL 555. BIOLOGY OF SOIL ECOSYSTEMS. (4 Credits)
A detailed study of the organisms that live in the soil and their activities in the soil ecosystems, soil as a habitat for organisms, taxonomy and biology of soil organisms, fundamentals of nutrient cycles, special topics in soil biology, review basis of soil microbial and ecological principles. A space for engaging with arts, activism and scholarship emerging from queer Latin@/Chican@ experiences and consciousness is provided. Offered winter term in odd years. CROSSLISTED as ES 569, QS 569, WGSS 569.
Equivalent to: ES 569, QS 569, WGSS 569
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.
SPAN 570. GRADUATE SPANISH COORDINATED STUDIES. (1-15 Credits)
An intensive, team-taught course in which learners engage in advanced exploration of issues of importance to Spanish-speaking communities in Oregon and facilitate the learning of undergraduate native speaker and second language students. Topics change regularly. The course addresses all communicative areas (reading, writing, speaking and listening) and includes content in the areas of literature, linguistics, culture, civic engagement, and service-learning. Successful completion of the full 15 credits with a grade of B or higher meets requirements for the graduate minor in Contemporary Hispanic Studies.
Equivalent to: SPAN 510, SPAN 538, SPAN 545, SPAN 546, SPAN 562, SPAN 563
This course is repeatable for 30 credits.
Recommended: SPAN 599
SPAN 588. HISPANIC STUDIES, HISPANIC STUDY CENTERS. (1-12 Credits)
Section 1: Topics, Hispanic language. Section 2: Practical work (exercises). Section 3: Topics, Hispanic arts and letters. Section 4: Topics, Hispanic society.
SPAN 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.
SPAN 808. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Statistics (ST)

ST 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (3 Credits)
This course can only be taken once unless instructor permission is provided.
ST 201. PRINCIPLES OF STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Study design, descriptive statistics, the use of probability in statistical arguments, sampling, hypothesis tests and confidence intervals for means and proportions. Lec/rec.
Equivalent to: ST 201H
Recommended: High school algebra
ST 202. PRINCIPLES OF STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Comparisons of means and proportions between two populations (t-tests, chi-square tests, nonparametric tests), simple linear regression, correlation. Lec/rec.
Prerequisites: ST 201 with D- or better
Equivalent to: ST 209
ST 314. INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICS FOR ENGINEERS. (3 Credits)
Probability, common probability distributions, sampling distributions, estimation, hypothesis testing, control charts, regression analysis, experimental design.
Prerequisites: MTH 252 with D- or better or MTH 252H with D- or better
Equivalent to: ST 314H
ST 351. INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Study designs, descriptive statistics, collecting and recording data, probability distributions, sampling distributions for means and proportions, hypothesis testing and confidence intervals for means and proportions in one- and two-sample inference, and chi-square tests. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: ST 351H
Recommended: High school algebra with statistics
ST 351H. INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Study designs, descriptive statistics, collecting and recording data, probability distributions, sampling distributions for means and proportions, hypothesis testing and confidence intervals for means and proportions in one- and two-sample inference, and chi-square tests. Lec/lab.
Attributes: HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: ST 351
Recommended: High school algebra with statistics

ST 352. INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Randomization tests and other nonparametric tests for one- and two-sample inference, simple and multiple linear regression, correlation, one- and two-way analysis of variance, logistic regression. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 351 with D- or better or ST 351H with D- or better

ST 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Section 1: Projects, graded P/N. Section 2: Teaching Experience, graded P/N. Section 3: Directed Work, graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 407. SEMINAR. (1 Credit)
Attendance at consulting practicum. Graded P/N.

ST 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 411. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Graphical, parametric and nonparametric methods for comparing two samples; one-way and two-way analysis of variance; simple linear regression. Lec/lab.
Recommended: ST 351

ST 412. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Multiple linear regression, including model checking, dummy variables, using regression to fit analysis of variance models, analysis of covariance, variable selection methods. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 411 with D- or better
Recommended: ST 351

ST 413. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Principles of experimental design; randomized block and factorial designs; repeated measures; categorical data analysis, including comparison of proportions, tests of homogeneity and independence in cross-classified frequency tables, Mantel-Haenszel test, logistic regression, log-linear regression. Introduction to multivariate statistics. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 412 with D- or better
Recommended: ST 351

ST 414. APPLIED STOCHASTIC MODELS. (3 Credits)
Development of stochastic models commonly arising in statistics and operations research, such as Poisson processes, birth-and-death processes, discrete-time and continuous-time Markov chains, renewal and Markov renewal processes. Analysis of stochastic models by simulation and other computational techniques.
Prerequisites: ST 201 with D- or better or ST 351 with D- or better
Recommended: Experience with a high-level programming language or mathematical computation package

ST 415. DESIGN AND ANALYSIS OF PLANNED EXPERIMENTS. (3 Credits)
Principles of experimental design; uses, construction and analysis of completely randomized, randomized block and Latin square designs; covariates; factorial treatments, split plotting; random effects and variance components.
Prerequisites: ST 352 with D- or better or ST 411 with D- or better or ST 511 with D- or better

ST 421. INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Probability, random variables, expectation, discrete and continuous distributions, multivariate distributions.
Recommended: MTH 253

ST 422. INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Sampling distributions, Central Limit Theorem, estimation, confidence intervals, properties of estimators, and hypothesis testing.
Prerequisites: ST 421 with D- or better
Recommended: MTH 253

ST 431. SAMPLING METHODS. (3 Credits)
Estimation of means, totals and proportions; sampling designs including simple random, stratified, cluster, systematic, multistage and double sampling; ratio and regression estimators; sources of errors in surveys; capture-recapture methods.
Recommended: ST 411 or ST 511

ST 435. QUANTITATIVE ECOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Overview of statistical methods that are useful for analyzing ecological data, including spatial pattern analysis, multivariate techniques, logistic regression, Bayesian statistics and computer-intensive methods.
Consideration of special topics such as population dynamics, food webs and ecological indicators. Not offered every year.
Prerequisites: ST 412 with D- or better or ST 512 with D- or better

ST 439. SURVEY METHODS. (3 Credits)
Survey design, data collection and analysis, general methodology.
Prerequisites: ST 201 with D- or better or ST 351 with D- or better

ST 441. PROBABILITY, COMPUTING, AND SIMULATION IN STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Prerequisites: ST 422 with D- or better or ST 522 with D- or better

ST 443. APPLIED STOCHASTIC MODELS. (3 Credits)
Development of stochastic models commonly arising in statistics and operations research, such as Poisson processes, birth-and-death processes, discrete-time and continuous-time Markov chains, renewal and Markov renewal processes. Analysis of stochastic models by simulation and other computational techniques.
Prerequisites: ST 421 with D- or better or ST 521 with D- or better
Recommended: Experience with a high-level programming language or mathematical computation package

ST 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
May be repeated for credit.
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

ST 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

ST 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Section 1: Projects. Section 2: Teaching Experience. Section 3: Directed Work.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 507. SEMINAR. (1 Credit)
Attendance at consulting practicum, 1 credit. Section 3: Computing Facilities, 1 credit. All sections graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.
ST 509. CONSULTING PRACTICUM. (2 Credits)
The student provides statistical advice, under faculty guidance, on university-related research projects.
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.
Recommended: ST 507 and ST 553

ST 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 511. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Graphical, parametric and nonparametric methods for comparing two samples; one-way and two-way analysis of variance; simple linear regression. Lec/lab.
Recommended: ST 351

ST 512. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Multiple linear regression, including model checking, dummy variables, using regression to fit analysis of variance models, analysis of covariance, variable selection methods. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 511 with C or better
Recommended: ST 351

ST 513. METHODS OF DATA ANALYSIS. (4 Credits)
Principles of experimental design; randomized block and factorial designs; repeated measures; categorical data analysis, including comparison of proportions, tests of homogeneity and independence in cross-classified frequency tables, Mantel-Haenszel test, logistic regression, log-linear regression. Introduction to multivariate statistics.
Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 512 with C or better
Recommended: ST 351

ST 515. DESIGN AND ANALYSIS OF PLANNED EXPERIMENTS. (3 Credits)
Principles of experimental design; uses, construction and analysis of completely randomized, randomized block and Latin square designs; covariates; factorial treatments, split plotting; random effects and variance components.
Recommended: ST 352 or (ST 411 or ST 511)

ST 516. FOUNDATIONS OF DATA ANALYTICS. (4 Credits)
Foundations of estimation and hypothesis testing; desirable properties of estimators; maximum likelihood; one- and two-sample problems; theoretical results are explored through simulations and analysis using R.
Offered via Ecampus only.
Recommended: ST 351

ST 517. DATA ANALYTICS I. (4 Credits)
Methods for modeling quantitative data and statistical learning—simple and multiple linear regression; linear mixed effects models; data imputation; prediction and cross-validation; scaling up to large datasets. Simulations and data analysis using R. Offered via Ecampus only.
Prerequisites: ST 516 with C+ or better

ST 518. DATA ANALYTICS II. (4 Credits)
Statistical methods and data analysis techniques for count data.
Topics include tests for tables of counts, logistic regression, log-linear regression, generalized linear mixed models, and issues for large datasets. Data analysis in R.
Prerequisites: ST 517 with C+ or better

ST 521. INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Probability, random variables, expectation, discrete and continuous distributions, multivariate distributions.
Recommended: MTH 253

ST 522. INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Sampling distributions, Central Limit Theorem, estimation, confidence intervals, properties of estimators, and hypothesis testing.
Prerequisites: ST 521 with C or better
Recommended: MTH 253

ST 525. APPLIED SURVIVAL ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
Statistical methods for analyzing survival data or time-to-event data, which may be censored and/or truncated. Specific topics can vary term to term, and could include Kaplan-Meier estimator; K-sample hypothesis tests for survival data; Accelerated failure time model; Cox proportional hazard regression model.
Prerequisites: ST 516 with C or better and ST 517 [C] and ST 518 [C]

ST 531. SAMPLING METHODS. (3 Credits)
Estimation of means, totals and proportions; sampling designs including simple random, stratified, cluster, systematic, multistage and double sampling; ratio and regression estimators; sources of errors in surveys; capture-recapture methods.
Recommended: ST 411 or ST 511

ST 535. QUANTITATIVE ECOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Overview of statistical methods that are useful for analyzing ecological data, including spatial pattern analysis, multivariate techniques, logistic regression, Bayesian statistics and computer-intensive methods.
Consideration of special topics such as population dynamics, food webs and ecological indicators. Not offered every year.
Recommended: ST 412 or ST 512

ST 537. DATA VISUALIZATION. (3 Credits)
Perceptual principles for displaying data; critique and improvement of data visualizations; use of color in visualization; principles of tidy data; strategies for data exploration; select special topics.
Prerequisites: ST 512 with C or better or ST 517 with C or better or ST 552 with C or better
Recommended: Familiarity with linear regression and using R

ST 538. MODERN STATISTICAL METHODS FOR LARGE AND COMPLEX DATA SETS. (3 Credits)
Provides students with the tools and experience to analyze big and messy data and work effectively in a data science team. Covers the tools to handle big data and answer statistical questions based on the data. Includes three big data analysis projects that students work on in groups. Focuses on proper use of modern data analysis techniques related to regression, classification and clustering for data coming from a variety of application fields. R will be the lingua franca.
Prerequisites: ST 512 with C or better or ST 517 with C or better or ST 552 with C or better or ST 412 with C or better

ST 539. SURVEY METHODS. (3 Credits)
Survey design, data collection and analysis, general methodology.
Recommended: ST 201 or ST 351

ST 541. PROBABILITY, COMPUTING, AND SIMULATION IN STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Recommended: ST 422 or ST 522
ST 543. APPLIED STOCHASTIC MODELS. (3 Credits)
Development of stochastic models commonly arising in statistics and operations research, such as Poisson processes, birth-and-death processes, discrete-time and continuous-time Markov chains, renewal and Markov renewal processes. Analysis of stochastic models by simulation and other computational techniques.
Recommended: ST 421 or ST 521 and experience with a high-level programming language or mathematical computation package.

ST 551. STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Properties of t, chi-square and F tests; randomized experiments; sampling distributions and standard errors of estimators, delta method, comparison of several groups of measurements; two-way tables of measurements.
Recommended: Concurrent enrollment in MTH 341 and (ST 422 or ST 522)

ST 552. STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Simple and multiple linear regression including polynomial regression, indicator variables, weighted regression, and influence statistics, non-linear regression and linear models for binary data.
Prerequisites: ST 551 with C or better
Recommended: ST 422 or ST 522

ST 553. STATISTICAL METHODS. (4 Credits)
Principles and analysis of designed experiments, including factorial experiments, analysis of covariance, random and mixed effect models.
Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ST 552 with C or better

ST 555. ADVANCED EXPERIMENTAL DESIGN. (3 Credits)
Designs leading to mixed models including split plots, repeated measures, crossovers and incomplete blocks. Introduction to experimental design in industry including confounding, fractional factorials and response surface methodology. Analysis of unbalanced data.
Prerequisites: ST 553 with C or better

ST 557. APPLIED MULTIVARIATE ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
Multivariate data structures, linear combinations; principal components, factor and latent structure analysis, canonical correlations, discriminant analysis; cluster analysis, multidimensional scaling. Not offered every year.
Recommended: ST 412 or ST 512 and (MTH 252 or MTH 245)

ST 558. MULTIVARIATE ANALYTICS. (3 Credits)
Basics of matrix algebra, principal components analysis, cluster analysis, factor analysis, multidimensional scaling.
Prerequisites: ST 518 with C- or better

ST 559. BAYESIAN STATISTICS. (3 Credits)
Bayesian statistics for data analysis. Characterizations of probability; comparative (Bayesian versus frequentist) inference; prior, posterior and predictive distributions; hierarchical modeling. Computational methods include Markov Chain Monte Carlo for posterior simulation.
Recommended: ST 562

ST 561. THEORY OF STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Distributions of functions of random variables, joint and conditional distributions, sampling distributions, convergence concepts, order statistics. Lec/rec.
Recommended: ST 422 or ST 522

ST 562. THEORY OF STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Sufficiency, exponential families, location and scale families; point estimation: maximum likelihood, Bayes, and unbiased estimators; asymptotic distributions of maximum likelihood estimators; Taylor series approximations.
Prerequisites: ST 561 with C or better
Recommended: ST 422 or ST 522

ST 563. THEORY OF STATISTICS. (4 Credits)
Hypothesis testing: likelihood ratio, Bayesian, and uniformly most powerful tests; similar tests in exponential families; asymptotic distributions of likelihood ratio test statistics; confidence intervals.
Prerequisites: ST 562 with C or better
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.
Recommended: ST 422 or ST 522

ST 565. TIME SERIES. (3 Credits)
Analysis of serially correlated data in both time and frequency domains. Autocorrelation and partial autocorrelation functions, autoregressive integrated moving average models, model building, forecasting; filtering, smoothing, spectral analysis, frequency response studies, Offered winter term in even years.
Recommended: (ST 412 or ST 512) and (ST 422 or ST 522)

ST 566. TIME SERIES ANALYTICS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on statistical and analytical tools for analyzing data that are observed sequentially over time. Specific topics can vary term to term, and could include methods for exploratory time series analysis, linear time series models (ARMA, ARIMA), forecasting, spectral analysis and state-space models. The focus will be on applied problems, though some mathematical statistics is necessary for a solid understanding of the statistical issues. This course is designed for students in Data Analytics MS and Certificate programs.
Prerequisites: ST 516 with C or better and ST 517 [C] and ST 518 [C]

ST 567. SPATIAL STATISTICS. (3 Credits)
The analysis of spatial data. Graphical tools for exploring spatial data, geostatistics, variogram estimation, kriging, areal models, hierarchical spatial models, and spatio-temporal modelling. Offered winter term in odd years.
Recommended: (ST 412 or ST 512) and (ST 422 or ST 522)

ST 591. INTRODUCTION TO QUANTITATIVE GENOMICS. (3 Credits)
Provides an overview of how genomic data is generated and analyzed. It focuses on the underlying biological motivation, theoretical concepts, and analytical challenges associated with genomic research, especially the generation of statistics that summarize genomic data. The class is organized as a combination of lectures and group literature review discussions. Students are expected to actively participate in the class. Students from diverse backgrounds, including quantitative, biological, and computations sciences, are encouraged to enroll.
Recommended: ST 411 or ST 511

ST 592. STATISTICAL METHODS FOR GENOMICS RESEARCH. (3 Credits)
Lectures include an overview of statistical methods commonly applied in genomics research. Specific methods can vary term to term, and could include cluster analysis, decision trees, dimension reduction tools, regression models, multiple testing adjustment, variable selection methods, etc. Journal clubs include team-based review and presentations of landmark papers in both statistical methodology and genomics research. Research experience includes whole-term collaboration between students from statistics and other disciplines on real projects.
Recommended: ST 411 or ST 511 or a higher level course such as ST 551
ST 595. CAPSTONE PROJECT. (3 Credits)
Provides an opportunity for students to integrate and apply the analytics skills learned in MS in Data Analytics program to solve real-world problems and to interpret and communicate their results. Student teams will engage in the entire process of solving data science projects in realistic settings, from placing the problem into appropriate statistical framework to applying suitable analytic methods to the problem. Problem solving, written and oral communication skills will be emphasized.
Prerequisites: ST 516 with C or better and ST 517 [C] and ST 518 [C] and ST 558 [C]

ST 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-4 Credits)
May be repeated for credit when topic varies.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

ST 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Section 1: Projects; Section 2: Teaching Experience, graded P/N; Section 3: Directed Work, graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

ST 623. GENERALIZED REGRESSION MODELS. (3 Credits)
Maximum likelihood analysis for frequency data; regression-type models for binomial and Poisson data; iterative weighted least squares and maximum likelihood; analysis of deviance and residuals; over-dispersion and quasilikelihood models; log-linear models for multidimensional contingency tables.
Prerequisites: ST 553 with C or better and ST 563 [C]

ST 625. SURVIVAL ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
Prepares students to understand and analyze survival data. Concepts to be discussed include: hazard function (failure rate function); nonparametric likelihood; empirical processes; empirical distribution function; censoring (mostly right independent censoring); Kaplan-Meier estimator; Bias of the KM estimator; Cox proportional hazards model; Accelerated Failure Time Model; Partial Likelihood; log-rank test.
Prerequisites: ST 553 with C or better or ST 563 with C or better

ST 651. LINEAR MODEL THEORY. (3 Credits)
Least squares estimation, best linear unbiased estimation, parameterizations, multivariate normal distributions, distributions of quadratic forms, testing linear hypotheses, simultaneous confidence intervals. Offered alternate years.
Recommended: ST 553 and ST 563

ST 652. LINEAR MODEL THEORY. (3 Credits)
Advanced topics including classification models, mixed-effects models and multivariate models. Offered alternate years.
Prerequisites: ST 651 with C or better
Recommended: ST 553 and ST 563

ST 661. ADVANCED THEORY OF STATISTICS. (3 Credits)
Exponential families, sufficient statistics; unbiased, equivariant, Bayes, and admissible estimation. Offered alternate years.
Recommended: ST 563 and MTH 511

ST 662. ADVANCED THEORY OF STATISTICS. (3 Credits)
Uniformly most powerful, unbiased, similar, and invariant tests. Offered alternate years.
Prerequisites: ST 661 with C or better
Recommended: ST 563 and MTH 511

ST 663. ADVANCED THEORY OF STATISTICS. (3 Credits)
First-order and higher-order asymptotics; likelihood ratio, score, and Wald tests; Edgeworth and saddlepoint approximations. Offered alternate years.
Prerequisites: ST 662 with C or better
Recommended: ST 563 and MTH 511

Sustainability (SUS)

SUS 102. "INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE AND SUSTAINABILITY. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the science behind critical environmental issues and the biological basis of creating and maintaining sustainable ecosystems. Focus on such questions as: how do we decide what to believe about environmental issues? How do we quantify, restore, and value biodiversity? What is valid science in the global warming debate? Lec/lab. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: SOIL 102

SUS 103. "INTRODUCTION TO CLIMATE CHANGE. (4 Credits)
An introduction to the principles of climate change science with an emphasis on the empirical evidence for climate change. Students will learn critical thinking skills to assess such questions as: How do we determine the processes controlling global warming? How do we predict trends in climate change? How do we calculate and understand uncertainty in these predictions? What is valid science in the global warming debate? Lec/lab. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPBS – Core, Pers, Biological Science

SUS 304. "SUSTAINABILITY ASSESSMENT. (4 Credits)
Explores theories and application of sustainability assessment techniques and analysis methods. Practical application of globally recognized assessment protocol, including checklists, footprinting, life-cycle analysis and the indicators used to conduct these analyses. Emphasis on ecological and social indicators, although economic indicators are explored. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

SUS 325. "AG AND ENVIRONMENTAL PREDICAMENTS: A CASE STUDY APPROACH. (3 Credits)
Analyze controversial agricultural and environmental issues, synthesize information from diverse sources, and apply scientific knowledge to recommend specific courses of action to solve real world problems. Develop oral and written communication skills through individual and group work. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Equivalent to: SOIL 325

SUS 331. "SUSTAINABILITY, JUSTICE, AND ENGAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Many sustainability crises are local, and the people most impacted tend to be groups already experiencing difference, lack of power, and discrimination. Transformational responses led by those most affected will be examined – responses that address the environmental problem while also building social and economic power for those affected. The tools and tactics used to achieve positive changes will be analyzed. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
SUS 350. *SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES. (4 Credits)
Introduction to the concept of sustainable communities from a multidisciplinary perspective. Instructors from a broad array of disciplines and professions. Development of holistic thinking skills and innovative solutions to complex problems. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Equivalent to: NR 350

SUS 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SUS 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SUS 420. SOCIAL DIMENSIONS OF SUSTAINABILITY. (3 Credits)
Focuses on the social aspects of sustainability, including how the environment, the economy, social life interact to create the world we live in. Explores how social institutions (school, government, business, family) contribute to sustainability and promote or discourage social and environmental justice at local and global scales. Also offered at OSU-Cascades and via Ecampus.

SUS 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

SUS 512. TOPICS IN THE SCIENCE OF SUSTAINABILITY. (4 Credits)
Provides a graduate-level introduction to key concepts and issues in environmental science and sustainability, targeted at business-oriented graduate and post-bacc students who do not have a science background. The course is a core requirement of the Sustainable Business Certificate program offered jointly by the College of Business (COB) and the College of Agricultural Sciences’ (CAS) Sustainability Double-Degree (SDD) Program.

SUS 514. SUSTAINABILITY PLANNING AND ASSESSMENT. (4 Credits)
Sustainability is fundamentally about balancing social, economic and ecological systems. This course examines a range of different methodologies for measuring and evaluating performance towards established sustainability criteria and indicators. Students will critically evaluate tools for making sustainable decisions and understand the limitations of individual assessment approaches in different contexts. Specific assessment techniques to be explored include ecological footprinting, sustainable community indicators, greenhouse gas emissions inventories, sustainability checklists, environmental management systems (ISO standards), life-cycle analysis, and business sustainability reporting. Students will leave the course with the fundamental skills required to complete sustainability assessments via globally relevant approaches.

SUS 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Sustainable Natural Resources (SNR)

SNR 506. INDEPENDENT PROJECT IN NATURAL RESOURCE SUSTAINABILITY. (2 Credits)
Students identify, pose, frame, and analyze the various components of an important natural resource sustainability problem within their country, region, or organization and, at the end of term, present a workplan for its resolution. Oral and written reports are expected. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: SNR 511 with C or better

SNR 511. SUSTAINABLE NATURAL RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT. (1 Credit)
Using readings, class discussions, and field trips, we introduce the program sessions and pedagogical methods, familiarize students with basic working definitions of sustainability, and build capacity to work as group on a common project.

SNR 520. SOCIAL ASPECTS OF SUSTAINABLE NATURAL RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
Using readings, personal experiences, and class discussions, students explore five principles of socially sustainable natural resource management, and review the role they play in creating natural resource-based sustainable communities.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years’ experience working in a natural resources-related field

SNR 521. ECONOMICS OF SUSTAINABLE NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT. (3 Credits)
Focuses on the sources of market failure, the means of correcting market failure, and the real-world examples of making progress toward sustainable resource use by means of market mechanisms.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years’ experience working in a natural resources-related field

SNR 522. BASIC BELIEFS AND ETHICS IN NATURAL RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
Examines basic philosophies and ethical systems in American forestry, including Pinchot’s agricultural/utilitarian approach and Leopold’s biotic/ecological model, compares them to contemporary public attitudes and considers their implications for sustainability.

SNR 530. ECOLOGICAL PRINCIPLES OF SUSTAINABLE NATURAL RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
Focus an ecological sustainability and ecological concepts and principles, with examples drawn from forests and arid lands. Exploration of global ecosystems, ecological processes and services, factors that create and maintain diversity, ecosystem health and integrity. Principles for sustainable natural resource management and use.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years’ experience working in a natural resources-related field. Basic ecology course highly recommended.

SNR 531. SUSTAINABLE SILVICULTURE AND FOREST CERTIFICATION. (3 Credits)
Strategies for sustainable silviculture, and measuring and verifying environmental performance (including certification systems) are examined using classroom lectures, case studies, and field exercises. Part of the 18-credit Sustainable Natural Resources (SNR) Graduate Certificate; also open to other graduate students.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years’ experience working in a natural resources-related field

SNR 532. PLANNING AGROFORESTRY PROJECTS. (2 Credits)
Develop basic understanding and appreciation of agroforestry concepts, systems, technologies and practices as used and applied in tropical and temperate zones of the world.
Recommended: SNR 530 (or equivalent ecology course) and SNR 511

SNR 533. NONTIMBER FOREST PRODUCTS: AN INTERDISCIPLINARY INTRODUCTION. (3 Credits)
Interdisciplinary introduction to the culture, history, economy, ecology, policy and management of non-timber forest products (NTFP), e.g., wild foods, medicines, floral greens, craft material and landscaping species. Includes domestic public and private forest and international case studies.
SNR 534. REDUCED IMPACT TIMBER HARVEST. (2 Credits)
Explores planning, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of reduced impact timber harvesting. Part of the 18-credit Sustainable Natural Resources (SNR) Graduate Certificate; also open to other graduate students.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years' experience working in a natural resources-related field

SNR 535. SUSTAINABLE MANAGEMENT OF AQUATIC AND RIPARIAN RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
Explores integrated strategies for sustainable management of watersheds, estuaries, coastal zones, and aquatic resources. Special emphasis given to links between land uses and aquatic environments. Part of the 18-credit Sustainable Natural Resources (SNR) Graduate Certificate; also open to other graduate students.
Recommended: SNR 511 and at least two years' experience working in a natural resources-related field

SNR 540. GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL CHANGE. (3 Credits)
Explore biological and social sciences that underlie contemporary global change issues: global biogeochemical cycles, climate system, climate change, threats to biodiversity; human dimensions of climate change, globalization, land cover and land use change, global environmental governance and management tools.
Recommended: At least two years' working in a natural resources-related field. Basic biology course highly recommended

SNR 808. WORKSHOP. (1-4 Credits)
Describes the policies, practices, and market mechanisms that enhance ecological, economic, and social sustainability of natural resource production and natural ecosystems. Sustainable natural resource management attempts to meet the needs of the present without compromising the future of people or the ecosystems on which they depend.
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

Prerequisites: TRAL 375 with C- or better or TOL 375 with C- or better
Equivalent to: TOL 478
TRAL 479. *NATURE AND THE HUMAN EXPERIENCE. (3 Credits)
Examines the human experience with (and within) nature from biological, psychological, spiritual, and international/cultural perspectives. Identifies opportunities for fostering the human-nature connection to achieve organizational goals and individual and societal health. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Equivalent to: TOL 479
Recommended: TOL 375 or other equivalent WIC course.
TRAL 493. ENVIRONMENTAL INTERPRETATION. (4 Credits)
Interpretation of natural and cultural features in parks, museums, and similar settings. Emphasis on learning and applying effective communication techniques in the development of brochures, exhibits, talks, museums, and visitor centers.
Equivalent to: FES 493
TRAL 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Topics of current importance in forest resources issues, education, policies, economics, management, business, social values, silviculture, and biometrics. Topics will change from term to term. May be repeated with different topics for credit. Section 8: Social aspects of natural resource management (3 credits) graded.
Equivalent to: TOL 499
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
TRAL 593. ENVIRONMENTAL INTERPRETATION. (4 Credits)
Interpretation of natural and cultural features in parks, museums, and similar settings. Emphasis on learning and applying effective communication techniques in the development of brochures, exhibits, talks, museums, and visitor centers.
Equivalent to: FES 593
TOX 230X. HUMANS AND THE OCEAN. (3 Credits)
An introduction to marine science and the history of humans’ interaction with the ocean. Lectures, group and individual library research, fieldtrips, and assignments will collate approaches from marine science, history, literary study, and other scientific and humanistic disciplines to introduce course material. Topics include oceanographic exploration, fishing and overfishing, and marine pollution. CROSSLISTED AS TOX 230X/ENG 230X/FW 230X.
Equivalent to: ENG 230X, FW 230X
TOX 360. *THE WORLD OF POISONS. (3 Credits)
Provides a basic understanding of how we are exposed and respond to chemicals, examples of human diseases associated with toxic insult, the role of technology and the interface of society and toxicology in risk perception and legislation. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society
Recommended: One 3-credit course in chemistry or one 3-credit course in biology.

TOX 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: AC 401
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: AC 405
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 411. FUNDAMENTALS OF TOXICOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the discipline of toxicology. Examination of the basic concepts that define how chemicals are absorbed, distributed, metabolized, and eliminated by the body. Overview of associated dose/response relations.
Prerequisites: BB 350 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better or BB 450 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better or BB 490 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better

TOX 413. ENVIRONMENTAL TOXICOLOGY AND RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Procedures for defining exposure and the use of toxicological data in defining risk assessment. Recent application of mechanistic concepts are reviewed.
Prerequisites: TOX 411 with D- or better

TOX 429. TOXIC SUBSTANCES IN FOOD. (3 Credits)
Toxicology and epidemiology of human exposures to pesticides and food toxicants.
Prerequisites: BB 350 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better or BB 450 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better or BB 490 (may be taken concurrently) with D- or better
Equivalent to: TOX 429H

TOX 430. CHEMICAL BEHAVIOR IN THE ENVIRONMENT. (3 Credits)
Applications of chemical concepts in the definition and solution of pollution problems; analytical considerations, thermodynamic factors influencing movement of chemicals, physical and metabolic transformations occurring in the environment.
Prerequisites: CH 123 with D- or better or CH 331 with D- or better

TOX 435. *GENES AND CHEMICALS IN AGRICULTURE: VALUE AND RISK. (3 Credits)
A multidisciplinary course that examines the scientific, social, political, economic, environmental, and ethical controversies surrounding agricultural and natural resource biotechnologies. Lec/rec. CROSSLISTED as FES 435/FES 535, FES 435H, MCB 535. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society
Equivalent to: FES 435H
Recommended: One quarter each of biology and chemistry

TOX 435H. *GENES AND CHEMICALS IN AGRICULTURE: VALUE AND RISK. (3 Credits)
A multidisciplinary course that examines the scientific, social, political, economic, environmental, and ethical controversies surrounding agricultural and natural resource biotechnologies. Lec/rec. CROSSLISTED as BI 435H, FS 435H. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: BI 435, BI 435H, FES 435, FS 435, FS 435H, TOX 435
Recommended: One quarter each of biology and chemistry

TOX 445. ECOTOXICOLOGY: AQUATIC ECOSYSTEMS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on transport, fate, and effects of toxic substances in freshwater ecosystems. There is special emphasis on impacts on fish.
Prerequisites: CH 331 with D- or better

TOX 448. COMPUTATIONAL TOXICOLOGY AND RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Provides an in-depth understanding of the current systems biology paradigm for chemical risk and drug safety assessment. Learn about novel technologies in computational chemistry, molecular biology and systems biology used to develop methods for risk assessment, including approaches for chemical prioritization for screening and testing, predictive models for high-throughput hazard identification and utilization of “big data” to determine chemical mechanisms of action and toxicity pathways. Apply these approaches to specific case studies in risk analysis, environmental health and toxicology.
Recommended: One year college chemistry and biology plus introductory toxicology or biochemistry

TOX 449. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

TOX 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 511. FUNDAMENTALS OF TOXICOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the discipline of toxicology. Examination of the basic concepts that define how chemicals are absorbed, distributed, metabolized, and eliminated by the body. Overview of associated dose/response relations.
Prerequisites: BB 550 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better or BB 590 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better

TOX 512. TARGET ORGAN TOXICOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Examination of toxicological effects of chemicals at organ level. Normal physiology of the organ system is received.
Prerequisites: TOX 511 with C or better
TOX 513. ENVIRONMENTAL TOXICOLOGY AND RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Procedures for defining exposure and the use of toxicological data in defining risk assessment. Recent application of mechanistic concepts are reviewed.
Prerequisites: TOX 511 with C or better

TOX 529. TOXIC SUBSTANCES IN FOOD. (3 Credits)
Toxicology and epidemiology of human exposures to pesticides and food toxicants.
Recommended: Completion or concurrent enrollment in BB 350, BB 450 or BB 490

TOX 530. CHEMICAL BEHAVIOR IN THE ENVIRONMENT. (3 Credits)
Applications of chemical concepts in the definition and solution of pollution problems; analytical considerations, thermodynamic factors influencing movement of chemicals, physical and metabolic transformations occurring in the environment.
Recommended: CH 106 and CH 331 and graduate standing.

TOX 535. GENES AND CHEMICALS IN AGRICULTURE: VALUE AND RISK. (3 Credits)
A multidisciplinary course that examines the scientific, social, political, economic, environmental, and ethical controversies surrounding agricultural and natural resource biotechnologies. Lec/rec. CROSSLISTED as FES 435/FES 535, FES 435H, MCB 535.
Equivalent to: BI 535, FES 535, FS 535, MCB 535
Recommended: One quarter each of biology and chemistry

TOX 555. ECOTOXICOLOGY: AQUATIC ECOSYSTEMS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on transport, fate, and effects of toxic substances in freshwater ecosystems. There is special emphasis on impacts on fish.
Recommended: CH 331

TOX 575. ADVANCED XENOBIOTIC METABOLISM AND DISPOSITION. (2 Credits)
Course will focus on structure, function and regulation of specific proteins that function in uptake, distribution, metabolism, and excretion of drugs and other chemicals that are foreign to the body (xenobiotics). The course will focus on proteins which are termed Phase I and Phase II xenobiotic metabolizing enzymes and xenobiotic transporters. There will be an emphasis on Cytchrome P450 enzymes and hepatic and renal xenobiotic transporter proteins and their key roles in xenobiotic metabolism and excretion.
Recommended: TOX 512

TOX 580. COMPUTATIONAL TOXICOLOGY AND RISK ASSESSMENT. (3 Credits)
Provides an in-depth understanding of the current systems biology paradigm for chemical risk and drug safety assessment. Learn about novel technologies in computational chemistry, molecular biology and systems biology used to develop methods for risk assessment, including approaches for chemical prioritization for screening and testing, predictive models for high-throughput hazard identification and utilization of “big data” to determine chemical mechanisms of action and toxicity pathways. Apply these approaches to specific case studies in risk analysis, environmental health and toxicology.
Recommended: One year college chemistry and biology plus introductory toxicology or biochemistry

TOX 590. ENVIRONMENTAL FORENSIC CHEMISTRY. (3 Credits)
Principles of Good Laboratory Practice Standards, methodology, utility and limitations of chemical forensic methods as applied to real investigations.
Recommended: One year of college chemistry and one term of organic chemistry.

TOX 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

TOX 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 611. TESTING FOR GENOTOXICITY. (4 Credits)
A lab-based course geared toward toxicology, biochemistry, biology, food science, nutrition, pharmacy and MCB students. Introduces principles and methods of several key assays used to screen for DNA damage and mutation. These tests will include the following: (i) Salmonella mutagenicity assay (Ames test), (ii) single cell gel electrophoresis ('comet') assay, (iii) micronucleus assay, and (iv) PCR-based single strand conformation polymorphism (SSCP) screening for oncogene/tumor suppressor gene mutation in cancers. This 2-week, intensive lab/lecture class runs Mon-Fri in the LPSC during the first session of summer term. Each day includes laboratory work and a 2-hour lecture covering basic principles of the assays, as well as technical details of the experiment for the day.
Prerequisites: TOX 514 with C or better
Recommended: BB 400 series, prior course work on DNA repair and mutagenesis

TOX 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TOX 808. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Twentieth Century Studies (TCS)

TCS 407. SEMINAR. (1-12 Credits)
Advanced study of selected topics related to issues and problems in the twentieth century introduced in TCS core course offerings. Section I seminars will be graded pass/no pass and carry 1 credit; other sections will be graded A-F and will carry variable credit.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

TCS 507. SEMINAR. (1-12 Credits)
Advanced study of selected topics related to issues and problems in the Twentieth Century introduced in TCS core course offerings. Section I seminars will be graded P/N and carry 1 credit; other sections will be graded A-F and will carry variable credit.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

University Experience (UEXP)

UEXP 111. INTRODUCTION TO RESIDENTIAL EDUCATION. (2 Credits)
Provides an interactive learning environment where participants will both acquire and apply the fundamental knowledge necessary to effectively assist college students as they navigate through their collegiate experiences in a residential setting.

UEXP 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 199. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
UEXP 290. INFORMATION AND GLOBAL SOCIAL JUSTICE. (3 Credits)
In preparing for any trip, many questions come up. In this course you will ask yourself questions, from the simple to the more complex. We will begin class on the OSU campus and continue on location in Spain or Italy. In-country, you will immerse in the local culture via a homestay, participate in service-learning, visit museums, explore cultural and historic locations, and attend lectures. While seeking answers to our questions we will reflect on the forces (politics, access, linguistic, economic, etc.) that affect the information available to us. This class has no language requirement.

UEXP 299. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 406. SPECIAL PROJECTS. (2 Credits)
Trains new ambassadors to lead campus and housing tours. Creates educated, ethically and morally responsible, fully confident TOUR (Team of Undergraduate Recruiters) Ambassadors who are engaged, reflective, creative, and caring members of their communities who can contribute to the success of prospective and new students.

UEXP 407. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: AHE 407
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 410. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

UEXP 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Veterinary Medicine Biomedical (VMB)

VMB 110. PREVETERINARY MEDICINE. (1 Credit)
Introduction to the profession’s role in society. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 110

VMB 328. WILDLIFE CAPTURE AND IMMOBILIZATION. (2 Credits)
Manual and chemical restraint methods are covered with an emphasis on darting equipment, animal and human safety, drug pharmacology and species specific recommendations. CROSSLISTED as FW 328. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: FW 328
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMB 401. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 415. ONE HEALTH IN PRACTICE. (3 Credits)
One health is the concept that human, animal and environmental health are all intertwined. The course will utilize current one health issues such as disease outbreaks and antimicrobial resistance to encourage students from diverse fields to develop interdisciplinary collaboration and communication skills. CROSSLISTED as BHS 415.
Equivalent to: BHS 415

VMB 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Special studies course to allow different instructors the ability to teach a new class or one time class. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 501
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 503. THESIS. (1-12 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 503
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

VMB 504. WRITING AND CONFERENCE (NON-THESIS). (1-9 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

VMB 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 505
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 507
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 517. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Physiology of body fluids, muscles, membranes, intermediary metabolism, cardiovascular system, and metabolism.
Equivalent to: VM 517

VMB 518. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Physiology of gastrointestinal, endocrine and reproductive systems.
Prerequisites: VMB 517 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 518

VMB 519. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Physiology of respiratory and renal systems and acid-base balance.
Prerequisites: VMB 518 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 519

VMB 521. ANIMAL MODELS. (3 Credits)
Selection/use criteria for models describing animal or human diseases or processes with emphasis on experimental design, validation, transgenic technology, population dynamics, husbandry, and ethics.

VMB 523. ZOOSES. (3 Credits)
Interactive examination of the molecular basis of diseases that are transmissible between animals and humans. Emphasis on bacterial, viral and parasitic pathogens of animals and humans.

VMB 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 601
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 603
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

VMB 604. WRITING AND CONFERENCE (NON-THESIS). (1-9 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

VMB 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 605
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 606
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMB 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
One-credit section; VMB 607 Sect. 1. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 607
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
VMB 611. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken.
Equivalent to: VM 611

VMB 612. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken.
Equivalent to: VM 612

VMB 613. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken.
Equivalent to: VM 613

VMB 614. VETERINARY MICROSCOPIC ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Structure and development of cells, tissues, organs, and organ systems of animals.
Equivalent to: VM 614

VMB 615. VETERINARY MICROSCOPIC ANATOMY. (3 Credits)
Structure and development of cells, tissues, organs, and organ systems of animals.
Equivalent to: VM 615

VMB 616. VETERINARY NEUROSCIENCES. (4 Credits)
Structural and functional relationships of the nervous system and organs of special sense with emphasis on general clinical application.

VMB 620. VETERINARY IMMUNOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Clinical and diagnostic aspects of immunological mechanisms, serological reactions; hypersensitivity, allergy, and disorders of the immune system.
Equivalent to: VM 620

VMB 621. GENERAL PATHOLOGY. (4 Credits)
General principles of pathology, cell injury and death, inflammation and tissue repair, abnormalities of cell growth, and structures and mechanisms of disease.
Equivalent to: VM 621

VMB 622. PATHOLOGY LABORATORY. (1 Credit)
Laboratory instruction to complement VMB 621.
Prerequisites: VMB 611 (may be taken concurrently) with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 622

VMB 627. ORNAMENTAL FISH MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
An introduction to the basic principles of ornamental fish medicine including basic husbandry, handling and clinical procedures. This is a 1-week intensive course held at the Hatfield Marine Science Center in Newport, Oregon. Graded P/N.

VMB 630. MECHANISMS OF DISEASE. (3 Credits)
Cellular and molecular events that contribute to the pathogenesis of disease in animals, including humans. Host interactions with infectious agents and the environment.
Equivalent to: VM 630

VMB 631. MATHEMATICAL MODELING OF BIOLOGICAL SYSTEMS. (3 Credits)
The use of mathematical modeling in biological sciences is studied. A variety of modeling techniques are covered including implementing the methods computationally.

VMB 640. SEMINARS IN LABORATORY ANIMAL MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
Prepares students for careers in laboratory animal medicine. Provides a review of medical conditions, diagnosis and treatment of research animals.

VMB 641. SEMINARS IN LABORATORY ANIMAL MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
Prepares students for careers in laboratory animal medicine. Provides a review of medical conditions, diagnosis and treatment for research animals.

VMB 651. SELECTED TOPICS IN VETERINARY MEDICINE. (3 Credits)
Topics vary; check Schedule of Classes for particular topics.
Equivalent to: VM 651

VMB 652. CANCER SYSTEMS BIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Overview of systems biology approaches that are being used to study cancer, with an emphasis on omics techniques and fundamental mechanisms in the origination and progression of cancer. Discussion-based, with each class session focused on a contemporary research article in the field of cancer systems biology.

VMB 653. VETERINARY VIROLOGY. (4 Credits)
Virology for the professional and graduate student.

VMB 659. VETERINARY BACTERIOLOGY AND MYCOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Veterinary bacteriology and mycology for the veterinary graduate student.

VMB 660. VETERINARY PARASITOLOGY. (5 Credits)
A study of the parasitic diseases of domestic animals with an emphasis on diagnosis and treatment. Fundamentals in host-parasite interactions, taxonomy and life cycle strategies are covered.

VMB 663. VETERINARY DIAGNOSTIC PATHOLOGY. (6 Credits)
Practical hands-on course training students in the diagnostic pathology utilizing case material received at the OSU Veterinary Diagnostic Lab. Graded P/N.

VMB 664. COMPARATIVE MICROSCOPIC PATHOLOGY. (1 Credit)
Case-based discussion course to train participants in the recognition, description, and pathogenesis of a wide variety of disease processes with an emphasis on microscopic features. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMB 665. READINGS IN VETERINARY PATHOLOGY. (1 Credit)
Group discussions of assigned readings central to understanding of veterinary pathology, including recent advances. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMB 666. VETERINARY MEDICINE AND PUBLIC HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Covers aspects of veterinary medicine that affect human health. An understanding of the contribution of the veterinary profession to human (public) health will enable students to play an effective role in this area, regardless of career direction.

VMB 667. VETERINARY EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
A course for veterinary students describing the factors determining the frequency and distribution of diseases, in a defined population of animals for the purpose of establishing programs to prevent and control their development and spread in this population.

VMB 669. INTRODUCTION TO GRANT PROPOSAL WRITING. (2 Credits)
To introduce students to the fundamentals of writing grant proposals to the National Institute of Health (NIH), different funding mechanisms, as well as the grant reviewing process. CROSSLISTED as PHAR 669.
Equivalent to: PHAR 669
This course is repeatable for 20 credits.
VM 670. INTRODUCTION TO SYSTEMS BIOLOGY. (2 Credits)
Students will gain a high-level overview of systems biology and bioinformatics, with an emphasis on biomedical applications, integration of "omics" approaches, and biological networks.

VM 671. MOLECULAR TOOLS. (3 Credits)
Intended for personnel with some scientific background who are seeking basic- and advanced-level molecular biology knowledge and who wish to become involved with molecular biology-related and biotechnological research. CROSSLISTED as MCB 671.
Equivalent to: MCB 671

VM 672. MOLECULAR APPROACH TO CANCER. (1 Credit)
Overview of cancer pathogenesis and current molecular techniques to diagnose and treat various neoplasms is provided. Content will include both veterinary and human data and concepts. Discussion/Lab. Graded
P/N.

VM 673. COMPARATIVE IMMUNOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Examines immune system function in animals other than mice and men with a focus on adapting cutting-edge technologies.

VM 674. VACCINES AND NEW THERAPIES. (3 Credits)
Provides students with a cohesive understanding of the basic research behind the discovery of new therapeutic targets and scientific advancements used in development of vaccines and new therapies.

VM 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

VM 701. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 701
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VM 705. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 705
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VM 706. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 706
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VM 709. VETERINARY MEDICINE ORIENTATION. (1 Credit)
An overview of veterinary medicine with emphasis on historical development, current veterinary medical issues, employment opportunities, and professionalism. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 709

VM 711. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken.
Equivalent to: VM 711

VM 712. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken.
Equivalent to: VM 712

VM 713. VETERINARY GROSS ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Systematic and topographic study and dissection of the dog, cat, horse, ruminant, pig, and chicken. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 713

VM 714. VETERINARY MICROSCOPIC ANATOMY. (4 Credits)
Structure and development of cells, tissues, organs, and organ systems of animals.
Equivalent to: VM 714

VM 715. VETERINARY MICROSCOPIC ANATOMY. (3 Credits)
Structure and development of cells, tissues, organs, and organ systems of animals.
Equivalent to: VM 715

VM 716. VETERINARY NEUROSCIENCES. (4 Credits)
Structural and functional relationships of the nervous system and organs of special sense with emphasis on general clinical application.
Equivalent to: VM 716

VM 717. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Physiology of body fluids, excretion, respiration, acid-base balance, blood, muscle, bone, cardiovascular system, digestion, metabolism, endocrine system, reproduction, and lactation.
Equivalent to: VM 717

VM 718. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Physiology of body fluids, excretion, respiration, acid-base balance, blood, muscle, bone, cardiovascular system, digestion, metabolism, endocrine system, reproduction, and lactation.
Equivalent to: VM 718

VM 719. VETERINARY PHYSIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Physiology of body fluids, excretion, respiration, acid-base balance, blood, muscle, bone, cardiovascular system, digestion, metabolism, endocrine system, reproduction, and lactation. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 719

VM 720. VETERINARY IMMUNOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Clinical and diagnostic aspects of immunological mechanisms, serological reactions, hypersensitivity, allergy, and disorders of the immune system. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 720

VM 721. VETERINARY PATHOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Basic mechanisms and concepts relating to reaction of cells and tissues to disease, with emphasis on cellular and tissue degeneration, inflammatory reaction, circulatory disturbance and neoplasia. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 721

VM 722. RESEARCH READING SKILLS FOR VETERINARY STUDENTS. (1 Credit)
Training in critical evaluation of biomedical and clinical research studies, and understanding of laboratory diagnostic methods.

VM 723. VETERINARY LEADERSHIP: INCLUSION, REFLECTION, DEVELOPMENT. (1 Credit)
Focusing on diversity and inclusion, self-compassion, and effective interpersonal communication in relationship to fostering leadership in veterinary medicine. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 10 credits.

VM 726. PET BIRD AND SMALL MAMMAL MEDICINE AND SURGERY. (2 Credits)
Medicine and surgery of pet birds and small animals. Graded P/N.

VM 727. ORNAMENTAL FISH MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
An introduction to the basic principles of ornamental fish medicine including basic husbandry, handling and clinical procedures. Graded P/N.

VM 728. SPECIAL ANIMAL MEDICINE. (4 Credits) Diagnosis, treatment, and management of special animals, including the common laboratory animals.
Equivalent to: VM 728
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.
VMB 729. LAB ANIMAL/PRIMATE MEDICINE AND SURGERY. (3-12 Credits)
Designed to provide hands-on experience with a variety of laboratory animal species including primates, rodents, ungulates, fish, and reptiles. May be repeated up to 4 times for 3, 6, 9 or 12 credits per term. 12 credits maximum apply toward graduation. Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

VMB 736. DIAGNOSTIC CLINICAL PATHOLOGY. (2 Credits)
One week clinical experience in clinical pathology, cytology, urinalysis, clinical chemistry interpretation and hematology. Lec/lab. Equivalent to: VM 736

VMB 740. VETERINARY INTEGRATED PROBLEM SOLVING. (1 Credit)
The first of three 1-credit courses in problem solving and integration of clinical cases and basic sciences in the veterinary curriculum. Equivalent to: VM 740

VMB 741. VETERINARY INTEGRATED PROBLEM SOLVING. (1 Credit)
The second of three 1-credit courses in problem solving and integration of clinical cases and basic sciences in the veterinary curriculum. Equivalent to: VM 741

VMB 742. VETERINARY INTEGRATED PROBLEM SOLVING. (1 Credit)
The third of three 1-credit courses in problem solving and integration of clinical cases and basic sciences in the veterinary curriculum. Graded P/N. Equivalent to: VM 742

This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMB 743. VETERINARY INTEGRATED PROBLEM SOLVING. (1 Credit)
A course in problem solving and integration of clinical cases and basic sciences in the veterinary curriculum. Students learn through interaction with their peers and with independent study outside of class. Graded P/N. Equivalent to: VM 743

VMB 744. VETERINARY INTEGRATED PROBLEM SOLVING. (1 Credit)
A course in problem solving and integration of clinical cases and basic sciences in the veterinary curriculum. Students learn through interaction with their peers and with independent study outside of class. Graded P/N. Equivalent to: VM 744

VMB 745. COMMUNICATIONS FOR VETERINARIANS. (1 Credit)
Communications and problem solving for the third-year veterinary student. Graded P/N.

VMB 749. WILDLIFE SAFARI. (2 Credits)
Clinical training in the care of exotic and zoo animal species. Graded P/N.

VMB 750. SYSTEMIC PATHOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Examines the principles of system and organ responses to injury and the consequent effects of these changes on the host. Equivalent to: VM 7500

VMB 751. SYSTEMIC PATHOLOGY II. (5 Credits)
Examines the principles of system and organ responses to injury and the consequent effects of these changes on the host. Equivalent to: VM 751

VMB 753. VETERINARY VIROLOGY. (4 Credits)
Virology for the professional DVM student. Equivalent to: VM 753

VMB 756. ADVANCED CLINICAL PATHOLOGY. (1 Credit)
One-week rotation in advanced clinical pathology: cytology, hematology and clinical chemistry interpretation. Graded P/N. Prerequisites: VMB 736 with C or better

VMB 759. VETERINARY BACTERIOLOGY AND MYCOLOGY. (5 Credits)
Bacteriology and mycology for the professional DVM student. Equivalent to: VM 759

VMB 760. VETERINARY PARASITOLOGY. (5 Credits)
A study of the parasitic diseases of domestic animals with an emphasis on diagnosis and treatment. Fundamentals in host-parasite interactions, taxonomy and life cycle strategies are covered. Equivalent to: VM 760

VMB 761. VETERINARY PHARMACOLOGY. (2 Credits)
Fundamentals of pharmacology as related to veterinary medicine presented in a systems-oriented approach with drug therapy in domestic animals. Equivalent to: VM 761

VMB 762. VETERINARY PHARMACOLOGY II. (4 Credits)
Fundamentals of pharmacology as related to veterinary medicine presented in a systems-oriented approach with drug therapy in domestic animals. Equivalent to: VM 762

VMB 763. VETERINARY CLINICAL PATHOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Clinical pathology for the professional DVM student. Equivalent to: VM 763

VMB 765. VETERINARY TOXICOLOGY. (4 Credits)
A study of toxic agents, mechanisms of action, toxicosis and treatments, especially as related to domestic and wild animals, with principles of toxicity testing, clinical diagnosis, and identification of poisonous plants. Lec/lab. Equivalent to: VM 765

VMB 766. EPIDEMIOLOGY AND PUBLIC HEALTH. (3 Credits)
Examination of the application of epidemiology to the field of veterinary medicine and the study of important veterinary public health issues. Equivalent to: VM 766

VMB 767. VETERINARY EPIDEMIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Examines factors determining the frequency and distribution of diseases in a defined population of animals for the purpose of establishing programs to prevent and control their development and spread in this population. Equivalent to: VM 767

VMB 768. BASIC HISTOPATHOLOGY. (1 Credit)
A rotation in histopathology at the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory. Emphasis is placed on case evaluation, diagnosis and report writing of biopsies of all species. Graded P/N. Prerequisites: VM 751 with C or better

VMB 769. ANIMAL GENOMICS. (1 Credit)
Discussion about the dog and cow genomes, susceptibility to diseases, and the possibilities and techniques for treatment of medical conditions by gene transfer and modification.

VMB 772. INTERNATIONAL VETERINARY MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
Veterinary students work with veterinarians and domestic animals in international settings. Graded P/N. This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMB 774. LABORATORY ANIMAL MEDICINE. (6 Credits)
Clinical experience related to diagnosis, treatment, and management of laboratory animals. Graded P/N. Equivalent to: VM 774
VMB 786. ADVANCED HISTOPATHOLOGY. (2 Credits)
A rotation in histopathology at the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory. Emphasis is placed on case evaluation, diagnosis and report writing of biopsies of all species.

VMB 795. DIAGNOSTIC SERVICES. (2 Credits)
Students will perform service duty in the necropsy area of the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory and will perform necropsies on delivered specimens. Other activities.

Veterinary Medicine Clinical (VMC)

VMC 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 501
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 503. THESIS. (1-12 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 503
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

VMC 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 505
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 509. TEACHING PRACTICUM FOR VETERINARY PROFESSIONAL CURRICULUM. (1-6 Credits)
Provides veterinary specialty residents and graduate students a mentored experience in teaching of veterinary medical students. Experience can be gained with teaching of lecture and/or laboratory courses.
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 601
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 603
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

VMC 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 605
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 606. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 606
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
One-credit section; VMC 607 Sect. 1. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VM 607
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 632. POSTGRADUATE MEDICINE. (3-7 Credits)
An interactive, practical course on the role of scholarship in clinical medicine, including techniques to develop and conduct research in a clinical setting.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 634. POSTGRADUATE SURGERY. (3-7 Credits)
An interactive, practical course on the role of scholarship in clinical surgery, including techniques to develop and conduct research in a clinical setting.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 637. POSTGRADUATE CARDIOLOGY. (3-7 Credits)
An interactive, practical course on the role of scholarship in clinical cardiology, including techniques to develop and conduct research in a clinical setting.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 682. TOPICS IN INTERNAL MEDICINE. (2-4 Credits)
In-depth investigation of important topics in physiology, pathophysiology, treatment, diagnosis, and other aspects of internal medicine through investigation of primary literature and recent reviews.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 684. TOPICS IN SURGERY. (2-4 Credits)
In-depth investigation of important topics in physiology, pathophysiology, treatment, diagnosis, and other aspects of surgery through investigation of primary literature and recent reviews.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 701. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 701
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 705. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 705
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 706. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: VM 706
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 711. CLINICAL CARDIOLOGY. (1-4 Credits)
A one-week clinical elective rotation in cardiology at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital. May be repeated up to 4 times, two weeks or more is encouraged. Fourth-year standing in Veterinary Medicine required.
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMC 712. CLINICAL ONCOLOGY. (1-4 Credits)
A one-week clinical elective rotation in clinical oncology at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital. May be repeated up to 4 times, two weeks or more is encouraged. Fourth-year standing in Veterinary Medicine required. Prerequisites: VMC 778 with C or better
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

VMC 714. SMALL ANIMAL DENTISTRY. (1 Credit)
A clinical course designed to provide students with hands-on training in diagnosis, treatment and prophylaxis of dental diseases of dogs and cats.

VMC 715. CASE STUDIES IN SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE I. (1 Credit)
A case-based course involving diseases and conditions of the endocrine, gastrointestinal and hepatobiliary systems as well as neoplastic and infectious diseases of small animals.

VMC 716. CASE STUDIES IN SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE II. (1 Credit)
A case-based course involving diseases and conditions of the cardiovascular, respiratory and urogenital systems as well as emergent diseases and conditions.

VMC 717. CASE STUDIES IN SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE III. (1 Credit)
A case-based course involving diseases and conditions of the dermatologic, neurologic, ophthalmologic, and hemolymphatic systems.
VMC 718. SMALL ANIMAL PREVENTIVE MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
Introductory course to basic concepts in small animal preventive medicine including vaccine immunology, vaccine strategies, internal/external parasite control, nutrition in disease prevention, and wellness programs for dogs and cats.

VMC 719. CLINICAL CARDIOLOGY I. (2 Credits)
Hands-on practical experience in a clinical setting in taking a clinical history, performing a cardiovascular physical examinations, recording electrocardiograms, interpreting thoracic radiographs and echocardiograms, creating problem lists, compiling lists of differential diagnosis, formulating diagnostic and therapeutic plans, discussing treatment options, generating medical records, and discharging patients.

VMC 720. VETERINARY CLINICAL NUTRITION. (2 Credits)
To examine the nutritional needs of many species of veterinary importance. Emphasis is placed on designing feeding programs to optimize health and animal performance.

VMC 721. SMALL ANIMAL CLINICAL NUTRITION. (1 Credit)
Introduction to the concepts of small animal clinical nutrition and is designed for the third-year veterinary student.

VMC 722. ADVANCED FELINE MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
A one-week elective for senior students in the DVM curriculum. The course emphasizes aspects of internal medicine specific to the domestic cat. Graded P/N.

VMC 723. LARGE ANIMAL SURGERY. (6 Credits)
Selected surgical techniques and procedures related to equine and food animal species.
Equivalent to: VM 724

VMC 724. SMALL ANIMAL THERIOGENOLOGY. (1 Credit)
Advanced clinical experience in small animal (canine) reproduction. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 783 with C or better

VMC 725. PRINCIPLES OF SURGERY. (4 Credits)
A basic course in the principles and techniques of surgery for the professional veterinary student. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 725

VMC 726. ADVANCED SMALL ANIMAL SURGERY. (2 Credits)
One-week of additional lectures and laboratories to improve surgical skills and acquire more advanced knowledge of specific surgical conditions. Lec/lab. Graded P/N.

VMC 727. CLINICAL THERIOGENOLOGY. (1 Credit)
Practical and theoretical training in reproductive management and disorders in all species; routine diagnostic and treatment procedures; clinic rounds.
This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

VMC 731. SMALL ANIMAL EMERGENCY CARE-DOVE LEWIS. (3 Credits)
A two-week clinical rotation at the Dove Lewis Memorial Emergency Clinic in Portland, OR.
Equivalent to: VM 731

VMC 732. CLINICAL LARGE ANIMAL MEDICINE I. (3,6 Credits)
Clinical medicine training in diseases of food animals and horses; clinic rounds and diagnostic procedures.
Equivalent to: VM 732
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

VMC 733. LARGE ANIMAL THERIOGENOLOGY. (1 Credit)
Advanced clinical experience in large animal (equine) reproduction. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 783 with C or better

VMC 734. CLINICAL LARGE ANIMAL SURGERY I. (3,6 Credits)
Clinical surgery, treatment, and care of food animals and horses; clinical rounds; training in surgery, lameness, and diagnostic procedures. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 734
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

VMC 735. RURAL VETERINARY PRACTICE I. (3,6 Credits)
Rural practice training in diseases of food animals and horses. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 735
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 736. CLINICAL SKILLS IV: PROFessional COMMUNICATION AND ETHICS. (2 Credits)
Develop communication skills and ethical reasoning for client interactions.

VMC 737. VETERINARY ANESTHESIOLOGY. (4 Credits)
A three-week rotation in veterinary anesthesiology utilizing patients presented to the veterinary teaching hospital.
Equivalent to: VM 737

VMC 738. INTRODUCTION TO ANIMAL CARE. (3 Credits)
Feeding, housing, breeding and marketing systems related to animal care.
Equivalent to: VM 738
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 739. VETERINARY MEDICAL ETHICS. (1 Credit)
Introduction of ethics in veterinary medicine, with specific attention to ethical theories, ethical decision making, moral status of animals, professional ethics, and practice issues.
Equivalent to: VM 739

VMC 740. SHEEP AND GOAT MEDICINE AND SURGERY. (3 Credits)
Discussions of economically important sheep and goat diseases, practical surgeries, and a review of nutrition and husbandry. Graded P/N.

VMC 741. LARGE ANIMAL GI SURGERY. (2 Credits)
A one-week course for 4th year veterinary students, with particular interest in gastrointestinal surgery. Graded P/N.

VMC 742. CAMELID MEDICINE AND SURGERY. (4 Credits)
Designed to give students an in-depth introduction to camelid health care via hands-on work, lectures, and discussion sections. Graded P/N.

VMC 744. ADVANCED LAMENESS IN EQUINE. (3 Credits)
Application of anatomy, lameness examination, nerve and joint anesthesia, diagnostic radiology, ultrasound and nuclear scintigraphy to diagnosis of lameness in horses. Graded P/N.

VMC 745. PRACTICE MANAGEMENT. (2 Credits)
A course in basic personal and business finances, career skills, and legal aspects of veterinary practice. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VMB 775

VMC 746. VETERINARY ANESTHESIOLOGY II. (3 Credits)
An additional two-week clinical rotation in veterinary anesthesiology utilizing patients presented to the Veterinary Teaching Hospital. Graded P/N.

VMC 747. EQUINE DENTISTRY. (2 Credits)
Utilizing modern, motorized equipment, cadaver specimens, and live hospital and client horses, students will learn and perform modern methods of equine dental prophylaxis and treatment. Graded P/N.

VMC 749. CLINICAL IMAGING II. (3 Credits)
Advanced clinical course for 4th-year veterinary students in which they will assume additional responsibility for performing common radiographic procedures. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 796 with C or better
VMC 750. EQUINE CLINICAL NUTRITION. (1 Credit)
A one-week course for veterinary students focusing on equine nutrition that can be used in veterinary practice. Graded P/N.

VMC 751. RUMINANT NUTRITION. (2 Credits)
An advanced course in clinical ruminant nutrition dealing with nutritional problems of ruminants that might be encountered by a practicing veterinarian. Graded P/N.

VMC 752. CLINICAL LARGE ANIMAL MEDICINE II. (3-6 Credits)
Additional clinical medicine training. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 732 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 752
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 753. CLINICAL ONCOLOGY I. (2 Credits)
Teaches students a realistic approach to the diagnosis and treatment of pets with cancer. Students will participate in rounds, case management and medical records keeping.

VMC 754. CLINICAL LARGE ANIMAL SURGERY II. (3,6 Credits)
Additional clinical surgery training. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 734 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 754
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 755. RURAL VETERINARY PRACTICE II. (3-6 Credits)
One additional rural practice training. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 735 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 755
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

VMC 756. CLINICAL SKILLS V: TECHNICAL SKILLS AND CLINICAL REASONING. (1 Credit)
Development of technical and psychomotor skills and clinical reasoning in preparation for clinical coursework.

VMC 758. CATTLE PRODUCTION MEDICINE. (3 Credits)
Clinical application of production medicine practices to dairy and beef cattle practice. Graded P/N.
Prerequisites: VMC 735 with C or better
Equivalent to: VM 758

VMC 759. LARGE ANIMAL PALPATION. (1 Credit)
A laboratory for additional experience in rectal palpation of large animals, for third-year veterinary students. Graded P/N.

VMC 760. CLINICAL SKILLS I: INTRO TO ANIMAL CARE AND VETERINARY MED. (3 Credits)
Introduction of a variety of topics relevant to veterinary clinical skills including professionalism, inclusion, ethics, and career options. In addition, animal care, handling, restraint, and physical exam skills will begin to be developed.

VMC 761. CLINICAL SKILLS II: PHYSICAL EXAM AND PROBLEM SOLVING SKILLS. (3 Credits)
Introduction to problem solving and integration of clinical case and basic science in the veterinary curriculum. Development of physical exam skills on healthy animals and medical records keeping.

VMC 762. CLINICAL SKILLS III: REASONING AND COMMUNICATION. (2 Credits)
Develop communication skills and clinical reasoning in preparation for client interactions and evidence-based decision-making.

VMC 763. ADVANCED CLINICAL CARDIOLOGY. (1 Credit)
An elective course for junior veterinary students detailing diagnosis and management of the common congenital and acquired cardiac diseases of domestic animals.

VMC 764. DIAGNOSTIC IMAGING. (4 Credits)
A lecture and laboratory course in diagnostic imaging covering physics or radiography and ultrasonography, radiation safety and image interpretation for small and large animals, presented by body systems.
Equivalent to: VM 764

VMC 765. ADVANCED CLINICAL RADIOLOGY. (1 Credit)
An elective advanced radiology case-based course for Year 3 veterinary medicine students that focuses on radiographic findings of commonly encountered clinical disease.

VMC 766. CLINICAL SMALL ANIMAL ULTRASONOGRAPHY. (2 Credits)
A 1-week overview of clinical small animal ultrasonography with particular emphasis on material relevant to a general or emergency practitioner. Students will be able to perform a FAST scan to identify peritoneal fluid. Students will listen to didactic lectures in the morning with practical sessions in the afternoon. At the end of the week, pairs of students will make a short presentation based on a literature search on a topic of interest.

VMC 767. SMALL ANIMAL ABDOMINAL ULTRASOUND. (3 Credits)
Introductory course to provides instruction in veterinary ultrasound with an emphasis on image optimization, evaluation of the abdomen, description and interpretation of imaging findings in dogs and cats. This course is intended for students with a background in common small animal disease and imaging anatomy.

VMC 768. PRINCIPLES OF ANESTHESIA. (4 Credits)
A basic course in the principles and techniques of surgery and anesthesia for the professional veterinary student. Lec/lab.
Equivalent to: VM 768

VMC 769. GENERAL MEDICINE. (2 Credits)
An introduction to medicine with a discussion of the principles of medicine that would be applicable to all species. Physical examination, clinical diagnosis, pathophysiology of signs of disease in domestic animals, therapeutic principles and diagnostic procedures.
Equivalent to: VM 769

VMC 770. LARGE ANIMAL MEDICINE I. (4 Credits)
The first of three courses in large animal medicine for third-year professional veterinary students covering diagnosis and treatment of domestic large animals.
Equivalent to: VM 770

VMC 771. LARGE ANIMAL MEDICINE II. (4 Credits)
Diagnosis, treatment and control of diseases of large domestic animals, specifically gastrointestinal, hepatobiliary diseases, weight loss, and introduction to production medicine, and some swine diseases.

VMC 772. LARGE ANIMAL MEDICINE III. (4 Credits)
Diagnosis, treatment and control of diseases of large domestic animals, specifically central nervous system, mastitis, musculoskeletal, sudden death, skin, and some swine diseases.

VMC 773. MEDICINE LABORATORY I. (1 Credit)
Laboratory experience for third-year veterinary students concurrent with the large and small animal medicine courses.

VMC 774. MEDICINE LABORATORY II. (1 Credit)
Laboratory experience for third-year veterinary students concurrent with the large and small animal medicine courses.

VMC 775. CLINICAL SMALL SPORTS MEDICINE AND REHABILITATION. (3 Credits)
Clinical training in small animal rehabilitation in the Veterinary Teaching Hospital.
VMC 776. SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE I. (5 Credits)
A course for veterinary students describing major topics of small animal internal medicine, using both a systems-based approach and a problem-based approach.
Equivalent to: VMC 776

VMC 777. SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE II. (5 Credits)
A course for veterinary students describing major topics of small animal internal medicine, using both a systems-based approach and a problem-based approach.

VMC 778. SMALL ANIMAL MEDICINE III. (5 Credits)
A course for veterinary students describing major topics of small animal internal medicine, using both a systems-based approach and a problem-based approach.

VMC 779. EQUINE SPORTS MEDICINE. (1 Credit)
One-week elective encompassing basic exercise physiology, sports-related injuries, injury rehabilitation, training and nutrition of equine athletes. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VMC 779

VMC 780. VETERINARY MEDICAL PRECEPTORSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
Theory of practice of veterinary medicine in a non-university situation. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VMC 780
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 781. SEMINAR IN VETERINARY MEDICINE. (1-16 Credits)
Seminars and case discussions on selected topics by students, staff, and others. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: VMC 781
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

VMC 782. EMERGENCY CARE. (1 Credit)
One-week rotation in the Veterinary Teaching Hospital during non-regular hours. Practice and instruction in caring for critically ill patients.
Equivalent to: VMC 782

VMC 783. THERIOGENOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
To present the clinical applications of reproductive physiology, anatomy, embryology, pathology and microbiology in domesticated animals.
Equivalent to: VMC 783

VMC 785. SMALL ANIMAL SURGERY. (7 Credits)
A lecture and laboratory course covering the diagnosis, operative methods, and aftercare of common small animal surgical conditions.
Equivalent to: VMC 785

VMC 786. ANIMAL BEHAVIOR. (1 Credit)
Diagnosis and treatment of feline, canine and equine problem behaviors including aggression, anxiety, house-soiling and compulsive behaviors.

VMC 787. 3RD YEAR CLINICS. (1 Credit)
An introductory clinical experience for third-year veterinary students.

VMC 788. BUSINESS APPLICATIONS IN PRIVATE SMALL ANIMAL PRACTICE. (1 Credit)
A hands-on elective course exploring the business of small animal general practice in a case-based approach.
This course is repeatable for 2 credits.

VMC 789. PET PRACTICE. (3 Credits)
Additional clinical training in primary care pet practice at a Banfield Pet Hospital. Graded P/N.
This course is repeatable for 6 credits.

Water Resources Engineering (WRE)

WRE 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

WRE 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 508. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.
Also be useful for other students. Lec/rec. Program (many of whom will be international students) the course will be designed for students in the Water Cooperation and Peace joint degree. Students will work through a series of case studies in water resource issues. It is comprised of lecture and discussion sessions with guest lectures by visiting seminar speakers.

WRP 521. WATER CONFLICT MANAGEMENT AND TRANSFORMATION. (3 Credits)
Examines ways to work effectively in contentious water situations. Explores conflict tolerance, prevention, management, and transformation through collaborative structures as well as through models of negotiation and dialogue.

WRP 523. ENVIRONMENTAL WATER TRANSACTIONS. (3 Credits)
Covers the theory and practice of using water rights transactions to reallocate water rights to environmental purposes. Different transactional techniques and contexts appropriate to their use are presented through case studies primarily from the western United States, with some reference to the use transactions in other countries such as Australia.

WRP 524. SOCIOTECHNOCAL ASPECTS OF WATER RESOURCES. (3 Credits)
Core curriculum, graduate-level course in the Water Resources Graduate Program focusing on an interdisciplinary approach to water resources research that integrates the human and the technological dimensions of water resource issues. It is comprised of lecture and discussion sessions with guest lectures by visiting seminar speakers.

WRP 544. MANAGING NATURAL RESOURCES FOR CLIMATE ADAPTATION. (3 Credits)
Students will work through a series of case studies in resource management to identify strategies and approaches that promote or prevent resilience in resource management. Students participate in discussions and hands-on activities in addition to the lectures and will prepare daily reflections, a final reflection and a final essay due one week after the end of the classroom sessions. This course will use a lecture and discussion format, and draw from the international expertise of the instructor and guest lecturers.

WRP 548. CONDUCTING COLLABORATIVE PROJECTS. (3 Credits)
Focuses on development of the abilities needed to complete a directed water-related collaborative project, delivered through experiential learning. The course specifically addresses development of collaborative skills needed to work in interdisciplinary teams. The course activities are centered around a collaborative project on which students will be conducting research, collecting data synthesizing information; and providing classmates with constructive peer-review. Lec/rec.

WRP 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 599. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 601. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 603. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

WRE 605. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

WRE 607. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 608. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 610. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRE 699. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Water Resources Science (WRS)

WRS 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRS 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

WRS 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRS 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRS 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Water Resources Policy and Mgt (WRP)

WRP 501. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 999 credits.

WRP 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 507. SEMINAR. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 508. WORKSHOP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 509. PRACTICUM. (1-16 Credits)
This non-traditional class explores tools, models and concepts in the collaborative decision-making process in water resources. Emphasis is on group projects and self-directed practical application of community-based natural resources. Lec/rec.

WRP 510. INTERNSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WRP 517. WRITING IN WATER RESOURCES. (4 Credits)
An intensive summer course to develop proficiency in writing at a graduate level for the wide range of writing tasks common to water resource professionals. Students will complete individual in-class writing assignments and collaborate on a draft of a technical report. While it is designed for students in the Water Cooperation and Peace joint degree program (many of whom will be international students) the course will also be useful for other students. Lec/rec.

This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 320. ANATOMY OF RENEWABLE MATERIALS. (3 Credits)
Examination of macroscopic and microscopic anatomy of renewable (plant based) materials commonly used by society. Learning activities including lecture and the hands-on study of the various plant materials and their components with naked-eye, hand lens, and microscopic examination. Lec/lab.

WSE 321. CHEMISTRY OF RENEWABLE MATERIALS. (3 Credits)
Chemical structures and chemical properties of renewable plant-based materials will be taught at molecular levels. Chemical compositions of different renewable materials will be covered. Chemical and biochemical modifications and applications of renewable materials will be discussed in detail. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: CH 122 with D- or better or CH 202 with D- or better or CH 232 with D- or better or CH 232H with D- or better

WSE 322. PHYSICAL AND MECHANICAL PROPERTIES OF RENEWABLE MATERIALS. (4 Credits)
Introduction to thermodynamics and mechanics of plant fibers, solid wood and bio-based composites: hygroscopicity; heat and mass transport; statics, elasticity and strength of materials; mechanical properties.
Prerequisites: WSE 321 with C- or better

WSE 324. RENEWABLE MATERIALS LABORATORY. (3 Credits)
Integrates the knowledge gained in the core science courses (WSE 321 and WSE 322) to help students obtain a deeper understanding of how chemistry, physics, and anatomy affect renewable material properties. The course uses renewable fiber materials such as hardwoods, softwoods, natural fibers, bamboo, composite wood products (e.g. OSB, plywood, MDF, etc.) and fiber-based products (e.g. wood-plastic composites, natural fiber composites, straw panels, paper, etc.) to examine the intricate relationships between fundamental properties and performance. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: WSE 321 with C- or better and WSE 322 [C-]

WSE 350. SECONDARY PRODUCTS DESIGN AND MANUFACTURING. (3 Credits)
Provides students with hands-on experience designing and manufacturing wood furniture. Includes how to safely operate and properly maintain wood working equipment, as well as how to design for consumers with efficient manufacturing processes in mind. Lec/lab/studio.
Prerequisites: WSE 250 with C- or better

WSE 351. ADVANCED CAD: COMPUTER AIDED DESIGN. (3 Credits)
Develop advanced techniques using industry standard CAD software as it relates to wood based product, furniture, and structural design. Build upon the skills acquired during WSE 250 CAD: COMPUTER AIDED DESIGN and learn advanced Solidworks techniques. Introduction to Rhinoceros 3D software and various parametric plugins. Lec/studio.
Prerequisites: WSE 250 with C- or better

WSE 352. CAM FOR THE CNC ROUTER AND LASER ENGRAVER. (3 Credits)
Process G-code using CAM software for CNC routing operations, as well as create raster and vector drawings for laser cutting/engraving applications. Each student will work through the design process researching and conceptualizing ideas, 3D modeling designs, developing working prototypes, and fabricating a final product. Lec/lab/studio.
Prerequisites: WSE 350 with C- or better
Recommended: Introductory level CAD course or demonstrated proficiency in industry standard CAD software
WSE 385. *EVALUATING SUSTAINABILITY THROUGH LIFE CYCLE ANALYSIS. (3 Credits)
With increased focus on sustainability, it has become important to quantify a sustainability metric of a material, process, or a system. To that end an understanding of life cycle analysis (LCA) is needed that can be used to determine a sustainability metric. This Ecampus course presents the use of LCA to gain insights on the environmental and social impacts of the choices we make. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

WSE 392. *BAMBOOLOOZA: THE FASCINATING WORLD OF BAMBOO. (3 Credits)
An exploration of the world of bamboo and its application to renewable products. This course provides an in-depth understanding of a renewable material bamboo from its native form to processed products. Additionally, this course discusses the utilization and perception of bamboo in different societies of the world. Taught via Ecampus only. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSST – Core, Synthesis, Science/Technology/Society

WSE 399. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 401. RESEARCH. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 401
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 403. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 405. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 405
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 406. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 406
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 413. WOODTURNING WITH SCIENCE II. (4 Credits)
An in-depth look at how character in wood (figure, spalting, knots, etc.) affects machinability and output in both functional and aesthetic turning. Students will work with a wide range of spalted wood types and figure across numerous species while working on advanced turning forms. Particular emphasis will be placed upon how figure affects grain orientation, how spalting affects density and stability, and how the challenges with character wood can be overcome without specialty tools. Class instruction will be entirely studio based. CROSSLISTED as ART 413.
Prerequisites: WSE 210 with C- or better and WSE 211 [C-]
Equivalent to: ART 413, FP 413
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

WSE 414. °ART AND DESIGN CAPSTONE. (4 Credits)
For the final term of a student's last year in the Renewable Materials Industrial Design program, this course brings together the basic collaborative design elements and technical background of each student in the creation of collaborative design projects with the intention of giving students real-world, problem-based design experience. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC

WSE 425. TIMBER TECTONICS IN THE DIGITAL AGE. (4 Credits)
An exploration of the advances in design, construction and fabrication of timber buildings. Includes experimentation with both physical and digital models and a final project, in collaboration with UO Architecture students. Lec/lab/studio.
Recommended: Junior standing and knowledge of CAD

WSE 430. FUNDAMENTALS OF ENGINEERING MECHANICS. (4 Credits)
An introduction to fundamentals of engineering mechanics for RM students selecting Science and Engineering option. While in most aspects the course follows standard introductory mechanics courses for engineers, special attention is paid to elasticity and strength in cellular and anisotropic materials like solid wood and bio-based composites. The overall objective of this course is to provide fundamental knowledge and practical skills in the area of engineering mechanics and mechanical principles behind some of the most important methods of characterization, processing, and utilization of renewable biomaterials; commonly used today, emerging and future. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: MTH 254 with D- or better and WSE 324 [B-]

WSE 444. STRAND-BASED COMPOSITES MANUFACTURE. (1 Credit)
The strand-based composites manufacturing process uses the results of research projects and the instructor's mill experience. All aspects of the process from wood procurement through pressing are discussed. This course will be valuable to those interested in a manufacturing career.

WSE 450. ENTREPRENEURIAL PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT I. (3 Credits)
Provides an entrepreneurial experience in product development, in which students design, produce, market, and sell a product in a business setting. Working as a team, students will design a product using renewable materials and are expected to perform and understand manufacturing techniques and processes to produce the product in limited quantities.
Prerequisites: WSE 250 with C- or better and WSE 455 [C-]

WSE 451. ENTREPRENEURIAL PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT II. (3 Credits)
Provides an entrepreneurial experience in product development, in which students design, produce, market, and sell a product in a business setting. Working as a team, students will design a product using renewable materials and are expected to perform and understand manufacturing techniques and processes to produce the product in limited quantities. Lab/studio.
Prerequisites: WSE 250 with C- or better and WSE 450 [C-] and WSE 455 [C-]

WSE 453. °FOREST PRODUCTS BUSINESS. (3 Credits)
Provides students with the skills necessary to operate effectively in the global forest products industry. (Writing Intensive Course)
Attributes: CWIC – Core, Skills, WIC
Recommended: ECON 201 and ECON 202

WSE 455. INDUSTRIAL MARKETING IN THE FOREST SECTOR. (3 Credits)
Marketing relies heavily on effective communication, so this course concentrates on written and oral communication. The course will arm students with the skills necessary to apply basic concepts of marketing of forest products. Application will be highlighted through examples and industry speakers relating course work to the day-to-day work in business.
Equivalent to: FP 455

WSE 485. DESIGN OF WOOD STRUCTURES. (3 Credits)
Study of basic wood properties and design considerations. Design of wood connectors, beams, columns, and beam columns. Introduction to plywood and glue laminated members. Design of structural diaphragms and shear walls. Taught via Ecampus only.
Prerequisites: CE 381 with C or better
Equivalent to: CE 484
WSE 461. BIO-BASED PRODUCTS MANUFACTURING. (4 Credits)
First of a 3-term series exploring technologies and management practices associated with manufacturing products from wood and other renewable materials. Subjects covered include the major processing steps for the conversion of raw materials such as wood, bamboo, hemp, and cereal straws into products.
Prerequisites: WSE 210 with C- or better and WSE 321 [C-] and WSE 324 [C-]

WSE 462. ADVANCED MANUFACTURING 1. (4 Credits)
Second of a 3-term series exploring technologies and management practices associated with manufacturing products from wood and other renewable materials. Subjects covered include process design elements, quality control, and approaches to continuous process improvement.
Prerequisites: WSE 461 with C- or better

WSE 463. ADVANCED MANUFACTURING 2. (4 Credits)
Third of a 3-term series exploring technologies and management practices associated with manufacturing products from wood and other renewable materials. Subjects covered include process control, optimization, automation, and contemporary topics such as Big Data and the Internet of Things and the potential impacts of the trends on manufacturing enterprises.
Prerequisites: WSE 462 with C- or better

WSE 465. RENEWABLE MATERIALS MANUFACTURING EXPERIENCE. (2 Credits)
Learning about and visiting a number of renewable materials industrial and commercial operations representing all parts of the renewable materials value chain. The class will meet daily for one 5-day week immediately prior to the start of fall term. During the week, the students and at least one instructor will meet daily. Lectures will precede visits to industrial plants, mills and sites. At the end of the day, an instructor will participate in a debriefing session, reiterating what was learned during the day. Students will then submit a report on the day’s activities. The class includes daily travel and overnight stays.
This course is repeatable for 4 credits.

WSE 470. *FORESTS, WOOD, AND CIVILIZATION. (3 Credits)
Multidisciplinary examination of issues related to the roles of forests, trees, and wood in civilization, as providers of commodities, ecosystem services, and spiritual and artistic inspiration. Issues include global supply and demand, wood ownership and political power, and perceptions and uses of forest resources in different societies. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues
Equivalent to: WSE 470H

WSE 470H. *FORESTS, WOOD, AND CIVILIZATION. (3 Credits)
Multidisciplinary examination of issues related to the roles of forests, trees, and wood in civilization, as providers of commodities, ecosystem services, and spiritual and artistic inspiration. Issues include global supply and demand, wood ownership and political power, and perceptions and uses of forest resources in different societies. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CSGI – Core, Synth, Global Issues; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: WSE 470

WSE 471. RENEWABLE MATERIALS IN BUILDING CONSTRUCTION. (3 Credits)
Building construction is a major application of renewable materials, primarily wood. This course explores material selection options, applications, and performance characteristics. Residential construction is emphasized, but non-residential construction applications will also be discussed. Concepts and interpretation of life cycle assessment are introduced.

WSE 473. BIOENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT. (3 Credits)
Explores world's use of woody biomass fuels, their potential to contribute to our region's energy supply, and conversion technologies such a direct combustion, pyrolysis, and thermochemical modification. Also examines emissions and other environmental impacts of utilizing renewable materials to generate energy and manufacture products.
Prerequisites: ((MTH 111 with D- or better or MTH 112 with D- or better or MTH 231 with D- or better or MTH 241 with D- or better or MTH 245 with D- or better or MTH 251 with D- or better or MTH 251H with D- or better) and (CH 122 [D-] or CH 222 [D-] or CH 232 [D-] or CH 232H [D-]))

WSE 475. ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT OF BUILDING MATERIALS. (4 Credits)

WSE 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

WSE 501. RESEARCH AND SCHOLARSHIP. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 501
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 503. THESIS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 503
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

WSE 505. READING AND CONFERENCE. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 505
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 506. PROJECTS. (1-16 Credits)
Equivalent to: FP 506
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WSE 507. SEMINAR. (1 Credit)
Section 1: Beginning Seminar. Section 2: Seminar. Graded P/N.
Equivalent to: FP 507
This course is repeatable for 99 credits.

WSE 513. WOODTURNING WITH SCIENCE II. (4 Credits)
An in-depth look at how character in wood (figure, spalting, knots, etc.) affects machinability and output in both functional and aesthetic turning. Students will work with a wide range of spalted wood types and figure across numerous species while working on advanced turning forms. Particular emphasis will be placed upon how figure affects grain orientation, how spalting affects density and stability, and how the challenges with character wood can be overcome without specialty tools.
Class instruction will be entirely studio based.
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.
Recommended: WSE 210 and WSE 211

WSE 514. ART AND DESIGN CAPSTONE. (4 Credits)
For the final term of a student's last year in the Renewable Materials Industrial Design program, this course brings together the basic collaborative design elements and technical background of each student in the creation of collaborative design projects with the intention of giving students real-world, problem-based design experience.
WSE 516. INTRODUCTION TO SCULPTURAL WOODTURNING. (4 Credits)
The development of studio / sculptural woodturning has a unique history, and involves a cluster of specialized skills. This course blends historic woodturning practices with modern approaches and aesthetics to bring an understanding of wood science into this very specialized field of woodturning.
Prerequisites: WSE 513 with B or better and WSE 514 [B]
This course is repeatable for 12 credits.

WSE 520. THE GLOBAL CONTEXT OF THE FOREST SECTOR. (3 Credits)
Provides a broad knowledge base of business and marketing practices in the global forest industry. Includes a module on research ethics that fulfills OSU Graduate School requirements.

WSE 521. WOOD SCIENCE I. (4 Credits)
A comprehensive overview and integration of wood anatomy, wood physics, wood chemistry and wood mechanics; global contemporary issues impacting the wood and fiber sector; integration of basic wood sciences to understand the complex relationships between environment and wood material properties, and the influence of both on the use of wood-based materials.

WSE 522. WOOD SCIENCE II. (4 Credits)
Continuation of the comprehensive overview and integration of wood and fiber anatomy, physics, chemistry, and mechanics; integration of basic wood science to understand relationships with wood and fiber properties and their impact on final use. Focus on biological, chemical and physical degradation of wood; adhesion; and physical and engineering properties of wood. Lec/lab.

WSE 525. TIMBER TECTONICS IN THE DIGITAL AGE. (4 Credits)
An exploration of the advances in design, construction and fabrication of timber buildings. Includes experimentation with both physical and digital models and a final project, in collaboration with UO Architecture students. Lec/lab/studio.
Recommended: Knowledge of CAD

WSE 526. STRUCTURAL HEALTH ASSESSMENT/MONITORING OF TIMBER BUILDINGS. (3 Credits)
Holistic approaches for the evaluation of the performance of timber systems and structures in a building. Learn about the tools available to experts for different analysis purposes, and to understand how data acquired from different techniques can be analyzed and used to inform building management and maintenance, fabrication and construction practices, and future design.

WSE 530. POLYMER COMPOSITES. (3 Credits)
A comprehensive survey of the material and mechanical properties of polymer-based composite materials including failure mechanisms, interfacial and nanoscale effects, and transport and thermal properties.
Recommended: CHE 545 and multivariable calculus

WSE 535. POLYMER SYNTHESIS AND STRUCTURE. (3 Credits)
A comprehensive overview of various synthetic methods for various synthetic polymers; structures of various synthetic and natural polymers.
Recommended: 3 credits of undergraduate organic chemistry or CH 331 or CH 334

WSE 553. FOREST PRODUCTS BUSINESS. (3 Credits)
Provides students with the skills necessary to operate effectively in the global forest products industry.
Recommended: ECON 201 and ECON 202

WSE 555. INDUSTRIAL MARKETING IN THE FOREST SECTOR. (3 Credits)
Marketing relies heavily on effective communication, so this course concentrates on written and oral communication. The course will arm students with the skills necessary to apply basic concepts of marketing of forest products. Application will be highlighted through examples and industry speakers relating coursework to the day-to-day work in business.
Equivalent to: FP 555

WSE 558. WOOD DESIGN. (4 Credits)
Study of basic wood properties and design considerations. Design and behavior of wood connectors, beams, columns and beam columns. Introduction to plywood and glue laminated members. Analysis and design of structural diaphragms and shear walls. Lec/lab. CROSSTLISTED as CE 584.
Equivalent to: CE 584
Recommended: WSE 210 and WSE 321 and WSE 324

WSE 562. ADVANCED MANUFACTURING 1. (4 Credits)
Second of a 3-term series exploring technologies and management practices associated with manufacturing products from wood and other renewable materials. Subjects covered include process design elements, quality control, and approaches to continuous process improvement.
Recommended: WSE 461

WSE 563. ADVANCED MANUFACTURING 2. (4 Credits)
Third of a 3-term series exploring technologies and management practices associated with manufacturing products from wood and other renewable materials. Subjects covered include process control, optimization, automation, and contemporary topics such as Big Data and the Internet of Things and the potential impacts of the trends on manufacturing enterprises.
Recommended: WSE 462

World Languages and Cultures (WLC)

WLC 159. *LANGUAGE, RACE AND RACISM IN THE US: AN INTRODUCTION. (4 Credits)
Students in this course will unpack language, race and racism—as well as the intersections between those ideas—as cornerstones to understanding identity and society as inherently socially constructed notions. (Bacc Core Course) CROSSLISTED as ANTH 159 and ES 159.
Attributes: CPDP – Core, Perspective, Difference/Power/Discrimination
Equivalent to: ANTH 159, ES 159

WLC 221. *MASTERPIECES OF GERMAN CINEMA. (3 Credits)
An introduction to the serious study of German cinema, 1920 to present. Class lectures discussing key works of German cinema will offer a variety of historical, critical and theoretical approaches. Weekly screenings of important films accompany the lectures. Taught in English. Film fee will be required. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: WLC 221

WLC 222. *WOMEN IN ITALIAN CINEMA. (3 Credits)
An exploration of filmic portrayals of women as participants in social, economic and political life in Italy. Examines Italian cinema as a reflection of Italian culture. Focuses on women as protagonists, symbolic figures and filmmakers. Analysis will be presented through a variety of historical, critical and theoretical approaches. Taught in English. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts
Equivalent to: IT 261

WLC 230. *FRANCE TODAY: CULTURES WITHIN AND BEYOND ITS BORDERS. (3 Credits)
An exploratory study of French culture and society since 1945. Topics include: decolonization, immigration, Francophone intellectual currents, France's European vocation, and social conflict today. Conducted in English. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture
Equivalent to: FR 270, FR 270H, WLC 230H

WLC 230H. *FRANCE TODAY: CULTURES WITHIN AND BEYOND ITS BORDERS. (3 Credits)
An exploratory study of French culture and society since 1945. Topics include: decolonization, immigration, Francophone intellectual currents, France's European vocation, and social conflict today. Conducted in English. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: FR 230, FR 230H, WLC 230

WLC 231. *GERMAN DICTATORSHIPS: NAZIS AND COMMUNISTS. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the two best-known dictatorships in German society, National Socialism of the Third Reich from 1933-1945 and Socialism in the German Democratic Republic from 1949-1989 via the study of visual media (feature films, documentaries, newsreels, etc.) and other primary and secondary sources. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture
Equivalent to: GER 231, GER 231H, WLC 231H

WLC 231H. *GERMAN DICTATORSHIPS: NAZIS AND COMMUNISTS. (3 Credits)
Introduction to the two best-known dictatorships in German society, National Socialism of the Third Reich from 1933-1945 and Socialism in the German Democratic Republic from 1949-1989 via the study of visual media (feature films, documentaries, newsreels, etc.) and other primary and secondary sources. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: GER 231H

WLC 232. *INTRODUCTION TO JEWISH CULTURE. (3 Credits)
An exploratory study of Jewish culture from its origins to the present day. Students will compare and contrast the lifestyles, ideologies, religious and cultural practices of Jews living in Israel and the United States; two divergent cultures that developed from similar roots. Taught in English. Taught via Ecampus only. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity
Equivalent to: HEBR 231

WLC 233. *RUSSIAN CULTURE I. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic features of Russian culture originating in the past and continuing into the present. Aspects of history, politics, economics, geography, art, music, literature, and everyday life. Compares Russian culture with Western European and American culture. WLC 233: Old Russia; WLC 234: 19th Century; WLC 235: 20th Century. Taught in English. (H) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: RUS 231
WLC 234. *RUSSIAN CULTURE II. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic features of Russian culture originating in the past and continuing into the present. Aspects of history, politics, economics, geography, art, music, literature, and everyday life. Compares Russian culture with Western European and American culture. WLC 233: Old Russia; WLC 234: 19th Century; WLC 235: 20th Century. Taught in English. (H) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts; CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: RUS 232

WLC 235. *RUSSIAN CULTURE III. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic features of Russian culture originating in the past and continuing into the present. Aspects of history, politics, economics, geography, art, music, literature, and everyday life. Compares Russian culture with Western European and American culture. WLC 233: Old Russia; WLC 234: 19th Century; WLC 235: 20th Century. Taught in English. (H) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture; LACH – Liberal Arts Humanities Core
Equivalent to: RUS 233

WLC 241. *GRIMMS’ FAIRY TALES. (4 Credits)
We will read a selection of the most popular Grimms’ fairy tales and consider why they have remained so popular. What is it about fairy tales that has made them such a lasting source of creative inspiration into our time? Students will learn to understand and critique fairy tales and their role in Western cultures through analysis of the tales and creative adaptation of a tale for a modern audience. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture
Equivalent to: GER 241

WLC 261. *MASTERPIECES GERMAN CINEMA. (3 Credits)
An introduction to the serious study of German cinema, 1920 to present. Class lectures discussing key works of German cinema will offer a variety of historical, critical and theoretical approaches. Weekly screenings of important films accompany the lectures. Taught in English. Film fee will be required. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts
Equivalent to: GER 261, GER 261H, WLC 261H

WLC 261H. *MASTERPIECES GERMAN CINEMA. (3 Credits)
An introduction to the serious study of German cinema, 1920 to present. Class lectures discussing key works of German cinema will offer a variety of historical, critical and theoretical approaches. Weekly screenings of important films accompany the lectures. Taught in English. Film fee will be required. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: GER 261, GER 261H, WLC 261

WLC 301. *INTRODUCTION TO WORLD LANGUAGE AND CULTURE STUDIES. (4 Credits)
Addresses the structure, histories, and cultures associated with world languages and presents skills for learning languages more effectively. Includes related topics such as globalization, colonialism, and language justice; language policy, linguistic diversity, and language death; immigration and migration; race and racism. This is a required course in the WLC major in the Literacies thematic area. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPSI – Core, Pers, Soc Proc & Inst

WLC 320. *FRANCOPHONE CULTURES IN FILM. (3-9 Credits)
An exploration of the different cultures of France and the Francophone world through film. Students will delve into the heart of these societies and discover their socio-historical, political, economic and cultural context. Students’ analytical and critical skills will be thoroughly solicited through various research and writing activities. Taught in English. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: FR 329, FR 329H, WLC 320H
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

WLC 320H. *FRANCOPHONE CULTURES IN FILM. (3-9 Credits)
An exploration of the different cultures of France and the Francophone world through film. Students will delve into the heart of these societies and discover their socio-historical, political, economic and cultural context. Students’ analytical and critical skills will be thoroughly solicited through various research and writing activities. Taught in English. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; HNRS – Honors Course Designator
Equivalent to: FR 329, FR 329H, WLC 320
This course is repeatable for 9 credits.

WLC 321. *MODERN SPAIN THROUGH SPANISH CINEMA. (3 Credits)
Examines the history of modern Spain and its cinematography via the study of key Spanish films and cineastes in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPLA – Core, Pers, Lit and Arts; CPWC – Core, Pers, West Culture
Equivalent to: SPAN 361

WLC 331. *CHINESE CULTURE I. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic features of Chinese culture from ancient times to the 9th century. Topics include philosophy and religion, the Chinese language, literature and the arts, science and technology, government, family and gender, social and economic conditions, contacts with the outside world. Taught in English. Open to all students. (NC) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: CHN 331

WLC 332. *CHINESE CULTURE II. (3 Credits)
Introduction to basic features of Chinese culture from the 10th through the 19th centuries. Topics include philosophy and religion, literature and the arts, science and technology, government, family and gender, social and economic conditions, daily life, and contacts with the outside world. Taught in English. Open to all students. (NC) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: CHN 332

WLC 333. *CHINESE CULTURE III. (3 Credits)
Survey of important developments of Chinese society and culture from the early 20th century to the present. Topics include wars and revolutions, economic, political, and social conditions, the new culture movement, changing family structure and women's status, relationships within greater China (Mainland China, Taiwan, and Hong Kong). Taught in English. Open to all students. (NC) (Bacc Core Course)
Attributes: CPCD – Core, Pers, Cult Diversity; LACN – Liberal Arts Non-Western Core
Equivalent to: CHN 333
WLC 334. FASHION AND DESIGN IN THE FRANCOPHONE WORLD. (3 Credits)
A study of the world of French fashion and design: origins and history, what’s new and exciting in French fashion today and attitudes about fashion and beauty of design that have given the French the inside track on prestige in this arena for centuries.
Equivalent to: FR 338

WLC 335. *JAPANESE CULTURE I. (3 Credits)

Low-Residency Masters of Fine Arts Mentorship. Required course for graduate students in the Low-Residency Masters of Fine Arts in Creative Writing.
This course is repeatable for 36 credits.

WR 514. ADVERTISING AND PUBLIC RELATIONS WRITING. (4 Credits)
Writing news releases, annual reports, brochures, newsletters, and other PR materials. Writing advertising copy.

WR 516. ADVANCED COMPOSITION. (4 Credits)
The development of style and voice in both the personal and the academic essay.
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

WR 517. TEACHING PRACTICUM: ENGLISH COMPOSITION. (2 Credits)
Required practicum for graduate students teaching English Composition.

WR 518. TEACHING PRACTICUM: WRITING IN BUSINESS. (1 Credit)
Pedagogy practicum for graduate students in the teaching of professional writing and communication. This course is required for GTA's who will teach WR 214, Writing in Business.
This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

WR 519. TEACHING PRACTICUM: WR 222. (1 Credit)
This practicum prepares graduate teaching assistants to teach Writing 222 (Argumentation). It includes both theoretical and practical components, providing an overview of the curriculum and addressing course development, lesson planning, and pedagogical best practices. The practicum is required for SWLF graduate students with a focus in rhetoric and composition.

WR 520. STUDIES IN WRITING. (4 Credits)
Selected topics in rhetoric and composition.
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

WR 521. TEACHING PRACTICUM: FICTION WRITING. (1 Credit)
Required practicum for graduate students teaching introduction to fiction writing.
This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

WR 522. TEACHING PRACTICUM: POETRY WRITING. (1 Credit)
Required practicum for graduate students teaching introduction to poetry writing.
This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

WR 523. TEACHING PRACTICUM: NONFICTION WRITING. (1 Credit)
Required practicum for graduate students teaching introduction to nonfiction writing.
This course is repeatable for 3 credits.

WR 524. ADVANCED FICTION WRITING. (4 Credits)
Advanced fiction workshop with an emphasis on developing longer pieces.
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

WR 525. ADVANCED SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL WRITING. (4 Credits)
Combines scientific and technical writing with science journalism. Students will draw on a data set (preferably their own) to draft a scientific journal article, short grant proposal, magazine article, and letter of inquiry. They will also critically evaluate and edit documents by reviewing classmates’ drafts.
Equivalent to: PSM 525

WR 540. ADVANCED NONFICTION WRITING. (4 Credits)
Advanced creative nonfiction workshop with an emphasis on developing longer pieces.
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

WR 541. ADVANCED POETRY WRITING. (4 Credits)
Advanced poetry workshop.
This course is repeatable for 24 credits.

WR 548. MAGAZINE ARTICLE WRITING. (4 Credits)
Writing the magazine article. Analyzing markets and writing query and cover letters, marketing manuscripts to magazines. Interviewing and researching.
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.

WR 549. CRITICAL REVIEWING. (4 Credits)
Writing critical reviews of books, television programs, movies, plays, and restaurants for newspapers and magazines. The role of criticism in popular culture.

WR 562. ENVIRONMENTAL WRITING. (4 Credits)
Writing about environmental topics from multiple perspectives. Includes science journalism, research and writing on current scientific issues and controversies, and theories of rhetoric and environmentalism.
Equivalent to: STC 562
This course is repeatable for 8 credits.
Recommended: WR 121

WR 566. PROFESSIONAL WRITING. (4 Credits)
Introduces the texts, contexts, and concepts important to the practice of professional communication in organizational contexts, addressing practical writing skills, rhetoric, ethics, and information design. Course readings concern what professional writers do and what theories govern their actions, bridging the gap between real-world problems and academic research.

WR 575. RHETORICS OF RACE. (4 Credits)
By exploring the interrelated concepts of race, racialization, and racism, Rhetorics of Race problematizes race as a taken-for-granted phenomenon. Through reading, writing, and discussion, class participants study racial formations as historically specific and analyze contemporary forms of racism in the US. Readings and discussion pay close attention to how rhetoric and discourse have the power to reproduce and challenge white supremacy and race-based oppressions. Emphasizing the intersectionality of oppression—that racism necessarily takes place at intersections with other forms of subordination including sexism, homophobia, ableism, etc.—Rhetorics of Race draws from Queer Black Feminism, Chican@ Feminism, and Critical Race Theory.
Z 350. ANIMAL BEHAVIOR. (3 Credits)
Concepts of behavior; sensory receptors, internal mechanisms governing responses; learning and habituation; social organization and communication.
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])
Equivalent to: BI 350

Z 361. INVERTEBRATE BIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Exploration of the diversity and evolutionary relationships among major invertebrate phyla with an emphasis on morphological features, functional aspects, and life history for each phylum.
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])
Z 422. COMPARATIVE/FUNCTIONAL VERTEBRATE ANATOMY. (5 Credits)
Phylogenetically-based study of the form and function of vertebrate organ systems, including integumentary, musculoskeletal, cardiopulmonary, digestive, and sensory. Lab emphasizes comparative form through dissection, and function through non-invasive experimentation. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) and (CH 332 (may be taken concurrently) [D-] or CH 335 (may be taken concurrently) [D-])

Z 423. ENVIRONMENTAL PHYSIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Comparative environmental physiology of animals on adaptations to such aspects of the physical environment as temperature, water, ions, and gases. Consideration given to interactions between physiology and environment that influence the local and geographic distribution of animals.
Prerequisites: ((BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-])) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-]) or (CH 123 [C-] or (CH 233 [C-] or CH 233H [C-]) and (CH 263 [C-] or CH 263H [C-]))

Z 425. EMBRYOLOGY AND DEVELOPMENT. (5 Credits)
Prerequisites: (BI 311 with D- or better or BI 311H with D- or better) and (BI 314 [D-] or BI 314H [D-] or BB 314 [D-] or BB 314H [D-])

Z 431. VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY I. (4 Credits)
Systems/concepts covered include motor reflexes, autonomic nervous system, digestion/metabolism, renal and osmoregulatory, endocrine and reproductive systems. First in Z 431, Z 432/442 series. Lec/rec.
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) and (CH 332 (may be taken concurrently) [C-] or CH 335 (may be taken concurrently) [C-])

Z 432. VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY II. (3 Credits)
Systems/concepts covered include blood, immune, lymphatic, cardiovascular, and pulmonary. Second in the Z431, 432/442 series.
Prerequisites: Z 431 with C- or better

Z 437. VERTEBRATE ENDOCRINOLOGY. (4 Credits)
An exploration of vertebrate endocrinology that examines principles of hormone action, inter- and intracellular signaling mechanisms within endocrine axes, and comparative endocrine physiology, emphasizing concepts of homeostasis and methodologies for evaluating normal and physiological function. Students are provided multiple forums for class participation, in the form of scientific presentations and "mini-reports."
Prerequisites: BB 314 with D- or better or BB 314H with D- or better

Z 438. BEHAVIORAL NEUROBIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-]) and (CH 123 [C-] or (CH 233 [C-] or CH 233H [C-]) and (CH 263 [C-] or CH 263H [C-]))

Z 440. INSECT PHYSIOLOGY. (3 Credits)
Fundamentals of insect physiology from the behavioral to the molecular level. Cellular physiology and hormonal control of molting, metamorphosis and reproduction. Overview of body functions: respiration, circulation, digestion, metabolism, and osmoregulation. Physiological basis of behavior: muscles and flight, structure and functions of the nervous system, sensory physiology and chemical communication. The contributions of insect physiology to general physiological principles and biorational methods of insect pest control are discussed.
Prerequisites: (((BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-]) and (BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-])) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])) and CH 123 [C-] or (CH 233 [C-] or CH 233H [C-]) and (CH 263 [C-] or CH 263H [C-])

Z 442. VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY LABORATORY. (2 Credits)
Experiments and exercises in vertebrate physiology covering systems studied in Z 431 and Z 432. Available to Biology majors. Lab fee.
Prerequisites: Z 431 with C- or better and Z 432 (may be taken concurrently) [C-]

Z 461. MARINE AND ESTUARINE INVERTEBRATE ZOOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Comparative survey of eight major invertebrate phyla and many lesser-known phyla. Areas of emphasis will be 1) invertebrate identification, 2) natural history (diversity, habitat, feeding, behavior), and 3) comparative anatomy (adaptive significance of morphological structures). Laboratories and field trips will strongly supplement lecture material. Lec/lab. Taught at Hatfield Marine Science Center.
Prerequisites: (BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-] and BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])

Z 473. HERPETOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Exploration of global herpetofauna focusing on taxa of the Pacific Northwest of North America. Identification and natural history of amphibians and reptiles are emphasized, along with a phylogenetic framework, to explore and discuss ideas involving their behavior, evolution, ecology, and conservation. Student projects examine important topics in the field.
Prerequisites: ((BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-] and BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])

Z 477. AQUATIC ENTOMOLOGY. (4 Credits)
Biological, ecological, collection, and identification of aquatic insects. Two required Saturday field trips. Lec/lab.
Prerequisites: ((BI 211 with C- or better or BI 211H with C- or better) and (BI 212 [C-] or BI 212H [C-] and BI 213 [C-] or BI 213H [C-]) or (BI 204 [C-] and BI 205 [C-] and BI 206 [C-])

Z 499. SPECIAL TOPICS. (0-16 Credits)
Topics and credits vary.
Equivalent to: Z 499H
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

Z 499H. SPECIAL TOPICS. (1-16 Credits)
Topics and credits vary.
Equivalent to: Z 499
This course is repeatable for 16 credits.

University Degree Requirements
Current degree requirements are printed each year in the Academic Regulations (p. 15) section of the Academic Catalog, along with other information on a wide range of topics from minimum credits for full-time status to adding courses. All students are encouraged to review this part of Academic Catalog each year for the most current information about OSU requirements and procedures.

Students with questions about baccalaureate degree requirements are encouraged to contact their advisor. Students needing assistance in selecting a major or selecting an advisor may wish to call or stop by the college office.

Catalog Rights Policy
Graduation Requirements/Catalog Contract Policy
When determining the graduation requirements for a given student:

- Students must meet all applicable degree requirements from the published catalog(s).
- The student’s catalog year for institutional and baccalaureate core requirements is established by their first term of attendance (matriculation date) at Oregon State University as an admitted student.
- The student’s catalog year for college/major/option/minor requirements is based on the date of declaration of the major/option/minor.
- A student’s major and option(s) must be in the same catalog year. If an option(s) is declared in an academic year subsequent to the catalog year associated with the major, the option(s) will be aligned with the catalog year of the major. If the option(s) did not exist in the catalog year of the major, the major will roll forward to the catalog year of the option(s). A second major and option(s) may be declared by the student for a catalog year which differs from the first major and option(s).
- Additionally, while the student’s first major/option must be in the same catalog year, any additional declarations of majors/options/minors will be determined by the declaration dates (and corresponding catalog year) established by the change of academic program process.
- A student, in collaboration with an advisor, can also move their major/option/minor catalog year forward.
- At the time of graduation, all continuously enrolled students, including transfer students, may not use a catalog that is more than ten years old. Students may petition their college’s head advisor for an extension of a catalog greater than ten years prior to their expected graduation term.
- Current policy requires a student to reapply after not enrolling at OSU for four consecutive terms (not including summer terms). The published catalog for the resulting readmission/matriculation date will become the catalog of record for graduation requirements. The Planned Educational Leave Program defined in AR 13.c (p. 17) beginning with the 2011–2012 academic year, provides a mechanism for a student to keep their original catalog of record during a planned absence.
- For Degree Partnership Program students, the first term the student is admitted to OSU will be the matriculation date and will determine the catalog year for institutional and baccalaureate core requirements. The catalog year for college/major/option/minor requirements will be the same as all other OSU students.
- Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of information in the OSU Academic Catalog. However, Oregon State University may find it necessary from time to time to make changes in courses, curricula, or degree requirements. Students already admitted to a program in which such changes have been made will be reasonably accommodated; if possible, to ensure their normal progress toward a degree. A student may, however, still be required to conform to changes in courses, curricula, or degree requirements as deemed necessary by Oregon State University.

The Baccalaureate Experience
Oregon State University is committed to creating an atmosphere of intellectual curiosity, academic freedom, diversity, and personal empowerment. This will enable everyone to learn with and from others. This compelling learning experience celebrates knowledge; encourages personal growth and awareness; acknowledges the benefits of diverse experiences, world views, learning styles, and values; and engenders personal and societal values that benefit the individual and society.

OSU develops curricula based on sound disciplinary knowledge and input from practitioners. Students acquire skills and knowledge for a lifetime of learning, and will be involved in scholarly and creative pursuits.

The baccalaureate degree includes:

- the baccalaureate core
- an in-depth study in at least one major; and
- individual elective courses.

Minors are available in many areas and are required in certain programs. Students should check college, school, program, or departmental requirements.

The Baccalaureate Core (bacc core) Curriculum represents what the OSU faculty believes is the foundation for students’ further understanding of the modern world. Informed by natural and social sciences, arts, and humanities, the bacc core requires students to think critically and creatively, and to synthesize ideas and information when evaluating major societal issues. Importantly, the bacc core promotes understanding of interrelationships among disciplines in order to increase students’ capacities as ethical citizens of an ever-changing world.
The Baccalaureate Core

The Oregon State University Baccalaureate Core (p. 1575) is continually enriched. It emphasizes critical thinking, writing, world cultures, appreciation of differences, the arts, sciences, literature, lifelong fitness, and global awareness in 15 course categories. Over 250 courses are available to meet core requirements. Students must complete a total of 48 credits plus a Writing Intensive Course (WIC) of at least 3 credits.

The Faculty Senate Baccalaureate Core Committee determines which courses will satisfy each of the requirements above. WIC courses will be reviewed by the WIC Director and the Faculty Senate Baccalaureate Core Committee. The core is governed by the following rules: (1) No more than two courses from any one department may be taken by a student to satisfy the Perspectives category of the core. (2) No single course may be used by a student to satisfy more than one subject area of the core even though some courses have been approved in more than one area. (3) Both Synthesis courses may not be taken in the same department. 4) The WIC course must be taken in the student’s major. Each interdisciplinary major has a list of approved WIC courses for that major. (WIC Rationale (http://wic.oregonstate.edu/wic-learning-outcomes)) A current list of approved Baccalaureate Core courses can be found in the OSU Catalog (p. 1575).

Defining characteristics of baccalaureate core courses are available on the Office of Academic Programs and Assessment website (https://apa.oregonstate.edu/assessment/baccalaureate-core-assessment). Additional information is also available online (http://main.oregonstate.edu/baccalaureate-core).

The purpose of the writing intensive requirement is to insure that each graduate is prepared to write in the discourse, conventions, and genres of their major field.

A student completing requirements for two majors, including double degrees as well as dual majors (one degree with two majors), may request that one WIC course satisfy the WIC requirement for graduation in both majors. This opportunity is available if and only if:

1. The discourse, written conventions, and genres of the two majors are closely related, and
2. The substitution of a WIC course from one major for that in another major is approved in writing by the chairs or heads of both departments involved and the approval is placed in the student's academic file.

Students and advisors should be aware that in some cases, the WIC course in a major is an integral part of the degree and substitution may not be appropriate. The final decision rests with the department chair or head.

Baccalaureate Core Requirements

No single course may be used by a student to satisfy more than one area of the Baccalaureate core even though some courses are approved for more than one area.

Skills Courses (lower division except WIC) (15)

To support students’ success in all courses, the following first-year Skills courses are to be taken and completed satisfactorily within the first 45 hours of OSU-generated credits:

- Mathematics: MTH 105, *Intro to Contemporary Mathematics, or higher level mathematics (3)
- Writing I (3) (WR 121, must earn at least C–)
- Speech (3)

To prepare for the upper-division Writing Intensive Course in the major, the following Skills course is to be taken and completed satisfactorily within the first 90 hours of OSU-generated credits:

- Writing II

For transfer students with sophomore standing or above, Writing II and Speech must be completed within the first 45 hours of OSU-generated credits. These requirements apply to all students, whether full time or part time.

Additional skill course category to be completed:

- Fitness (3)

Perspectives Courses (lower and upper division) (24)

No more than two courses from any one department may be used by a student to satisfy the Perspectives category of the core. GEO courses listed under Physical Science are considered to be from a different department than GEO courses listed under any other Perspective category. Choose an additional course from either Physical Science or Biological Science.

- Biological Science (including lab) (4)
- Physical Science (including lab) (4)
- Plus choice of additional physical or biological science (including lab) (4)

Take a minimum of one course in each of the following areas:

- Cultural Diversity (3)
- Literature and the Arts (3)
- Social Processes and Institutions (3)
- Western Culture (3)

Difference, Power, and Discrimination Courses (3)

Synthesis Courses (upper division) (6)

Both synthesis courses may not be taken in the same department. One course is from each of the following areas:

- Contemporary Global Issues (3)
- Science, Technology, and Society (3)

WIC (Writing Intensive Course, upper division, included in credits for major) (3)

The WIC course must be taken in the student’s major. Each interdisciplinary major has a list of approved WIC courses for that major.

Total (48) + WIC (3) = 51

Monitoring Degree Progress with MyDegrees

MyDegrees is a web-based degree checklist program and academic advising tool designed to assist students and advisors in reviewing degree progress. It organizes a student's academic transcript chronologically and categorically, identifying courses they have completed and courses still needed to fulfill the degree requirements.
Students may access this tool through MyOSU (https://myosu.oregonstate.edu), or through links on the Office of the Registrar website (http://registrar.oregonstate.edu). Video tutorials on how to use MyDegrees are available on the Office of the Registrar website (http://registrar.oregonstate.edu/video-tutorials).

The Office of the Registrar works with advisors to update and maintain an accurate degree audit that will be used to clear student degree requirements during the final term of the students’ undergraduate year.

Major Program
In-depth study in at least one area is required in each baccalaureate degree. Major requirements often include not only courses within the given discipline but also necessary prerequisites and work in related areas.

Students must satisfy all the requirements of their major department and major college. The dean’s certification of fulfillment of all requirements of the major college is required.

Upper-Division Courses
1. Credits in upper-division courses: minimum 60 (exclusive of upper-division physical education activity courses).
2. Credits in each major: minimum 36, including at least 24 in upper-division courses.

For further details on upper-division course requirements, see Academic Regulation 25c, Institutional Requirements for Baccalaureate Degrees.

Practicum Courses and Internships
Academic performance is not the sole criterion for admission to and continuation in certain courses and programs at the university, particularly practicum courses and internships. The university may find it necessary to evaluate a person’s behavior and background to determine the ability to maintain the standards of professional conduct which are necessary in some disciplines. An evaluation may take into consideration current performance as well as past experiences and actions which could affect the ability to perform in the particular course or program.

Grade-Point Average (GPA)
A minimum GPA of 2.00 on OSU cumulative grade-point average is required. See Academic Regulation 25c (p. 20), Institutional Requirements for Baccalaureate Degrees.

Total Credits
A minimum 180 earned credits, which must include:

1. Credits in upper-division courses: minimum 60 (exclusive of upper-division physical education activity courses).
2. Credits in each major: minimum 36, including at least 24 in upper-division courses.

Some degree programs may require more than 180 credits.

Unearned credits are those courses for which a grade of F, N, U, I, W, AUD, or WAU are assigned as a final grade for that course. All other grades are calculated as earned credit.

For further information on total credits required, see Academic Regulation 25c (p. 20), Institutional Requirements for Baccalaureate Degrees.

Academic Standing
Oregon State University expects students to maintain satisfactory academic progress toward degree completion. At the conclusion of each term, grade-point averages are calculated and academic standings determined for students seeking a baccalaureate degree according to the criteria outlined in the Grades, Regulations, and Records section of this catalog.

Academic Residence Requirement
Academic Regulation 25f (p. 20), Academic Residence, Institutional Requirements for Baccalaureate Degrees, states:

- A minimum of 45 of the last 75 credits, or 150 total credits, must be completed while the student is in academic residence at OSU. "Academic Residence" is defined as OSU courses taken as a degree-seeking student of OSU or courses through one of the following approved special programs: Professional degree programs which require that the student enroll in another institution while finishing the bachelor's degree at OSU or an international study program sponsored by Oregon State University.
- A minimum of 15 upper-division credits used to meet the preceding residency requirement (1) must be taken in each of the student’s majors.
- Credits earned by special examination for credit (AR 23) are not considered in academic residence.

Other Graduation Requirements
BA Degree Requirements
The bachelor of arts (BA) degree is conferred for broad and liberal education in various approved areas of studies (typically humanities, arts, social science, and sciences). Requirements for the BA degree differ from those for a bachelor of science (BS) degree in the same department. Many departments offer only one or the other of the two baccalaureate degrees. Check departmental curricula for detailed information. The BA degree requires second language proficiency, including American Sign Language (ASL), equivalent to that attained at the end of the second year course in the language as certified by the School of Language, Culture, and Society. See the Academic Regulations for more details.

Concurrent and Subsequent Baccalaureate Degrees
Academic Regulation 26 (p. 21)

1. Concurrent Baccalaureate Degrees: An undergraduate student may be granted two or more baccalaureate degrees (for example the BA or BS) at the same graduation exercise. The student must:
   a. Complete institutional, college, and departmental requirements for the degree;
   b. Complete, for each additional degree, a minimum of 32 credits more than the requirements of the curriculum requiring the least number of credits; and
   c. Complete each additional 32 credits in residence.

2. Subsequent Baccalaureate Degree: A student who has received a previous baccalaureate degree from either OSU or another accredited university may be granted a subsequent baccalaureate degree. The student must:
   a. Complete, for a BA degree, the requirements for foreign language proficiency (AR 25d);
   b. Achieve a minimum of 2.00 on OSU cumulative grade-point average;
Undergraduate Graduation via State University by satisfying the requirements for subsequent degrees. A graduate student also may obtain baccalaureate degrees from Oregon by petition. Also see Reserving Credits in the Graduate School section. Baccalaureate degrees may have a limited number of credits reserved they wish to apply toward an advanced degree before they have received this catalog or contact the Graduate School. Students who take courses Requirements for Advanced Degrees

Requirements for Certificates

See individual certificate programs described in this catalog.

Requirements for Advanced Degrees

For advanced degree requirements see the Graduate School section of this catalog or contact the Graduate School. Students who take courses they wish to apply toward an advanced degree before they have received baccalaureate degrees may have a limited number of credits reserved by petition. Also see Reserving Credits in the Graduate School section.

A graduate student also may obtain baccalaureate degrees from Oregon State University by satisfying the requirements for subsequent degrees.

Undergraduate Graduation via Institutional Awarding

To become a degree candidate:

• You must be a current OSU student with senior standing
• You must be enrolled in the final course(s) required for your program of study

With Institutional Awarding, undergraduate students no longer need to apply for graduation. Students should meet regularly with their academic advisor to ensure their progress to graduation.

Commencement exercises are held annually in June and attendance is optional. Students who have graduated in the previous summer, fall or winter terms and senior-level students who will graduate in spring, or upcoming summer and fall terms may participate in the June Commencement exercises.

Ecampus students planning to travel to Corvallis for Commencement can contact Ecampus Student Services for additional information.

Additionally, please be aware that all corresponding transcripts are sealed, meaning the academic record cannot be altered, by the Office of the Registrar 90 days after the conferral of a degree. This ensures that the academic course work that reflects the components that substantiated the awarding of the degree is accurately and permanently recorded.

Double Degrees

A student may earn multiple, different degrees simultaneously. Additional degrees may also be earned after your first degree was awarded. The degrees may be offered by the same college, or by different colleges. To earn a double degree, or for each additional degree, a student must complete a minimum of 32 credits above the minimum number of credits needed for one of the degrees. Each degree application is reviewed by the appropriate academic advisor. Advisors complete a separate graduation audit for each of the degrees.

On the student’s academic record, each degree awarded will be recorded as a separate degree with its major, e.g., Bachelor of Science in Mathematics, Bachelor of Arts in English. The student will also receive a separate diploma for each degree awarded (See Academic Regulation 26).

Some double-degree programs — Education (BA, BS, HBA, HBS), Innovation Management (BA, BS, HBA, HBS), Sustainability (BS, HBS), International Studies (BA, HBA) — require that a primary degree be completed in order for the secondary degree to be awarded. When multiple degrees are not dependent on one another, one of the degrees may be awarded even though requirements for the other degree have not yet met. The double degree may be earned concurrently or subsequently. (See Academic Regulation 26.)

Dual (or Multiple) Majors

A student may earn two or more majors within a single degree program (a particular combination of degree, college, and campus, e.g., BA degree from the College of Liberal Arts on the Corvallis campus). It is sometimes possible to complete two or more majors within the minimum number of credits required for a degree, but usually the student must complete additional credits to complete requirements for all of their majors. For this reason, dual (or multiple) majors are obtained within the same college. The advisor must complete one graduation audit that includes all of the majors. The student’s academic record will list one degree with two or more majors, e.g., Bachelor of Science in Mathematics and Chemistry. The student receives one diploma. Dual (or multiple) majors may be obtained concurrently with the completion of the degree, or in some cases may be earned as a credential subsequent to completion of the degree. (See Academic Regulation 27 (p. 22)).

Note: Occasionally, with careful planning, a student can complete two majors from separate colleges in less than the 212 credits required for two degrees. When this occurs a student can petition for an exception, and graduate with two majors from separate colleges. The student must pick one college as their home college and all majors will be associated with the home college. The student must have the support of advisors from both major programs to have their petition considered.

Honors Degrees

Students completing the honors college curriculum receive an honors degree in the college of their major, e.g., HBS Honors Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, or HBA Honors Bachelor of Arts in English. In some cases it might be possible for an Honors College student to earn multiple degrees simultaneously by following the double degrees requirements outlined in Academic Regulation 26 (p. 21).

Students seeking an honors degree must meet the requirements of the Honors College in order to receive their degree. Students that complete an Honors degree will have the honors degree recorded on their academic record. The student's diploma will also include the honors degree designation (e.g., Honors Bachelor of Science, etc.).

Note: Honors degrees are not currently available to Ecampus students.

Degrees with Distinction

Graduates who have completed at least 90 credits at OSU or sixty upper-division credits at OSU, and who have an OSU cumulative GPA of 3.5 or higher, are awarded an OSU degree with distinction as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Academic Distinction</th>
<th>OSU GPA Range</th>
<th>Graduation Honor Cord Color</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cum Laude</td>
<td>3.50-3.69</td>
<td>Orange</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Magna Cum Laude</td>
<td>3.70-3.84</td>
<td>Gold</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summa Cum Laude</td>
<td>3.85-4.00</td>
<td>White</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These distinctions are noted on diplomas.

Undergraduate Research/Arts Fellow Honor Distinction

Oregon State University recognizes significant engagement and accomplishment in undergraduate research and the arts by awarding an honor distinction of "Undergraduate Research/Arts Fellow" to students of all majors upon completion of a significant research or creative arts experience under faculty mentorship. "Research" here is intended to encompass modes of scholarship and inquiry as they are variously practiced and defined in OSU’s academic disciplines. Students completing significant creative projects in the arts may receive the honorary distinction "Undergraduate Arts Fellow." The distinction will be noted on the student's transcript, and the student will receive a blue honor cord to be worn at graduation ceremonies.

To qualify for the Undergraduate Research/Arts Fellow distinction:

1. Students must demonstrate involvement in all major phases of their project including conception, implementation, and presentation. This involvement will generally consist of sustained work over multiple quarters or the summer resulting in an original contribution relative to the discipline.

2. The project presentation must be to an audience that extends beyond the immediate research group or creative context, for example at a public performance, symposium/seminar, the annual CUE (Celebration of Undergraduate Excellence) at OSU, a professional meeting, or through publication in a journal.

3. Evidence of the presentation must be submitted with the final honorary distinction application and deposited into the OSU Scholars Archive.

4. The faculty mentor must endorse the application, verifying satisfaction of the criteria described above.

To apply for the distinction, students should complete the OSU Undergraduate Research/Arts Fellow Honor Distinction Application (http://undergraduate.oregonstate.edu/research/transcript-notaion). Students that complete a thesis in the University Honors College, International Education, Physics, BioResource Research or the Bioenergy Minor should submit Form A while form B is to be used for all other research/creative activities. The Form B which application requires submission of a detailed description of the project and the student’s involvement in specific research/creative tasks, a timeline of the student’s project engagement, details of the public presentation, and the faculty mentor’s endorsement. Applications are submitted to the head advisor in the students’ major college, who will sign the application and transmit to the Director for Undergraduate Research for signature before it is sent to the Office of the Registrar for processing. Applications may be submitted at any time during the undergraduate’s career but no later than three weeks prior to a student’s anticipated graduation date.

Dissertation/Thesis

Upon completion and acceptance of a dissertation/thesis at the conclusion of a program of study, the dissertation/thesis will be recorded on a student's transcript, noting the title and term/year that the dissertation/thesis was accepted by the university.

Re-Enrolling Students

Re-enrolling students are reminded that graduation requirements may have changed. Students are responsible for consulting their college for changes in their curriculum. If a program has been discontinued, students cannot expect to continue pursuit of that program. Re-enrolling students are also reminded that individual retention and re-enrollment standards of specific colleges may be in effect.

Oregon Transfer Students

Oregon community college students entering OSU who have completed the Associate of Arts Oregon Transfer (AAOT) degree (meeting the block transfer agreement between Oregon community colleges and Oregon public universities) will satisfy the lower-division requirements of the baccalaureate core (except those in the synthesis requirement) and have junior standing for registration.

When entering OSU, Oregon community college students who have completed the Associate of Arts Oregon Transfer (AAOT) degree will have junior standing for registration and will satisfy the lower-division requirements of the baccalaureate core, except those in the synthesis requirement. The AAOT degree meets the block transfer agreement between Oregon community colleges and Oregon public universities.

For more information about how OSU accepts any of the transfer degrees, call OSU Admissions at 800-291-4192.

Washington Transfer Students

The Direct Transfer Associate degree awarded by any community college in Washington state will satisfy lower-division general (core) requirements at OSU. Students will receive junior level standing with an earned Washington Direct Transfer Associate degree of 90 transferable quarter hours or more. The minimum requirements are: 2.0 GPA on 90 earned quarter hours of transferable credit. OSU will accept a maximum of 12 credits in professional, vocational, and technical courses. You must still meet requirements in your chosen major, minor, or professional program.

For more information about how OSU accepts any of the transfer degrees, call OSU Admissions at 800-291-4192.

California Transfer Students

OSU accepts the Intersegmental General Education Transfer Curriculum (IGETC) to satisfy lower-division (general core requirements. The IGETC was developed for community college students who plan to transfer to a four-year institution but are undecided about which one and/or undecided about a major. Students interested in the IGETC path to transfer are strongly advised to see an academic advisor prior to enrollment. The minimum requirements are: 36 quarter (24 semester) academically transferable hours, 2.25 cumulative GPA, IGETC Area 1 Group A English requirement (C– or higher grade), IGETC Area 2 Mathematical Concepts requirement (C– or higher grade), and student must be admissible to the last institution they attended.

For more information about how OSU accepts any of the transfer degrees, call OSU Admissions at 800-291-4192.

Transfer Credits

Decisions on transfer courses meeting specific baccalaureate core (general education requirements) will be made by the Office of Admissions with the Faculty Senate and the Office of Academic Programs. Some requirements may be met by advanced placement or international baccalaureate. For more information, contact the Office of Admissions. Articulation tables for baccalaureate core courses can be found online (http://admissions.oregonstate.edu/baccalaureate-core-course-equivalencies).

Baccalaureate Core Courses

The Baccalaureate Core (Bacc Core) Curriculum represents what the OSU faculty believes is the foundation for students’ further understanding of the modern world. Formed by natural and social sciences, arts, and humanities, the Bacc Core requires students to think critically and creatively, and to synthesize ideas and information when evaluating major societal issues. Importantly, the Bacc Core promotes understanding of interrelationships among disciplines in order to increase students’ capacities as ethical citizens of an ever-changing world.

No single course may be used by a student to satisfy more than one subject area of the Core even though some courses have been approved in more than one area. See Academic Regulation 25(a)(5) (p. 20).

ECampus – Top-ranked degrees online
As a leader in online education, Oregon State University Ecampus works with OSU faculty to provide access to exceptional learning experiences that transform the lives of students in Oregon and around the world. Thousands of online and distance students enroll in Ecampus’ nationally ranked degree programs and courses each year, all of which are developed by Oregon State University faculty. In the 2018-19 academic year, more than 25,000 OSU students took at least one Ecampus class online.

OSU Ecampus is widely regarded as one of America’s best providers of online education and has been ranked nationally by numerous publications (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/online-degrees/promotion/top-ranked.htm) in each of the last nine years. In January 2019, Oregon State’s online bachelor’s programs were ranked No. 3 in the nation (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/news/2019/oregon-state-online-education-top-10-rankings) by U.S. News & World Report. It marked the fifth straight year OSU Ecampus was ranked in the top 10. This recognition is based on student engagement; faculty credentials and training; services and technology; and expert opinion.

Students interested in pursuing an Oregon State degree online can choose from more than 60 programs (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/online-degrees), including bachelor’s degrees in business administration; fisheries and wildlife sciences; Spanish; computer science (postbaccalaureate); agricultural sciences; and various liberal arts disciplines. Oregon State’s online and hybrid graduate-level offerings feature four MBA tracks that include organizational leadership and innovation management; master’s programs in engineering management and data analytics; a Master of Natural Resources; and a variety of education programs. Find a complete list of degree and certificate programs here (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu). Ecampus delivers more than 1,200 courses online throughout the year. A complete list of classes is available online (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/soc).

Ecampus is also helping expand Oregon State’s presence in the Portland region. Not only do students have access to OSU-singature programs and courses online through Ecampus, but now they can also study in a dynamic, hybrid (online/in-person) learning environment that includes face-to-face interaction with OSU faculty and students as well as on-site support services at the OSU Portland Center at Pioneer Square (https://portland.oregonstate.edu).

Oregon State’s distance learners include full- and part-time students, working and retired professionals, community college students, active-duty and retired military, high school students and individuals who want to further their education with a single college course. Ecampus students and graduates hail from all 50 states and more than 50 countries worldwide.

All curricula for Ecampus courses and degree programs are designed by Oregon State faculty and are held to the same rigorous academic standards as the university’s on-campus classes. OSU is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities, and all Ecampus students who complete degree requirements receive the same diploma and transcript as campus-based students.

Ecampus works closely with more than 800 OSU faculty members and department heads in order to provide students with enriching educational opportunities. Our current online offerings include courses in more than 100 subjects, from anthropology and chemistry to economics and public health. Oregon State partners with 20 community colleges throughout the state and in Hawaii as a way to help students progress toward a four-year degree. The Degree Partnership Program allows students to take community college and OSU classes concurrently in order to meet the course-load requirement for financial aid and to access other OSU services, including advising. Learn more about taking Ecampus online classes with the Degree Partnership Program (http://partnerships.oregonstate.edu).

Services for Students
Oregon State Ecampus offers a variety of support services (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/students) that meet students’ needs and helps them along the path to graduation. Once enrolled online, Ecampus students have access to student services specialists; a team of success coaches, who work one-on-one with learners to identify strategies to support them in achieving their goals; a dedicated Ecampus librarian and 24/7 library support; free online tutoring and remote exam proctoring (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/services/proctoring); OSU’s Disability Access Services; career counseling; and live, around-the-clock technical support on OSU’s learning management system, Canvas.

Ecampus works to create a sense of community for its students by sharing news about OSU faculty and students online (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/news) and in a quarterly newsletter (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/news/newsletters). Ecampus also has a strong following on Facebook (http://facebook.com/ousecampus), Instagram (http://instagram.com/ousecampus), Twitter (http://twitter.com/ousecampus) and LinkedIn (http://linkedin.com/company/oregon-state-ecampus) where students can engage with fellow classmates, OSU Beavers fans and ask questions of the Ecampus staff.

Ecampus also provides assistance by email, phone or in person to prospective and current students who are interested in taking Oregon State courses online and at a distance.

Services for Faculty
The Ecampus staff provides an array of services for faculty, including course development training workshops, facility coordination and liaison activities with partnering community colleges and universities. Find a complete list of training sessions and workshops online (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/services/training). The Ecampus Faculty Forum is an annual showcase of excellence in online teaching that features interactive, wide-ranging discussions on how Oregon State applies its academic prestige to online education. Held each spring on campus, the event gives faculty the opportunity to hear colleagues discuss innovative teaching methods, best practices and relate their experiences in online course development. More than 250 OSU faculty, administrators and staff attend the event annually.

Ecampus operates a program called QM Online Course Design, which seeks to improve student success in online courses by focusing on continuously improving course design. Using the independent and research-based Quality Matters peer review process, the faculty-driven QM program examines course design, not the content itself or the teaching.

Having an online course peer reviewed is an ideal way for OSU faculty to receive fresh ideas from colleagues who can offer positive feedback to create more active learning. The Ecampus Course Development and Training team conducts training sessions (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/faculty/qm) year-round, and stipends are awarded when one reviews a peer's course.

The OSU Ecampus Research Unit (ECRU) makes research actionable through the creation of evidence-based resources related to effective online teaching, learning and program administration toward the fulfillment of the goals of Oregon State's mission.

Specifically, the ECRU conducts original research and provides resources to encourage faculty research and external grant applications related to online teaching and learning.

Established in 2015, the ECRU regularly publishes the results of national and local studies, and it produces a weekly podcast, "Research in Action (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/research/podcast)," to address topics and issues facing researchers nationwide.

In late 2017, the ECRU created the Online Learning Efficacy Research Database (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/research/projects/online-learning-efficacy-research), a new repository of academic studies that allows users to explore whether the learning outcomes of online education are equivalent to face-to-face environments. As of April 2019, the Online Learning Efficacy Research Database has 240 citations across 74 discrete disciplines from 173 academic journals. The database is updated each month with additions of new studies that fit the database parameters.

The Research Unit houses a competitive award program to fund Oregon State faculty in their online learning research endeavors. Learn more about the Ecampus Research Fellows (ECRF) program (https://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/research/fellows), its goals, timeline and the materials you'll need to apply online (http://ecampus.oregonstate.edu/research/fellows).

To make college more affordable and accessible for students, Ecampsus Open Educational Resources works with university faculty to create no-cost and low-cost course materials to be used in classes on-campus and online with OSU Ecampus.

Ecampsus Open Educational Resources aims to take advantage of OSU's national reputation in the field of online learning to establish a competitive open educational resources (OER) program that focuses on reusable digital components. In partnership with OSU Libraries and Press, Ecampsus Open Educational Resources partners with faculty to adopt, adapt and author open textbooks that are freely available online to students and faculty at Oregon State and worldwide.

Learn how you and your department can partner with Ecampsus Open Educational Resources here (http://open.oregonstate.edu/opportunities).

The Office of Financial Aid is here to help you invest in your future. It’s a good idea to apply for financial aid at the same time that you apply for admission to OSU. Although we won’t review your financial aid information until after your admission application is filed, you can still apply for financial aid before you have been admitted to OSU. Learn more about your options at OSU by choosing a category below.

Financial aid is based on the premise that you, and in the case of dependent students, your parents are primarily responsible for providing for your educational expenses, and it is intended to supplement student and family contributions toward educational costs. Financial aid comes from many sources, including federal and state government, private organizations, and Oregon State University’s institutional funds. These funds consist of grants, scholarships, federal work study, subsidized loans, unsubsidized loans, and parent loans.

Eligibility/Application Procedures
To be eligible for federal financial aid, a student must:

1. Fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), beginning October 1st using previous year tax data (for example the 2019–2020 application will use 2017 tax information). Parents and students are encouraged to use the IRS data retrieval tool to update their income information and submit it by the OSU priority deadline of February 28. The FAFSA application process allows for the completion of tax information questions from the IRS directly from your return! Follow the prompts while completing the application to authorize this information exchange. Always remember that there is no fee to apply for federal aid.

2. List Oregon State University as a school that you would like your information to be sent to on the FAFSA. Oregon State’s federal school code is 003210.

3. The priority FAFSA application deadline for OSU is February 28th. This date is used to determine eligibility for some need-based aid programs as well as state and institutional funds. Applications received after the priority deadline will still be eligible for federal aid such as the Pell Grant and Direct Loans. Graduate students are not eligible for federal Title IV grants or subsidized loans.

4. Make sure you are eligible to receive financial aid. In order to receive federal funding you must:
   - Have a high school diploma or a General Education Development (GED) certificate, or complete a high school education in a home school setting that is treated as such under state law.
   - Be enrolled or accepted for enrollment in a degree or approved certificate program (e.g., not special admit)
   - Be a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen.
   - Have a valid Social Security Number.
   - Register with the Selective Service if required. You can register online (http://www.sss.gov) or you can call 1-847-688-6888. (TTY users can call 1-847-688-2567.)
   - Maintain satisfactory academic progress as defined by Oregon State University once in school.
   - Are not in default on a federal student loan and do not owe money on a federal student grant.
   - The Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended (HEA) suspends aid eligibility for students who have been convicted under federal or state law of the sale or possession of drugs, if the offense occurred during a period of enrollment for which the student was receiving federal student aid (grants, loans, and/or work-study).

5. Apply for admission to Oregon State University. Apply Online. You will not be considered for any financial aid award until you have applied to the university.

What happens AFTER I apply?

Once you have submitted your FAFSA application online you will receive a confirmation of receipt from Federal Student Aid. They will also send you a Student Aid Report that will give you a summary of your application and inform you of any problems you might need to resolve. You should read this report carefully and resolve problems in a timely manner. If you receive notification that something on your FAFSA is missing or incorrect, you can check your financial aid information through MyOSU Financial Aid information or email the OSU Office of Financial Aid for further information.

Students whose aid application was received by the end of February may expect to receive an initial award letter by approximately April 1. Aid applications are then completed on a rolling basis by date of receipt with award notifications being sent out as files are completed.

You will receive an email or letter once your financial aid award has been completed. You will also be notified if you need to provide further information in order for us to complete your application. All correspondence will be sent to your ONID email account, so be sure to keep your information up to date!

The award notification will show the type and amount of aid available to you for the coming school year. To reserve these funds, the student must... read and accept the award within 30 days. The accepted award indicates the student has read and agrees to the terms of the award as outlined.

Understand Before You Accept

By accepting your award, you are stating that you have read, understand, and accept the Terms and Conditions (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/review_termsconditions) of your award. As a recipient of financial aid, you must meet certain requirements to maintain financial aid eligibility. The Office of Financial Aid reserves the right to revise a financial aid award during any time of the year if there are changes in your financial aid eligibility. You will be notified through your OSU student email if new requirements have been established or revisions have been made. Your aid eligibility may change based on FAFSA Verification (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/verification-faqs), Satisfactory Academic Progress (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/review_satisfactoryacademicprogress), withdrawing (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_withdrawal) from courses, course participation (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/course-participation), Census Date enrollment (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_censusdate), reaching aid limits (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/aid-limits-undergraduates), and other factors. If you will be less than fulltime (12 credits as an undergraduate/post-bacc or 9 credits as a graduate student) please submit an enrollment revision form (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms) to let us know.

Acceptance Deadlines

The acceptance deadlines listed on your award letter do not apply to federal Ford Direct subsidized and unsubsidized loan offers. If you are still deciding how much to accept in Ford loans, you may wait until closer to the start of the term to accept that portion of the aid offer.

Students Who Are Not Yet Admitted

You will not be able to login and accept your aid offer until you have received your Admission’s letter and your OSU student ID number. If you have not yet received your ID number and cannot login to MyOSU, you may disregard the acceptance deadline listed on your award letter. Just be sure to accept or decline your aid offer once the Admission’s process is complete.

How to Accept Your Aid Offer

To accept your financial aid, login to MyOSU (http://oregonstate.edu/main/online-services). Log in using your ONID username and password. If you need assistance with this information, you can contact the OSU Computer Help Desk at 541-737-3474.

You can then accept, reject, or revise your Financial Aid Award through MyOSU (http://oregonstate.edu/main/online-services) by completing the following steps:

• Select the Paying for College tab
• Select Financial Aid Awards
• Select the appropriate year (ex. 2019-2020)
• Answer and submit any relevant questions on the Resources/Additional Information Tab
• Review your Terms & Conditions by selecting the Terms and Conditions tab
• Then select Accept Award Offer tab
• Click Submit when done

• Go to Student Loans (http://catalog.oregonstate.edu/financial-aid-scholarships/www.studentloans.gov) to complete any necessary Entrance Counseling and Master Promissory Notes (these are both required in order to receive federal student loans)
• If you will be enrolled less than fulltime submit an enrollment revision form (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms)

*You may accept all or a portion of aid awarded to you. You are also not required to accept the maximum loan amount offered to you. To borrow a lesser amount, indicate the total amount of loan you wish to borrow for the academic year. When deciding what amount to accept, please note that your loans must be divided up equally throughout the academic year.

*You are responsible for notifying the OSU Office of Financial Aid in the event that you receive any additional awards from any other source. The OSU Office of Financial Aid and Scholarships will then make any required revisions to your aid package. The receipt of additional aid may result in a reduction or elimination of aid from university-administered programs, even if it has already been paid.

*If you are considered a dependent student, your parents can also apply for a Parent PLUS loan up to the remaining cost of attendance by completing a PLUS loan application and Master Promissory Note available for them through the Federal Student Loans website. (https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/index.action)

*Important notice about Parent PLUS loan applications: The PLUS loan application will not be available for 2019-2020 until May 01, 2019. If you attempt to apply prior to that date you will be told that OSU does not participate in the program. Rest assured, OSU DOES participate in the Federal Direct Parent PLUS loan program. Applications for parent PLUS loan requires a credit check each time the parent applies for the loan and is only valid for 180 days. Applying too early may cause delays with processing and disbursements. Students can review their file status by logging into their ONID account.

Types of Financial Aid

Federal Programs

Federal Pell Grant

A need-based grant from the federal government intended for high need undergraduate students seeking their first bachelor’s degree.

• After the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is filed, the Department of Education sends you a Student Aid Report (SAR) or an Information Acknowledgement if you filed online. These documents will indicate if you are Pell eligible and it is important to review them for accuracy.
• Based on the Congressional approval of year round Pell, students may now receive up to 150% of their Pell eligibility in a single year. You may be eligible to receive a fulltime Pell Grant for all 4 terms of the academic year. Terms in which a student is attending less than halftime (fewer than 6 credit hours) may not be counted towards this additional eligibility.
• Students may receive the Pell grant for a maximum of 18 terms/12 semesters. Utilizing year round Pell will use this lifetime eligibility (https://studentaid.ed.gov/ssa/types/grants-scholarships/pell/calculate-eligibility) more quickly.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG)
• A need-based grant from the federal government intended for high need undergraduate students seeking their first bachelor's degree.
• Administered by the OSU Office of Financial Aid. Funds are limited and eligibility is based in part by meeting the OSU priority FAFSA submission deadline of February 28.

Federal College Work-Study Program (FWS)

Federal College Work-Study Program (FWS) program helps provide part-time jobs for students with financial need to help them pay for their education.

• The program is administered by the OSU Office of Financial Aid.
Funds are limited and eligibility is based on need and in part by meeting the OSU priority FAFSA submission deadline of February 28.
• Being awarded FWS funds allows you to apply for jobs that specifically have the Work-Study designation. If you are awarded FWS and secure a Work-Study job, you will be paid monthly for hours worked.
• The amount of FWS indicated on your award is the maximum amount you may earn for the academic year. Funds are paid monthly on the basis of hours worked in the pay period not to exceed 20 hours per week.
• Students not awarded FWS may still apply for jobs both on and off campus.

Please review our Work-Study Page (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/Work_Study) for more detailed information

LOANS

Loans: Federal Aid THAT DOES HAVE TO BE REPAID

Federal Loan Basics

• Federal Student Loans are aid that must be repaid.
• You must file a FAFSA each year to receive a federal loan offer.
• On Subsidized Loans, the U.S. Department of Education pays the interest while you are attending school at least half time.
• On Unsubsidized Loans, you are responsible for paying the interest during times of deferment.
• Parent Plus and Graduate Plus loans require a credit check and separate application each year.
• Minimum halftime enrollment is required each term to receive federal loans.
• Find interest rate and origination fees for all federal loans online at
• There are yearly, aggregate, and timeframe maximums for federal loans.
• The Perkins Loan program has not been extended beyond the 2017-2018 aid year. Repayment and deferment options are handled by the OSU Business Affairs Student Loan Office (https:// fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/perkins). Please see our Perkins disclosure page (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/federal-perkinsloan-program-extension-act-additional-disclosures) if you have an existing Perkins loan.

Types of Federal Loans

Subsidized Federal Ford Direct Student Loan

• Subsidized means the U.S. Department of Education pays the interest (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/interest-rates) while you are attending school at least half time.
• Awarded to undergraduate students with financial need.
• The amount you are awarded is determined by your financial need and class rank.
• If you have not received a Federal Ford Direct Loan at OSU in the past,
you must complete Entrance Counseling and a Master Promissory
Note online at StudentLoans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/
myDirectLoan/index.action).
• Repayment begins 6 months after graduation or dropping below half time enrollment
• Has yearly, aggregate, and timeframe limits.

Unsubsidized Federal Ford Direct Student Loan

• Unsubsidized means you are responsible for paying the interest
times of deferment.
• Awarded to undergraduate and graduate students.
• The amount you are awarded is determined by your class rank and dependency status.
• If you have not received a Federal Ford Direct Loan at OSU in the past,
you must complete Entrance Counseling and a Master Promissory
Note online at StudentLoans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/
myDirectLoan/index.action).
• If you are a dependent student and your parent has been credit denied for the Parent Plus loan this year, you may submit a Student Loan Revision form to request an increase in the Ford Direct unsubsidized student loan.
• Repayment begins 6 months after graduation or dropping below half time enrollment.
• Has yearly and aggregate limits.

Parent PLUS Federal Loan

• The Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan is a credit based loan borrowed by the parent on behalf of a dependent undergraduate or post-baccalaureate undergraduate student for educational expenses.
• Has no yearly or aggregate limits but amounts must fit into the expected cost of attendance.
• The loan is unsubsidized meaning you are responsible for paying the interest (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/interest-rates) during times of deferment.
• The parent borrower must complete a Direct PLUS Loan Application and Master Promissory Note (MPN) online at StudentLoans.gov.
• The credit check, run as part of the application, is only valid for 180 days. Do not complete the application more than 180 days before the start of the term, or before May of the respective year if attending summer term.

*For applicants who have been determined to have an adverse credit history, but qualify for a Direct Parent PLUS loan by documenting extenuating circumstances or obtaining an endorser must complete the PLUS Counseling online at StudentLoans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/index.action). Students can review their file status by logging into their MyOSU (https://main.oregonstate.edu) account.

*If a Parent Plus loan has been credit denied for this year, the student may submit a Student Loan Revision form (https:// financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms) to request an increase in the Ford Direct unsubsidized student loan.

Graduate PLUS Federal Loan

- The Federal Direct Grad PLUS Loan is a credit based loan borrowed by graduate students to assist with educational expenses.
- Has no yearly or aggregate limits but amounts must fit into the expected cost of attendance.
- The loan is unsubsidized meaning you are responsible for paying the interest (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/interest-rates) during times of deferment.
- You must complete a Direct PLUS Loan Application and Master Promissory Note (MPN) and Entrance Counseling online at StudentLoans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/index.action).
- The credit check, run as part of the application, is only valid for 180 days. Do not complete the application more than 180 days before the start of the term, or before May of the respective year if attending summer term.

*For applicants who have been determined to have an adverse credit history, but qualify for a Direct Graduate PLUS loan by documenting extenuating circumstances or obtaining an endorser must complete the PLUS Counseling online at StudentLoans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/index.action).

FEDERAL LOAN LIMITS

Dependent Undergraduate Ford Direct Student Loan Maximum Per Year:

- $5,500 freshman ($3,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)
- $6,500 sophomore ($4,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)
- $7,500 junior/senior ($5,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)

* If a Parent Plus loan has been credit denied for this year, the student may submit a Student Loan Revision form (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms) to request an increase in the Ford Direct unsubsidized student loan. The maximum increase is $4,000 for fresh/soph and $5,000 for jr/sr.

Dependent Undergraduate Ford Direct Student Loan Aggregate Maximum (Limit for all years combined):

- $31,000 Ford Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans Combined (no more than $23,000 of that may be subsidized)

* If a Parent Plus loan has been credit denied for this year, the student may submit a Student Loan Revision form to request an increase in the Ford Direct unsubsidized student loan. In this case the aggregate maximum increases to $57,500.

* The credit hour maximum timeframe (MTF) is an additional limitation beyond the federal aggregate aid maximums. More information about the MTF may be found on the Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/satisfactory-academic-progress) section of our website.

* The Subsidized Federal Direct Ford Loan is need-based with the government paying the interest on the loan while the student is enrolled. Effective July 1, 2013 there will be a limit on the amount of time that a student is allowed to borrow subsidized loan funds which will be tied to their program length. Students that exceed 150% of their program length will no longer be eligible to receive subsidized loan funds, regardless of any extensions granted based on the Satisfactory Academic Progress appeal process through the Office of Financial. Find more details on the federal loan webpage.

Independent Undergraduate Ford Direct Student Loan Maximum Per Year:

- $9,500 freshman ($3,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)
- $10,500 sophomore ($4,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)
- $12,500 junior/senior ($5,500 of that may be subsidized if eligible)

Independent Undergraduate Ford Direct Student Loan Aggregate Maximum (Limit for all years combined):

- $57,500 Ford Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans Combined (no more than $23,000 of that may be subsidized)

* The credit hour maximum timeframe (MTF) is an additional limitation beyond the federal aggregate aid maximums. More information about the MTF may be found on the Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/satisfactory-academic-progress) section of our website.

Dependent Undergraduate Ford Direct Loan Limits

Graduate Ford Direct Student Loan Maximum Per Year:

- $20,500 (unless seeking certain medical or professional degrees)

Graduate Ford Direct Student Loan Aggregate Maximum (Limit for all years of undergraduate and graduate work combined):

- $138,500 (unless seeking certain medical or professional degrees)

* The credit hour maximum timeframe (MTF) is an additional limitation beyond the federal aggregate aid maximums. More information about the MTF may be found on the Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/satisfactory-academic-progress) section of our website.

Campus Scholarships

These limited merit and need based scholarships are administered by the Office of Scholarships and the Office of Financial Aid. Incoming students are considered based on completion of the scholarship portion of the admissions application. Eligibility is limited to students who have completed fewer than 12 terms and submit the application for Admission by February 1. Recipients must be enrolled full-time and are notified of their awards in writing. Criteria is available on the Scholarships website (https://scholarships.oregonstate.edu/prospective-student-scholarships).

Departmental Awards

Each department on campus administers their own awards. Contact the department or donor directly for specific information regarding the award. For a searchable database of scholarships, visit ScholarDollars (https://scholarships.oregonstate.edu/scholardollars).
Private Awards

These awards come from outside donors and can affect your financial aid package. Outside scholarship checks should be mailed to: Student Accounts, Oregon State University, PO Box 1086, Corvallis, OR 97339. If you have not already submitted notification to the Financial Aid Office regarding your outside scholarships, please submit the Reporting Additional Sources of Assistance form located on the Financial Aid Forms page.

State of Oregon Opportunity Grant

The Opportunity Grant is a state grant administered by the Office of Student Access and Completion (OSAC) and awarded to undergraduate Oregon residents based on need and allowable funding. Students must complete the FAFSA (https://fafsa.ed.gov) or ORSAA (https://regonstudentaid.gov/fafsa-orsaa.aspx) each year in order to be considered. Twelve terms of eligibility are possible. This grant is not available during summer term.

OSAC Scholarship Application

Start your OSAC Scholarship Application (https://app.oregonstudentaid.gov), final deadline is March 1 of each year. In the event that it falls on a weekend or holiday, the deadline will automatically be extended to 5:00 p.m. (PST) of the following business day.

Oregon Student Child Care Grant

You may apply for the Oregon Student Child Care Grant (https://app.oregonstudentaid.gov) if you are an Oregon student seeking financial support for college students with children in daycare.

Other Programs

Private Supplemental/Alternative Loan

Students needing additional funding for school, whose aid package has not fully met their cost of attendance, may opt to apply for funding through a private lending agency. These loans have a variable interest rate, and a credit check must be done on all applicants. OSU cannot recommend lenders for private/alternative loans. More information may be found on our webpage (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/review_aidtypes_private_loans).

Graduate Students

Based on the FAFSA application, graduate degree seeking students may be eligible to receive Unsubsidized Direct Loans. The annual loan maximum for non-professional students is $20,500 per academic year. The aggregate borrowing limit is $138,500. This includes all Federal Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized loans borrowed for undergraduate and graduate study. Students must be enrolled at least half time (5 credits) and repayment begins six months after graduation, withdrawal, or if you drop below half-time enrollment. Interest rate and origination fee information may be found on the FSA webpage (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/interest-rates). For more information, visit our graduate student webpage (http://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/graduate-student-aid).

In addition to Unsubsidized Direct Loan, Graduate Students can apply for a credit based Graduate PLUS loan at studentloans.gov (https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/index.action). If credit approved for this loan, graduate students may accept up to their remaining cost of attendance for that year.

Before you can receive a PLUS Loan, your school must have determined your maximum eligibility for Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loans.

In addition to these Federal Aid Programs, the Graduate School offers additional information on Assistantship, Grant and Scholarship Opportunities on their webpage (http://gradschool.oregonstate.edu).

Receipt of Aid Funds

OSU Office of Business Affairs is responsible for disbursing refunds from student accounts once financial aid has been applied. You must be registered and have your tuition and fees billed to your account for financial aid to be applied. Aid funds are never made available in advance. Textbooks cannot be charged to a student’s account. It is assumed that the student will purchase textbooks out-of-pocket and use any refund to “reimburse” themselves for the costs. If a credit balance remains on your student account after current university charges are paid, you will be issued a refund. Federal Work-Study earnings are paid by payroll check to you each month for hours worked. You may receive a refund and still have an outstanding balance on your account. For more information about your bill or refund, visit the Business Affairs website.

Delayed Disbursements

There are several ways in which your aid may be delayed. Here are the most common reasons:

- You may be required to complete Entrance Counseling and sign a Master Promissory Note (MPN) for your Ford Direct Loans. You would have been notified of these requirements via an email to your ONID email account.
- Dropping classes (below 12 for undergraduates, 9 for graduates). All students are assumed to be full-time unless they notify Financial Aid in writing that they will be less. If you are not enrolled at full-time and have not notified us, your aid will not disburse.
- Registering late for classes.
- Being waitlisted for classes. These classes do not count toward your enrollment level until you are actually enrolled in them.
- Having unsatisfied requirements with your financial aid file. Check your status through MyOSU/Financial Aid/My Eligibility.

You are responsible for managing your Financial Aid experience, so be sure to check MyOSU frequently and review any emails you receive from us as they may include requests for additional information or action.

Requesting Changes

It is understood that you want as much grant and scholarship money as possible. When you are awarded your financial aid, your award will reflect your eligibility for available grant aid. When accepting your award, you may always request a lesser loan amount. Please note that loan funds are divided into equal disbursements, based on your enrollment at OSU within the given year. You may replace your Federal Work-Study funds with a Direct Ford loan, however this is dependent upon your loan eligibility. In addition, if you initially decline loan funds but find later that you in fact need them, you may also request that the loan be reinstated up to the total of your original offer. Please request any changes in writing by submitting a Loan Revision Request form to the financial aid office. Be aware that not all budget requests can be accommodated.
Additional Costs

In certain instances, your cost of attendance may be adjusted to include other allowable costs incurred to meet your educational needs. Requests are reviewed on a case-by-case basis to determine approval. Documentation of the additional expense must be included for consideration. If approved, additional expenses are usually funded with "self-help" assistance in the form of loans. Adjustments are not made for consumer debts, car payments, or private school tuition.

Adjustments may include, but are not limited to:

- Medical or dental cost not covered by insurance
- Computer expense (one time allowance)
- Child care cost for children 12 and under
- Commuting costs from outside the Corvallis area
- Costs related to students with disabilities
- Study abroad program fees

Parent or Student Expected Contributions (EFC)

The information you reported on your FAFSA is used to calculate a number called the Expected Family Contribution (EFC). The EFC is not the amount of money that your family must provide. The school uses the EFC to determine the amount of your federal grants, loans, or work-study awards for which you may be eligible.

Changes in Your Situation

Financial Aid offices may consider special or unusual circumstances that impact your family situation. Please contact us with any questions you might have regarding your eligibility for a review.

Renewing Aid

You must apply for financial aid every year by submitting a FAFSA application. Applications must be received before February 28 at the central processor to be considered for priority funding. You may apply for aid online after October 1st for the following academic year.

Dropping Courses and the Census Date

Dropping courses impacts your financial aid in several ways. Aid is based on your enrollment level on the Census Date (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_censusdate) of each term. For undergraduates, full-time status is 12 or more credits, 3/4 time is 9-11 credits, 1/2 time is 6-8 credits, and less than halftime is 1-5 credits. Less than fulltime enrollment may affect your financial aid eligibility. Students enrolled less than halftime are not eligible to receive most types of aid including federal student loans. If you plan on being less than fulltime you must submit an enrollment revision form (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms) to the Office of Financial Aid.

Financial aid eligibility each term is based on your level of enrollment on the Census Date (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_censusdate). On this date, budgets and financial aid are adjusted and locked based on your enrollment level at that time. If your aid was paid at the full-time amount and you are less than fulltime on the Census Date, your budget will be revised and your aid may need to be reduced to reflect your Census Date enrollment. This revision may create a new bill on your OSU student billing account.

Dropping or withdrawing from courses after the census date, may also impact your financial aid eligibility for the current and future terms. Withdrawing (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_withdrawal) from all courses, failing to complete courses (unofficially withdrawing), or not participating (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/course-participation) in courses, may result in the partial or full loss of aid eligibility for that term. Future term eligibility will depend on continuing to make Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/review_satisfactoryacademicprogress).

If you will be less than halftime, be sure to stay in contact with your loan servicer. Halftime enrollment is required in order to keep federal loans in the "in school deferment status". Find more on our Loan Repayment page (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/loan-repayment).

Short Sessions (Courses in Modules)

If a student is enrolled in sessions that do not span the entire 11 week term (modules) there are special rules that apply. You are paid federal financial aid based on all of the modules (entire payment period) you are registered for at the time of disbursement. If you do not complete all of those modules a return of federal funds may be required.

Be sure to monitor your OSU student email carefully. If you drop, withdraw from, or do not fully complete your current modules, you will be considered withdrawn from the term even if you are still enrolled in a future module. In this case you may be emailed a request to complete a survey verifying your intent to participate in future modules. If you do not complete this survey, a return of federal aid may be required. See our Withdrawal Page (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/receive_withdrawal) under “How is the return of federal aid calculation different for short sessions/modules?” for more detailed information on how drops, withdrawals, and non-completion can impact your aid.

The Pell Grant must always be adjusted to exclude payments for any course you do not participate in. If you drop a course before that course session began, we are required to reverse any Pell Grant payments made for that course. Reversed Pell will be returned to the Department of Education. This reversal of aid may create a new bill on your OSU student billing account.

What Happens If I Withdraw?

Students who withdraw from the university after the start of the term must complete a Withdrawal Form through the (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/withdraw-term)Registrar's Office (http://oregonstate.edu/registrar) and notify the Office of Financial Aid of their current and future term enrollment plans with an Enrollment Revision Form (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/forms). If financial aid funds were used to pay tuition and fees any refundable tuition amount is returned to the appropriate financial aid sources (refer to the tuition/fee refund schedule on the Business Affairs page (https://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/financial-aid/financial-aid-procedures/tuition-refund-schedule)).

OSU is required to calculate the return of Title IV financial aid funds for students that officially withdraw (complete the withdrawal process) or unofficially withdraw (ceasing course participation) during the academic term. Students who do not intend to complete the term for which they are enrolled, should follow the official withdrawal process as outlined by university regulations.

The information below is a brief summary of the process that takes place when a student withdraws from all courses or fails to receive a passing grade for a given term. The policies and procedures listed are subject to change without advance notice based on changes in federal or institutional policies. This is not an exhaustive list of the rules pertaining to the Return of Title IV funds. Further guidance regarding these policies and procedures may be obtained by contacting the Office of Financial Aid. Reference material relating to the federal rules for this process may be found in Volume 5 of the Federal Student Aid Handbook (https://ifap.ed.gov/ifap/byAwardYear.jsp?type=fsahandbook). The return of funds calculation worksheet may be found in the IFAP iLibrary (https://ifap.ed.gov/ifap/titleiv.jsp).

What Happens If I Withdraw From or Do Not Complete A Course

The impact of a partial withdrawal (official or unofficial) will vary greatly by student status, type of aid awarded, participation, and other factors. Students who plan to drop, withdraw, or not complete one or more courses, should contact the Office of Financial Aid for a personalized evaluation of how a partial withdrawal will impact their current and future aid eligibility.

Below are some important things to keep in mind about how a partial withdrawal may impact current and future term federal aid eligibility:

Current Term

The Census Date (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/census-date) is the point at which your enrollment is locked for financial aid purposes. During the fall, winter, and spring terms, the census coincides with the last date you can drop classes for a full tuition refund at OSU. At this point in the term, credit hours are locked and financial aid for the term is adjusted to reflect the student's official enrolled credits. In a standard length term, a partial withdrawal after census does not impact current term aid eligibility in most cases.

Terms when a student is taking short session/modular courses are treated differently. You may be considered completely withdrawn from the term even if you have successfully completed earlier modules or are enrolled in future modules. Review the “How is the return of federal aid calculation different for short sessions/modules?” section (drop down on the lower part of the withdrawal page) for further information.

Future Term

To maintain federal aid eligibility a student must make Satisfactory Academic Progress. This means meeting certain criteria for OSU GPA, Pace of completion, and consistency of completion. The Pace of completion percentage is calculated by dividing the number of credits successfully completed by the number attempted. When you withdraw from or do not successfully complete a course, your Pace of completion goes down. For example, if you complete 5 out of 10 credits your Pace of completion is 50%. If you do not maintain a pace of at least 67% overall Pace, federal aid eligibility can be lost. Find out more on our Satisfactory Academic Progress page (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/renewing-your-aid).

Students are expected to understand the terms, conditions, and requirements that relate to their financial aid award. Additional information on retaining full financial aid eligibility may be found on the Financial Aid webpages:

- Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/satisfactory-academic-progress)
- Terms and Conditions (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/terms-conditions)
- Renewing Your Aid (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/renewing-your-aid)
- Census Date (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/census-date)
- Course Participation (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/course-participation)

What Happens If I Do Not Complete Any Courses in a Term?

Federal financial aid is awarded based on the expectation that a student will participate in all of their courses through the last day of the term. When a student does not complete any courses, the Office of Financial Aid is required to review their eligibility for aid that has been or could be disbursed. A return of Title IV (federal aid) calculation must be completed for any student who did not complete the term. A student is considered to have earned the full amount of disbursed federal aid if they participated in all courses and completed more than 60% of the term.

In cases where full participation and more than 60% term completion cannot be verified, a return of federal Title IV and other types of aid may be required.

In most cases, the percent completion date used for the Return of Title IV funds calculation will either be based on the date of withdrawal or the last date of participation reported by instructors. In the case of an official withdrawal that is processed during the term, the calculation is usually completed based on the date of official withdrawal reported by the Registrar's Office. A student is considered unofficially withdrawn if they fail to receive any passing grades in a given term. In the case of an unofficial withdrawal, the date used will be based on participation dates reported by OSU and partner school instructors. The last date of participation may also be used for the Return of Title IV funds calculation instead of the withdrawal date in cases where the participation date is considered more accurate.

In addition to a current term return of federal funds, future term aid eligibility may be impacted by a full withdrawal. Students are expected to understand the terms, conditions, and requirements that relate to their financial aid award. Additional information on retaining full financial aid eligibility may be found on these Financial Aid webpages:

- Satisfactory Academic Progress (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/satisfactory-academic-progress)
- Terms and Conditions (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/terms-conditions)
- Renewing Your Aid (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/renewing-your-aid)

How Does a Return of Federal Aid Calculation Work

The Return of Title IV Funds calculation determines the amount of federal funds that must be returned by the institution as well as how much aid the student must return for the period of non-enrollment. For students who completed 60% or less of the term, a pro-rated schedule is used to determine the amount of aid that must be returned. That means the percentage of aid that a student is eligible to retain for the term is based on the percentage of the term that they completed. If a return of aid amount is calculated, the funds must be repaid to the financial aid programs in the following order:

- Federal Direct Unsubsidized Ford Loan
- Federal Direct Ford Loans
- Federal Perkins Loan
- Federal Direct PLUS Loan
• Federal Pell Grant
• FSEOG

The amount of federal aid that you must repay is determined via the Federal Formula for Return of Title IV funds (Section 484B of the Higher Education Act). This law also specifies the order in which funds are to be returned to the financial aid programs from which they were awarded, starting with loan programs.

You may be required to make a repayment when cash has been disbursed from financial aid funds, in excess of the amount of aid that you earned (based on the date of your total withdrawal or last date of participation) during the term. The amount of Title IV aid earned is determined by multiplying the total Title IV aid (other than FWS) for which you qualified by the percentage of time during the term that you were enrolled.

If less aid was disbursed than was earned, you may submit a request to receive a late disbursement for the difference.

If more aid was disbursed than was earned, the amount of Title IV aid that you must return (i.e. not earned) is determined by subtracting the earned amount from the amount actually disbursed.

The responsibility for returning unearned Title IV aid is shared between the university and you. It is allocated according to the portion of disbursed aid that could have been used to cover university charges, and the portion that could have been disbursed directly to you once those charges were covered. OSU will distribute the unearned aid back to the Title IV programs, as specified by law. The return of funds will be completed within 45 days of the date the determination of the withdrawal. You will receive a letter by postal mail if the Return of Title IV Funds calculation was completed and a return of funds was required. If the Return of Title IV Funds calculation was not required but funds needed to be returned for other reasons, you will be notified through your OSU student (onid) email.

You will be billed for the amount that you owe to the Title IV programs, as well as any amount due to the university, as a result of Title IV funds that were returned that would have been used to cover university charges.

Withdrawing (official or unofficially) from a term may also impact a student’s eligibility for financial aid in future terms. Students should familiarize themselves with the Satisfactory Academic Progress requirements for federal aid and should contact the Office of Financial Aid regarding how federal and other types of aid may be impacted.

How is the Return of Federal Aid Calculation Different for Short Sessions/Modules

OSU has multiple sessions that do not span the entire length of our usual 11 week term (mostly during summer). These shorter sessions are considered “modules” for federal financial aid purposes and these modules have unique rules that may impact federal aid eligibility.

A student may be considered withdrawn if they do not complete all days in the payment period they were scheduled to complete. For a student enrolled in sessions not spanning a full 11 week term, the payment period they are expected to complete is made up of the combined calendars for all sessions that they were paid aid on.

If a student drops courses in a future session while they are enrolled in a current session, they are not considered withdrawn from the term. An aid adjustment may be required for those drops but a Return of Title IV calculation would not be required.

A student who drops, withdraws from, or does not complete their current sessions, will be considered withdrawn from the term even if they are still enrolled in a future session. Students must monitor their student email for the Summer Survey request. Students will be required to submit that survey in order to verify their intent to participate in those future sessions. If this intent to participate survey is not received, a Return of Title IV Calculation must be done even if the student has successfully completed other coursework for the term and is enrolled in future sessions.

For courses in modules, the calendar used in the Return of Title IV funds calculation includes all days within the period that the student was scheduled to complete (including those completed by the student) prior to ceasing attendance. For example, a student enrolls in 2 summer sessions (session 2 spans 6/25-7/20 and session 5 spans 8/20-9/7). If they drop session 5 (a session that has not yet started) before they withdraw from session 2, we calculate using only the session 2 calendar. If they were still enrolled in session 5 when they withdraw from session 2, we calculate on both calendars combined. Calculating on the combined calendars may reduce the completion percentage which may increase the amount of funds that needs to be returned.

Below are 3 examples of how drops, withdrawals, and non-completion can impact aid in modules:

EX 1. Mary enrolls in 2 summer sessions (session 2 spans 6/25-7/20 and session 5 spans 8/20-9/7). She withdraws from session 2 on 6/1 and remains enrolled in session 5. In this case Mary will be considered withdrawn from the term if she does not complete the summer survey to confirm her intent to attend session 5. As long as Mary submits that survey and successfully completes session 5, a Return of Title IV calculation is not required.

EX 2. Joe enrolls in 2 summer sessions (session 2 spans 6/25-7/20 and session 5 spans 8/20-9/7). He receives a B grade in his session 2 course but, after that course had ended, decides he no longer wants to take the course in session 5. Joe had been paid federal aid with the expectation that he would complete the entire payment period that spanned both sessions. Because he decided not to complete session 5 after session 2 had ended, a Return of Title IV calculation is required and he may end up owing aid money back for the term.

EX 3. Barry enrolls in 2 summer sessions (session 2 spans 6/25-7/20 and session 5 spans 8/20-9/7). While enrolled his session 2 course he decides he no longer wants to take the course in session 5 and drops that course. Barry had been paid federal aid with the expectation that he would complete the entire payment period that spanned both sessions. Because he dropped his session 5 course while he was still attending session 2, a Return of Title IV Calculation is not required but his Pell Grant is still reduced for the session 5 course he never attended.

What if I am a Degree Partnership Program Student Who Withdraws from Fails Partner School Courses

In cases of official and unofficial withdrawal an instructor reported last date of participation (https://financialaid.oregonstate.edu/course-participation) may be required to determine a student’s aid eligibility. The OSU Office of Financial Aid is not able to contact partner school instructors directly to obtain this information. After a term has ended DPP students may be contacted with instructions on how to complete this participation verification process. Due to the time sensitive nature of this process, it is very important for DPP students to check their OSU Student (ONID) email regularly to look for these financial aid notifications. Failure to verify participation may result in the reduction or full loss of financial aid eligibility for the term.

Student Responsibilities

Reporting Changes

Your financial aid is based on the information submitted to our office for the current academic year in which you requested aid. To keep your file current and accurate, you are required to report the changes to the OSU Office of Financial Aid. You should expect a revision of your award in most cases. Reasons for changes can include but are not limited to:

- Additional financial assistance: scholarships, grants, loans, fee waivers, Tribal Assistance, tuition/book support, social security benefits or any other monetary award not reported previously.
- Receipt of graduate teaching or research assistantship, and/or fellowship.
- Receipt of resident advisor position.
- Changes in enrollment hours and/or withdrawal from the university.
- Changes in residency status for tuition purposes.
- Change in course load if below full time.

Entrance and Exit Interview

All Federal Direct Ford loan recipients are required to complete an entrance interview prior to receiving the first disbursement of their loan proceeds. They are also required to complete an exit interview during their last term of attendance. (For further information, visit studentloans.gov).
GLOSSARY & CATALOG DEFINITIONS

The following terms are used throughout the Academic Catalog.

Academic Probation: Students who have completed two or more terms at OSU and have an OSU cumulative GPA below 2.0 will be placed on probation. Students who attain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or better are removed from academic probation.

Academic Suspension: Students who are on probation and have a subsequent term GPA of less than 2.0 will be placed on suspension. A student who has been suspended from OSU is prohibited from enrolling in classes, and must fulfill specified criteria before being re-admitted to the university (see Academic Regulation 22 [https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations]). Academic suspension is recorded on the student's academic record.

Academic Warning: Students with a term GPA below 2.0 will be placed on academic warning.

Academic Year: The time period containing the academic terms fall, winter, and spring (currently September through June). When summer term is considered as part of an academic year, or when it is considered as part of the Banner Student Information Systems (SIS), summer term is the first term of the academic year.

Add/Drop: Students may add or drop classes in accordance with the dates outlined on the Academic Calendar (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/osu-academic-calendar).

Advanced Placement: Advanced placement and/or credit may be granted to an entering student who has satisfactorily completed College Board Advanced Placement Examinations taken during high school.

Advanced Standing Report: A summary of courses and credits completed by a student at one postsecondary institution and accepted by another institution at the time of admission. The advanced standing report is used to determine the number of required and elective credits needed to complete degree requirements.

Advisor: A faculty member appointed by a program, department, school, or college to advise students during their college experience.

Baccalaureate Core: The university's general education requirements consisting of skills courses; perspectives courses; difference, power and discrimination courses; synthesis courses; and writing intensive courses. A baccalaureate core course is designated with an asterisk, *, a writing intensive course with a caret, ^. See Earning a Degree at Oregon State University (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/earning-degrees) in this catalog.

Baccalaureate Degree: An approved academic award given for the satisfactory completion of an instructional program requiring at least four but not more than five years of full-time equivalent college-level academic work that includes the following:

1. institutional general education requirements (i.e., baccalaureate core);
2. major area of study requirements; and
3. may include option, minor, supporting area, or elective requirements.

A minimum of 180 credits is required for most degree programs. Some majors may require more. The conditions and conferral of the award are governed by the faculty and ratified by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

BA Degree: The Bachelor of Arts degree is conferred for broad and liberal education in humanities, arts, social sciences, and sciences. College BA requirements provide:

1. a breadth of preparation in these fields that is significantly greater than that required of all undergraduates through the baccalaureate core; and
2. foreign language proficiency certified by the School of Language, Culture, and Society as equivalent to that attained at the end of the second year course in the language.

Proficiency in American Sign Language equivalent to that attained at end of the second year also meets the BA language requirement.

BFA Degree: The bachelor of fine arts is a professional degree requiring a minimum of 105 credits in the visual arts.

BS Degree: The Bachelor of Science degree is conferred for focused curricula that emphasize scientific ways of knowing and quantitative approaches to understanding in the sciences and social sciences, and for curricula in professional fields.

Certificate Program (undergraduate): A specified interdisciplinary program of study leading to an official certificate and notation on the transcript. A certificate program draws courses from more than one department, rather than a single department (as with most minors). An undergraduate certificate program must be taken in conjunction with a formal degree program. An undergraduate certificate requires a minimum of 27 credits.

Certificate Program (postbaccalaureate): A specified program of study of undergraduate courses leading to an official certificate and notation on the transcript. A completed baccalaureate degree program from an accredited institution is required. A postbaccalaureate certificate program requires a minimum of 27 credits.

Certificate Program (graduate): A structured progression of graduate-level courses that constitute a coherent body of study with a specifically defined focus within a single discipline or a logical combination of disciplines. It is designed for students who have completed a baccalaureate degree and are in pursuit of advanced-level learning. A graduate certificate requires a minimum of 18 graduate credits.

Certificate Program (professional): A site-based training and professional development certificate that is not transcript visible.

College: A subdivision of the university offering degree programs within a specific subject area. For example, the College of Forestry offers degree programs in forest engineering, forest resources, forest science, and wood science and technology.

Commencement: A term used to refer to the graduation ceremony held in June.

Corequisite: A course that must be taken concurrently with another course.
Course: An organized unit of instruction or research. Types include lectures, recitations, seminars, laboratories, discussions, internships, clerkships, reading and conference, independent study, and other categories of courses.

Course Designator (subject code): An abbreviation representing the department, college, or program offering the course. Example: MB indicates that the course is offered through the Department of Microbiology.

Course Numbering: State universities in Oregon follow this basic course numbering system:

0–99. Noncredit or credit courses of a remedial, terminal, or semiprofessional nature that are not applicable toward degree requirements

100–299. Undergraduate, lower-division courses

300–499. Undergraduate, upper-division courses

500–599. Graduate courses offered primarily in support of a master’s degree but which are also available for doctoral-level credit. Undergraduates of superior scholastic achievement may be admitted on approval of the instructor and department head. An undergraduate student may apply to reserve these courses for later use on a graduate degree program

600–699. Graduate courses offered principally in support of doctoral-level instructional programs but also available for master’s program credit

700–799. Professional or technical courses that may be applied toward a professional degree (such as DVM or PharmD) but not toward other graduate degrees (such as PhD)

800–899. In-service courses aimed at practicing professionals in the discipline. These courses may not be applied to graduate or professional degree programs

001NC–099NC. Non-credit courses offered through the INTO Oregon State University Intensive English program

Course Reference Number (CRN): A five-digit number used to select a specific course, lab, and/or recitation.

Commonly Numbered Courses: House Bill 2913 directed the Oregon University System (defunct since June 30, 2015) and Oregon community colleges to jointly develop, to the extent possible, a common course numbering system for lower-division transfer courses. The “Commonly Numbered Course List” represents a good faith effort to meet the requirements of the legislation. The list of courses is recommended for use by campuses’ faculty and administration as they develop or revise academic programs to better facilitate students transferring from community colleges to public four-year institutions. OSU agreed to this list after review by all affected departments. The “Commonly Numbered Course List” available through the Office of Academic Programs and Assessment includes course descriptions in addition to the course numbers and titles. Course numbers and title should follow the usage in the list. Descriptions may vary.

CRED (Credential): A student who has received a previous baccalaureate degree from either OSU or another accredited university or college may be granted a subsequent minor, certificate, major or option under the guidelines of Academic Regulation 27 (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations). It indicates the student is not seeking a degree, but rather a credential to accompany an existing degree.

Credit: Credits vary, depending upon the type of course and level at which it is offered. One credit is generally given for three hours per week of work in and out of class. For example, each hour of class lecture is generally expected to require two hours of work out of class. One credit would be given for a lecture course that met for one 50-minute period each week over a 10-week period; i.e., 10 contact hours between faculty and students. One credit is typically given for a laboratory course that meets for two to three hours per week for an entire term. Equivalent credits are given for recitations, discussions, and other types of courses. All credits given in the Academic Catalog refer to quarter credits. When transferring in course work from a semester system institution, multiply the number of credits by 1.5 to determine how many quarter credits will be transferred (3 semester hours x 1.5 = 4.5 quarter credits). If planning to transfer OSU credits out to a semester system institution, multiply the number of quarter credits by .67 to determine how many credits will transfer (4 quarter credits x .67 = 2.68 semester credits).

Curriculum: (plural curricula) An organized program of study and courses required for a specific degree or certificate program.

Degree: An academic award granted upon satisfactory completion of a set of collegiate-level educational requirements.

Discipline: A field of study in which a student may concentrate, such as sociology, anthropology, or mathematics.

Doctoral Degree: An approved academic award given as a sign of proficiency in scholarship and for the satisfactory completion of an instructional program requiring at least three years of full-time equivalent academic work beyond the baccalaureate degree, the completion of which signifies recognized competence, original research and/or the capacity to do independent advanced graduate-level analysis. A minimum of 108 credits is required beyond the baccalaureate degree. [Note: The total number, above the minimum, will vary by degree program.] The conditions and conferral of the award are governed by the faculty and ratified by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

Double Degrees: A student may earn multiple, different degrees simultaneously. Additional degrees may also be earned after your first degree was awarded. The degrees may be offered by the same college, or by different colleges. To earn a double degree, or for each additional degree, a student must complete a minimum of 32 credits above the minimum number of credits needed for one of the degrees. Each degree application is reviewed by the appropriate academic advisor. Advisors complete a separate graduation audit for each of the degrees.

On the student’s academic record, each degree awarded will be recorded as a separate degree with its major, e.g., Bachelor of Science in Mathematics, Bachelor of Arts in English. The student will also receive a separate diploma for each degree awarded (See Academic Regulation 26 (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations)).

Some double-degree programs — Education (BA, BS, HBA, HBS), Innovation Management (BA, BS, HBA, HBS), Sustainability (BS, HBS), International Studies (BA, HBA) — require that a primary degree be completed in order for the secondary degree to be awarded. When multiple degrees are not dependent on one another, one of the degrees may be awarded even though requirements for the other degree have not yet met. The double degree may be earned concurrently or subsequently. (See Academic Regulation 26 (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations).)

Dual (or Multiple) Majors from Same College: A student may earn two or more majors within a single degree program (a particular combination of degree, college, and campus, e.g., BA degree from the College of Liberal Arts on the Corvallis campus). It is sometimes possible to complete two or more majors within the minimum number of credits required for a degree, but usually the student must complete additional credits to complete requirements for all of their majors. For this reason, dual (or multiple) majors are obtained within the same college. The advisor must complete one graduation audit that includes all of the majors. The student's academic record will list one degree with two or more majors, e.g., Bachelor of Science in Mathematics and Chemistry. The student receives one diploma. Dual (or multiple) majors may be obtained concurrently with the completion of the degree, or in some cases may be earned as a credential subsequent to completion of the degree. (See Academic Regulation 27 [https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations].)

Note: Occasionally, with careful planning, a student can complete two majors from separate colleges in less than the 212 credits required for two degrees. When this occurs a student can petition for an exception, and graduate with two majors from separate colleges. The student must pick one college as their home college and all majors will be associated with the home college. The student must have the support of advisors from both major programs to have their petition considered.

Electives: Courses students may select, either for general knowledge or for fulfilling specific degree requirements. They are generally chosen and used by students to supplement or enrich the required curriculum. The conditions and conferral of the award are governed by the faculty and ratified by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

Graduate Area of Concentration: A graduate area of concentration is a subdivision of a major or minor in which a strong graduate program is available. Areas of concentration may be referenced on the student's program of study, but they are not listed on the student's transcript. "Areas of concentration" can only be used in association with graduate programs.

Graduate Major: A graduate major is the area of academic specialization, approved by the State Board of Higher Education, in which the student chooses to qualify for a graduate degree. Upon completion of a graduate degree, the degree awarded and the graduate major are listed on the student's transcript.

Graduate Option: Options are for students of a specific major. An option is one of several distinct variants of course aggregations within a major that focus on an area of study designed to provide a student with specialized knowledge, competence, and skills while sharing a minimum core of courses. A graduate option consists of a minimum of 12 designated quarter credits of related course work (excluding thesis credits), comprised of course work offered by the sponsoring unit as well as by other academic units. The option may be comprised of specific courses, completion of a designated number of credits from a longer list of alternative courses, or a combination of specific and alternative course lists. Approved options may be added to a graduate program of study, and approved by the faculty advisor(s) and the director of the sponsoring unit. On the program of study, there should be no overlap in course credits between options (the same course cannot be used to satisfy credit requirements in multiple options). When the unit submits the final examination card to validate awarding of the major to the Graduate School, the unit will also validate that the requirements of the option have been completed.

Hybrid Course: A hybrid (http://ctl.oregonstate.edu/hybrid-learning/osu-hybrid-faqs) course includes both regularly scheduled on-site classroom meetings and significant online, out-of-classroom components that replace regularly scheduled class meeting time. A substantial portion of the course learning activities are delivered online; face-to-face meeting time is generally reduced by approximately 50% compared to a traditional on-campus course.

Interdisciplinary: A course or program that integrates concepts, knowledge, or faculty from several fields of study.

Junior: A student who has completed at least 90 but not more than 134 term credits toward an undergraduate degree.

Lower-division Courses: Course offerings at a level of preparation usually associated with freshmen and sophomore students (e.g., 100- and 200-level courses).

Master's Degree: An approved academic award given as a mark of proficiency in scholarship and for the satisfactory completion of an instructional program requiring at least one but not more than two years of full-time equivalent academic work beyond the baccalaureate degree. A minimum of 45 credits is required beyond the baccalaureate degree. [Note: The total number, above the minimum, will vary by degree program.] The conditions and conferral of the award are governed by the faculty and ratified by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

Minor (graduate): A graduate minor is an academic area that clearly supports the major. Master’s program minors must include a minimum of 15 quarter credits of graduate course work; doctoral minors require a minimum of 18 credits. On a master's or doctoral program, a minor may be:

1. an academic area available only as a minor;
2. a different major,
3. the same major with a different area of concentration, or
4. an integrated minor.

An integrated minor consists of a series of cognate courses from two or more areas. These courses must be outside the major area of concentration, with most of the courses being outside the major department. The graduate faculty member representing the integrated minor must be from outside the major department. Graduate minors are listed on the student's transcript.

Minor (undergraduate): A secondary field of specialized study that may be offered by an academic unit for its own majors and/or majors from other academic units. Minors require at least 27 credits, 12 of which must be at the upper-division level. An approved minor is placed on the student's transcript.

Option (undergraduate): Options are for students of a specific major. Options consist of at least 21 designated credits of course work, 15 of which must be at the upper-division level. If all requirements have been met, the option may be listed on a student's transcript.

Perspectives Courses: Baccalaureate core courses that integrate fundamental knowledge from science and liberal arts disciplines to develop cultural, historic, and scientific perspectives.

Postbaccalaureate Student: A student holding a baccalaureate degree who is admitted to work toward a second baccalaureate degree or teaching certificate is classified as a postbaccalaureate student (AR 4 (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations)).

Pre-professional Program: Curriculum generally offered at the freshman and sophomore levels. A pre-professional program is designed to ensure students have the aptitude, motivation, and discipline to successfully complete advanced course work as well as achieve the standards for a chosen career field.

Prerequisites: Requirements that must be completed before enrollment in a particular course. The instructor may waive a prerequisite.

Professional Program: Curriculum generally offered at the junior and senior level, designed to prepare students for a professional career within a specific field (e.g., engineering, pharmacy). Admission to professional programs, often based on prior course work and/or work experience, is competitive.

Program: Academic studies that comprise the core, required and elective courses that lead to a degree or qualification. At OSU, this includes majors, minors, options and certificates.

Reading and Conference: A course focused on reading assignments to be completed in conferences with the instructor.

Reserved Numbered Courses: Certain blocks of numbers that have been assigned for specific courses that may be taken for more than one term. The credits being granted vary according to the amount of work done.

100–110 and 200–210: Survey or foundation courses in the liberal arts and sciences
401/501/601: Research and Scholarship
402/502/602: Independent Study

1. Thesis/Dissertation
2. Writing and Conference
3. Reading and Conference
4. Special Problems/Special Projects
5. Seminar
6. Workshop
7. Practicum/Clinical Experience
8. Internship/Work Experience

Senior: A student who has completed 135 or more term credits toward an undergraduate degree.

Sequence: Two, three, or four closely related courses that are usually taken in numerical order and through more than one term.

Skills Courses: Baccalaureate core courses designed to give the student fundamental mathematical, communication, and fitness competence.

Sophomore: A student who has completed at least 45 but not more than 89 term credits toward an undergraduate degree.

Special Topics Courses (X99): Like reserved numbered courses, special topics courses may be repeated as specified by the academic unit responsible for the course offering. It is implied that the course content is different each time the student takes the course. In the schedule of classes, section titles are listed as "ST/" followed by the topic covered in the section.

Student Enrollment Levels: The levels below establish enrollment levels for federal financial aid eligibility and the deferral of student loans. Summer enrollment levels are the same as other terms.

- Full Time: 12 or more credits in a term
- Three Quarter Time: 9 to 11 credits in a term
- Half Time: 6 to 8 credits in a term

Syllabus: A list of course objectives, lecture topics, assigned reading, exams, etc., prepared and distributed by a professor at the beginning of the term.

Synthesis Courses: Baccalaureate core upper-division courses that emphasize interdisciplinary, critical thinking approaches to global, technological, and societal issues.

TBA: Commonly used abbreviation for "to be arranged"; time, place, or credit of a course is to be arranged with the instructor.

Term: Usually one-third of the school year. Terms at OSU are divided into fall, winter, and spring terms (also referred to as "quarters"). Summer term is generally an 8- or 11-week session during the summer. See "Credits" above.

Transfer Student: An individual who has completed 36 or more transferable term credits at another institution and will resume their college course work at a second institution.

U-Engage: First-year seminar designed to assist the transition of new students to college.

University: An assembly of colleges, each specializing in a different field.

Upper-Division Courses: Advanced course offerings at a level usually associated with junior or senior students. Upper-division courses are numbered in the 300s and 400s.
Waive: This term refers to decisions of advisors to “waive” a course or courses in a student’s program. Typical reasons include transfer credit for equivalent courses, equivalent experience in the profession or discipline, and petitioning for and successfully completing an examination. Waiving courses usually does not decrease the total credits required for completion of the degree or program; students should discuss this with their advisor.

Withdraw: To voluntarily leave a course or the term without academic penalty. A W letter grade will be placed on the student’s transcript for each course attempted.

Workshop: A brief intensive course for a small group which emphasizes problem solving.

Writing Intensive Courses (WIC): Designated upper-division courses in the major discipline that use student writing as a significant approach to learning. WIC courses must meet a variety of requirements, as do other courses in the baccalaureate core. WIC courses have a carat, ^, in front of the title.
When determining the graduation requirements for a given student:

- Students must meet all applicable degree requirements from the published catalog(s).
- The student's catalog year for institutional and baccalaureate core requirements is established by their first term of attendance (matriculation date) at Oregon State University as an admitted student.
- The student's catalog year for college/major/option/ minor requirements is based on the date of declaration of the major/option/ minor; consequently, a student's first (primary) major/option must be in the same catalog year. If a primary option is declared in a subsequent academic year, the primary option will be aligned with the catalog year of the primary major. If the primary option did not exist in the catalog year of the primary major, the primary major will roll forward to the catalog year of the primary option.
- Additionally, while the student's first major/option must be in the same catalog year, any additional declarations of majors/ options/minors will be determined by the declaration dates (and corresponding catalog years) established by the change of academic program process. A student, in collaboration with an advisor, can also choose to graduate under a subsequent (to their most recent major declaration date) catalog year within the same major/option.
- At the time of graduation, all students, including transfer students, must use a catalog that is not more than ten years old. Students may petition to the head advisor of their college for an extension of a catalog greater than ten years prior to their expected graduation term.
- Current policy requires a student to reapply after not enrolling at OSU for four consecutive terms (not including summer terms); the published catalog for the resulting readmission/matriculation date will become the catalog of record for graduation requirements. The Planned Educational Leave Program defined in AR 13.1.c beginning with 2011–2012 academic year, provides a mechanism for a student to sustain their original catalog of record during a planned absence.
- For Degree Partnership Program students, the first term the student is admitted to OSU will be the matriculation date and will determine the catalog year for institutional and baccalaureate core requirements. The catalog year for college/major/option/ minor requirements will be the same as all other OSU students.
- Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of information in the OSU Academic Catalog. However, Oregon State University or the Oregon State Board of Higher Education may find it necessary from time to time to make changes in courses, curricula, or degree requirements. Students already admitted to a program in which such changes have been made will be reasonably accommodated, if possible, to ensure their normal progress toward a degree. A student may, however, still be required to conform to changes in courses, curricula, or degree requirements as deemed necessary by Oregon State University or the State Board of Higher Education.

Grading System

Grades

The grading system consists of:

- A = Exceptional, 4.0 grade points per credit.
- A− = 3.7 grade points per credit.
- B+ = 3.3 grade points per credit.
- B = Superior, 3.0 grade points per credit.
- B− = 2.7 grade points per credit.
- C+ = 2.3 grade points per credit.
- C = Average, 2.0 grade points per credit.
- C− = 1.7 grade points per credit.
- D+ = 1.3 grade points per credit.
- D = Inferior, 1.0 grade point per credit.
- D− = 0.7 grade point per credit.
- F = Failure, 0.0 grade point per credit.
- G = Reserved for Graduate Credit, no grade point per credit.
- I = Incomplete, no grade points or credits.
- I/Alt Grade = Incomplete, no grade points or credits. If not resolved after 12 months or degree conferral, the "I" reverts to the alternate grade.
- N = No credit, no grade points or credits.
- NG = No basis for a grade, no credit or grade points.
- P = Pass, credit given, no grade points.
- R = Thesis in Progress, credit given, no grade points.
- S = Satisfactory, credit given, no grade points.
- TR = Accepted Transfer Credit.
- U = Unsatisfactory, no credit or grade points.
- W = Withdrawal (passing), no credit or grade points.
- WC = Complete withdrawal, no credit or grade points.
- AUD = Audit, no credit or grade points.
- WAU = Withdrawal from Audit, no credit or grade points.

When a requirement of a course has not been completed for reasons acceptable to the instructor and the rest of the academic work is passing, a report of I (incomplete) may be made and additional time granted. The I is only granted at the discretion of the instructor. The instructor must submit the grade the student will earn if the missing work is not completed. That alternate grade will become the default grade if the missing work is not completed. The instructor documents the deficiency and the deadline for completing the missing work. A record of the deficiency shall be kept on file in the unit or department office. The allotted time awarded shall not exceed one calendar year except by petition or the time of the degree conferral, whichever comes first. To remove the I grade, the student must complete the deficiency within the allotted time and the instructor will then submit the appropriate grade. If the student fails to complete the work within the allotted time, the Office of the Registrar will automatically change the I grade on the student's record to the alternate grade submitted by the instructor at the time the I was given. The alternate grade will be included in the grade-point average. Under no circumstances shall a student who earns an A–F grade or an N or U grade have their grade changed retroactively to an I grade.

An instructor may move to correct a grade by filing a Change of Grade in the Registrar's Office. Grade changes for students of a permanently separated instructor will be managed by the department chair of the course involved. Upon permanent separation from the University an instructor's change of grade will not be accepted by the Office of the Registrar. The Office of the Registrar will routinely review grade changes.

Students may withdraw from a course. In such cases, a grade of W is assigned. A student who discontinues attendance in a course without official withdrawal receives a grade of F in the course.

1 A student may petition via the Office of the Registrar for an extension of the one calendar year deadline with the concurrence of the faculty. An approved petition will grant an extension of a single additional term, with a maximum of three total extensions being possible. An approved petition for an extension of time to remove an incomplete will be voided at the time of degree conferral.

Grade Points

Grade points are computed on the basis of 4 points for each credit of A grade, 3.70 for each credit of A– grade, 3.30 for each credit of B+ grade, 3.00 for each credit of B grade, 2.70 for each credit of B– grade, 2.30 for each credit of C+ grade, 2.00 for each credit of C grade, 1.70 for each credit of C– grade, 1.30 for each credit of D+ grade, 1.00 for each credit of D grade, .70 for each credit of D– grade, and 0 for each credit of F.

Marks of I/Alt, W, WC, P, N, NG, R, S, and U are disregarded in the computation of points. The grade-point average (GPA) is the quotient of total points divided by total credits; total credits are the number of term credits in which grades A, B, C, D, and F are received.

Academic Standing

Satisfactory Academic Standing (Undergraduate Students) (AR 22)

Oregon State University expects students to maintain satisfactory academic progress toward degree completion. At the conclusion of each term, grade-point averages are calculated and academic standings determined for students seeking a baccalaureate degree according to the criteria outlined below. Students whose standings evidence a lack of satisfactory progress will be warned of this condition and advised to seek help from their academic advisors. Any student who is not on academic warning, academic probation, or academic suspension is in good standing.

1. Academic Warning: Students with a term GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Warning.
2. Academic Probation: Students who have attempted 1 24 or more credits at OSU and have an OSU cumulative GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Probation. Students who attain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or better are removed from Academic Probation.
3. Academic Suspension: Students who are on Academic Probation and have a subsequent term GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Suspension. Academic Suspension is recorded on the student's academic record. Students who are academically suspended are denied all the privileges of the institution and of all organizations in any way connected to it, including any university-recognized living group.
4. Reinstatement to the University: Suspended students will be considered for reinstatement to the university after two years or completion of a minimum of 24 quarter credits of transferable college-level work at an accredited college or university, with a GPA of 2.5 or above.

The Faculty Senate Academic Standing Committee (http://senate.oregonstate.edu/academic-standing-committee) is responsible for enforcement of the above regulations on Satisfactory Academic Standing. Additionally, this committee has discretionary authority to grant exceptions and to develop guidelines for administering these regulations.

1 An attempt comprises a final grade in a course where the grade is: A, A–, B+, B, B–, C+, C, C–, D+, D, D–, F, S, U, NP, I/Alternate Grade (where the Alternate Grade is one of these grades), W.

Attendance

An instructor has the privilege of considering class participation in arriving at a student's grade, but it is not intended that attendance in and of itself normally be a factor in measuring a student's academic accomplishment in a course.

Other Limitations

Academic performance is not the sole criterion for admission to and continuation in certain courses and programs at the university, such as practicum courses and internships. The university may find it necessary to evaluate a person's background to determine their likelihood of maintaining standards of professional conduct that are necessary in the academic discipline or profession. An evaluation may take into consideration current performance, as well as past experiences and actions that could affect a student's ability to perform in the particular course or program.

Student Conduct Regulations

Oregon State University aspires to stimulate a lasting attitude of civility, social responsibility and openness in our students as well as an appreciation for our values of accountability, diversity, respect, and truth. Consistent with that, all students enrolled at OSU are expected to follow student conduct regulations and university policies that have been developed to govern the behavior of students as well as members of the university community. These regulations and policies are formulated to guarantee each student's freedom to learn and to protect the fundamental rights of others. The assumption upon which these regulations are based is that all people must treat others with dignity and respect in order for scholarship to thrive. The regulations and procedures for disciplinary action and appeal are available on the OSU website (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu/studentconduct). Violations of the regulations subject a student to appropriate disciplinary or judicial action. These regulations have been formulated by the Student Conduct Committee, the Student Activities Committee, the university administration, and the State Board of Higher Education.

Student Grades

Student grades may be obtained via MyOSU (https://myosu.oregonstate.edu): Select Student, then Student Grades. Or obtain an unofficial transcript under Academic Profile, and click on Transcript. Grades are not automatically mailed to the student.

You may request a transcript online (http://registrar.oregonstate.edu/transcripts) at no charge.

Grades, GPA calculations, and academic standings are not complete and final prior to 8 a.m. on the Wednesday following the final exam week. Grades and GPAs appearing prior to that day may be incomplete.
Student Records

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, (20 U.S.C. 1232g) provides that Oregon State University students have the right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the university receives a request for access; the right to request the amendment of the student's education record that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading; the right to consent to disclosures of the personally identifiable information contained in the student's educational record, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent; and the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by Oregon State University to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The Student Records Policy is available in the OSU Academic Catalog.

Progress Standards for Veteran Students

Programs at Oregon State University are approved for the use of VA benefits under the Montgomery GI Bill®, Dependent Educational Assistance, and Title 38 and Title 10 of the US Code, or benefits offered by the State of Oregon Department of Veteran Affairs. The university, through the Registrar’s Office, provides the certifying service to qualified students. The certifying official issues enrollment certification documents to the appropriate VA regional office and monitors students’ satisfactory progress for the VA. Any student receiving GI Bill® education benefits while attending Oregon State University is required to obtain transcripts from all previously attended schools and submit them to the school for review of prior credit.

1. OSU students who receive benefits from the Veterans Benefits Administration of the Department of Veterans Affairs are subject to the satisfactory progress standards as set forth in Chapter 38, U.S. Code sections 1674, 1724, 1775, and 1776, and to those defined by the university in Academic Regulation 22, Satisfactory Academic Standing.

2. Oregon State University expects students to maintain satisfactory academic progress toward degree completion. At the conclusion of each term, grade-point averages are calculated and academic standings determined for students seeking a baccalaureate degree according to the criteria outlined below. Students whose standings evidence a lack of satisfactory progress will be warned of this condition and advised to seek help from their academic advisors. Any student who is not on Academic Warning, Academic Probation, or Academic Suspension is in good standing.

a. Academic Warning: Students with a term GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Warning.

b. Academic Probation: Students who have attempted 24 or more credits at OSU and have an OSU cumulative GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Probation. Students who attain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or better are removed from Academic Probation.

c. Academic Suspension: Students who are on Academic Probation and have a subsequent term GPA below 2.0 will be placed on Academic Suspension. Academic Suspension is recorded on the student’s academic record. Students who are academically suspended are denied all the privileges of the institution and of all organizations in any way connected to it, including any university-recognized living group.

d. Reinstatement to the University: Suspended students will be considered for reinstatement to the university after two years or completion of a minimum of 24 quarter credits of transferable college-level work at an accredited college or university, with a GPA of 2.5 or above.

3. Students, who are placed on probation by the university, also will be notified that they are on probation insofar as Veterans Affairs’ progress standards are concerned. If a student’s deficiency is not corrected and they subsequently are placed on academic suspension, the university will notify Veterans Affairs of their unsatisfactory progress.

4. The university will recertify students who are suspended by the university and subsequently reinstated by the Academic Standing Committee.

5. Students dismissed from the university for unsatisfactory conduct will be reported as making unsatisfactory progress. The university will recertify the student only upon rescission of the dismissal by the university.

Options for Exemption from Nonresident Tuition

HB 2158 (2013) and HB 4021 (2014) section 1. ORS 352.375

A public university listed in ORS 352.002 or community college shall charge an enrolled student who is not a resident of this state, and who is attending classes as an undergraduate or graduate at a public university or community college campus in this state, tuition and fees no greater than the resident rate if the student:

a. Served in the armed forces of the United States; and

b. Was relieved or discharged from that service with either an honorable discharge or a general discharge under honorable conditions; and

c. Undergraduate student newly enrolled after September 15, 2013, or graduate student newly enrolled after September 15, 2014, and

d. Provides proof that the student has established a physical presence in Oregon within 12 months of being enrolled at the public university or community college.

Students eligible for in-state tuition under Section 702 (“Choice Act”) include:

- A Veteran who lives in the state in which the institution of higher learning is located (regardless of their formal state of residence) and enrolls in the school within three years of discharge from a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.

- A spouse or child using transferred benefits who lives in the state in which the institution of higher learning is located (regardless of their formal state of residence) and enrolls in the school within 3 years of the transferor’s discharge from a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.

- A spouse or child using benefits under the Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship who lives in the state in which the institution of higher learning is located (regardless of their formal... state of residence) and enrolls in the institution within three years of the servicemember's death in the line of duty following a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.

- Anyone using transferred Post-9/11 GI Bill® benefits (38 U.S.C. § 3319) who lives in the state in which the institution of higher learning is located (regardless of their formal state of residence) and the transferor is a member of the uniformed service who is serving on active duty.

- Anyone using Vocational Rehabilitation benefits (38 U.S.C. § 3102) who lives in the state in which the institution of higher learning is located (regardless of their formal state of residence).

Choice Act eligible students will continue to receive in-state tuition rates after they have used all of their GI Bill® benefits or Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship benefits as long as the student remains continuously enrolled. If there is a break in enrollment, or if the student changes their program of study after exhausting their VA educational benefits, they will no longer receive in-state tuition rates.

Veterans who do not qualify under the Choice Act will likely qualify under HB 2158 (2013) and HB 4021 (2014) section 1. ORS 352.375 or HB 2787 (see above).

If you are a Veteran and need to apply for residency, you may need to complete a Residency Affidavit (https://admissions.oregonstate.edu/sites/admissions.oregonstate.edu/files/residency_affidavit.pdf) or the Exemption from Nonresident Tuition Veteran Form (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/sites/registrar.oregonstate.edu/files/forms/exemption-from-nonresident-tuition_2018.pdf) depending on your circumstances.

Another helpful resource when applying for residency are the Instructions for Completing Residence Information Affidavit (https://admissions.oregonstate.edu/residency-frequently-asked-questions-faq/#military).

School Certifying Official (SCO)

The School Certifying Official (SCO) certifies the enrollment of veterans and eligible dependents at Oregon State University. All veterans and eligible dependents, whether new, returning, or transfer students, who expect to receive educational benefits from the Veterans Administration must notify the SCO in the Registrar’s Office. For questions about benefits, contact veterans@oregonstate.edu.

The School Certifying Official also monitors and reports to the Veterans Administration the Satisfactory Progress Standards for students who are receiving VA education benefits. See Progress Standards for Veteran Students for more information.

Military Tuition Assistance Program

The School Certifying Officials (SCO) at Oregon State University are the direct contact points for students using the Military Tuition Assistance Program. SCOs process students’ tuition assistance authorizations and contracts and forward copies to OSU Business Affairs for billing the military branches. Depending on the branch of the military, requirements vary on how grades are reported. Grade reporting is done at the end of each academic term.

For questions about the Military Tuition Assistance Program, contact veterans@oregonstate.edu.

Veteran and U.S. Military Service Recognition Cord

Recognition of U.S. Military Service

Oregon State University recognizes the significant contribution and sacrifices made by OSU students who are U.S. military servicemembers and veterans. Students may receive red, white, and blue Military Service Recognition Cords to be worn at commencement.

Servicemembers and veterans may visit the Office of the Registrar in Kerr Administration Building during the month prior to commencement to request cords.

Unauthorized Peer-to-Peer (P2P) File Sharing and Other Copyright Infringement

The university takes copyright infringement seriously. As set forth in the Acceptable Use of University Computing Resources Policy, all students must abide by federal and state copyright laws when using university computing or network resources. The unauthorized publishing or use of copyrighted material on the university computer network is strictly prohibited and users are personally liable for the consequences of such unauthorized use. This specifically applies to Peer-to-Peer or P2P file-sharing of copyrighted music and movies. Students should be aware that by engaging in unauthorized sharing of copyrighted material, they not only violate university policy, but they may also be held criminally and civilly liable by federal and/or state authorities.

Under current copyright law, criminal cases of copyright violation carry a penalty of up to five (5) years in prison and a $250,000 fine. Civil penalties for copyright infringement include a minimum fine of $750 for each work. Oregon State University will subject students who violate this policy to discipline as appropriate. For a first-time violation of this copyright policy, students are required to pass a copyright quiz within 72 hours or else their network access is disabled. Repeated infringement is subject to disciplinary action by the office of Student Conduct and Community Standards, up to and including expulsion from the university.

The entire policy regarding Unauthorized Peer-to-Peer (P2P) File Sharing and Other Copyright Infringement is available online (http://fa.oregonstate.edu/gen-manual).

Student Records-Right to Privacy

Notice to Students Regarding Privacy of Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974 (Public Law 93-380), as amended, Oregon Revised Statutes 351.065, and Oregon Administrative Rule 580-013-0005 of the State Board of Higher Education afford students certain rights with respect to their education records. They are:

1. The right to inspect and review the student’s education records within 45 days of the day the university receives a request for access. Students should submit to the registrar, dean, head of the academic department, or other appropriate official, written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The university official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the university official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.

2. The right to request the amendment of the student’s education record that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading. Students should write the university official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record they wish changed, and specify why it is inaccurate or misleading. If the university decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the university will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of their right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

3. The right to consent to disclosures of the personally identifiable information contained in the student’s educational record, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent. One exception that permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by the university in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including health staff and members of the Law Enforcement Unit); a person or company with whom the university has contracted; a person or company acting as consultant or volunteer for the university; a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing their tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an educational record in order to fulfill their professional responsibility.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by Oregon State University to comply with the requirements of FERPA.

The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-5920

Website: https://www2.ed.gov/policy/gen/guid/fpco/index.html

Revised directory information effective May 2014: Oregon State University will provide the following “directory” information to all inquiries without students’ written consent:

- student’s name
- current mailing address and telephone number
- current OSU ONID email address
- campus office address
- class standing (e.g., freshman, sophomore, etc.)
- student level (undergraduate, graduate, etc.)
- college
- major field of study
- honors
- full-time or part-time enrollment status
- status as a graduate teaching assistant or graduate research assistant and hours of service.
- participation in officially recognized activities and sports
- dates of attendance
- anticipated graduation date
- degrees and awards received
- date(s) of degree(s)
- most recent previous educational institution attended by student

A student may request in writing that all of the above directory information be kept confidential. This option may be exercised by filing a written, dated, and signed request at the Office of the Registrar at any time. The restriction remains in effect until revoked by the student even if the student leaves the university or graduates.

The procedures for exercising the above rights are explained in Oregon Administrative Rules 576-020-0005 through 576-020-0065.

Release of Student Information to Military Recruiters (Solomon Amendment)

Oregon State University provides information about students that is requested by military recruiters under requirements of the Solomon Amendment (As of Oct. 23, 1998 [63 Fed. Reg. 56819] and the Interim Rule published Jan. 13, 2000 [65 Fed. Reg. 2056] by Department of Defense). Under this federal law military recruiters may request the following information: Name, current mailing address (as provided by the student) including email address, current telephone number (as provided by the student), age, class level (e.g., freshman, sophomore, etc.), and academic major. The information may be requested for the immediately previous term, current term, or future term for all students age 17 and older who are or were registered at OSU for at least 1 credit in the requested term. Recruiters may request this information each term. Recruiters may not obtain any information that is not in the above list of student recruiting information. For example, they may not request any of the following: Social Security Number or ID Number; place of birth; race/ethnicity/nationality; grades and GPA; grades of low-performing students; religious affiliation; names of students with loans in default; veteran status; or names of students no longer enrolled at OSU. Institutions that do not comply with the Solomon Amendment risk losing federal funding from the departments of Defense, Education, Health and Human Services, Labor, and Transportation. Institutions do not risk losing student-aid funding such as Perkins Loans, Federal SEOG or Work-Study funds.

Use of Social Security Number (SSN)

You are requested to provide voluntarily your Social Security Number to assist OSU (and organizations conducting studies for or on behalf of OSU) in developing, validating, or administering predictive tests and assessments; administering student aid programs; improving instructions; internal identification of students and alumni; collection of student debts; or comparing student educational experiences with subsequent workforce experiences. When conducting studies, OSU will disclose your Social Security Number only in a manner that does not permit personal identification of you by individuals other than representatives of OSU (or the organization conducting the study for OSU) and only if the information is destroyed when no longer needed for the purposes for which the study was conducted. By providing your Social Security Number, you are consenting to the use identified above. This request is made pursuant to ORS 352.004, ORS 352.107, and ORS 352.146. Provision of your Social Security Number and consent to its use is not required and if you choose not to do so you will not be denied any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law. You may revoke your consent to the use of your Social Security Number at any time by contacting: Office of the Registrar, Oregon State University, Corvallis, OR 97331-2130; 541-737-4331.

All access and use at Oregon State University of the Social Security Number is prohibited except for meeting federal or state requirements, compliance, and reporting.

Students Rights to Privacy of Records Tutorial (FERPA)

A brief online tutorial that explains students’ rights may be viewed at http://registrar.oregonstate.edu/ferpa-training-module.

OSU Directory

The OSU Campus Directory is a directory of staff and student names, addresses and telephone numbers. This information is extracted at the end of the second week of the fall term and is published annually and posted on the OSU website. To find students, faculty and staff, use the Search box for Find people and pages or go to http://directory.oregonstate.edu/.

Students who do not want information to be included in either the printed or electronic version should indicate that in their Directory Profile on the Web before the end of the second week of fall term. Just log in to MyOSU at https://myosu.oregonstate.edu and under Update Personal Profile select OSU Directory Preferences, then follow the instructions on that page.

Student Photo Roster

Getting to know students is an important means by which instructors and advisors can improve the quality of the learning environment.

Accessing Student Photo Roster System:

1. Login to MyOSU at https://myosu.oregonstate.edu.
2. Under Update Personal Profile, select OSU Directory Preferences.
3. Check or uncheck the checkbox "Photo Viewable to Advisor".
4. Check or uncheck the checkbox "Photo Viewable to Instructor".
5. Click the "Submit Changes" button to update your Directory Profile.

To view your choices regarding opting in or out of the Student Photo Roster System, please view it online using the instructions above.

Selecting the "opt in" option for instructors means that all instructors of record associated with the student’s current classes will be able to view the photograph.

Students can change their minds at any time.
HOW TO READ THE SCHEDULE OF CLASSES

Registration instructions can be found on the Office of the Registrar website (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/registration).

Courses in the Schedule of Classes are arranged alphabetically and numerically by course designator or subject code. For example, ENG for English, MTH for mathematics.

Schedule of Classes Terms and Abbreviations

Avail = Remaining seats available

Baccalaureate / WIC Courses

All baccalaureate core classes in the Schedule of Classes have an asterisk "*" in the title. The course description also contains the note, "(Bacc Core Course)".

All writing intensive course classes (WIC) have a carat ^ in the title. The course description also contains the note, "(Writing Intensive Course)".

Campus

Dg = Ecampus - Distance Ed = An Ecampus course (Additional abbreviations may follow indicating a specific location or course level such as "LD" for lower division and "UD" for upper division)

B = Oregon State - Cascades = OSU Cascades Campus in Bend, Oregon

C = Oregon State - Corvallis = Corvallis Campus

N = Newport/HMSC = Hatfield Marine Science Center in Newport, Oregon

L = EOU = OSU courses taught at Eastern Oregon University in LaGrande, Oregon

PDX = Oregon State - Portland

Cap = Seating Capacity

Curr = Current Enrollment

Comments

Special instructions, textbooks required, etc.

Courses with Labs/Recitations/Studios

If a course lecture is "linked" to a noncredit lab or recitation or studio, you must register for all parts of the course. Web registration will not permit you to register for one part without the other. Likewise, you may not drop only one part of a "linked" course; if you do so, the other part will be dropped automatically. If you want to change one part of a multipart course, you should drop the part and add a new part at the same time before processing your requested changes. Be sure to process the request after specifying the drop and the add.

Course Numbers

100/200 = Lower Division, Undergraduate

300/400 = Upper Division, Undergraduate

500 = Graduate, primarily Master's

600 = Graduate, primarily Doctoral

700 = Professional, DVM, PharmD

800 = In-service courses for practicing professionals

CRN

The unique Course Reference Number identifying each class.

Cr = Credit

All credits listed in the Schedule of Classes refer to quarter credits.

If a course is taught for variable credits, for example 1–16 credits, Web registration will prompt you to enter the correct number of credits for which you want to enroll. If you need to change that number later, you may do so via the Web.

Day/Time/Date

Days of the week and hours the class meets (see Meeting Time below), and start and end dates of classes.

End Date

Last day of classes before finals week.

Fees

A list of course fee codes, their description, and the fee amounts are listed in the catalog under Tuition, Fees and Payment at https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/fees-residency-requirements/.

Additional information is in the Business Affairs website at http://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/tuition-and-fee-information.

Instructor

Name of instructor or staff.

Location

See the campus map at https://map.oregonstate.edu/ for building abbreviations and locations.

Meeting Time

Days of the week are abbreviated as follows:

M = Monday

T = Tuesday

W = Wednesday,

Th = Thursday

F = Friday

S = Saturday

TBA = To Be Announced

NSHD

No-show-drop will appear in the Comments column. A student who is registered for such a course who attends no meetings of the course during the first five school days of the term will be dropped from the course by the instructor, unless the student has obtained prior permission for absence. See Academic Regulation 9b (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/regulations).

P/N = Pass/No Credit

A class is graded A–F unless P/N appears, in which case Pass/No Credit grading applies.

All courses registered via the Web are given the A–F or P/N grade option as appropriate. Any change of the A–F option (to S/U) is done in-person at the Office of the Registrar after completing the Change of Grading Basis form (http://oregonstate.edu/registrar/forms). The deadline for these changes is the end of the 7th week of classes. See the Academic Calendar (http://registrar.oregonstate.edu/osu-academic-calendar).

Restrictions
Prerequisites, corequisites, limitations to registration. See Registration Restrictions below.

Sec = Section

Section Title
Seminars, special topics, blanket courses and others may have course subject section titles.

Section Description
Description of what the topic covered.

Session
Summer term sessions, e.g., 8-week session.

Start Date
First day of class.

Status
Whether the section is open, closed, waitlisted or cancelled for registration.

TBA = To be announced.

Term
Su 18 = Summer term 2018
F 18 = Fall term 2018
W 19 = Winter term 2019
Sp 19 = Spring term 2019

Type
The method of instructional delivery.
A=Lecture
B=Discussion
C=Recitation
D=Laboratory
E=Seminar
F=Independent or Special Studies
FNL=Final Exam
G=Research
H=Activity
HYB=Hybrid (a combination of online and classroom)
I=Experimental
J=Internship
L=Tutorial
M=Practicum
MID=Midterm
N=Reading and Conference
O=Experiential/Co-op Education
P=Programmed Instruction
Q=Thesis
R=Studio
U=Externship
V=Examination for Credit
W=Workshop
Y=Online
Z=Modular

Weeks
Number of weeks in the term or summer session.

WL Avail = Seats available on waitlist
WL Cap = Waitlist capacity
WC Curr = Students currently on waitlist

Registration Restrictions
Prerequisites
Prerequisites provide the background necessary for successful performance in a course. Students may attempt a course without having prerequisites if they have obtained the consent of the instructor to do so. If the instructor's consent is not obtained, then students who have not fulfilled published prerequisites may be disenrolled from the course during the first week of classes.

Departmental Approval
Special approval is required for this course; the student requests an "override" from the department teaching the course, and then the student registers for the course.

+ indicates "only." For example, under class limitation +1 means only freshmen, – indicates "no." Under college limitation, −1,7 means no students from College of Agricultural Sciences or the College of Pharmacy may register.

AL=Alphabetic Sections (Alpha sections for WR 121)
WR 121 course sections have registration limitations determined by the first letter of the student's last name. These are marked in the comments or restrictions column with the following codes:

- AL+AG = Students whose last names range from A to G may register that term.
- AL+HN = Students whose last names range from H to N may register that term.
- AL+OZ = Students whose last names range from O to Z may register that term.

CL=Class Standing.
The catalog system translates these codes into the following terminology:
1 = Freshman
2 = Sophomore
3 = Junior
4 = Senior
5 = Undergraduate nondegree
6 = Graduate nondegree
7 = Postbaccalaureate (undergraduate)
8 = Master's candidate
9 = Doctoral candidate
G = Postbaccalaureate (graduate)
V = Professional

CO=College Codes
The catalog system translates these codes into the following terminology:

01 = Agricultural Sciences
02 = Business
03 = Education
04 = Pre-Engineering
05 = Forestry
07 = Pharmacy
08 = Science
09 = Graduate School
10 = Liberal Arts
11 = Defense Education (ROTC)
14 = University Exploratory Studies Program
15 = Veterinary Medicine
16 = Engineering
17 = Interdisciplinary Programs
18 = University Honors College
22 = Pre-Business Program
23 = Public Health and Human Sciences
24 = Oceanic and Atmospheric Sciences
EP = Intensive English Program

DG=Degree
If a course is restricted to students pursuing specific degrees, it will list a code of DG + – under the Registration Restrictions column. Degrees listed may include HBA (Honors Bachelor of Art), HBFA (Honors Bachelor of Fine Arts) and HBS (Honors Bachelor of Science).

LV=Level
The catalog system translates these codes into the following terminology:

01 = Undergraduate
02 = Graduate students
03 = Postbaccalaureate students
04 = Nondegree and Credential
05 = Professional students
06 = INTO OSU GE/AE/Pathways

Major Restrictions/Major Code Descriptions
Some courses are restricted to students enrolled in particular majors. Numerical codes of the majors students are restricted to are noted in the Restrictions section in the online Schedule of Classes.
INFORMATION SERVICES, COMPUTERS, AND ACADEMIC TECHNOLOGIES

Information Services supports OSU students by providing accounts, technologies, equipment checkout, printing, computing networks and computing labs. The IS Service Desk provides students with technical support for laptops, mobile devices, and campus systems like Canvas. If you need in-person support, please visit the Walk-up Service Desk in Milne Computer Center room 201.

Student employment opportunities are available from a variety of units within IS, including the IS Service Desk and Academic Technology, with the greatest opportunities announced just prior to each new term.

Administration
Bob Gilmour, Executive Director, INTO OSU
Julianna Betjemann, Director of Student Experience, INTO OSU
Shain Panzeri, Director of International Admissions and Academic Support, INTO OSU
Elena Sapp, Director of Academic Programs, INTO OSU

Oregon State University offers academic Pathway and English language training programs through the INTO OSU Center. Personalized support tailored to international students’ educational, social and cultural needs prepares them to progress with confidence as degree-seeking students. INTO OSU provides international students with learning experiences and services that promote academic, professional and personal success.

INTO established its first partnership in the U.S. at Oregon State University in 2008. Located in the new International Living-Learning Center, INTO OSU offers outstanding academic programs, technology-assisted learning, a welcoming, interconnected community of students from across the U.S. and the world, strong student support programs and state-of-the-art facilities. The innovative Pathway and English language programs offered at the INTO OSU Center are delivered by highly qualified OSU teaching faculty. INTO OSU also provides a breadth of academic preparation and support services designed specifically to meet the unique needs of its international students.

Facilities
The International Living-Learning Center opened in September 2011 and is the home for INTO Oregon State University. This state-of-the-art building offers a world-class student experience where international and domestic students live and learn together in the heart of the OSU campus. This building includes residential accommodations for more than 300 international and domestic students, 26 classrooms, a large and spacious auditorium, computer labs, a café, market and comfortable open spaces where students can socialize.

Student Services
The INTO OSU Student Services team provides a range of co-curricular programs and services promoting social, personal and academic well being. Upon arrival at OSU, the team helps students settle in to life in Corvallis, provide social opportunities and a variety of resources tailored to the specific needs of international students. Whether it’s a question about making an appointment with a doctor, finding a place to live, renewing your visa or anything else, there will always be someone available to help you.

International Student Orientation
Orientation involves a variety of important events that prepare students to be successful at OSU, including information about maintaining your visa status, registering for OSU classes, health requirements and insurance coverage. Attendance at International Student Orientation is required of all international students, both direct and INTO OSU.

Other important activities during orientation include: opening an OSU email account, getting an OSU ID card, learning about OSU community expectations and taking a tour of the campus. It’s also a great time to make new international and American friends and attend the many social events planned on campus.

Visa and Immigration Support
Upon arrival, the university’s Office of International Services (OIS) office, in conjunction with the INTO OSU Student Services team, will provide information, support and guidance on maintaining your immigration status while you are in the U.S. These can include questions about renewing a student visa, making sure your I-20 or DS-2019 status is always current, bringing your dependents, employment, traveling and more. During your program, in conjunction with the INTO OSU Academic Support and Finance teams, they will support you through your program and issue any documentation you may need to support your visa status. Students can come in for walk-in hours, or make individual appointments with an International Student Adviser or Sponsored Student Adviser at the Office of International Services (OIS). In addition, workshops are held throughout the year on topics such as employment, scholarships and travel.

OSU Office of International Admissions
The OSU Office of International Admissions is housed in the INTO OSU Center. The Office of International Admissions works closely with prospective international students from inquiry to admission for a variety of programs including: Academic English, Pathway Programs (Undergraduate and Graduate), Undergraduate, Post-Baccalaureate, Professional (MBA, PharmD, and DVM), and Non-degree Exchange Students. All other graduate programs (Master’s and PhD) are served by the Graduate School. Visit the Office of International Admissions (http://admissions.oregonstate.edu/international) online.

Scholarships
Oregon State University and INTO Oregon State University are proud to offer a wide variety of scholarships for exceptional international students. Scholarships are available to undergraduate students, graduate students and Pathway students alike. For more information about these exciting scholarship opportunities, please visit the Office of International Admissions (http://admissions.oregonstate.edu/international/scholarships-international-students). Scholarships are available to undergraduate students, graduate students and Pathway and English language students.

Undergraduate Pathway and Undergraduate Transfer Program (UTP)
These programs combine intensive language study, academic skills development and academic course work in a carefully constructed program designed to prepare students for rigorous OSU degree programs.

The UTP offers customized programs for students who have earned university credits and wish to apply them towards their OSU degree. UTP students receive additional academic, language and cultural support to help be successful at OSU.
The Undergraduate Pathway program and UTP are designed for students who:

- Want to study for an undergraduate degree in the U.S.
- Need to improve their English language skills
- May have lower GPAs than required of direct-entry students
- Desire additional academic, language, and cultural support in order to succeed during their first year at a U.S. university
- Apply previously earned university credit towards graduation at OSU (UTP only)

The Undergraduate Pathway and UTP programs are for students who want to take the fast-track to success. Students receive the highest level of support during their transition abroad, making it an ideal choice for international students who are driven to achieve high academic goals.

Undergraduate Pathway and UTP programs are available in:

- Business
- Engineering
- Science
- Computer Science
- Natural Resources and Renewable Materials
- Food Science and Technology
- Exercise and Sport Science
- General
- Public Policy
- Women and Gender Studies
- Design, Apparel and Merchandising Management
- Mathematics
- Psychology

Four types of Undergraduate and UTP programs are available:

- 1-term Accelerated Pathway and UTP. This program is composed of one term of Pathway programming which counts toward the student's undergraduate degree.
- 2-term Accelerated Pathway and UTP. This program is composed of two terms of Pathway programming which count toward the student's undergraduate degree.
- 3-term Standard Pathway and UTP. Leads students through their first year and upon completion of all progression requirements, students will move on to their degree-seeking program as a second-year sophomore.
- 4-term Comprehensive Pathway and UTP. Offers an intensive language curriculum for students to start their first year of study, allowing students to progress to their degree program. After successfully completing progression requirements, students will move on to their degree-seeking program as a second-year sophomore.

Undergraduate Pathway and UTP Core Academic Courses

The Undergraduate Pathway program and UTP are comprised of OSU credit-earning courses in math, science and writing. From the first day of classes, INTO OSU Pathway and UTP students study alongside domestic students in many of the same courses.

For more information please visit INTO OSU (http://intoosu.oregonstate.edu).

Graduate Pathway Program

The innovative Graduate Pathway program provides international students a direct path to various graduate degrees at the university. Upon successful completion of the program, students are guaranteed progression to a graduate degree program through a curriculum consisting of graduate credit courses that apply to the OSU degree program. The program provides academic, language and cultural support in order to succeed at Oregon State University.

Direct admission to the Graduate School and respective department-based graduate programs at Oregon State University is highly competitive with only the best and most prepared students being selected. Many students who meet all the minimum entry requirements are not admitted because of the highly competitive nature of the programs.

The Graduate Pathway program is designed for international students who:

- Choose to demonstrate their admissibility to an OSU degree seeking program through Graduate Pathway performance in OSU graduate level courses in a specific area of study
- Fall short of meeting the minimum GPA or test score requirements
- Need further English development
- Any or all of the above

Graduate Pathway Programs are available in:

- Business Administration (MBA)
- Business (MSB)
- Chemical Engineering (MEng)
- Organic Chemistry (MS)
- Civil Engineering (MEng)
- Comparative Health Sciences (MS/PhD)
- Computer Science (MEng)
- Electrical and Computer Engineering (MEng)
- Environmental Engineering (MEng)
- Environmental Sciences (PSM)
- Industrial Engineering (MEng)
- Mechanical Engineering (MEng)
- Biostatics (MPH)
- Global Health (MPH)
- Health Promotion and Health Behavior (MPH)
- Materials Chemistry (MS)
- Mathematics (MS)
- Biological and Ecological Engineering (MEng)

Three types of Graduate Pathway Programs are offered:

- 1-term Accelerated Pathway. Minimum 9 graduate credits earned in the program
- 2-term Accelerated Pathway. Minimum 15 graduate credits earned in the program
- 3-term Standard Pathway. Minimum 15 graduate credits earned in the program

Graduate Pathway Core Academic Courses

The academic courses included in the Graduate Pathway programs are carefully chosen to ensure success in graduate-level studies. Students will be advised on which modules to follow during their academic orientation at the INTO OSU Center.

For more information please visit INTO OSU [http://intoosu.oregonstate.edu].

Academic English

Program Description
The Academic English program at INTO Oregon State University prepares international students for university study in the U.S. The academically rigorous program provides international students with high-quality English language instruction and the academic skills to succeed at OSU through development of:

- Listening
- Speaking
- Reading
- Writing
- Grammar
- Standardized test preparation
- Academic study skills

Program Highlights
- Intensive English to prepare for university study
- Academic advising throughout the program
- Small classes of 18-20 students
- Highly-trained and experienced instructors
- Participation in the Conversant Program
- Use of a fully-equipped Learning Center with state-of-the-art technology

Program Outcomes
After finishing this intensive program successful students will be able to:

- Interact comfortably in the U.S. classroom with professors and fellow students
- Understand U.S. values in an academic setting
- Present their spoken and written ideas accurately and effectively in English
- Write research papers with proper use of citations and references
- Use the Internet and OSU library databases to conduct academic research
- Read, understand, and critically evaluate academic texts
- Understand and use vocabulary common to academic disciplines
- Take useful and accurate notes in academic lectures and presentations
- Develop and deliver oral presentations

The length of the Study Abroad program will vary depending on a student's needs. The program can be customized for different levels of English and for specific academic interests. There are fall, winter, spring and summer start dates available. Additional program and admission information can be found online [http://admissions.oregonstate.edu/international/programs/study-abroad-osu].

With prior approval from your home university, the academic courses you will study at OSU can be used to gain credits toward your undergraduate degree in your home country. This program is not designed as a route to degree-seeking OSU programs, though your credits may apply to an OSU degree if you seek admission.

This program consists of three parts:

Study Abroad with English (SAWE) Part 1
Students study full-time in the Academic English program. Students have an opportunity to progress to Study Abroad with English Part 2 upon successful completion of Academic English level 4 and meeting internal progression criteria.

Study Abroad with English (SAWE) Part 2
Students are able to select from OSU undergraduate credit bearing courses offered by the College of Liberal Arts and study alongside domestic and international students while continuing to take 6-12 hours of academic English classes. Students have an opportunity to progress to the Visiting International Students Program upon successful completion of Academic English core level 6 courses or ALS 161/ALS 162 and meeting internal progression criteria.

Visiting International Students Program (VISP)
Students can select from a range of OSU credit-bearing courses offered by the College of Liberal Arts. Optional academic English courses are also available.

All OSU undergraduate College of Liberal Arts courses taken through the VISP and SAWE Part 2 program are transferrable with prior approval from the student’s home university (except intensive English courses, if selected).

Departmental approval is required for students seeking to register for a course outside the College of Liberal Arts.

Study Abroad at INTO OSU is designed for students who want one or more terms of study abroad experience at a top US university. The program provides students with a classic American university experience while taking a variety of classes. Students will have access to all the support services available at the university and INTO OSU, including exceptional one-on-one tutoring, social and cultural trips and more.
MUSEUMS, GALLERIES, AND COLLECTIONS

The educational resources of the university include art, galleries, collections, and exhibits of cultural and scientific materials. Research, teaching, and extension functions are combined in these collections, which serve both the institution and the general public.

Over the years, various departments and schools of the university have become repositories for extensive holdings of manuscripts; rare books; prints, paintings, and other art objects; costumes; textiles; historic artifacts; archaeological material; fossils; preserved plants and animals; wood products; and marine material. These collections serve many of the same functions as a library or make possible the identification of materials whose age, name, or significance is unknown.

Most university collections serve primarily research and teaching functions and may be viewed by prior appointment with their curators.

- Archaeological Collection: Consists of artifacts, field notes, maps, drawings, sketches, and photographs accumulated in archaeological investigations. Several thousand items of primary archaeological documentation comprise this collection. Location: Waldo Hall.

- Art About Agriculture (https://agsci.oregonstate.edu/art/art-about-agriculture): Recognizes professional and emerging Pacific Northwest artists, creates a growing, dynamic, permanent collection of fine art based on, stimulated by, and portraying agriculture, and presents the permanent collection and tour exhibit to rural and urban audiences.

- College of Business-Design Collection (https://business.oregonstate.edu/sdhe/historic-collection): The collection, with display cases on the 2nd floor of Milam Hall, supports the outreach missions of the College of Business Design Programs by providing an educational resource and creative inspiration for students, researchers, and the general public.

- Department of Fisheries and Wildlife's Mammals and Fishes Collections: Include more than 9,000 specimens of birds and 10,000 specimens of mammals, as well as the Braly Ornithological Collection; Overton Dowell, Jr., Bird Collection; Alex Walker Ornithological Collection; and Oregon Game Commission Collection. Location: Nash Hall.

- Fairbanks Art Gallery (https://liberalarts.oregonstate.edu/sac/art-and-art-history/fairbanks-galleries/fairbanks-gallery-art): Fairbanks Gallery of Art is Oregon State University's professional art gallery. Its mission is to initiate, produce, and present scholarly visual art exhibitions to advance contact and dialogue with original works of art as an indispensable part of liberal art education. The exhibition programming of the gallery reflects the diversity of visual-art practices and cultures, fostering critical thinking, and reflecting the depth and breadth of human experience. The exhibitions support the educational missions of Art and Art History and broaden the dialogue across University communities, including general audiences.

- Fine Arts Print Collection (https://oregondigital.org/sets/fairbanks): Contains nearly 600 prints representing numerous countries and spanning several centuries. The collection's holdings includes work of various styles, including Japanese Ukiyo-e, modern Japanese woodblock, 20th century Latin American, German Expressionism, and 20th century American prints.

- The Herbarium (http://oregonstate.edu/dept/botany/herbarium): Contains more than 450,000 named specimens of seed plants, ferns, mosses, algae, fungi, and lichens. Emphasis is on collections from western North America. The herbarium is the repository for the Morton E. Peck Herbarium of Willamette University, a research collection of Oregon flora consisting of more than 30,000 sheets, and the former University of Oregon herbarium.

- Herpetological Collection (http://people.oregonstate.edu/~arnoldst/herp%20collection.htm): Consists of more than 60,000 ethanol-preserved amphibians and reptiles, and approximately 24,000 frozen tissue samples. The collection has excellent representation for sites in the Pacific Northwest and includes the largest collection of garter snakes (Thamnophis) in the world.

- The J.C. Braly Natural History Collection: Includes 550 mounts of birds and mammals in addition to over 1,000 preserved specimens of amphibians and reptiles from the Pacific Northwest. Location: Cordley Hall.

- The LaSells Stewart Center Galleries (https://lasells.oregonstate.edu/gallery): Offer visitors the opportunity to experience three distinct art galleries: Giustina Gallery, Murdock Gallery, and South Hall Display Case. Collectively, the galleries provide the local and campus community diverse opportunities to view and display art work. Annual exhibits include: Vista and Vineyards, Art about Agriculture, Cultural Connections Exhibit and the Community Art Exhibit.

- The Little Gallery (https://liberalarts.oregonstate.edu/feature-story/little-gallery-presents): Exhibits eclectic selections of art from well-established and emerging artists and visually advances different critical methods of seeing, crucial and transformative approaches to large intercultural questions. The gallery has a welcome place in an international language department, is bringing cultures together and has become a confluence of disciplines, a place for discussion and wonder.

- Memorial Union Art Collection (https://mu.oregonstate.edu/gallery): Currently among the 125 artists included in the collection are paintings and sculptures by J. Leo Fairbanks, works from the early nineteen hundreds by Carrie Gilbert depicting Native Americans, prints collected and donated by Gordon and Vivian Gilkey, and historic photographs of OSU (a number of which are on display in the mezzanine hall).

- Memorial Union Concourse Gallery (https://mu.oregonstate.edu/art-gallery): One of the largest exhibition spaces on the OSU Campus. Several contemporary art exhibits reflecting a diversity of styles, media and cultural perspectives are scheduled throughout the year. These exhibits feature the artwork of international, regional, local recognized artists, and the art of talented OSU students.

- Oregon State Arthropod Collection (http://osac.oregonstate.edu): A valuable research collection of nearly three million insect and mite specimens, chiefly from the Pacific Northwest. Collection strengths include Coleoptera, Hemiptera, Lepidoptera, and Hymenoptera. Location: 4082 Cordley Hall.

- Special Collections and Archives Research Center (http://scarc.library.oregonstate.edu): Include collections pertaining to the history of science and technology; the historical records of OSU and papers of its prominent faculty members; collections documenting cultural and ethnic groups in Oregon; rare book collections; and collections documenting natural resources in the Pacific Northwest, especially agriculture and forestry.

- Valley Library NW Art Collection (https://library.oregonstate.edu/nwart): Consists of more than 140 contemporary artworks by leading Northwest artists, including current and former art faculty members at OSU. The majority of the works were added to the collection during the 1999 library renovation through the Oregon Percent for Art law and selected in collaboration with the Oregon Arts Commission.

- Visitor Center of the OSU Marine Science Center (https://seagrant.oregonstate.edu/visitor-center): Features aquariums, interactive exhibits, and hands-on displays that bring to life the marine research conducted by OSU scientists. Special events, educational programs, guided tours and walks are available on request to teach visitors about the ocean and its inhabitants, from undersea volcanoes to the tiniest tide pool creatures.

- The Xylarium (Wood Collection): Contains approximately 2,500 species of wood, primarily from North and South America, Southeast Asia, and Africa.
OSU Office of Global Opportunities (OSU GO) is the centralized hub for supporting students and faculty who wish to explore, travel, study, and go global: whether studying abroad in diverse countries, participating in specialized international internships, joining service-learning and experiential programs that delve into unique projects and communities, and/or conducting comprehensive and rigorous international research.

Overseas Study and Internship Programs

OSU students may broaden their education by taking part in one or a number of OSU GO’s international study programs. Many of the programs allow qualified students from a wide variety of disciplines to earn academic credit from Oregon State University while pursuing their studies internationally. For academic programs approved for OSU credit, financial aid may apply to help cover the costs. IE3 Global is the program development unit within OSU GO to support the strategic mission of education abroad.

IE3 Global offers wide and diverse program options for OSU: direct exchange, study abroad, faculty-led, international internships and research, and supports faculty sabbatical opportunities. Furthermore, IE3 Global partners with colleges and departments on new program opportunities, development, and implementation that align with OSU’s strategic internationalization goals and evolving international curriculum.

More information about OSU GO programs can be obtained by writing to caine.francis@oregonstate.edu or calling 541-737-6434.

Course Equivalency Database:

To assist students and academic advisors in the planning process, OSU GO manages a database of credits (http://international.oregonstate.edu/osugo/course-equivalency) earned by OSU students participating in education abroad programs.

The Research Office

Oregon's State University is one of only two land, sea, space and sun grant institutions in the U.S., holds top tier research designation from the Carnegie Foundation, and is the state's largest public research university. Oregon State research exceeded $308 million dollars in fiscal year 2015, with private sector funding totaling approximately $40 million.

The OSU Research Agenda, integrated with the university's strategic plan, guides faculty inquiry in OSU's three signature areas of distinction: Advancing the Science of Sustainable Earth Ecosystems; Improving Human Health and Wellness; and Promoting Economic Growth and Social Progress.

Headed by the vice president for research, the Research Office serves faculty involved in research, innovation, scholarship, and creativity in all OSU colleges and in a variety of multidisciplinary centers, institutes and programs. The office provides support to secure funding, comply with regulations, partner with industry, establish collaborations across the university and raise the profile of OSU.

Programs, Offices and Centers

Incentive Programs (http://research.oregonstate.edu/incentive): The General Research Fund is for projects not otherwise supported by organized or directed programs. Faculty Release Time provides funding for developing external grant proposals or furthering scholarly activities. Research Equipment Reserve Funds help acquire, repair, renovate, or improve equipment. The Undergraduate Research, Innovation, Scholarship and Creativity Fund enable students to initiate scholarly relationships with faculty early in their academic careers.

OSU Advantage (http://advantage.oregonstate.edu/home): OSU Advantage connects business with faculty expertise, student talent and world-class facilities to research solutions, bring ideas to market and launch companies. OSU Advantage helps faculty take their research and projects into the marketplace where they can have real-world impacts, and provides opportunities to new sources of funding to carry on important and impactful work. Three aligned organizations offer this opportunity: Advantage Accelerator, Advantage Partnerships, and Advantage Impact.

Office of Research Integrity (http://research.oregonstate.edu/ori): The ORI works with OSU faculty, staff, and students to help assure proper conduct of research in areas pertaining to the use of human subjects, and non-human vertebrate animals. The office also works with faculty and Academic Affairs to identify and appropriately manage issues that could be presented to present financial conflicts of interest. The university's Small Boat and Diving Safety programs are overseen by the office, as are issues related to technology export controls. The ORI's purpose is to facilitate the research efforts of OSU faculty, staff and students by helping them to remain compliant with the many federal and state research regulations that assure the integrity of research, the safety of all, and the ethical treatment of human and animal subjects.

Office of Sponsored Research and Award Administration (http://research.oregonstate.edu/osraa) (OSRAA) (http://research.oregonstate.edu/osraa): OSRAA has central responsibility for proposal submission for sponsored research, scholarship, instructional and other activities at Oregon State and contractual compliance as it relates to sponsored activities. OSRAA balances service to OSU faculty and staff, university administration, and the numerous organizations that sponsor Oregon State University activities. Functions include proposal review, monitoring institutional compliance with terms and conditions, official institutional signatory, policy and procedure development, training, compliance activities related to research administration, and general funding opportunity assistance.

Office for Commercialization and Corporate Development (OCCD) (http://advantage.oregonstate.edu/advantage-impact): The OCCD leads OSU's industry-sponsored research efforts and the commercialization of OSU innovations by evaluating markets, developing an intellectual property protection strategy and executing research, confidentiality, materials transfer, licensing and other industry agreements. The OCCD is the bridge to commercial entities—from Oregon-based startups to large international companies, the OCCD facilitates OSU research to impact the world.

Office for Research Development (ORD) (http://research.oregonstate.edu/ord): The ORD provides leadership in strategic planning, implementation, coordination, and review of large research proposals across campus, and manages the University Limited Submission process. The primary responsibilities of the ORD are to identify and develop new external funding sources, increase funding support for the university, facilitate the development of research partnerships, research future grant opportunities, and provide education for faculty and administrators to encourage applications for grant funding.

Multidisciplinary Centers and Institutes (https://research.oregonstate.edu/research-centers-and-institutes-osu-0): Addressing many of the world's most pressing challenges requires collaborative efforts of scientists, engineers, social scientists, and humanists to attain long-lasting, high impact results. OSU fosters these dynamic transdisciplinary collaborations through a variety of centers, institutes and programs. With particular strengths in material sciences, ocean and earth sciences, enterprise innovation and economic development, health sciences, and natural resources, OSU investigators, representing virtually every college on campus, team to conduct cutting-edge research, provide undergraduate and graduate education, and proactively engage communities throughout Oregon and the world in helping them address their greatest needs.

Center for Genome Research and Biocomputing

Brett Tyler, Director
Website: http://cgrb.oregonstate.edu/

Facilitates the development, application and training in computationally intensive, genome-enabled research at OSU and across the state. Research in the CGRB and faculty affiliate laboratories seeks to improve health, better utilize natural and agricultural resources, understand our global environment, and develop new bio-based products and energy sources. The center offers leadership and services to faculty, staff and students through core laboratories, computational facilities, seminars and technology workshops, and conferences. It also provides a focal point for researchers to establish contacts, initiate collaborations, and apply new technologies in their own laboratories.

The mission of the Center for Latino/a Studies and Engagement is to promote engaged research and outreach devoted to advancing knowledge and understanding of Latinx life chances and the issues shaping their lived experiences in our state, region and beyond. The overarching goal of the center are to promote excellence in engaged research, teaching, and outreach in Latinx Studies; to establish an action-based agenda which will promote the economic, political, physical, and educational well-being and development of the Latinx community in rural and urban Oregon; to serve as a model for enhancing the university’s capabilities in similarly targeted research and engagement efforts; and to foster engaged research that is collaborative, trans-disciplinary, and community oriented; furthering both theoretical and applied knowledge to solve real-world problems.

Environmental Health Sciences Center

Joseph Beckman, Director
Website: http://ehsc.oregonstate.edu/

Established in 1967 with funding by the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS). As an organizational unit under the vice president for research, it provides resources for coordination and stimulation of interdisciplinary basic research and training related to the effects of environmental factors on human health. The EHS Center currently brings together and uses a variety of professional capabilities of research and teaching faculty, staff, and students from numerous OSU departments, schools, and colleges within OSU. Academic areas include chemistry, biochemistry and biophysics, environmental and molecular toxicology, microbiology, molecular and cell biology, food science and technology, fisheries and wildlife, veterinary medicine, pharmacology, zoology, and statistics. The center’s visiting scientists program complements research expertise in these areas.

HMSC has over 50 years of accomplishment in research, education, and outreach. Originally established as a marine laboratory for Oregon State University, it has grown to encompass a large group of partners on its 49-acre site on Yaquina Bay in Newport, Oregon. Within OSU, HMSC includes researchers, students, and faculty from six colleges. It serves as home to several university programs, including the Coastal Oregon Marine Experiment Station, the Cooperative Institute for Marine Resources Studies, and the Marine Mammal Institute. It also includes important components of the Oregon Sea Grant program and the Northwest National Marine Renewable Energy Center. Our onsite partners include six state and federal agencies involved in research and management of the marine environment, and our cooperation includes faculty appointments for agency staff, as well as opportunities for students to work with agency scientists.

Institute for Natural Resources

Lisa Gaines, Interim Director
Phone: 541-737-9918 (Main Office)
Website: http://inr.oregonstate.edu/

Created by the Oregon Legislature with the Oregon Sustainability Act of 2001, the INR is a cooperative enterprise bringing the scientific knowledge and expertise of the Oregon University System and other Oregon higher education institutions to bear on natural resource management. Designated as the lead university to administer INR, Oregon State University (OSU) established INR as a research institute within OSU to help decision-makers identify and use relevant science in making policy choices. At INR’s foundation is the land grant mission — building bridges between theory and practice and effectively communicating knowledge to decision-makers.

Institute for Water and Watersheds

Todd Jarvis, Director
Kathryn Motter, Laboratory Manager

Email: iww@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://water.oregonstate.edu/

Since water is “virtually” embedded in all Oregon products, whether natural or manufactured, the state’s economic vitality is tied directly to water. Water quantity and quality issues in the Willamette and Klamath Basins are two of the state’s top environmental priorities. The Institute for Water and Watersheds (IWW), Oregon’s federally-designated water resources research institute, has over 125 affiliated faculty and pursues solutions to Oregon’s water problems by assembling research teams from a broad spectrum of disciplines. The institute utilizes educational and outreach models to communicate the latest water science and policy options to stakeholders so that they can make informed intelligent decisions. The IWW’s Water Collaboratory, an open analytical chemistry laboratory, provides faculty, staff, and students with a variety of analytical capabilities.

Supports and manages the care and veterinary oversight of vertebrate animals used in instruction, research, production, and testing on the Oregon State University campus and property throughout the state. As the leading public research university in Oregon, the campus community is held to the highest standards of responsible animal care. The LARC staff is composed of veterinarians, animal technicians, and veterinary technicians all with specialty training and certifications specific to laboratory animal medicine. LARC employees are committed to providing an exemplary animal oversight program. This includes assuring humane care and use of animals through quality veterinary oversight, husbandry, social housing and environmental enrichment. The LARC staff facilitates campus research and instructional collaborations, through consultation, training, and provision of professional technical and clinical services, and by maintaining compliance with applicable federal and state regulations. The LARC upholds the university’s academic mission and commitment to public service.

Linus Pauling Institute

Balz Frei, Director
307 Linus Pauling Science Center

The Linus Pauling Institute was co-founded in 1973 by Linus Pauling, the only individual to win two unshared Nobel Prizes (Chemistry, 1954; Peace, 1962). The institute moved to the campus of Oregon State University (Dr. Pauling’s undergraduate alma mater) in 1996 and now operates as one of the university’s research centers and institutes. Researchers at the Linus Pauling Institute investigate the role that vitamins and essential minerals (micronutrients) and chemicals from plants (phytochemicals) play in human aging, immune function, and chronic diseases, especially heart disease, cancer, and neurodegenerative diseases. A major emphasis is to understand the role of oxidative stress and inflammation in disease etiology, and the preventive effects of dietary constituents with antioxidant or anti-inflammatory properties.

Northwest National Marine Renewable Energy Center

Belinda Batten, Director

Website: http://nnmrec.oregonstate.edu/

The NNMREC is a U.S. Department of Energy-sponsored partnership between Oregon State University (OSU), the University of Washington (UW), and the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF). The three universities collaborate together with national laboratories on research, education, outreach, and engagement. NNMREC’s mission is to facilitate commercialization of marine energy technology, inform regulatory and policy decisions, and close key gaps in scientific understanding with a focus on student growth and development. We work closely with a variety of stakeholders, including device developers, community members, ocean users, federal and state regulators, and government officials, to conduct research about wave energy, provide test sites for prototype devices, and assist developers with planning and permitting activities.

Oregon NASA Space Grant Consortium

Jack Higginbotham, Director
Phone: 541-737-2414
Website: http://spacegrant.oregonstate.edu/

NASA established Oregon Space Grant in 1991 as a part of the National Space Grant College and Fellowship Program. The objectives of the program are to establish a national network of universities with interest and capabilities in aeronautics, space, and related fields; encourage cooperative programs among universities, aerospace industry, and federal, state, and local governments; encourage interdisciplinary training, research, and public service programs related to aeronautics, space science, and technology; recruit and train professionals, especially women, underrepresented minorities, and persons with disabilities, for careers in aerospace-related science and engineering; and develop a strong science mathematics, and technology education base from elementary through university levels.

Oregon Sea Grant

Shelby Walker, Director
Website: http://seagrant.oregonstate.edu/

Oregon Sea Grant’s mission is to be a catalyst that promotes discovery, understanding and resilience for Oregon coastal communities and ecosystems. Funding for Sea Grant comes from federal and state appropriations, as well as contributions from local governments and industry. The major support is a grant from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Program activities are conducted in four thematic areas: ecological, social and economic aspects of coastal development, adaptation to acute or chronic coastal hazards, human and natural dimensions of coastal and marine fisheries, and cultural beliefs, learning and valuation of coastal and marine issues.

Radiation Center

Steve Reese, Director
Website: http://radiationcenter.oregonstate.edu/

The Radiation Center is a campus-wide instructional and research facility specially designed to accommodate programs involving the use of radiation and radioactive materials. Located in the center are major items of specialized equipment and unique teaching and research facilities, including a TRIGA Mark II nuclear research reactor (licensed to operate at 1,100 kilowatts when running at a steady power level and at 2,500 megawatts in the pulsing mode); a cobalt-60 gamma irradiator; a number of gamma radiation spectrometers and associated germanium detectors; and a variety of instruments for radiation measurements and monitoring. Facilities for radiation work include teaching and research laboratories with up-to-date instrumentation and related equipment for performing neutron activation analysis and radiotracer studies; laboratories for plant experiments involving radioactivity; an instrument calibration facility for radiation protection instrumentation; and facilities for packaging radioactive materials for shipment to national and international destinations.

Website: http://superfund.oregonstate.edu/

The Superfund Research Center oversees the NIEHS-funded Superfund Research Program grant at Oregon State University. This grant supports a multidisciplinary research effort to address the re-emerging health threat of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs) in the environment. PAHs are considered a re-emerging threat to environmental health due to the increased burning of fossil fuels (e.g., coal and petroleum products) for energy production. The SRP grant supports five research projects and six support cores at Oregon State University and Pacific Northwest National Laboratory in Richland, WA, in a range of efforts involving human exposure to PAHs. In addition, research partners are located at San Diego State University, the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation and Pennsylvania State University. These research projects focus on determining the effect of PAHs on a variety of adverse human health outcomes employing animal models such as zebrafish to detect developmental toxicities.

Oregon Nanoscience and Microtechnologies Institute

Skip Rung, President and Executive Director
Phone: 541-713-1331
Email: skip@onami.us
Website: http://onami.us/

ONAMI is Oregon’s first "signature research center" for the purpose of sustaining and growing Oregon’s innovation economy. As is true of only three other states, technology is Oregon’s largest employer, with an average wage twice the statewide average. Growth of these kinds of job opportunities is the single most effective thing we can do for state financial health, schools, public safety and human services.

Our strategy has been 10 years in the making, and the selection of "nanoscience and microtechnologies" was based on a careful analysis intended to discover the largest possible intersection among:

- nationally competitive research in our universities,
- future commercial opportunities/growing sectors of the national economy,
- the existing skills of Oregon industry and its surrounding value chain ecosystem.

ONAMI is now a nationally recognized model for state innovation initiatives, and is frequently featured at events and in publications by the National Science Foundation, National Governors Association, and other organizations concerned with keeping the United States competitive in the global innovation economy.

The state of Oregon so far has invested $47 million in ONAMI, including $5.2 million from the Oregon Innovation Council (OECDD) for fiscal year 2012–2013. These funds are invested in OSU research and commercialization capacity in the form of matching funds for competitive extramural proposals, facility operations, and “gap” grants to assist in the formation of successful new products and startup companies.

Website: http://www.otradi.org

OTRADI is a nonprofit research and development organization, supported in part by the state of Oregon that strives to promote bioscience industry growth and job creation in Oregon. OTRADI achieves this goal via collaboration with private and public sector entities in the bioscience community to discover, develop, and commercialize therapeutics, vaccines, diagnostics and other life sciences products important for human health. OTRADI’s specialized high-throughput drug discovery robotic equipment is unique in the Northwest, offering previously out-of-reach drug screening capabilities as well as the expertise necessary to analyze results and quickly identify the best products to commercialize. OTRADI uses its equipment and expertise to rapidly screen thousands of chemical compounds developed by Oregon research laboratories and companies to identify new potential drugs, speeding progress on global health concerns, and bringing more economic development and scientific talent to Oregon.

Oregon BEST

David Kenney, President and Executive Director

Phone: 503-928-7902
Email: david.kenney@oregonbest.org
Website: http://oregonbest.org/

Oregon BEST funds and supports innovative cleantech startups across Oregon. As an economic development catalyst, Oregon BEST connects startups with state and federal resources while preparing them for follow-on investment through a series of focused programs.

We invest strategically in public-private partnerships that rapidly transform university research into new clean technologies, companies, and jobs. The research, projects, and startups we support serve as a proving ground for leading-edge clean technologies while powering a vibrant innovation ecosystem.

Oregon BEST’s work not only adds value and enhances competitiveness for Oregon businesses, it also grows the state’s research revenue, expands research programs, enhances workforce development, and positions Oregon to recruit new cleantech companies.

Since its establishment as an independent, nonprofit organization by the Oregon Legislature in 2007, Oregon BEST’s 270+ Member Researchers (http://oregonbest.org/portfolio) have attracted more than $135 million in research revenue to Oregon from federal, industry, and foundation sources. Building on Oregon’s international reputation as a sustainability innovator, Oregon BEST offers a range of programs, expertise, and research facilities described below.

Cutting-edge research requires cutting-edge equipment and the expertise to operate it. Oregon BEST supports a network of nine shared-user research facilities (http://oregonbest.org/what-we-offer/expertise/labs) at Oregon State University, Portland State University, and the University of Oregon. These multi-million dollar labs offer our industry partners access to research tools, faculty expertise, and workforce development opportunities. The labs help Oregon businesses compete while helping universities grow research and educate graduates. By providing both financial and leadership support, Oregon BEST works to ensure that our community has access to advanced research facilities.

Agricultural Experiment Station

Daniel J. Arp, Director
William G. Boggess, Executive Associate Director
W. Daniel Edge, Associate Director
Joyce Loper, Associate Director
John R. Talbott, Assistant Director
Jack Breen, Agricultural Sciences and Marine Sciences Business Center Manager

Email: AESsupport@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://agsci.oregonstate.edu/research/research

A statewide research network of Oregon State University scientists working on the Corvallis campus and at 11 branch stations in the major crop, climate, and marketing areas of Oregon. These diverse locations ensure that the station’s research program is close to the people and the needs of Oregon’s agricultural and natural resources. Founded July 1, 1888, in accordance with the federal Hatch Act of 1887, the mission of the Oregon Agricultural Experiment Station is to conduct research and demonstrations in the agricultural, biological, social, and environmental sciences that contribute to the economic, environmental, and social welfare of Oregon.

College of Engineering Research and Economic Development Office

Irem Y. Tumer, Associate Dean for Research and Economic Development

Website: http://red. engr. oregonstate.edu/

RED at the College of Engineering was established to promote and support research programs and faculty. The overall mission of the RED office is to build new bridges between faculty, external stakeholders and collaborators, help faculty find and apply for funding opportunities, boost the college's reputation for research, and grow industry funding. We specifically aim to foster high-impact research initiatives among our faculty, and develop strong relationships with our academic, industry, and government partners. This includes not only connecting faculty teams with funding opportunities and matching industry needs with Oregon State expertise, but also assembling teams that can build new programs in emerging areas that are responsive to global challenges.

Aquaculture Collaborative Research Unit

Hillary S. Egna, Director

Websites: http://aquafishcrsp. oregonstate.edu/ and http://pdacrsp. oregonstate.edu/

The Aquaculture Unit, a center within the College of Agricultural Sciences since 1999, has served as the home for international aquaculture programs such as the Feed the Future Innovation Lab for Collaborative Research on Aquaculture & Fisheries (formerly AquaFish CRSP), the Aquaculture Best Management Practices for Strategic Investment in Rapid Technology Dissemination project, the Aquatic Resource Use and Conservation for Sustainable Freshwater...
Aquaculture and Fisheries Project (USAID Mali/Bamako Mission), a USAID Cairo Mission Aquaculture Project, the Aquaculture CRSP, the Pond Dynamics/Aquaculture (PD/A) CRSP and other projects. These diverse international aquaculture programs have been knitted together under independent grants, and have shared a common goal to reduce poverty in developing countries by improving access to the poor fish and water resources. The Unit has worked with nearly 600 U.S. and host country universities, government, private companies, and non-governmental organizations to support research, development, and outreach activities in 34 countries including Bangladesh, Belize, Brazil, Bolivia, Burma, Cambodia, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Ghana, Guatemala, Guyana, Honduras, Indonesia, Kenya, Laos PDR, Malawi, Mali, Mexico, Nepal, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Philippines, Rwanda, South Africa, Tanzania, Thailand, Uganda, U.S.A., and Vietnam.

Forest Research Laboratory - Institute for Working Forest Landscapes
Thomas Maness, Director
Anthony S. Davis, Associate Director
Roger D. Admiral, Associate Director
Website: http://www.forestry.oregonstate.edu/research/forest-research-laboratory

Research in the College of Forestry (CoF) is conducted under the broad umbrella of the Forest Research Laboratory (FRL), which was established by the Oregon Legislature in 1941. The FRL is partially funded by the Legislature as one of three Statewide Public Service Units (see Oregon Revised Statute 526.225). Faculty, staff, and students from the College of Forestry's Departments of Forest Engineering, Resources, and Management; Forest Ecosystems and Society; and Wood Science and Engineering contribute to a diverse portfolio of fundamental and applied research and outreach activities. In November 2013, the college launched the Institute for Working Forest Landscapes (IWFL) to focus FRL research programs on innovative approaches for managing landscapes that will enhance people’s lives and improve the health of communities, businesses and vital ecosystems. The IWFL’s program is organized under four broad thematic areas: Healthy People and Communities, Resilient Ecosystems, Intensively Managed Forests, and Competitive and Innovative Products.

Integrated Plant Protection Center
Paul Jepson, Director
Website: http://www.ipmnet.org/

IPPC was established in 1991, to expand upon the range of activities of the International Plant Protection Center, that was chartered by Oregon State University in 1969. The IPPC is partially supported by the Agricultural Experiment Station, and the Cooperative Extension Service. The IPPC focuses upon research, education and outreach activities associated with the adoption of sustainable integrated pest management (IPM) practices in agriculture. It is the home for a number United States Department of Agriculture (USDA)-funded programs associated with pest control and pesticide management, including the state IPM program, the Regional Pest Management Center program, the Pesticide and Environmental Stewardship program, and the Farm Safety program.

Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research
Valery King, Official Representative (OSU Libraries)
Website: http://www.icpsr.umich.edu/icpsrweb/

Through funding provided by OSU Libraries, OSU is a member of ICPSR, the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research. A unit within the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan, ICPSR was established in 1962 and maintains and provides access to a vast archive of social science data for research and instruction. OSU students, faculty and staff may access these data at no charge and may also deposit their own data into the collection. ICPSR offers members reduced fees to attend the Summer Training Program in Quantitative Methods of Social Research, a comprehensive curriculum of intensive courses in research design, statistics, data analysis, and social methodology. Additionally ICPSR leads several initiatives that encourage use of data in teaching, particularly for undergraduate instruction, and offers user support to assist researchers in identifying relevant data for analysis and in conducting their research projects.

Kiewit Center for Infrastructure and Transportation
Jason Weiss, Director
Email: kiewit.center@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://cce.oregonstate.edu/research/

The center was initially established in 1962 as the Transportation Research Institute. The Kiewit Center serves as the umbrella organization for all research within the School of Civil and Construction Engineering. The center is a key component in the College of Engineering's drive to become a top 25 engineering program, coordinating multi- and interdisciplinary research projects. For the last 150 years, civil engineers have built the infrastructure upon which American prosperity rests. Roads, bridges, airfields, dams, schools, and safe drinking water form the foundation for our quality of life. Today that foundation is crumbling. Americans experience this deterioration every day. A recent report by the American Society of Civil Engineers confirms what most Americans already know—the ASCE report gave the U.S. infrastructure an overall grade of D+. The center is an interdisciplinary unit that provides research, education and public service related to the built environment and the systems that operate in that environment.

Marine Mammal Institute
Bruce Mate, Director
Website: http://mmi.oregonstate.edu/

A multi-disciplinary faculty incorporating the work of academics from engineering, genetics, fisheries and wildlife (agriculture), aquatics, ecology, veterinary medicine, biology, and communications.

- Whale Telemetry Group (WTG): Using satellite-monitored radio tags to determine the distribution and critical habitats of endangered whales.
- Cetacean Conservation and Genomics Laboratory (CCGL): Exploring the genomes of whales and dolphins to understand the past, assess the present, and conserve the future.
• Geospatial Ecology of Marine Megafauna (GEMM) Laboratory: Spatial and behavioral studies of marine megafauna to generate an improved understanding of species ecology and distribution patterns.
• Bio-Telemetry and Behavioral Ecology Laboratory: Using telemetry and bio-logging tools to study the behavioral ecology of marine mammals.
• Oregon Marine Mammal Stranding Network (OMMSN): Documenting occurrences and investigating the causes of marine mammal strandings in Oregon.

Microproducts Breakthrough Institute

Goran Jovanovic, OSU Co-Director
Phone: 541-713-1348 (MBI Office)
Email: goran.jovanovic@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://mbi-online.org/

The MBI is a 45,000 square foot facility located on the Hewlett-Packard Corvallis campus containing offices, laboratories, fabrication facilities and laydown space for the research, development and commercialization of arrayed microfluidic systems and related nanomanufacturing technology. This facility is focused on accelerating the discovery, development and commercial deployment of new nano- and micro-scale phenomena and their technology embodiments. The MBI is collaboration between the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory (PNNL) and OSU. PNNL and OSU are leaders in the science, engineering, and technology development of nano- and micro-scale processes and systems. Collaboratively they conduct research and development projects ranging from fundamental science and technology investigations to assistance with commercial development and production. Areas of current research and development include photovoltaic manufacturing, hydrogen storage, nanomaterials synthesis, biofuel processing, miniature heat pumps and artificial kidneys among others.

O.H. Hinsdale Wave Research Laboratory

Pedro Lomonaco, Director
Phone: 541-737-2875
Email: pedro.lomonaco@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://wave.oregonstate.edu/

Provides outstanding research and testing at the largest nearshore experimental facility at an academic institution in the US. The 6,100 ft² (570 m²) building is situated on the main campus and houses the Large Wave Flume (LWF), Directional Wave Basin (DWB), and 3,000 ft² (300 m²) of office space for staff, graduate students, visiting researchers, and clients. The laboratory conducts research on coastal and nearshore processes involving wave-structure interaction, nearshore hydrodynamics and sediment transport, marine renewable energy, tsunami and coastal hazards and fixed and floating structures. Through our work we deliver research, testing, and education and outreach opportunities to improve the resilience and sustainability of coastal areas, and to develop innovative solutions to the design of coastal infrastructure.

Oregon Climate Change Research Institute

Philip W. Mote, Director
Kathie Dello, Associate Director
Website: http://occri.weebly.com/

The Oregon State Legislature established the Oregon Climate Change Research Institute (OCCRI) within the Department of Higher Education in 2007. OCCRI is a network of over 150 researchers at Oregon State University (OSU), the University of Oregon, Portland State University, Southern Oregon University, and affiliated federal and state labs. OCCRI is tasked with: facilitating research by faculty at Oregon’s public universities on climate change and its effects on natural and human systems in Oregon; serving as a clearinghouse for climate change information; providing climate change information to the public in integrated and accessible formats; supporting the Oregon Global Warming Commission in developing strategies to prepare for and to mitigate the effects of climate change on natural and human systems, and providing technical assistance to local governments to assist them in developing climate change policies, practices, and programs.

Oregon Wood Innovation Center

Scott Leavengood, Director
Phone: 541-737-4212
Chris Knowles, Assistant Director
Phone: 541-737-1438
Email: owic@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://owic.oregonstate.edu/

OWIC is a joint initiative of Oregon State University's College of Forestry and Extension Service. OWIC's mission is to improve the competitiveness of Oregon's wood products industry by fostering innovation in products, processes, and business systems. A key function of the center is to serve as the primary link between university research and needs and opportunities in the forest industry. The forest products industry has undergone dramatic changes in recent years. The industry responded to reductions in raw material supply and the forces of globalization by consolidating, retooling production systems, and by focusing on improving efficiencies in manufacturing processes. However, it is clear that focusing solely on process innovation will be insufficient to maintain future competitive advantage. Firms must also focus on product and business systems innovation. OWIC helps foster such innovation by serving as a 'clearinghouse' to connect manufacturers to the research community, to other organizations that provide assistance to businesses, and to facilitate networking within the industry.

Sun Grant Western Regional Center

John R. Talbott, Director
Phone: 541-737-2194
Emails: john.talbott@oregonstate.edu or sungrant@oregonstate.edu
Website: http://sungrant.oregonstate.edu/

A network of five land grant universities serve as regional Sun Grant Centers. These universities include Oregon State University (Western Region), South Dakota State University (North-Central), Oklahoma State University (South-Central), the University of Tennessee-Knoxville (Southeastern), and Pennsylvania State University (Northeastern). The centers facilitate federally funded research, extension, and education programs in their respective regions.

The mission of the Sun Grant Initiative is to:

1. Enhance national energy security through development, distribution and implementation of biobased energy technologies;
2. Promote diversification in and the environmental sustainability of, agricultural production in the United States through biobased energy and products technologies;

3. Promote economic diversification in rural areas of the United States through biobased energy and product technologies; and

4. Enhance the efficiency of bioenergy and biomass research and development programs through improved coordination and collaboration among the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Energy, and the land grant colleges and universities.
OSU Summer Session annually serves more than 9,000 students on the Corvallis campus, as well as at the OSU Hatfield Marine Science Center on the Oregon coast. Attending summer session is an ideal way to expedite the path to graduation. It enables students to stay on track or get ahead on required coursework, and provides opportunities to perform research with faculty and seek professional development or enrichment courses.

During the summer term, Oregon State offers more than 1,200 on-site and 600 online courses in over 100 subjects, from agriculture to zoology. Courses range in length from one week to 11 weeks, with most courses running in three, four, or eight week sessions. Sequential courses (e.g., general chemistry, biology or Spanish) enable students to complete a full year’s worth of a subject in one term.

OSU Summer Session courses are held to the same rigorous academic standards as courses offered during the rest of the school year. Among the benefits of enrolling in the summer term are the smaller class sizes and increased accessibility to instructors.

The full-time summer course load for undergraduates is 12 credits; for graduate students it is 9 credits. However, with advisor approval, undergraduates may take up to 19 credits, and graduate students up to 16 credits.

Nonresident students enjoy considerable tuition savings during summer term because all students pay in-state tuition (not eligible for OSU Ecampus, VetMed or PharmD classes or INTO students).

Summer classes are open to all students who meet course requirements. Students who have been academically suspended from the university are ineligible to enroll in Summer Session. For application details, contact the OSU Office of Admissions at 800-291-4192.

For the most current Summer Session information, visit the Summer Session website (https://summer.oregonstate.edu). The website provides important information regarding summer admission, registration procedures and deadlines, the summer calendar, tuition and fees, financial aid and housing options.

Beginning in January, updated descriptions and schedule information for OSU Summer Session courses are available online (https://classes.oregonstate.edu).
TUITION, FEES, AND PAYMENT

Tuition, Fees, and Student Accounts

Tuition Charges
Tuition rates vary depending on factors such as academic program, residency, campus, and student or course level. For a full listing of tuition and fees, please visit the OSU Business Affairs website (http://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/tuition-and-fee-information) or the OSU Budget Office website (http://fa.oregonstate.edu/budget).

Mandatory Enrollment Fees
Building, Incidental, Student Health: amounts updated annually
Students pay mandatory enrollment fees each term which include the Building Fee, Incidental Fee, and Student Counseling and Health Services Fees. These fees support services that benefit all students, and are required of all enrolled students. For more detail, see Student Fee Information (https://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/student-fee-information).

Advance Tuition Deposit: $200.00
Once you have been admitted to OSU as a degree-seeking student, to confirm intent to enroll, students are requested to submit an advance tuition deposit (ATD) of $200.00. For more information, see the Admissions website. (https://admissions.oregonstate.edu/instructions-paying-your-atd)

Matriculation Fee: $350.00
All new students (undergraduate and graduate) are charged a one-time fee of $350.00 at the start of their first term at OSU to support access to a variety of OSU programs and services, including but are not limited to: new student orientation; pre-enrollment advising; and campus open houses.

Course Fees: varies by course
Certain courses have additional fees which may include lab fees, field trip fees, and material fees. Refer to the Schedule of Classes (https://catalog.oregonstate.edu/course-search) for individual course related fees.

Student ID Card Fee: $25.00
Charged to all new and readmitted students their first term after admission or readmission. Ecampus students are not charged this fee unless they request an ID card (email request to ID.Center@oregonstate.edu) or attend an on-campus class.

Other Fees
Every student at OSU has a student account. Charges that students incur beyond tuition and fees are posted to the student account and are part of the student's financial responsibility. This includes, but not limited to: housing, dining, library, parking, recreation center, fines and the like. For more information, visit OSU External Fees (https://fees.oregonstate.edu/Public/BrowseExternal.aspx).

Special Tuition Rate Categories
Graduate Assistants
OSU has a tuition remission policy for students who meet specific criteria and are eligible to hold a graduate assistant appointment. For more information, see the Graduate School website (https://gradschool.oregonstate.edu/finance/tuition-remission/graduate-tuition-remission-policy).

Non-degree Students
Non-degree students (those that are not enrolled as a degree seeking student) pay undergraduate or graduate tuition based on the level of the course. If enrolled in 8 or fewer credits, the resident tuition rates apply. If taking 9 or more credits, resident or nonresident tuition rates apply, based on the student's residency status.

Non-degree students are charged the mandatory Building and Incidental Fees. To be eligible to use Student Health Services, Non-degree students must pay the Student Health fees.

Senior citizens Auditing a Course
Senior citizens in Oregon may audit courses without paying tuition or fees. The person must receive permission from the instructor before enrolling in the course, and fill out the university's non-degree admissions application, as well as pay a non-refundable non-degree enrollment application fee. Qualifying students must be 65 years of age or older and register for 8 or fewer credits each term. Enrollment is dependent upon space availability.

All other students (under 65 years of age) auditing courses are charged tuition and fees at the same rate as courses taken for credit.

Employees and dependents
OSU offers an employee benefit to eligible employees appointed to at least .50 FTE (not including temporary or student employees) to register for courses and receive reduced tuition rates for a maximum of 12 credit hours. Eligible employees may transfer this benefit to a qualified family member each term. For more information see the Human Resources website (https://hr.oregonstate.edu/benefits/current-employees/tuition-reduction-staff-fee-privileges).

Student Financial Obligation
Upon registering for or receiving services from the University, the student agrees to accept full responsibility to pay tuition, fees and other associated costs assessed as a result of the student's registration or receipt of services. The student understands and agrees that registration constitutes an obligation to pay for all assessed tuition, fees and other associated costs by the published or assigned due date. Even if the student is younger than the applicable age of majority, the student agrees the educational services provided by the University are a necessity, and the student is contractually obligated pursuant to the "doctrine of necessaries."

Any student incurring tuition, fees and any other charges at the University understands and agrees to be fully responsible for the resulting amounts that become due and owing to the University. All charges incurred by the student resulting from attendance at the University (or use of any University services) including tuition, course fees, library charges, room and board fees, health services, and other University charges are added to, and available on, the student's account.

Financial Aid, awards, scholarships, grants, and sponsorships are all posted to the student account as credits and subsequently applied as payment for charges (in accordance with federal Title IV financial aid regulations as applicable). The student account will remain active as long the student attends the University, receives University services, or has an account balance.

Billing
The University uses electronic billing as its official billing method. Any charge added to the student account balance is due and payable. immediately and, therefore, the student is responsible for viewing and paying the student account at the time the charge posts to the student's account. Students are sent an email to their ONID email account on the 5th day of each month as a reminder to view their account activity online at MyBill (http://mybill.oregonstate.edu). On the 2nd day of every month, any unpaid balance on the student's account from the previous month incurs simple interest at the rate of 12% percent per year. There is no penalty for early repayment of all or any part of the account, and the student maintains the right to pay the outstanding debt in full at any time. Failure to review the student account does not constitute a valid reason for failing to pay the bill on time. For more information about student billing, see the Business Affairs website (https://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/student-billing).

Payment
OSU accepts electronic check (bank debits), paper checks, credit cards, money orders, and cash as payment methods for student accounts. Online payment options can be accessed through MyBill (http://mybill.oregonstate.edu) or MyOSU (http://myosu.oregonstate.edu) (navigate to Paying for College, Financial Services, Pay My Bill). Please note any service or convenience fees associated with the selected payment option. For more information, see the OSU Cashiers website (https://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/student-billing).

Delinquent Accounts

Financial Holds: Failure to pay the student account balance or any monies due and owed to the University will result in a financial hold on the student's account. A financial hold will prevent the student from registering for future terms, requesting transcripts, and will restrict the student from other campus services as determined by the University.

- Registration Hold, continuing students: Enforced if the student account balance is more than $2,200 or if there are unpaid charges, of any amount, owed from any term other than the two most recent terms. If either of these conditions exist, a Registration Hold will be placed on the student account. Please note: Cascades campus students must pay their account in full in order to register.
- Registration Hold, returning students: Enforced unless the student account is paid in full. This applies to students who are no longer registered or have not attended for a term or more (other than Summer).
- Transcript Hold: Enforced if any prior term charges remain unpaid. All prior term charges must be paid in full in order to access an official transcript. Please note: Cascades campus students must pay their entire student account in full, including current term charges, in order to access an official transcript.

Interest: On the 2nd day of every month, any unpaid balance on the student's account from the previous bill will be assessed a 1% interest charge (simple interest at the rate of 12% percent per year). There is no penalty for early repayment of all or any part of the account, and the student maintains the right to pay the outstanding debt in full at any time.

Debt Resolution: If a student fails to pay the balance owed on their student account after the fourth week of the next term, then the student is in default of their financial obligation. The University will provide the student with notice of default, and may use all remedies in law and in equity to enforce and collect the amount owed on the student's account. Additional fees or penalties will apply. Failure to pay the student account, or any monies due and owed to the University or failure to make acceptable payment arrangements, may result in the University referring the student's delinquent account to a collection agency.

OSU will not impose any penalty (e.g., assessment of late fees; denial of access to classes, libraries or other institutional facilities; or the requirement to borrow additional funds) to any student actively using chapter 31 or chapter 33 benefits at OSU because of the student's inability to meet their financial obligations to OSU due to the delayed disbursement of funding from the VA under chapter 31 or chapter 33.

Drop/Withdraw Refunds

Students who drop or withdraw from a class during the first 30% of the term (or part of term) may be eligible for a partial tuition refund. If the financial aid that was disbursed to the student is revoked due to dropping or withdrawing from classes, the student must repay the revoked financial aid. Refunds are calculated from the date of official drop, withdraw, or cancellation, not the last date of class attendance. For refund deadlines, see below or the Business Affairs website (https://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/tuition-reduction-schedule). For complete withdraw from the term, follow instructions found at Withdraw from the Term (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/withdraw-term).

Special Fees

Admission Office (not refundable)

- Application Fee, Undergraduate: $65.00
- Application Fee, Graduate, US Citizen/Permanent Resident: $75.00
- Application Fee, Graduate, International: $85.00
Office of the Registrar

- Diploma Mailing Fee: $25.00, or $40.00 for out of U.S.
- Duplicate Diploma: $40.00
- Examination for Credit or Waiver $80.00 per exam
- FAX Service: $20.00 per request to fax documents
- Late Course Change: $20.00 per course changed. This applies to any late add, late add to audit, late drop, late withdrawal from a course, late change in grading basis, or late change in course credit done after the stated deadlines, see Office of the Registrar website (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/osu-academic-calendar).
- Late Registration Fees, during first two weeks of classes: $50.00
- Late Registration Fees, after the second week of classes and by approval only: $100.00
- PELP Fee (Undergraduate Planned Educational Leave Program): $25.00. The non-refundable application fee allows an undergraduate student to maintain their official standing as a student at OSU and reserves the student's right to keep their original academic catalog active during their absence.
- Transcripts: $10.00 or no fee depending on delivery method, see Office of the Registrar website (http://registrar.oregonstate.edu/transcripts). Please note that all obligations to OSU must be cleared before transcript orders can be processed.
- Verification of Enrollment Fee: $15.00 per verification. See Office of the Registrar website (https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/verify-your-enrollment).

Business Affairs

- Collection Account Processing Fee: $5.00 to $60.00
- Returned Check Fee: $25.00
- Stop Payment Fee: $20.00
- Sponsored Student Administrative Fee: $275.00 per term. An administrative management fee is charged for international students supported under contractual arrangement with sponsoring agencies or entities requiring special administrative or management services beyond those normally provided.

Billing Questions

If there appears to be an error on your monthly statement, use the following guidelines:

Financial Aid questions: Contact the Office of Financial Aid and Scholarships - A218 Kerr Administration Building, 541-737-2241, financial.aid@oregonstate.edu

Graduate Assistants: Please contact your department. For information regarding GRA/GTA, see the Graduate School website (https://gradschool.oregonstate.edu/finance/graduate-assistantships).

Housing questions: Contact University Housing and Dining Office - Oxford House, 957 SW Jefferson Ave, 541-737-4771, or please see UHDS website (https://uhds.oregonstate.edu/housing/room-dining-rates-common-charges).

Residency questions: Please see Admissions website (https://admissions.oregonstate.edu/residency).

Sponsor Payment questions: Contact Business Affairs - B100 Kerr Administration Building, 541-737-3775, ThirdPartyBilling@oregonstate.edu

Financial Aid

Scholarships, Student Loans, and Grants

Eligible students who have accepted scholarships, student loans and grant awards will have those funds applied automatically to their student billing account. You can monitor your financial aid eligibility and billing account through MyOSU.

If financial aid amounts exceed the amount of qualifying tuition/fees expenses owed, a refund will be generated if the surplus exceeds $1.00. Distribution of the refund can be made by direct deposit or check. Please note that federal financial aid cannot be posted toward the balance of the matriculation fee, accrued interest, printing charges, parking or library fines or student health service charges.

- If you would like direct deposit of your financial aid refund, complete the Direct Deposit form found through Online Services or Student Finance website (http://fa.oregonstate.edu/business-affairs/student-finance).
- If you would like your refund as a check, your current mailing address must be up to date for all check processing. You can do this through MyOSU (https://myosu.oregonstate.edu).

For full details, visit the Business Affairs Office Website. Click on Current Student.

Beginning the third week of the term, students eligible for refunds due to financial aid or scholarship disbursements may request a refund at the Cashier’s Office or through email at refund@oregonstate.edu.

Emergency Loans

Emergency loans, not to exceed $350.00 per term, are available to students in good financial standing, attending at least half time, and formally admitted to the university. Loans are to be repaid by the last day of the current term. Loan amounts become part of the revolving account balance and carry interest at 1 percent per month (12 percent APR). The Cashier’s Office reviews the applications and issues payment if approved. Application forms are available at the Cashier’s Office in the Kerr Administration Building. Be sure to have your OSU ID and a second photo ID to present with the application.

Ecampus students can email cashiers.office@oregonstate.edu to request the application. They will be asked to scan the completed form and email it back to the Cashier’s Office with accompanying identification.
Residency Requirements

Payment of Student Fees

Payment of Nonresident Instruction Fee (580-10-080)
1. All students classified as nonresidents shall pay a nonresident fee.
2. Refunds of the nonresident fee may be granted if the student shows that the classification previously assigned was in error. However, no such refund shall be made unless the student applies and submits all supporting information for residency status prior to the last day to register for the term in which the student seeks the change of status.

Enrollment of Spouse and Dependent Children (580-010-086)
The spouse and dependent children of regular department staff members with a full-time equivalent of at least .50 may enroll as students at resident fee rates in department institutions.

In-State Tuition for Veterans

The following individuals shall be charged the in-state rate, or otherwise considered a resident, for tuition and fees purposes:

- A Veteran using educational assistance under either chapter 30 (Montgomery G.I. Bill - Active Duty Program) or chapter 33 (Post-9/11 G.I. Bill), of title 38, United States Code, who lives in the State of Oregon while attending a school located in the State of Oregon (regardless of his/her formal State of residence) and enrolls in the school within three years of discharge or release from a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.
- Anyone using transferred Post-911 G.I. Bill benefits (38 U.S.C. § 3319) who lives in the State of Oregon while attending a school located in the State of Oregon (regardless of his/her formal State of residence) and enrolls in the school within three years of the transferor’s discharge or release from a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.
- Anyone using benefits under the Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship (38 U.S.C. § 3311(b)(9)) who lives in the State of Oregon while attending a school located in the State of Oregon (regardless of his/her formal State of residence) and enrolls in the school within three years of the Service member’s death in the line of duty following a period of active duty service of 90 days or more.
- Anyone described above while he or she remains continuously enrolled (other than during regularly scheduled breaks between courses, semesters, or terms) at the same school. The person so described must have enrolled in the school prior to the expiration of the three-year period following discharge, release, or death described above and must be using educational benefits under either chapter 30 or chapter 33, of title 38, United States Code.

Appendix I: Residency Standards: A–G

A. Definitions
For the purpose of these Residency Standards the following definitions apply
1. “Domicile” is a person’s true, fixed, and permanent home and place of habitation. It is the place where a person intends to remain and to which the person expects to return when the person leaves without intending to establish a new domicile elsewhere. In order to establish a domicile in Oregon, a person must maintain a predominant physical presence in Oregon for 12 consecutive months after moving to the state.
2. A “financially independent person” is a person who, at the time of application for residency status: (a) declares themselves to be financially independent; (b) has not been claimed as a dependent during the immediately preceding tax year, and will not be claimed as a dependent during the current tax year, on the federal or state income tax returns of any other person; and (c) has not received in the immediately preceding calendar year, and will not receive during the current calendar year, one-half or more of their support, in cash or in kind, from another person or persons, except for support received from their spouse.
3. A “financially dependent person” is a person who, at the time of application for residency status: (a) declares themselves to be financially dependent; and (b) has been claimed as a dependent on the federal and state income tax returns of another person during the immediately preceding tax year.
4. “University” or “Universities” are Oregon public universities listed in ORS 352.002.
5. “Residency Procedure” is the procedure attached as Appendix II to the interinstitutional Residency Compact, including any subsequent amendments as described in that

B. Determination of Residence
1. For purposes of admission and instruction fee assessment, Universities who apply these Residency Standards shall classify a student as Oregon resident or nonresident. In determining resident or nonresident classification, the primary issue is a person’s intent in coming to Oregon. Intent is inferred from a person’s conduct and history as they relate to the requirements of these Residency Standards. If a person is in Oregon primarily for the purpose of obtaining an education, that person will be considered a nonresident. It is possible for an individual to qualify as a resident of Oregon for purposes of voting or obtaining an Oregon driver’s license and not meet the residency requirements established by these Residency Standards.
2. An Oregon resident is a financially independent person who, prior to the term for which Oregon resident classification is requested, has both: (a) established and maintained a domicile in Oregon for 12 consecutive months; and (b) during that period, has been primarily engaged in activities other than those of being a college student.
3. A student may be considered primarily engaged in educational activities regardless of the number of hours for which the student is enrolled. However, a student who is enrolled for more than 8 hours in any semester or quarter during the 12-month period referred to in section B.2 of these Standards shall be presumed to be in Oregon for primarily educational purposes. Such period of enrollment shall not be counted toward the establishment of a bona fide domicile of 12 consecutive months in this state unless the student proves, in fact, establishment of a bona fide domicile in this state primarily for purposes other than educational.
4. An Oregon resident is also a financially dependent person who is claimed as a dependent by another person who has both: (a) established and maintained an Oregon domicile for 12 consecutive months; and (b) during that period, has been primarily engaged in activities other than those of being a college student.
5. A financially dependent person who is claimed as a dependent by another person who has not established and maintained an Oregon domicile shall be presumed to be a non-resident. This presumption may be overcome by evidence of the student’s long-standing presence in Oregon and demonstration of other factors under Section C of these Standards.

6. The criteria for determining Oregon resident classification shall also be used to determine whether a person who has moved from Oregon has established a non-Oregon residence.

7. If institution records show that the residence of a student or the person upon whom the student is dependent is outside of Oregon, the student shall continue to be classified as a nonresident until entitlement to resident classification is shown. The burden of showing that the residence classification should be changed is on the student requesting the change.

8. Notwithstanding section B.4 of these Standards, a student who is financially dependent on a non-Oregon resident may nonetheless be considered an Oregon resident if the student resides in Oregon for at least 12 consecutive months with a parent or legal guardian who has both: (a) established and maintained an Oregon domicile for 12 consecutive months; and (b) during that period, has been primarily engaged in activities other than those of a college student.

1 Oregon law establishes two exemptions from non-resident tuition. ORS 351.641 provides an exemption for students who are not US citizens or lawful permanent residents, but who meet certain other qualifications, including attendance at an Oregon school and receiving a high school diploma or equivalent in Oregon. ORS 352.375 provides an exemption for qualified veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces. Students who qualify for either of these exemptions are not considered Oregon residents for purposes of an institution’s tuition and mandatory enrollment fees if the members:

   a. Reside in Oregon for 12 consecutive months prior to the beginning of the term for which resident classification is sought and during that period be primarily engaged in activities other than those of a college student;
   b. Reliance upon Oregon resources for financial support;
   c. Domicile in Oregon of persons legally responsible for the student;
   d. Acceptance of an offer of permanent employment in Oregon; and
   e. Ownership by the person of their living quarters in Oregon.

2. The following factors, standing alone, do not constitute sufficient evidence to effect classification as an Oregon resident:

   a. Voting or registration to vote;
   b. Employment in any position normally filled by a student;
   c. The lease of living quarters;
   d. Admission to a licensed practicing profession in Oregon;
   e. Automobile registration;

f. Public records, for example, birth and marriage records, Oregon driver’s license;

g. Continuous presence in Oregon during periods when not enrolled in school;

h. Ownership of property in Oregon or the payment of Oregon income or other Oregon taxes; or

i. Domicile in Oregon of the student’s spouse.

3. Reliance upon non-Oregon resources for financial support is an inference of residency in another state.

D. Evidence of Financial Dependency

In determining whether a student is financially dependent, a student must provide:

a. Evidence of established domicile of the person claiming the student as a dependent; and

b. The identification of the student as a dependent on the federal and state income tax returns of the person claiming the student as a dependent. Additional documentation to substantiate dependency during the current calendar year may be required at a later time if deemed necessary by the institution.

c. A student who provides evidence that they are a financially dependent person under these rules shall not be required to establish a 12-month domicile prior to classification of resident status, provided such a student may not be classified as a resident while receiving financial assistance from another state or state agency for educational purposes.

E. Residence Classification of Armed Forces Personnel

1. For purposes of these Standards, members of the armed forces means officers and enlisted personnel of:

   a. The Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard of the United States;
   b. Reserve components of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard of the United States;
   c. The National Guard of the United States and the Oregon National Guard.

2. Notwithstanding Section B, active members of the armed forces and their spouses and dependent children shall be considered residents for purposes of an institution’s tuition and mandatory enrollment fees if the members:

   a. Reside in this state while assigned to duty at any base, station, shore establishment, or other facility in this state;
   b. Reside in this state while serving as members of the crew of a ship that has an Oregon port of shore establishment as its home port or permanent station; or
   c. Reside in another state or a foreign country and file Oregon state income taxes no later than 12 months before leaving active duty.

3. An Oregon resident entering the armed forces retains Oregon residence classification until it is voluntarily relinquished.

4. An Oregon resident who has been in the armed forces and assigned on duty outside of Oregon, including a person who establishes residency under section E.2.c of these Standards, must, within a reasonable time, demonstrate intent to retain classification as an Oregon resident. Such intent may be shown by returning to Oregon within six months after completing service in the armed forces.

5. A person who continues to reside in Oregon after separation from the armed forces may count the time spent in the state while in the armed forces to support a claim for classification as an Oregon resident.
6. The dependent child and spouse of a person who is a resident under Section E.2 of these Standards shall be considered an Oregon resident. “Dependent child” includes any child of a member of the armed forces who:
   a. Is under 18 years of age and not married, otherwise emancipated or self-supporting; or
   b. Is under 23 years of age, unmarried, enrolled in a full-time course of study in an institution of higher learning, and dependent on the member for over one-half of his/her support.

F. Residence Classification of Members of Oregon Tribes

1. Students who are enrolled members of federally recognized tribes of Oregon or who are enrolled members of a Native American tribe which had traditional and customary tribal boundaries that included parts of the state of Oregon or which had ceded or reserved lands within the state of Oregon shall be assessed resident tuition regardless of their state of residence.

2. For purposes of these Standards, the federally recognized tribes of Oregon are:
   a. Burns Paiute Tribe;
   b. Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw;
   c. Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde Community of Oregon;
   d. Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians of Oregon;
   e. Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation;
   f. Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Indian Reservation;
   g. Coquille Indian Tribe;
   h. Cow Creek Band of Umpqua Indians;
   i. Klamath Tribes.

3. For purposes of this rule these Standards, the Native American tribes which had traditional and customary tribal boundaries that included parts of the state of Oregon or which had ceded or reserved lands within the state of Oregon are:
   a. CALIFORNIA:
      1. Benton Paiute Tribe;
      2. Big Bend Rancheria;
      3. Big Lagoon Rancheria;
      4. Blue Lake Rancheria;
      5. Bridgeport Indian Colony;
      6. Cedarville Rancheria;
      7. Fort Bidwell Indian Tribe;
      8. Hoopa Valley Tribe;
      9. Karuk Tribe of California;
     10. Likely Rancheria;
     11. Lookout Rancheria;
     12. Lytton Rancheria;
     13. Melochundum Band of Tolowa Indians;
     14. Montgomery Creek Rancheria
     15. Pit River Tribe;
     16. Quartz Valley Indian Community;
     17. Redding Rancheria;
     18. Roaring Creek Rancheria;
     19. Smith River Rancheria;
     20. Susanville Rancheria; Tolowa-Tututni Tribe;
     21. Winnemucca Colony;
     22. XL Ranch;
     23. Yurok Tribe.
   b. IDAHO:
      1. Nez Perce Tribe of Idaho;
      2. Shoshoni-Bannock Tribes.
   c. NEVADA:
      1. Duck Valley Shoshone-Paiute Tribes;
      2. Fallon Paiute-Shoshone Tribe;
      3. Fort McDermitt Paiute-Shoshone Tribe;
      4. Lovelock Paiute Tribe;
      5. Pyramid Lake Paiute Tribe;
      6. Reno-Sparks Indian Colony;
      7. Summit Lake Paiute Tribe;
      8. Walker River Paiute Tribe;
      9. Winnemucca Indian Colony;
   d. OKLAHOMA: Modoc Tribe of Oklahoma.

4. A student seeking to be assessed resident tuition and mandatory enrollment fees under these Standards shall submit, following procedures prescribed by the University where the student seeks to enroll, a photocopy of tribal enrollment which documents tribal membership.

G. Residence Classification of Non-Citizens

1. A person who is not a citizen of the United States may be considered an Oregon resident if the person qualifies as a resident under Section B and is one of the following:
   a. A lawful permanent resident. The date of approval of lawful permanent residency shall be the earliest date upon which the 12-month residency requirements under Section B may begin to accrue.
   b. An immigrant granted refugee or political asylum in the United States. The date of approval of political asylum or refugee status shall be the earliest date upon which the 12-month residency requirements under Section B may begin to accrue.
   c. A person holding one of the following non-immigrant visa classifications: A, E, G, H-1B, H-1C, the spouse or child of a person holding an H-1B or H-1C visa, I, K, L, NATO, O, R, S, T, TN, U, or V. The date of the issuance of a visa for one of these classifications shall be the earliest date upon which the 12-month residency requirements under Section B may begin to accrue. A person possessing a non-immigrant or temporary visa that is not identified under these Standards shall not be considered an Oregon resident under this Section G.1.c.

Appendix II: Residency Procedure: A–C

A. Definitions
   Definitions in the Residency Standards shall also apply to this Residency Procedure.

B. Changes in Residence Classification
1. Unless otherwise specified in the Residency Standards, if an Oregon resident student enrolls in an institution outside of Oregon and later seeks to enroll in a University that applies these Residency Standards, the residence classification of that student shall be re-examined and determined on the same basis as for any other person.

2. A student who becomes eligible for resident tuition during a term of enrollment at a University will not qualify for resident tuition until the beginning of the next term.

3. Once established, classification as a resident continues so long as the student remains in continuous academic year enrollment in the classifying University.

4. A person who seeks eligibility for resident tuition under these rules shall complete and submit a notarized Residence Information Affidavit. The affidavit and all required supportive documents and materials must be submitted by the last day to register for the term in which resident status is sought.

5. Universities that apply this Residency Procedure are only bound by determinations of residency that follow this Procedure, including timely submittal of the notarized affidavit.

C. Review of Residence Classification Decisions

1. An inter-institutional residency committee (IRC) is established consisting of the officers who determine student residence classification at each University that applies this Residency Procedure. The chair of the committee shall rotate among the Universities with no chair serving more than two consecutive years. A majority of the members of the Committee shall constitute a quorum. A majority of a quorum may make recommendations.

2. Residence cases of unusual complexity, especially where there may be conflict of rules, may be referred by the originating classification officer to the IRC for its recommendation to the registrar or designee.

3. Any person who is aggrieved by the originating classification officer's classification decision may, within ten days of the date of mailing or other service of the classification decision, request that the IRC review the classification and make recommendations to the registrar or designee of the originating university. The appeal must be in writing and shall be filed with the originating University. An aggrieved person may supply written statements to the IRC for consideration in reviewing the case and may also make an oral presentation to the IRC on a date to be scheduled by the IRC. The IRC shall make a recommendation to the registrar or designee of the originating University. That registrar or designee shall then issue a decision. The decision of the registrar or designee shall be final unless appealed.

4. A person dissatisfied with the decision of the registrar or designee may, within ten days of the date of the mailing or other service of the decision, appeal the decision to the president or designee of the originating University. An appeal shall be in writing only. The decision of the president or designee shall be final.

5. A person granted a meritorious hardship exception to residency under the Oregon Administrative Rules regarding residency prior to July 1, 1990, shall not lose the exception solely because of the repeal of the exception authorization.
TUTORING AND STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES

Departments and Offices

There are numerous departments dedicated to your success as a student. Get involved on campus, find support for a challenging class, discover your community, connect with new friends or obtain help during a hard time. Our programs and services are here to assist you.

- Academic Achievement: (http://oregonstate.edu/studentaffairs/academic-achievement) These units work to increase and equalize student success, support retention, help students graduate and foster the holistic development of students.
- Academics for Student Athletes: (http://studentathlete.oregonstate.edu): This office provides academic and personal support to all student athletes at Oregon State University.
- Academic Success Center: (http://success.oregonstate.edu): The Academic Success Center creates opportunities for students to learn how to learn throughout their academic careers. Services include drop-in consultations, academic coaching, the Learning Corner (https://success.oregonstate.edu/learning) online resource, and supplemental instruction.
- Associated Students of Oregon State University: (http://asosu.oregonstate.edu): ASOSU is the student government body at Oregon State. It supports the varied interests of OSU students through democratic representation.
- Career Development Center: (http://oregonstate.edu/career) The Career Development Center provides comprehensive professional development to all OSU students through presentations, workshops and appointments. The center also hosts the quarterly Career Expo and maintains Handshake, a networked platform that connects students with employers and thousands of job and internship opportunities.
- Center for Fraternity & Sorority Life: (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu/cfsl): The Center for Fraternity & Sorority Life advocates for the interests of the Greek community at OSU by providing advice to governing chapters. The center serves as the direct university contact for organization headquarters staff.
- College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP): (http://camp.oregonstate.edu) This program provides financial and academic support to first-year students with the goal of preparing them for success in college. CAMP works with faculty, student services and community-based agencies to improve educational opportunities.
- Counseling & Psychological Services: (http://oregonstate.edu/counsel) Counseling & Psychological Services provides individual, couples and group counseling for OSU students, as well as outreach and education on topics like mindfulness, stress management and suicide prevention.
- Craft Center: (http://sli.oregonstate.edu/craft): The Craft Center supports an enriched experiential learning experience where students can foster their own creativity. The center offers ceramic, glass, jewelry, woodworking and photography classes, in addition to fluctuating craft events and activities.
- Cross Campus Strategic Initiatives: (http://studentaffairs.oregonstate.edu/ccsi) Oversees the development, implementation, and assessment of campus-wide initiatives in support of the transition, integration, and advisement of matriculated students. We provide training, resources, transitional coursework, advocacy, expertise and community-building opportunities for professional faculty, instructional faculty and students.
- Disability Access Services: (http://ds.oregonstate.edu/home) Disability Access Services facilitates access to university programs and services for individuals with disabilities through accommodations, education, consultation and advocacy.
- Educational Opportunities Program: (http://eop.oregonstate.edu) EOP provides a welcoming environment that supports the full development of the personal and academic potential of students who have traditionally been denied equal access to higher education. This includes but is not limited to students of color, low-income students, first generation in college (neither parent graduated) and undocumented or DACAmented students. EOP services include assistance navigating the admissions process, locating financial resources, orienting oneself to the university, securing academic and personal counseling, and providing supportive courses in math, reading, writing and psychology.
- Diversity & Cultural Engagement: (http://oregonstate.edu/dept/iss): Diversity & Cultural Engagement is committed to the development of underserved students by creating and advocating for inclusive and educationally purposeful initiatives that enhance learning, academic success, cross-cultural fluency and self-efficacy.
- Family Resource Center: (http://familyresources.oregonstate.edu): Located in Champinefu Lodge, the Family Resource Center provides a welcoming place for families to spend time on campus with their children. The center advocates for and supports students with families by focusing on quality early education and children's care centers, lactation support and financial assistance.
- Human Services Resource Center: (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu/hsrc) The Human Services Resource Center provides low-income students with the resources they need to be academically successful. HSRRC services include food insecurity, housing and textbook expense support.
- Louis Stokes Alliance for Minority Participation: (http://lsamp.oregonstate.edu) LSAMP is dedicated to increasing the number of traditionally underrepresented students successfully completing science, technology, engineering and mathematics baccalaureate degree programs.
- Mathematics & Statistics Learning Center: (https://math.oregonstate.edu/mlc): Provides free drop-in tutoring, resources, make-up testing, a mathematics education resource room and a computer classroom with Mathematical Software (https://math.oregonstate.edu/mlc_software) installed.
- Memorial Union: (http://osumu.org) The Memorial Union is the community center of OSU and serves students, alumni, staff and guests. The MU complements students’ academic experience through cultural, educational, social and recreational programs.
- Men's Development & Engagement: (https://studentaffairs.oregonstate.edu/AAESS/mens-development-engagement): MDE provides engaging and innovative programs that support male-identified student success, develop healthy men and masculinities and engage male-identified individuals and groups in exploration of identity development and societal norms. Through one-on-one sessions and group meetings, the MDE’s Distinguished Scholars Initiative supports the continued development of self-efficacy, servant leadership, professional skills and academic excellence for OSU male students of color.
• Military & Veteran Resources (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu/veterans): The Military & Veteran Resources provides support to military service members, veterans and their families studying at OSU. The office helps navigate the requirements of higher education to ensure awareness of available benefits and services and foster a successful learning experience.

• New Student Programs & Family Outreach: (http://oregonstate.edu/sa) New Student Programs & Family Outreach serves as a campus leader in facilitating the transition process for new students and their family members, promoting and enhancing successful transitions through collaborative programs and outreach.

• Office of International Services: (http://international.oregonstate.edu) This office supports international students from admissions through graduation with advising services and guidance on settling in at Oregon State. Staff are available to help you with questions and locate other services on campus, as needed.

• Recreational Sports: (http://oregonstate.edu/recsports) The Department of Recreational Sports provides an extensive and diverse list of sport, fitness and adventure opportunities to serve the varied recreation preferences and interests of the campus community.

• Student Conduct & Community Standards: (http://oregonstate.edu/studentconduct) The Office of Student Conduct & Community Standards handles student-conduct and related matters at Oregon State University.

• Student Experiences & Engagement: (http://sli.oregonstate.edu) In addition to the Craft Center and Orange Media Network, this unit supports students and student groups by providing opportunities for leadership and community involvement. This department houses the Center for Civic Engagement (http://sli.oregonstate.edu/cce), Late Night (http://sli.oregonstate.edu/latenight) programs, the OSU Program Council (http://sli.oregonstate.edu/osupc) and Leadership Development (https://sli.oregonstate.edu/id).

• Student Life (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu): The Office of Student Life fosters environments that enable students to effectively engage in their academic work, develop cultural competencies and global awareness, and become informed citizens.

• Student Care (http://studentlife.oregonstate.edu/student-care): Student Care is designed help students manage unexpected life events, personal crises, mental health struggles, academic difficulties and challenges that can interfere with college success.

• Student Health Services: (http://studenthealth.oregonstate.edu) Student Health Services contributes to the success of students and the university community by providing medical and health promotion services while creating a safe environment for all individuals.

• TRIO Student Support Services: (http://trio-ss.s.oregonstate.edu) TRIO-SSS helps first-generation college students and other students who would benefit from additional support make the transition to college, offering academic guidance, professional development, peer mentorship, technology access, student success seminars and additional services. To learn about eligibility requirements or to apply, visit the TRIO-SSS website.

• University Exploratory Studies Program: (http://uesp.oregonstate.edu) UESP is the academic home for students who are exploring their options before deciding on a major and offers a comprehensive range of services to help students make informed decisions about their academic coursework and potential majors while they are exploring.

• University Housing & Dining Services: (http://oregonstate.edu/uhds/dining) University Housing & Dining Services offers on-campus residents a connection from the moment they arrive to campus. UHDS facilities include 15 residence halls, three dining centers, an on-campus grocery store and one family housing complex, providing students with connections to residential staff, academic support services, healthy dining options and leadership opportunities right where they live.

• Writing Center: (http://writingcenter.oregonstate.edu) The Writing Center offers three programs in support of Oregon State University student writing: The Undergrad Research & Writing Studio, The Graduate Writing Center and The Online Writing Lab.
